ADAMS BUILDING, - - - QUINCY.

THE OLD ENTERPRISE

Goes Into Commission as a Nautical Training School.

CONSIDERED AN IMPORTANT STEP

Toward the Building Up of the American Merchant Marine.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—The boys of Massachusetts are soon to have a rare opportunity to become thorough masters of all phases of the higher life of marines. The Massachusetts nautical training school will soon be in active operation and will be thoroughly equipped to turn out, after a three years' course, young men fully capable of navigating the largest ocean steamer.

The United States steamer Enterprise, which went into commission as the training ship of the state yesterday, is a ship of 3000 tons burden, and is at present at the navy yard, and is at present at the navy yard, and is at present at the navy yard.

J. F. Merry of the United States navy is to be commander, and he will have under him as officers and instructors who have received their education at the naval academies. It is proposed to give preference to those who have a natural Inclination Toward the Sea, and only those who have passed through the high school studies, and whose moral standing can be vouched for, will be considered as applicants.

Their education will be by practice as well as by theory, and will consist of six months' training while the steamer is at the wharf, and six months' cruising from point to point. The boys will, after their education has advanced far enough, do the sailing and navigating for the steamer and their experience in this line will be for 2-3 years, the last six months of a three years' course to be aboard some of the ocean liners.

This is the first step toward building up the American merchant marine, and the men who have control of the training school form a guarantee that

The Very Best Efforts will be made to carry it forward. The board of commissioners consist of John C. Foley (chairman), William H. Lincoln, Thomas B. Fitz and C. S. McClellan (secretary).

All have had much actual experience in the management of different departments of maritime work, and are enthusiastic in the present movement.

Among the studies to be taught are maritime law, surveying, navigation, astronomy, mathematics, engineering, mechanical drawing, hygiene, English literature, the French, German and Spanish languages, and all these are to be put to actual tests.

BAD WEATHER AT SEA.

Storm Has Caused Much Harm to Shipping Off New England's Coast.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., Dec. 1.—During one of the severest northeast gales witnessed on Cape Cod for quite a period the English bark Kate Harding, of New York, driven ashore near North Truro yesterday. While Patrolman Smith of the Highland Light life saving station was covering his beat he saw, through the swiftly-falling snow and sleet, the bark tossing to and fro about three miles from shore.

Smith hurried to the station and a crew proceeded to launch a life boat, and a tugboat was sent to the rescue. The crew was safely landed by the buoy at 6:15. The bark landed high and dry on an even keel. It is thought she will be floated.

Newport, R. I., Dec. 1.—Dredge Rhode Island of the United States engineer department was sunk up the bay between Prudence and Gould islands. It has been engaged for the past three months in work upon Taunton river and was returning here to go into winter quarters when it foundered in the high seas occasioned by the storm.

The Rhode Island was purchased in 1888 for $2000, but since has practically been rebuilt. The sunken dredge now lies in about ten fathoms of water directly in the channel.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 1.—The easterly weather of the past few days developed into a severe gale, which continues unabating. A large fleet of fishermen made this harbor.

SUSPENSE NEARLY ENDED.

Grand Jury in the Borden Case Expected to Report Today.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 1.—District Attorney Knowlton notified the court that the grand jury would probably report today, when an end will be put to the long agony in the Borden case for the time being, it is expected.

The statement made in a New Bedford paper yesterday relative to the government trying to make out a case of insanity was laughed at here by leading lawyers of this city and Fall River. No insane commissioners have yet visited Miss Borden. When Attorney Jennings said in his argument before Judge Blaisdell at Fall River, "My client is not insane," it was felt and openly expressed at the time that he had closed the only loophole he had, in case the evidence was against Miss Borden.

The feeling that there will be no bill is quite as strong as ever, without any particular foundation for such a feeling other than the singular action of the grand jury.

Bloodhounds on Their Track.

TERRELL, Tex., Dec. 1.—James K. Brooks, a wealthy farmer, was assaulted by two masked robbers at his home and robbed of $2500. Officers are after the robbers with bloodhounds, but have obtained no clue.

GREGGAINS PUTS UP COIN

For a Match with Fitzsimmons for the Middleweight Championship.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—Alex Greggains, the middleweight boxer, has arrived in Boston and deposited $1000 in defense of his claim to the middleweight championship. He authorized the following telegram:

Boston, Nov. 30, 1892.
To Judge R. V. R. Newton, Coney Island Athletic Club, Coney Island, N. Y.:
Alex Greggains, by his backer, Joseph Lewis of Boston, this day posted $1000 with me in support of his claim to the middleweight championship of America, and he will allow the same to remain for one month. He desires especially to negotiate a match with Robert Fitzsimmons of Australia for a purse and outside stake, and is prepared to make the latter $500 if Fitzsimmons will battle him for the middleweight championship of the world.
A. W. COOK.

Charged with Murder.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—John Caspar and Topfield Seminski were given a hearing as to their connection in causing the death of Ignace Volanakis, who, it is alleged, was struck in the head by a brick thrown by one of the men, presumably Caspar. Caspar was charged with murder, and Seminski with being an accessory. After a short hearing the court ordered the discharge of Seminski, but held Caspar without bail for the grand jury next month.

Waltham Lad Missing.

WALTHAM, Mass., Dec. 1.—Thomas Duddy, a 15-year-old son of John Duddy, has been missing from his home since Nov. 23. Previous to his departure he sent a note to his parents telling them he would not be home that evening. The police were notified, and the authorities in other places were requested to keep a lookout for the youth. He was last seen in Boston on Thanksgiving day.

Whirled to Death.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 1.—At the Rhode Island locomotive works Israel Prencutt was repairing a belt when his clothing became caught and he was whirled about the shaft. His clothing was torn and his arms and legs wreathed from his body, and his remains bruised and battered. He died almost instantly. He was about 23 years old, and leaves a widow.

Fractured His Skull.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—Landsman Chisholm of the receiving ship Wabash at the navy yard, while exercising on the parallel bars on the main deck of the vessel, missed his hold and fell on his back. Surgeon Brambury found a fracture on the back of the man's skull. But slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Murder Case Continued.

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 1.—In the police court W. S. Flinder and Abram Brown were arraigned on the charge of murdering Daniel A. O'Leary in Brown's drug store the night of Nov. 19. On application of the prisoner's counsel, the case was continued to next Saturday.

Two Men Missing.

H-VERMILL, Mass., Dec. 1.—Eral E. Davis of Bradford has been missing for ten days, and has left his wife and eleven children destitute. Nicholas Oneto, proprietor of several fruit stores in this city, is also missing. He is a leader among the Italians.

Charged with Embezzlement.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—John W. Threshie was arrested last night on a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $301 from Henry W. Savage. Threshie was an agent for Savage, and carried on a real estate office for him in Newton.

Cigar Makers for No-Licenses.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—There is a movement on foot in the Cigar Makers' union of this city to vote no-licenses. This is because many liquor dealers of Boston sell non-union cigars.

RAUM'S PENSION REPORT.

The General Thinks That About $165,000 Will Be Needed Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The annual report of Green B. Raum, commissioner of pensions, shows that there were on the pension roll June 30, 1892, 876,068 pensioners, an increase during the year of 199,908. There were added to the rolls during the year 222,097 new pensioners, and 247 previously dropped were restored to the pension list.

During the year 23,306 persons were dropped from the rolls. The total amount expended for pensions during the fiscal year was $191,050,612. For the present fiscal year $14,955,000 is appropriated, and taking the cost of the pension allowances during the first four months of the fiscal year as the basis of calculation, the commissioner estimates that a deficiency appropriation of $10,288,021 will be necessary to supplement this year's appropriation.

An estimate of $165,000,000 is submitted for the next fiscal year, but Commissioner Raum says that if as many allowances of pensions shall be made during the fiscal year ending June 30 last, this amount will not be large enough.

Under the dependent and disability pension act 92,907 claims have been filed, of which number 493,857 have been allowed. The pension payments under the law up to Sept. 30, 1892, amounted to $76,494,453.

Nervy Robbers.

GALVESTON, Dec. 1.—The same Wells-Fargo express which brought the bundle of brown paper from Kountze Bros., New York, to the Island City Savings bank of this city Wednesday night, which robbers substituted for $10,000 in good cash, yesterday brought a similar package from the National bank of New York to Ball, Hutchins & Co., which should have contained $25,000.

The Late Dr. Scott.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The body of Rev. Dr. Scott was placed in the casket this morning and brought down into the east room, where the funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock. Rev. T. H. Hamlin will officiate. The funeral procession will leave the White House at 5:15 this evening and arrive at Washington, Pa., at 3:30 tomorrow morning.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

CHARLESTOWN PRISON

Not Such a Bad Place as Most People Suppose.

CONVICT BRADLEY STILL MISSING.

His Case Brings to Mind Facts Concerning Prison Life.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—At night, when all the convicts at the state prison are locked in their cells, the officers turn out to search for Bradley, who so suddenly disappeared from the ranks of prisoners on Thanksgiving day. Since Sunday this search has been carried on chiefly in the repair shop, beneath the floor of which Bradley may be in hiding. If he is in that place he is away from any ray of light and has no companions but rats.

On Sunday one of the physically small officers of the prison, carrying a flash lantern, crawled through a part of the space under the floor, but found no trace of the missing prisoner. Since then some of the boards composing the floor of the shop have been torn up, but all to no purpose. Warden Lovering feels satisfied that if Bradley has not already left the prison, his capture will be but a matter of time.

The disappearance of this man again brings into discussion, especially among officials at the state house, the question of the

of the prison, and it is suggested that the next legislature may be requested to devise some means of concentrating the responsibility for prison rules and methods. At the present time, with responsibility divided among the commissioners, the warden and the executive council, the prison seems to be little more than a house of detention, and the prisoners, for the most part, are far from standing in fear of the warden or his subordinate officers.

In case of punishment each prisoner knows that he can appeal to a ready, sympathetic and influential listener in the person of a prison commissioner or a policeman with a "pull" at the state house sufficient to overrule the power and judgment of the paid officials. In a word, the prisoners are altogether

Too Well Treated

because the theorists in prison affairs are quicker to win to their side public opinion and official support than the practical men who directly govern the prisoners. Perhaps it is not a well-known fact that the cells of the convicts in this prison are not bare and dreary places; they are instead, for most of them, are well furnished with pictures and carpets, white cages of singing birds hang from the ceilings to give a touch of home-like comfort to the place and afford companionship to the imprisoned men. The wardrobe of each prisoner consists of two suits of clothes, one for work, the other to wear on Sundays and on the occasion of visits from friends outside, which are permitted once a month.

Cells as distinct in prison as it is outside the walls, and the educated prisoners who were accustomed to decent society when free, seek the outcast members of that same society in the prison, and maintain hardly a bowing acquaintance with the rough garters, bold burglars and low thieves with whom they are compelled to mingle. Taken all in all, the prison in Charlestown is not half so bad a place as people suppose.

JAY GOULD'S SICKNESS.

The Great Financier Not Making Much Progress Toward Recovery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The story reached Wall street yesterday that Jay Gould was dead. It was promptly denied, but it was admitted at his office that he was too sick to leave his house. Western Union, Manhattan, Union Pacific and the other "Gould stocks" were depressed. When asked about the condition of his father, Edwin Gould said: "Mr. Gould is confined to his bed, and has not improved as we expected him to."

"His departure for the south, then, will depend on the decision of his physician?" "Yes. No definite arrangements for his trip have been made."

It was said in Wall street that Mr. Gould had a hemorrhage of the lungs. It had been announced that he was suffering from nothing more serious than a bilious attack.

Failed for Half a Million.

JOLIET, Ill., Dec. 1.—The Stone City bank, with a capital stock of $100,000, and controlled by Fish Bros., has suspended payments. The failure was precipitated by the confession of judgments aggregating $185,175 by the Joliet Enterprise Wire Mill company, also controlled by Fish Bros. It is estimated that the liabilities of the two concerns are $500,000.

A Desperate Meets Death.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Dec. 1.—Oliver Yantiss, a notorious desperado, was shot and fatally wounded by officers, twenty miles north of here. He was one of the three men who robbed the bank at Spearville, Kan., several weeks ago. There was evidence implicating him in the last Wharton train robbery.

Official Figures from Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1.—The plurality of Harrison over Cleveland in Ohio, as officially announced, is 1072. S. M. Taylor's plurality for secretary of state is 1029. The vote of the presidential candidates is as follows: Harrison, 405,187; Cleveland, 404,115; Bidwell, 35,012; Weaver, 14,852.

Ostrander Gets Seven Years.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Dec. 1.—James E. Ostrander, late treasurer of Ulster County Savings institution, was found guilty of perjury and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at Dannemora.

Not a Comet, After All.

KIEL, Dec. 1.—The European Union of Astronomers officially announces that the object supposed to be a comet, and observed by Mr. Freeman at Brighton, Eng., is probably a nebula.

An Appeal to Gladstone.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The leaders of the unemployed workmen have requested Mr. Gladstone to receive a deputation. It is not known whether Mr. Gladstone will consent.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There is a strange pathos connected with the life of Asa Potter, president of the late Maverick Bank, and a short time ago one of New England's most eminent financiers. This man, who, a year ago held one of the highest positions in the social and financial world, now bids fair to occupy a convict's cell. "Rising like a meteor, like a meteor has he fallen!"

The Prince of Wales is suffering from another attack of some disease probably caused by too high living. Had England poet laureate he would probably have to grind out sympathetic verses for his Royal Majesty.

Old Boreas has been doing some effectual work for the last three days. From the way it blew, one would think that a Chicago sewing circle was in session somewhere near.

Joe Howard has been telling the readers of the New York Recorder that he is not St. Paul, but then nobody accused you of it Joseph!

"Let the office seek the man" is all well enough in its way, but if the office seekers must first seek the man who has the giving of the offices.

If you hear a man say he is going to cut a candidate on Tuesday next, you mustn't imagine that he carries a stiletto.

Miss Anna Delia Dis de Bar is in jail again. Anna seems to have a great facility for getting behind the Bars.

"To Hull by the Old Colony train" is what the residents along Nantasket Beach are crying at present.

Many were not aware that our young City Solicitor could tie a knot that could not be untied.

The man who wrote "Beautiful Snow" probably didn't have to shovel snow paths.

"Genuine Democrats" vs. "Democrats." Which is which?

Remedy for Whooping Cough.

Common thyme, which was recommended in whooping cough three or four years ago by Dr. S. B. Johnson, is regarded by Dr. Neovius (The Lancet, May 9, 1891,) as almost worthy the title of a specific, which, if given early and constantly, invariably cuts short the disease in a fortnight, the symptoms generally vanishing in two or three days. He gives from one ounce and a half to six ounces per diem, combined with a little marshmallow sirup. He never saw any undesirable effect produced, except slight diarrhoea. It is important that the drug should be used quite fresh.

Reception to Pastor and Wife.

The members of the First church, together with many friends of Rev. D. M. Wilson, the retiring pastor of the church, gathered at the chapel Wednesday to tender Mr. and Mrs. Wilson a reception and tea. The reception was held in the ladies' parlor from 5 to 7 o'clock and was of an informal nature, the time being spent in social chat with their pastor and in wishing him success in his new field of labor, which is that of superintendent of the New England Unitarian churches.

Refreshments were served during the hours of the reception.

Miss Bessie Pratt and Miss Nellie Dewson poured chocolate; Miss Minnie Pratt and Miss Kittie Faxon poured tea, and Miss Hodges, Miss Lane, Miss Wendell, Miss Whitcher, Miss Alice Prescott, Miss Jennie Field, Miss Abbie Wood and Miss Flossie Emery served refreshments.

Not Worried by Politics.

There is one inhabitant of City Hall that is not disturbed by the clash and clamor of a municipal war, or the possibility of being removed from office under the regime of a Democratic Mayor, and this official is a little gray kitten.

This little feline is generally found in the station house, and is the pet of all the officers from Deputy Langley down. It is not too proud to accept food from the lowest criminal, and is a frequent visitor to all the cells, and between them manages to grow fat.

When Officer "Dan" McKay comes in to eat his midnight lunch, pussy is always on hand to partake of it, and it is said, eats almost as much as "Dan" himself. As a rat killer this little kitten is without a peer and it can "pull in" a mouse or a rat as handy as an officer can bring in a drunk.

No matter which party is victorious, it is safe to say that this feline officer will not be removed from office.

Gunning Expedition.

Thomas Carrol and Johnny Danahey started out gunning Wednesday morning, and were rewarded in their shooting expedition by shooting two rabbits and one partridge in the woods beyond Faxon Park.

Peter McConary who accompanied them while on his way by Wendell Quarry espied four large geese swimming in the quarry, succeeded in killing two of them; weighing respectively 11 and 12 1/2 lbs. They are on exhibition at the shop window of James Parker, Water street.

Woman with No Children.

The fact that the total population of the United States has fallen below the popular estimate of 64,000,000 is likely to call attention to the fecundity of American women. Not long ago a newspaper took a census of the children in certain fashionable quarters in New York city and brought to light the fact that comparatively few children gladden the spacious homes of Murray hill, and that the birth rate there was alarmingly low. The last state census of Massachusetts brings out some interesting facts in relation to the percentage of married women having no children. Here is a table compiled from the Massachusetts census showing the percentage of native and of foreign born women having no children:

	Native born.	Foreign born.
The state.....	20.18	13.27
Barnstable.....	16.35	14.77
Berkshire.....	17.93	9.94
Bristol.....	19.61	18.08
Dukes.....	50.00	14.89
Essex.....	19.43	13.52
Franklin.....	19.33	11.20
Hampden.....	20.86	11.98
Hampshire.....	20.25	12.61
Middlesex.....	19.92	13.52
Nantucket.....	17.36	27.63
Norfolk.....	17.63	11.67
Plymouth.....	18.58	13.28
Suffolk.....	20.18	14.04
Worcester.....	20.63	10.99

Here we find that one-fifth of the married women of Massachusetts are childless. It is said that in no country save France can a similar condition of affairs be found. On the other hand, instead of over 20 per cent., only 13.27 per cent. of the foreign born women of Massachusetts are childless. What is true of this state is undoubtedly in a greater or less degree true throughout the country. The time has come when we must face the fact that the increase of population by birth is decreasing—that the tendency of the times among Americans is to do Americans to small families, and that one-fifth of our native married women are childless.—Chicago Tribune.

Bicycle Mail Delivery.

In an interview Postmaster General Wanamaker, in the Indianapolis Journal, says:

Free postal delivery in the rural districts is coming some time. The government does not give the farmer his share of the benefits of the mails. In another year, I think, the postoffice department will be self sustaining, and I think the time will then be ripe for the inauguration of the free delivery of mails in the rural districts. The plan, however, is feasible only where there are good roads, because it involves the use of bicycles. I am glad to know your state is beginning to show an interest in good roads.

It is quite possible, with roads passable at all seasons of the year, to operate the rural delivery system, and also collect the mails from the boxes placed along the road. There are some parts of rural districts near Philadelphia which might have the delivery now if there were money to equip such service. We are using bicycles in Washington with good success in deliveries as well as collections. It is entirely feasible and also proper to extend every advantage of our mail service to the farmers.

J. D.,—Joseph Chase, Jr.
S. S.,—Fred W. Baldwin.
J. S.,—Frank D. Blanchard.
O.,—John H. Tower.
T.,—Henry B. Raymond.

A banquet was served at the close of the ceremony, this being followed by dancing.

Mr. Albert M. Arnold, a well-known resident of Weymouth, died suddenly of heart disease at his home on Washington street, Wednesday evening, aged 55 years. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

BRAINTREE.

Last Saturday night, a woman apparently about 50 years of age made her appearance in Braintree, and her strange actions attracted the attention of the authorities to her. She was evidently demented, she wandered around for two or three days and was then removed to the Almshouse where she now is.

It is thought her name is Julia Thayer, a compositor, formerly of Abington. She came to Braintree from Boston. The town authorities are looking up her antecedents with a view of finding her friends if she has any.

RANDOLPH.

Last night or early this morning, the baker shop of S. Schout was entered, the safe blown open and all the money that was in it carried off. The burglar who ever it was, had the hardihood to write on a piece of paper and post it on the front of the safe, "Leave more tomorrow night."

Exciting Times.

There were exciting times at the residence of Mr. Charles H. Hardwick this noon. The man who works about the place started it, by having a fit in his room in the stable. Access could not be obtained by the door, so it was necessary to get in the second story window. When this had been done, it was found that the horse had improved his time and filled up with grain, and at last accounts he was being driven about town for his health.

The ambulance was summoned and the man removed to the City Hospital.

Breaking Up a Square.

A discussion seems to be going on as to whether an infantry square can be broken by a charge of men on foot or on horseback. To the nonmilitary mind this would seem impossible, provided that the square is properly formed. But I read the other day that the French in Dahomey cast melinite bombs into an intrenchment of the enemy, with the result that the assailants themselves had to fall back in order not to be destroyed by the suffocating fumes.

Is this a fact or an effort of the journalistic imagination? If the former, what is to prevent melinite being fired into any dense mass of men on a battlefield, whether in square or in any other formation, and emitting such fumes that the square would cease to exist? Admitting the truth of the statement, it seems to me likely to render war so exceedingly dangerous a pastime that few sane human beings will be willing to engage in it.—London Truth.

Royalty's Reception Room.

The grand reception room at Windsor castle is at present in the hands of the workmen, who are executing a process of redecorating and regilding. This magnificent chamber is one of the state apartments, but last year it was used as a greenroom for both opera comique and grand opera, when various companies by royal command gave entertainments in the Waterloo chamber.

There are six superb pieces of old Gobelin tapestry on the walls, illustrating the story of Jason and the golden fleece, and in the fine gothic window which overlooks the home park and Eton college stands a huge vase made entirely of Russian malachite, which was presented to the queen by the Czar Nicholas of Russia. The ceiling and the cornices are richly carved and gilded, and the room is lighted by four enormous candelabra of ormolu and cut glass.—Paris American Register.

Two Hundred Years Ago.

There was celebrated recently in the town of Danvers, Mass., the 200th anniversary of the death of Rebecca Nurse, who was hanged in Salem in 1693 on account of her religious convictions and because she would not confess to being a witch. Her body was stolen from the gallows by her sons and hidden in an unmarked grave. It is only recently that some of her descendants have unveiled a memorial tablet in honor of the forty persons who maintained her innocence before the New England court that tried her.—Harper's Bazar.

The Advance of Coeducation.

Dr. Chaney, president of Bates college, illustrates the progress of coeducation by telling the story of how a man in 1865, on being asked how many students were attending the college, answered, "Forty-three students and a nigger and a woman," and adds, "Now there are forty women in the classes."

Among the students of the University of Michigan, it is said, are Messrs. Turnipsed, Toothaker, Greensteak and Champagne and Miss Annie Rooney.

Wednesday evening the members of the Good Will whist club called upon Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Huston at their new home at Wollaston. The evening was passed in a pleasant manner with games and refreshments. During the evening the club presented Mr. and Mrs. Huston with a handsome framed picture.

William F. Loud of Hall place met with an accident last week which was quite painful but fortunately not of a serious nature. He was engaged in loading some water pipes on to his team when one of them rolled down and jammed his foot against another pipe. It so happened that he was near the flange end of the pipe, which saved his foot from being crushed, although as it was he will walk lame for some months.

It has been reported lately that some opposition would be raised to the election of Mr. W. A. Hodges to the office of Mayor, on the ground that he is a large holder of the stock of the Quincy & Boston Electric Railroad, and a director. We are authorized to state that if Mr. Hodges is elected as Mayor, he will immediately resign his directorship. Mr. Hodges owns only one share of the stock, and it is hardly reasonable to suppose that he would sacrifice the interests of Quincy or his own large interests here, to promote the value of his one share.

—The Eskimo traditions are told over and over again. Every one knows them word for word, and should the relater omit or add one syllable he would be corrected instantly by some one of the audience. The relater of the story sits at one side of the room, and covering his head, turns his face towards the wall away from the audience before he begins.

—The Rothschilds are said to have a curious way of providing a birthday present for all the girls of the family when they come of age. At the birth of each little girl six pearls valued at $2500 are put aside. Six more are added at every birthday, and when the young lady reaches the age of 21 she is presented with the valuable necklace.

—Did you ever hear of Talking Chamberlains? Well, there are several of these sets in Quincy. They are owned by Henry L. Kincaide & Co. Each one of them will speak right out for itself. What they say you can readily divine just on looking at them. They range in price from $14.00 to $40.00. They talk for your benefit, and you will do well to heed their words.

NEW YORK'S DIALECT.

Absurd Though It Is, It Is Taught in the Public Schools.

How many persons know that New York city has a dialect all its own, and one that it maintains in purity by teaching it in the public schools? Many persons have commented on the precision with which a New Yorker can spot a stranger the instant the stranger undertakes to pronounce the name of the principal streets in the town. We call it "Quincy's slip," it appears to possess a trick to do this, and it is evidently an unnatural pronunciation, for we notice that the very great majority of strangers say Broa-va. So we spot them on the instant and ask them from what part of the country they hail, just to show them that there is something about them that is not cityfied, and to set them puzzling about whether it is in the shape of their hat, or the style of their shoes, or what it is.

People from the south betray the fact by calling our Houston street "Hewston street," as that name is pronounced from Texas to the Chesapeake, but we play as strange a trick with another name, for we call Charles street "Quincy slip." As no one would do that naturally, we detect strangers by that pronunciation. The name of Hoboken is another that we trifle with, calling it Habbucken. But in ways and bywords other than these I can pick out a New Yorker anywhere that he and I may meet, whether it be in Boston or in the Rocky mountains. I can do this by noticing how he pronounces the "ur" sound in such words as birth, bird, earth, heard, etc. All the rest of the country pronounce those words burth, burd, urth and hurd. Not so the New Yorker. He is carefully taught not to do so in all the public schools, as well as by his parents at home.

The queer little twist that enters so largely into our language in marriage of the cardinal sounds that compose it is thus expressed by our tongues: ur-yith is how we say earth, bur-yid is how we say bird. We say bur-yid for heard and mur-yid-der for murder. All of us who were born in New York have heard the public school teachers insisting upon this peculiar twist, commanding the pupils to put on the trademark as fighting men once wore the coat of arms of their feudal masters. Most of us, too, have heard nice, careful little girls on the way home from school correcting careless companions by insisting that "you mustn't say burd; you must say it nicely, bur-yid."

Of all the senseless and unmusical and bad things that are done to English that is one of the worst, because one expects to hear a language at its best in the greatest city of a country, and thither foreigners repair to study English and then perhaps to go back home and teach it with a whole lot of little tricks like that in their heads, to be solemnly taught and scattered, until no one knows where the mischief will end. Of course I do not want the reader to understand these very nice people murder the language in these or any other ways, but the great masses of New Yorkers, those who get their learning in the public schools and whose tongues were trained in old New York homes of the middle class—these are the victims of this most peculiar habit.—Cor. Providence Journal.

Steeping Shoulders.

Apropos of round shoulders, I decided the other day as I sat in a great public gathering, drawn from all parts of the land, that what we need most is not more currency, or less taxes, or a new banking system, but a law to enforce sitting up straight. Take 100 Americans—men and women, and you could not find enough good shoulders among them to make up a table at whist. This defect of carriage need not be thought peculiar to the "rural districts." It is not so. City people show it less, but this is due to the cunning of their tailors, and not to any virtue of their own.

I am opposed to meddlesome legislation, but I should welcome the appointment of officials who would go about and compel the populace to sit and stand erect, as the old worthies of the Puritan meeting house compelled the congregation to keep awake. If such a statute were enacted, in two generations we would not know ourselves—or rather our descendants—so great would be the improvement in health, physique and dignity.—Kate Field's Washington.

Caramels and Constancy.

In one of the large confectionery stores on Chestnut street the girls who have been there a long time know a most of the engaged couples in town, and a most of how long the sweet entanglement has been pending. They also are pretty well posted as to what engagements are broken. The reason is that one of the things the engaged young man is supposed to do is to keep his fiancée supplied with candy. Usually when a young man lets up on his supply of candy it is a sign either of a misunderstanding or that the wedding day is near at hand, for, strange to say, with the approach of the nuptial date the bridegroom elect generally gets economical in sweetmeats, possibly because he is saving up for the bridal bouquet.—Philadelphia Times.

The University of Morocco.

Besides being a university of learning, the Kairouin of Morocco is also a canvansary and an inn, in which are welcome to sleep and to rest all those who are so poor as not to be able to pay the small copper coin, which the fondak keeper receives before shelter is given, and the fact that its doors are wide open and its hospitality granted without any restriction whatever is widely known throughout the empire.—Fortnightly Review.

Color Blindness Among Indians.

Some years ago an examination by Dr. Fox of 250 Indian boys resulted, he estimates, in the discovery that two were color blind—a very low percentage when compared with the whites—while none of the Indian girls was thus affected.

A Fall in Indianapolis.

"I once saw President Harrison in a very undignified position," said John G. Hunter, an Indianapolis traveling man. "Indianapolis was one of the first cities afflicted by the roller skating craze. A young man named Fenton, living there, was the inventor of the contrivance, and he soon had the city wild. Russell caught the infection and became an expert. One night he prevailed upon his father to visit the rink. The future president looked on the maze of skaters gliding over the smooth floor. It seemed easy enough. He was a famous ice skater in his boyhood, and like most skaters believed that a man who could keep his head off the surface of a frozen pond could not be easily drowned. He secured a pair of skates, examined them critically and looked irresolute. In those days the man who hesitated was lost. Half a dozen ladies—old, young and middle aged—pioneered about him on wheels and urged him to the trial. "An attendant had his feet chained down to the starmakers before he hardily realized it. He struck out with his left, followed with his right, and did amazingly well. It was no trick after all! But he got no farther. One foot shot out to the east; the other made a Columbian voyage of discovery to the west. They circled around each other like an erratic comet chasing its tail, and the future hope of the nation came down with a crash, made the gas lights flicker. In less than three seconds half of Indianapolis was on top of him and his head was just visible peering out from the wilderness of striped hosiery and crushed hats. He sat up when he got an opportunity, removed the skates went over to the attendant, handed him the offending rollers with a polite bow and walked out. That was his first visit to the rink and his last."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Farmer Bratt Rides Down.

Eight years ago Emery Bratt, an aged farmer and one of the largest farmers in Genesee county, "came down Salt River" when Cleveland was elected. He rode on a buck that was decorated as ornafously as himself. Four years ago Mr. Bratt was among the first to acknowledge that he was beaten, and following his established custom rode through the main streets of Batavia upon his mule "on his way up Salt River." Mr. Bratt had made a statement publicly since the campaign opened to the effect that he was fattening his mule, and that they were coming back this year. Hundreds of citizens and business men gathered about to see Mr. Bratt "come down" Wednesday morning. The mule was attired in red, white and blue, with Mr. Bratt upon his back plowing a large tin horn. A hundred enthusiastic boys were soon in his wake blowing tin horns, and the drum corps was soon in line also. The sidewalks were devoted to the unique parade, and all pedestrians gave way. Mr. Bratt's quadrennial parade is becoming historical.—Cor. Buffalo Courier.

An Editor Honored.

Saturday all his brethren of The Public Ledger, of Philadelphia, united in giving a reception at the Drexel institute in honor of Colonel M. Richards Muckle. The colonel is one of the oldest and most popular members of The Ledger family. He has been in its service for a century, and the reception was in graceful recognition of that fact. A German by descent, although born in Philadelphia, he has always been prominent in efforts for the welfare of the Germans.

For this work, and especially for assisting in the restoration of the Strasburg library, which was destroyed in the Franco-Prussian war, he was twice decorated by the old Emperor William—once with the ribbon and the patent of the Order of the Crown, and again with that of the Black Eagle, which is only conferred upon kings and foreign potentates. The high distinction of being the only native American to be thus ennobled.—New York Tribune.

Fine Sport in Georgia.

The greatest mimrod of the age, Bink Savage, told Bill Hilsman that there were several flocks of turkeys doing great damage to his pea crop on the swamp. He therefore baited several places with corn, and on finding that the game was eating his bait, decided to go next morning and kill a lot of them. That night he examined "Old Betsy" carefully and found her in fine fix, but on looking up his ammunition found that he had not a grain of powder or an ounce of shot.

An old darky standing near by saw his dreamer. He had just returned from the towns with a gallon of pure corn whiskey, and, says he, "Mars Bink, let's ook the next lot of corn in the whiskey, an if dey eat dat dey is sho' drunk." Bink caught on. The result was he found a flock of sixteen fine wild turkeys on a high old drunk, and with his walking stick soon killed the whole flock.—Albany (Ga.) Herald.

Something New in Peanut Roasters.

"Peanutta, machina roasted!" said an Italian peanut vender in the Bowery yesterday to a group of people who stood around a small model of a pointed wheel engine, to which he pointed with pride. The steam engine had a little metal manikin turning a glass cylinder, and the engine puffed and turned out roasted peanuts in a stream. The machine looked too costly a toy for the Italian to own. It evidently is an experiment, and means an eruption of peanut roasting machines in every sheltered nook down town. The Italian did a fine rade, the novelty of the contrivance attracting nearly every passerby, and about one out of every five became a purchaser.—New York Sun.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Communications concerning city and public affairs are invited, and will receive space in proportion to views they may not coincide with those of the editors. They may be forwarded by initials or otherwise, but the editors must know the name of the writer.

The Wrong Man Accused.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

was informed this morning that a report is being circulated that I wrote the article published in your paper last Saturday, signed "Democrat." Permit me to inform the public through your paper that the article was not written by me, and I did not see it in the columns of the LEDGER. I do not know who wrote it and further I did not write any communication or article touching in the slightest manner on mayoralty, or in any political question, during the present campaign.

JOHN W. MCANARNEY.

In justice to Mayor Fairbanks and others, we would say that the communication signed "Democrat" was not written by a Republican, or a city official. It came from a Democrat and a very active one in the late Presidential campaign.—Eds.]

A Good Deed.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

A few days ago I noticed in one of the columns of your paper a note relating to instant posters which men posted in different places in our city. Today as I went to my way up Hancock street, I had the happiness of seeing these posters removed from one large board by one of our most honorable citizens. These had been displayed upon his property and today he has removed them. Thanks to him for the good deed, and could the many more who have the power of doing this, only do it, we would not have the curse of having the boards of these placed before any Christian people.

Although this is only one of the many acts of this kind this gentleman does, we think that we certainly should feel proud of him and say aloud "God bless and give him the power of doing many more of this kind." Thanks also to you Mr. Editor, for your quick work in this matter in referring to the public attention this matter.

A CITIZEN.

An operating official who knows about sleeping cars, their cost and profit, remarked: "Sleeping cars pay big money. When one knows the cost of operating them it is no wonder. A new car costs, solid, strong and modern, anywhere from $600 to $10,000, although you hear of some worth twice that sum. However, these costly cars don't get outside the wheels. Well, the railroad companies pay the cents a mile for the privilege of hauling them, and the car will average 300 miles in 24 hours the year round, or $9 a year earnings. Say it earns $3000 a year, low estimate, it will pay for itself in three years. Now a 10-section car has 20 seats, selling local at $2 a berth, making a earning capacity per night $40, not counting the day earnings. Of course, sleepers don't carry full loads every night, and if they did not average 10 passengers a night we would not haul them on our road. Now, we pay for ice, water and coal, and insure the cars; that is, we repair them when wrecked or injured. The operating company pays a porter $25 a month at the most, a conductor $90, and to furnish linen and soap. It is not difficult to see how the sleeping car companies pay dividends."—Indianapolis Journal.

—Persons who recall the furor created in 1899 by Blondin's crossing of Niagara on a tight-rope, may be surprised to learn that the great acrobat is still alive and although he is 68 years of age, gives occasional exhibitions of tight-rope walking. He was the son of a gymnast, and began his ropewalking when only 5 years old. He has crossed the Niagara 300 times. He never uses a safety net. He is paid $500 a night for his performances.

—One hundred and nine thousand locomotives are at present running on the rails. Europe has 63,000, America 40,000, Asia 3300, Australia 2000 and Africa 700 Europe, Great Britain and Ireland take senior position with 17,090 engines, Germany has 15,000. France 11,000, Austria-Gungary, the second largest continental country, has 5000; Italy 4000, Russia 3500, Belgium 2000, Holland and Spain 1000 each, Switzerland 900 and the remaining European States 2600.

A GENERAL OUTLINE

Of Matters Considered in the Forthcoming Message.

THE PROTECTIVE POLICY IS UPHELD.

International Affairs Receive Their Due Share of Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The president is still closeted on his message, and will submit it in extenso to his cabinet soon. It will be an exceedingly interesting document, both retrospective and prospective, the former referring to the acts of his administration, and the latter to the failure of the Republican party. Those who have talked with the president within the past few days say that the message will take no steps backward on the vital issues of the late campaign. The overwhelming defeat of the Republican party, it was supposed, might cause him to modify his views on the questions which are supposed to have mainly caused the disaster, especially the McKinley law; but on the contrary, on the subject of protection, he will reassert the doctrines of the party.

The Late Campaign.
In conversation with several of the leaders who participated in the late campaign, among others Senators Sherman, Morrill, Mitchell and others, he took occasion to say that the campaign was one of misrepresentation as far as the McKinley and force bills were concerned; that the farmers and wage workers were misled and will discover their error within two years. For this reason he urged the policy of standing firm and awaiting developments. When asked the question whether he proposed to modify his views on protection in his message, he replied in the most significant manner: "The people of the United States ought to know me well enough to believe that when I advocate a system I am not going to change my views simply because we have been defeated in an election. Developments will determine who was right."

International Affairs.
There are several questions still unsettled which will be left as an inheritance for the next administration, notably the Behring sea arbitration and the monetary conference, now in session at Brussels. The latter he considers at some length on account of its bearing upon the silver issue, and expresses a hope that it may result in an enlarged use of silver and the bringing of the two metals nearer a parity.

One of the most important features of the message will be the calling of the immediate attention of congress to the attitude of France in securing control of not only the Panama canal, but the Panama railroad, which holds the key to the inter-oceanic trade of the two Americas. The French government, according to information received at the department of state, is apparently behind this movement, and is sustaining the French company in their purposes on the Isthmus of Panama. This is a clear and no European government could have such an emphatic knowledge of the fact as France after her bloody enterprise in the European-Mexican venture in Mexico.

The state department, by direction of the president, has already called the attention of the Colombian government to the existing treaty between itself and the United States, in which the latter guaranteed the right of way for the railroad, and an assurance that no interference shall be permitted from foreign governments. The president will make this prominent and will again urge the necessity of rapid completion of the Nicaragua Canal by a guarantee of the interest on an amount of bonds sufficient to insure its completion. A number of New York and other capitalists have been in conference with the president and have pointed out to him the great importance, from a commercial and international standpoint, of completing this work without delay.

There Are Other Complications.
The attitude of the French company, which is arrogant and menacing, in refusing to enter into reasonable terms for the shipment of through freights by the Pacific Mail company's vessels and the threat of establishing a steamship line of its own between New York and San Francisco, has been laid before the president and is receiving his official attention.

A number of New York and other capitalists have been in conference with the president and have pointed out to him the great importance, from a commercial and international standpoint, of completing this work without delay.

Telegraphers' Strike Averted.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The committee appointed by the Jersey Central railroad to ask for an increase in wages from President Maxwell announces that an agreement has been arrived at and there will be no strike. Chairman Gerhart of the operators' committee declined to give particulars of the settlement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Mrs. A. Anderson, wife of the portrait painter, Abram Anderson, has donated $350,000 for the erection of a medical pavilion in memory of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Milbank, deceased, upon the grounds of Roosevelt hospital.

Over a Hundred Lives Lost.
LONDON, Dec. 1.—The Japanese steel dispatch boat Chishima-Kan, from France for Japan, was wrecked in collision with the English steamer Revena, from Kobe for Hong Kong. The latter is badly damaged. One report states that between 100 and 150 men were drowned.

The Spanish Cabinet Crisis.
MADRID, Dec. 1.—Senator Danvilla has succeeded Senor Silveira in the ministry of the interior. The change is but an expedient for patching up temporarily the difficulties of the cabinet, which, it is generally believed, is on the verge of dissolution.

The Graves-Barnaby Case.
DENVER, Dec. 1.—The long deferred argument in the Graves murder case will be heard before the supreme court next Monday.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

Charles S. Fairchild is Said to Have Accepted the Portfolio.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—There is no room at present for doubt that Charles S. Fairchild will accept his old portfolio as secretary of the treasury.

CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD.

The tender of the portfolio to Mr. Fairchild is understood to have been made within a day or two after election. One of the ex-secretary's friends said: "Mr. Fairchild has finally decided that he sees his way clear to become secretary of the treasury if the president insists on his taking the place. His acceptance will prevent complications and will clear the way for the president to do many things which his friends feared he would not be able to attempt."

STRUCK ON A CROSSING.

Four Persons Instantly Killed and Another One is Dying.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Dec. 1.—William Conklin and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard and Margaret Pett of Southport Corners came to town yesterday. About 11 o'clock last night they prepared to return to their home. The five got in a wagon, drawn by one horse. While crossing Pennsylvania avenue an Erie train crashed into the rig, instantly killing four of the occupants and probably fatally injuring the fifth.

The engineer did not know of the accident until he reached the depot, over a mile away. Upon examining his engine, as usual, he discovered a ghastly sight. Edward Blanchard and his wife, and Margaret Pett, were piled in a heap on the pilot of the engine. He was dumfounded. The bodies were removed to a convenient place and the coroner notified. While the bodies were being removed word came that another corpse lay beside the track, near the Pennsylvania avenue crossing, and a man lay dying near by. He proved to be William Conklin.

The bodies of the dead are now at the morgue. Deep mystery surrounds the affair. If Conklin dies, or does not recover consciousness before his death, it will never be known how he came to cross the tracks in front of an express train. The railroad and municipal officials are looking into the matter.

HIS HUNTING INTERRUPTED.

Sheriff Summons President-elect Cleveland to Appear in Court.

EXMORE, Va., Dec. 1.—The chief incident of yesterday on Broadwater island was the arrival of Sheriff Jarvis of Northampton county, with a summons which he brought to serve upon President-elect Cleveland. He was forced to remain until the gunning party returned from the day's sport before presenting the document. The sheriff was unable to furnish any information except that the summons was to appear before the chancery court at Richmond. He did not know what case was involved. He stated that when the summons reached him for service at Cape Charles city, which is the county seat of this county, he found the whole affair as a practical joke. Upon wiring the clerk of the court at Richmond he received assurances that the document was genuine and came to Exmore for the purpose of carrying out his instructions. He could give no particulars on the subject.

The ducking party returned shortly after 4 o'clock and reported excellent sport. Mr. Cleveland bagged nine brant, six red-heads and five butter-balls. So far as can be learned no definite time has been determined for Mr. Cleveland's return north.

Wreck on the Missouri Pacific.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., Dec. 1.—A Missouri Pacific passenger train jumped the track near here. The baggage car and two coaches left the track. The coach next to the baggage car rolled down the embankment of about twenty feet and turned over, a total wreck, injuring a dozen passengers. The cause of the wreck is supposed to be the giving way of ties, allowing the rails to spread.

City Officials May Be Jailed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 1.—The city council of Lathrop, including Mayor Green, will probably have to go to jail. The cause is the failure of the town to meet the interest on a big municipal debt. Suit was brought to make the mayor and council make a special levy to raise the needed amount, and the order was made. The officials refused to obey it.

Telegraphers' Strike Averted.

PROFESSOR BRIGGS' TRIAL.

What Was Done at the Last Session of the New York Presbytery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The trial of Dr. Briggs for heresy was opened yesterday by Moderator Bliss. The objection taken to the amended charges by Dr. Briggs were first taken up. Dr. Francis Brown moved that the first objection, "I object that the charges put in my hands Nov. 9, 1892, were finally disposed of by the dismissal of the case against me on Nov. 4, 1891, and that the presbytery could not legally cite me a second time to answer to charges which had been dismissed."

The motion to sustain the objection was lost by an overwhelming majority. The second objection, "I object to the order and regularity of the proceedings in the presbytery in any and every action taken against me since the dismissal of the said charges on Nov. 4, 1891." This objection was also lost.

The third objection was waived because of some misunderstanding among the members.

The fourth objection, "I object to the relevancy of all the proofs from scripture, confession and catechism. The motion to sustain was lost."

In the fifth objection he objected to the offer of evidence by the wholesale, and refers to where the prosecuting committee submit his inaugural address and his writings without specifications. The objection stirred up considerable discussion. Finally Elder Woodbury made a motion that that part of the eighth charge in the amended charges, as objected to by Dr. Briggs in his fifth objection, be stricken out. It was eventually lost by a standing vote of 65 to 69.

A roll call was asked for and resulted in a defeat for Dr. Briggs and sustaining the committee by a vote of 68 to 65. This is rather a telling result, Dr. Briggs, but it also served to show the opinions of the members and furnished a forecast of the final vote after the evidence in the trial is all in. Dr. Briggs then took an exception to the action of the presbytery.

FACTS ABOUT THE MAIL.

Brought Out in the Annual Report of the Postoffice Inspector.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The annual report of Chief Postoffice Inspector Wheeler made to the fourth assistant postmaster general shows that the total number of arrests made for all kinds of offenses during the year was 1384. Of this number 231 were postal employees. This may at first seem a large number, but when we consider that there were in the service Jan. 30, 1892, 184,431 persons in all grades, it is not an alarming exhibit.

Of the cases tried 375 resulted in conviction. There were 6929 complaints of all kinds received during the year, which is $7 less than last year. Of these complaints 5829 related to losses or other irregularities in the treatment of registered letters and 200 to packages of third and fourth-class matter; 2618 complaints of rifling matter received, 2532 of absolute loss, 81 complaints of detention were made, 139 of wrongful delivery, 8 of tampering with letters and 72 miscellaneous complaints were received. Of the 2892 cases investigated, 1307 were found to have been based on well-founded complaints and actual loss to have resulted. Two hundred and five losses were traceable to the dishonesty, and 297 to the carelessness, of postal employees.

Killed Himself and Daughter.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—It is a practical certainty that the asphyxiation of Mrs. Carrie Richardson and her 8-year-old daughter was a case of attempted murder and murder by the mother. Two years ago Mrs. Richardson's husband was found dead in bed at the Hotel Grace. The room was filled with gas. His life was heavily insured, but the insurance company refused to pay on the ground that he had committed suicide. Mrs. Richardson had long been despondent.

THE CITY'S FINANCES.

A Concise Analysis of Interest to Taxpayers and Voters.

The Greater Part of the Appropriations of 1892 Required by Law or Ordinance.

The Bulk of the Debt for School Purposes; Over $80,000 Now Below Limit.

Fourteen of the Twenty-eight Cities Have as Large or Larger Tax Rate Than Quincy.

In view of the near approach of our municipal election, many citizens will desire to have before them a concise analysis of the city finances presented in a form to be readily understood, and such statement is herewith presented.

EXPENSES.

The amount which the City can raise by taxation for the current expenses of the different departments for any year is limited by law to $12 per thousand of the average valuation of the city for the preceding 3 years.

January 1, 1892, the average valuation was $13,330,703, which at $12 per thousand netted a revenue of $159,968, to defray the expenses of the city. To this was added the unexpended cash balance in the treasury remaining from previous years; appropriations, making the total available revenue for 1892, $170,036.

Of this amount the Council appropriated $65,550 for school expenses, leaving a balance of $104,486 for the executive department. A study of the appropriation bill will readily show that the greater part of the expenses are required by law or fixed by the ordinances of the city, and therefore not discretionary with the Executive Department, as appears below.

Fire Department, pay-roll and care horses (ordinance)	$11,203
Fire Department hose, fuel, etc.	3,600
Street lighting (contracts)	13,000
Salaries, (ordinance)	11,300
Poor department	7,200
Crane Public Library	4,813
Hydrants and fountain (contract)	3,985
State aid for soldiers (law)	3,875
Court awards	2,000
Election Expenses (ordinance)	1,800
Cemeteries	1,000
Hospital	1,000
Watering streets (ordinance)	1,000
Assessors (clerk, obtaining transfers etc.)	900
Board of Health (cleaning brooks etc.)	800
Parks	500
Grand Army (Decoration day)	300
Council	100
Law books	150

Leaving a balance to be accounted for, of $35,220, which amount is to be expended under the direction of the Commissioner of public works and Mayor as follows:

Police officers (night patrol)	$6,000
" station	400
Enforcement Liquor law	500
Miscellaneous City	1,500
Expenses of highway repairs including care of horses and purchase of tools	15,000
Care of bridges culverts and drains	1,500
Repairs on school houses and other buildings, also care City Hall	4,000
Collection of Garbage	800
Removal of Snow	2,000
Engineering	500
Advertising printing and stationery (including publishing city book)	1,500
Clerical	1,000
Edgestones (1-2 to be returned)	1,000

These items will show the taxpayers how the $12 per thousand is expended by the department.

The law requires the assessors to raise by taxation besides the $12 for current expenses, a sum necessary to provide for that portion of the city debt falling due, $56,620 in 1892; interest on debt and temporary loans, $13,500; state and county taxes; and a sum for abatements, which amounts, added to the current expenses, are assessed on the current year's valuation, making the tax rate $16 for 1892.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Of the debt, $56,620, falling due this year, $32,930 was for school purposes; the balance, $23,690 was mostly for the following street improvements ordered by previous councils.

Hancock street	$4,000
Adams street	2,500
Reardon street	1,175
Common street	1,200
Garfield street	1,000
West street	1,000
Botolph street	500
Whitwell street	1,250
Culverts on Woodbine street	800
Neponset bridge	2,000
Burial place land	2,000
Ward six, bell on engine house	475

The balance $5,790 was to pay for old bills which had been carried along, for it is well known that many old bills came in for the city to pay the first year, notwithstanding the frequent statement that the town was free from debt when it became a city.

TAX LEVY.

The state tax was	$10,903	$7,335
The county tax was	13,328	8,129

Total $24,231 $15,464

An unexpected increase of $8,767, for which obviously, neither the Mayor nor the city is responsible. The increase in the County tax is on Court-House account.

Of that portion of the debt raised for schools, the city paid a loan of $10,000 made to complete the Willard building, which the city expected to collect of the bondsmen before the note became due, but the case is still in the Supreme Court unsettled. The note however had to be paid.

These items made the amount paid $18,767 more than was expected to be paid this year, and made the rate correspondingly higher. If the city wins the case against the bondsmen, then this $10,000 is returned to the treasury.

Except for the unexpected increase in State and County tax, and the amount required to make good the Willard School loan, the tax rate would have been $14.80.

Even the rate of $16 is by no means high, as will be seen from the following tax rates of Massachusetts cities. Fourteen out of the twenty-eight have as large or a larger tax rate than Quincy.

Marlboro,	$19.50	Salem,	$16.00
Brookton,	18.80	Chelsea,	15.80
Taunton,	18.40	Woburn,	15.70
Holyoke,	17.50	Northampton,	15.60
Fall River,	17.40	Waltham,	15.50
New Bedford,	17.30	Gloucester,	15.40
Haverhill,	17.20	Lynn,	15.40
Lawrence,	16.80	Malden,	15.30
Pittsfield,	16.80	Somerville,	15.00
Newburyport,	16.70	Worcester,	14.60
Fitchburg,	16.40	Chicopee,	13.80
Cambridge,	16.00	Springfield,	13.00
Quincy,	16.00	Boston,	12.90

The tax levy of Quincy, per $1,000 valuation for the years 1892, 1891 and 1888, the latter being the last year of town government, (Wm. A. Hodges, Wm. N. Eaton, and W. H. Ripley, Selectmen,) compares as follows: Per $1,000 valuation.

Levy for Schools	1892	1891	1888
Other City App.	$4.21	$4.36	$5.22
Notes	6.06	5.45	8.88
Interest	3.64	2.34	1.33
Overlay etc.	0.83	0.69	0.31
	0.35	0.59	0.13

Total City Tax $15.12 $13.23 $15.87
State (gross) 0.70 0.51 1.10
County (gross) 0.83 0.57 0.57
Grand Total $16.65 $14.31 $17.54
Less Polls 0.68 0.71 0.84
Tax Rate $16.00 $13.60 $16.70

It will be seen that the city tax shows a decrease of 75 cents per thousand, and the total tax a decrease of 70 cents per thousand, as compared with 1888, the last year of town government, an interesting fact in view of the frequent complaints of the expense of city government.

CITY DEBT.

The City Debt Jan. 1, 1892 and 1893 will compare as follows:

Nature of Debt	Amount Jan. 1, 1893	1892
School	$115,500	$112,890
Highway	114,232	116,437
Bridge	14,000	16,000
Fire Station	27,000
Cemetery	4,000	10,775
Miscellaneous	7,150	6,204
Total	$281,912	$262,386
Water Dept.	35,000
Grand Total	$316,912

The Debt limit, will compare as follows:

	Jan. 1, 1893	1892
Debt limit	$363,928	$333,267
Debt	281,912	262,387
Margin	$81,981	$70,880

This statement excludes the Water Debt, of $55,000, being $10,000 for computing case before the Commission appointed to fix the price of the Works, and $25,000 in extending mains, which by law is exempt from municipal debt limitation.

The increase in debt is more than accounted for by the sum borrowed for the Central Fire Station, the need of which is universally acknowledged.

THE MAYOR'S RECORD.

A Correspondent of the Monitor Endorses Mr. Fairbanks.

The Work of the Year Reviewed With Satisfaction; Highly Creditable.

He Predicts That His Honor is Almost Certain to Triumph at the Polls.

As our municipal year is drawing to a close, and the choice of city officials for the coming year must be made soon, we should put aside all the petty differences of opinion, all campaign talk, the grumbling of the chronic political kickers and of a few disgruntled soreheads. The citizens of Quincy have a right to review the work of the past year with satisfaction and to feel that on the whole the interests of the city have not been neglected, but rather that fair play and candor compel the admission that the work of Mayor Fairbanks' administration has been highly creditable. The purchase of the Water Works is now regarded by all our citizens as a measure of the greatest wisdom. We all know it was brought about principally by the active and unceasing labor of Mayor Fairbanks. He is entitled also to the full credit of almost forcing the hostile council to grant money for the extension of the pipes so that the property of the citizens in all parts of the city shall be protected against fire, and their health preserved from the dangers of disease arising from polluted wells.

He likewise showed splendid business qualities in the prompt manner in which he erected the new Lincoln School in Ward 3 at a cost of about $6,000 less than the amount allowed by the Council. Quincy avenue has been widened and completed until it is now one of the best streets in the city. The adoption of the policy of placing permanent sidewalks around School Buildings, will be appreciated by the parents of the children. The excellent condition of our streets. The widening and paving of Water street. Had the Council complied readily with the Mayor's request the street would have been completed months ago. Of course the Railroad Company opposed and delayed the work, hoping to evade the expense of tearing up their tracks, laying down a new one, removing and changing their wires, posts, etc. It was only natural that they should fight. But the Mayor cannot be held accountable for this delay. He did all in his power to have the street built during the labor trouble, but certain Councilmen thought he would become too popular on this account, so they joined hands with the railroad and fought the Mayor until finally he forced them all to yield.

The workmen cannot forget the earnest attempts made by the Mayor to settle the labor differences. He did all in his power to get and arrange a settlement, and when unable, he wanted the Council to appropriate money to extend the Water pipes, with the purpose and full determination to put the citizens at work, so that they might not suffer during the suspension of the granite industry. Mayor Fairbanks has given an honest, faithful administration of the City's business and if he will accept the nomination is almost certain of triumph.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT.

A Democrat Objects to a Change at this Time.

Administration of Mayor Fairbanks, He Says, Has Been Creditable.

[From Daily Ledger, Nov. 26, 1892.]

Why should not Mayor Fairbanks be re-elected? He has been a faithful servant of the taxpayers of Quincy and is it not good business policy to retain the services of a worthy public official? In my humble opinion the Mayor is better qualified to serve us this year than he was a year ago.

As a Democrat I shall vote for the reelection of Mayor Fairbanks. What the Mayor's views are on National politics does not make any difference to me. I shall vote to retain a good servant.

But there is an issue which is more important than any partisan one. I refer to the license question. The men who are evidently determined to place Mr. Hodges at the head of the government of this city are the men who, year after year, have been the hardest workers for the reintroduction of the saloons into our city. This is a fact. There are a few exceptions but the exceptions merely prove the rule.

Mr. Hodges is a nice man, but let the voters of Quincy pause and think about the class of appointees which his election would precipitate upon us. Night after night in our Council we listen to orations from Democrats who, to say the least, are not a credit to their Democratic constituents. Many good men have wondered how it was that such inferior talent should be lifted into municipal legislative prominence.

For my part I do not want any more of this class of officials. Yet, if Mr. Hodges is elected, he must reward the heelers and hangers-on. In order to command the support of the "ring" he must reward some of the most persistent beggars for office that there are in Quincy. These place hunters, we all know, are not the men we desire to see in office.

Why, then, discharge Mayor Fairbanks? His administration has been creditable. He is identified with important municipal legislation that is now pending. To vote him out of office would be to call in a set of office holders who cannot benefit us and who may make us ashamed that we discharged, without cause, so honest and competent a public servant as Henry O. Fairbanks has been.

Eight men out of every ten will admit that it is poor policy to drag politics into a municipal election. These gentlemen are right. Why not then act on your conviction in this respect, gentlemen, and retain the services of a tried and faithful servant?

I use the word servant advisedly. The time and study and patient investigation which Mayor Fairbanks has given to the discharge of his duties would be poorly compensated by a salary of $3,000. And I question whether there are ten men in Quincy who would be willing to work as faithfully for as little financial reward as has our Mayor.

Never discharge a good servant if you have work for him to do. In writing this article I reflect the views of more than a score of Democrats who will vote for Mayor Fairbanks. From present indications he will receive a larger majority this time than he had a year ago. There is no mixture of Harrison or Cleveland in this. It is a matter which appeals to our pocket-books and our pride.

Yours truly,
A DEMOCRAT.

The Wrong Man Accused.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I was informed this morning that a report is being circulated that I wrote the article published in your paper last Saturday, signed "Democrat." Permit me to inform the public through your paper that said article was not written by me, and I first saw it in the columns of the LEDGER. I do not know who wrote it and further I have not written any communication or article touching in the slightest manner on the mayoralty, or in any political question, during the present campaign.

JOHN W. McANARNEY.

THE WATER FIGHT

The Mayor Did All in His Power to Hasten Work.

A Hitch in the City Council in Making an Appropriation.

A Few Facts Taken from the Ledger of Different Dates.

Extract from the Ledger May 10, 1892.

"Mayor Fairbanks testified before the committee at the State House that there was urgent needs of extension."

The legislative act, giving the city authority to borrow money and to extend its mains, was signed by the Governor June 13.

The Mayor called a special meeting July 13, and sent in a communication requesting an appropriation of $25,000 for the extension of mains and also to provide a better hydrant service.

July 25, the order was passed by the council, but made the date of the bonds Dec. 1. Aug. 22, the Mayor called a special meeting and notified the Council that the money under the above order could not be used until Dec. 1, and requested the Council to grant authority to change the date to Sept. 1, so that the money could be placed to the credit of the Water Commissioners.

Sept. 12, the council refused to change the date of the bonds. Sept. 19, the Mayor again notified the Council of the urgent need of money to extend the mains, but it was not till Oct. 10 that the Council gave the Mayor the authority to use any money.

We call attention to the extract from the Mayor's communication as published in the LEDGER Sept. 20.

"From the date of the board assuming active duties, it has been their aim to confine the expenditures to the expenses absolutely necessary to maintain the plant, and in making new service connections on lines of mains already laid.

The attention of the Board, however, was early called to the needs of many sections for a supply of water, and earnest appeals were made by the petitioners to the Board to pass favorable action upon their requests. The Board after a careful investigation, recognized the justice of these petitions, and believing that the city should pursue a business policy of making such extensions as would return to the city a good revenue above the cost of construction, forwarded to me a request for an appropriation of $25,000 for the purpose of new construction.

Their request met with my approval and a communication was sent to the Council July 7, asking for an appropriation of $25,000 to permit the Water Commissioners to make the necessary extensions, to supply the demands for a supply of water. The Council passed an order July 25, authorizing a loan of $25,000 but by the wording of the order making the date of the bonds December 1, the orders to a certain extent became inoperative, as the bonds could not be delivered until December 1, and the proceeds could not be placed to the credit of the Water Board.

Aug. 22, I called the attention of the Council to these facts, and requested the Council to change the date of the bonds from Dec. 1 to Sept. 1, so that the appropriation could be available for the uses of the Water Board. This request was refused by the Council, and I deemed it my duty in behalf of the citizens who desire to be supplied with water, and in behalf of the Water Commissioners, who believe that the mains should be extended for the purpose of supplying water for domestic purposes, and also for giving the city a better fire protection, to again call the attention of the Council to this important question, and request them to provide the necessary funds."

So the citizens who petitioned for a supply of water can see that the Mayor endeavored to hasten the work all in his power—and was not responsible for any delay.

DR. SCOTT'S FUNERAL.

The East Room of the White House is Again a Place of Sorrow.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The funeral services of Rev. Dr. John W. Scott took place at the White House yesterday afternoon, just five weeks from the day when the services over his daughter, the wife of President Harrison, were held in the same place. The east room was filled with friends and acquaintances of the family. The casket lay in the center. At either end stood a sago palm, the branches of which met overhead, forming a complete arch. On the casket lay a wreath of lilac orchids, enclosing a spray of lilies of the valley, a bouquet of the same lilies and a wreath of white roses. Around the casket were a number of floral offerings, including a star of red and white immortelles, and several bouquets of chrysanthemums. The mantels of the room were spread with palms and maiden hair ferns.

Rev. T. S. Hamlin, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, who conducted the services, made a brief invocation, concluding with the Lord's prayer, in which all joined. A choir then sang "Rock of Ages." Scripture reading by Dr. Hamlin followed. Dr. Hamlin then read a sketch of Dr. Scott's life and a tribute to his memory. "Asleep in Jesus" was then rendered by the quartet, and the services closed with prayer. After the family had retired an opportunity was given to those present to look upon the face of their departed friend. At 7 p. m. the funeral party left by the Pennsylvania road for Washington, Pa., where the burial takes place today.

"NOT GUILTY."

Dr. Briggs Thus Pleads and the Prosecution Takes Up the Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The consideration of the long series of objections filed by Dr. Charles A. Briggs to the charges of heresy was continued at yesterday's session of the Episcopal court. After considerable discussion Moderator Bliss called upon the defendant to plead guilty or not guilty. "Before I answer to that question," Dr. Briggs said, "I must insist that all the evidence against me be read." "I rise to a point of information," Dr. Robinson said: "Is Dr. Briggs in earnest?" To which the defendant replied that he was.

The moderator ruled that Dr. Briggs must plead to the charges at once. "I am not guilty," answered Dr. Briggs. The prosecuting committee proposed that some limit be fixed to the trial, but the suggestion was bitterly opposed and dropped. Colonel McCook then formally opened the case against Dr. Briggs, and an adjournment was taken until Monday.

BUDDENSIK IS FREE.

He Caused Many Deaths by Erecting Ramshackle Buildings in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Warden Bron of Sing Sing prison, in reply to an inquiry from Recorder Smythe as to the conduct of Charles A. Buddensiek, who was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in state prison and fined $500 in 1888, for building unsafe houses in this city, stated that the prisoner's conduct had been above reproach. In consequence he was released this morning when his time had expired, and the $500 fine was remitted. Buddensiek was a building contractor and gained an unenviable reputation for erecting buildings in which the materials used were of the cheapest kind. A row of residences on West Sixtieth street, in course of erection, tumbled down during a storm and killed several of the workmen employed thereon. Buddensiek was indicted for manslaughter, and his trial, conviction and sentence quickly followed.

JAY GOULD DEAD.

The Great Financier Passes Away This Morning.

[Special to the DAILY LEDGER.] Jay Gould died this morning at 9.15. He suffered a relapse in the shape of a hemorrhage.

At the bedside were George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould and all the members of the family.

Young Men's Christian Association.

"What we owe, as Christian Young Men, to our city," will be the subject considered at our Men's meeting at 3.30 Sunday. The following persons have been invited to speak on the subject:

Mr. Fred E. Litchfield, Mr. Simeon Scammiell, Mr. E. W. Branch and Mr. B. F. Thomas. At the close of the meeting two Bible classes will be organized, one a Worker's Training Class and the other a class for Beginners in the Christian Life.

The address by Rev. W. Sherman Thompson, last Sunday, on "Scenes and Results of a Night of Dissipation" was one of the most stirring talks to young men that has ever been delivered before the Association. Mr. Thompson took his subject from the story of Belshazzar's Feast. He depicted very vividly the scenes of debauchery that are so common, and plainly showed the terrible results of such dissipation and warned the young men of drinking, gambling and licentiousness, declaring to them that there was no escape from the truth of the declaration that "the wages of sin is death."

The members of the boy's department have been invited to attend a conference of the Junior Department of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, to be held at Worcester, Saturday, January 21st. It is probably that quite a number will attend, accompanying General Secretary Colton.

Oyster Supper and Entertainment.

An oyster supper, followed by an entertainment was given at the vestry of the Corner Church on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The supper was excellent as it always is, in the hands of the members.

The artists, presenting the entertainment were as follows:

Mr. Harry Sprague Euphonium Solo
Mr. William Elrick Song
Mr. Henry Sprague, } Quartett.
Mr. Alex. Kenn,
Mr. James Kenn,
Mr. James Smith,
Mrs. H. A. Davis of Roxbury Reader

The musicians gave quite an extensive programme, which comprised many good selections. Mrs. Davis, gave three recitations which were well received. At the close of the evening were heard on all sides, and it is hoped that they may again favor a Point audience.

The man who wrote,—perhaps in a joke,—That "Life is but a dream" Could he look over the new furniture store Would find 'twas no such thing.

You cannot overlook bargains in furniture, they strike every one, and just now Henry L. Kincaide & Co., are holding out inducements with their new and carefully selected stock which are enough to make a miser branch out into lavish expenditure.

Three floors and nearly 8,000 square feet of floor space will give you a fair idea of this modern establishment. They sell everything from the Parlor Set and Carpet you use in your parlor to the smallest utensil used in your kitchen. Their line of Dining Room, Chamber and Kitchen furniture is well worth your inspection, while their Rattan Rockers and Odd Parlor Chairs are finding their way into many a happy home. Their bedding and blankets are above the standard, while their $1.00 comforters "beat the Dutch."

Their business is conservatively managed and you can readily save from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston Prices by placing your order with them. The New Store, Tirrell's Block, Hancock Street.

Grand Celebration.

FELLOW CITIZENS:

Celebrations are in order now and YOU are invited to celebrate. The occasion is the completion of a decade of "NO LICENSE" in our city. During this decade we have been appointed by the State to make our own laws touching the sale of Intoxicating drink.

Well, we have made these laws and executed them. As a city we are on record in this matter and invite examination of the record. Here it is,—A decade of No License," "Ten years without a saloon;" and the result,—LESS of poverty, LESS of temptation, LESS of crime, MORE of financial prosperity, BETTER social health, and HIGHER moral order. On every hand are seen the signs of our progress. New streets open almost everywhere. New houses line them. The city wears the new aspect of rapid growth and unusual thrift. There is no slum anywhere BECAUSE no saloon to create it. All honor to this decade of No License. It ought to be the pride and joy and glory of us all, that when temperance legislation has been strengthening through the land, we have carried the banner of this legislation to the front and kept it there.

Now in a few days we are to say whether we will still hold this banner aloft, or FOR A PRICE suffer who will to tear it down. The saloon has been proved beyond question the worst foe of a city's peace and prosperity. It is regarded as the years go by with greater and greater abhorrence. Public opinion save when coined out of money and appetite says "the thing must go." And can a city, yes, CAN A CITY with a decade of no license, with all its blessings registered on its face, vote to give itself back into the power of the saloon?

Fellow citizens, your temperance committee who have appealed to you in a circular like this so many times, can scarce find language in which to tell you a thing so overwhelmingly apparent in itself, as is the result of No License in our city. This result has been not alone prosperity, security, and happiness at home, but also a name carried abroad, told in every city on either slope of our continent. And it is in view of this, which you know as well as we, that we appeal to you voters of Quincy to lift higher yet your already grand majority against the saloon.

A temperance orator waxing warm and impassioned—so a story says—dropped his voice and said: "If all the saloons were at the bottom of the sea, what would happen?" And from some wit came back the quick reply: "Lots of people would get drowned." But with our city the case is quite the reverse of this. With the saloon at the bottom of the sea we are safe. It will only be when it shall come back—if it ever shall—that lots of people will get drowned, drowned in vice and misery. Therefore sink the saloon will you not a little deeper out of sight for '93. This is the grand celebration to which we invite you, and in which we ask you every one to participate. If you have been in years past a silent spectator not voting at all on a question so important, speak now for truth and right. We owe something to the community in which we make our homes, to its local government. We owe something to the reputation our growing city has made. And above all we owe something to that sense of obligation which moves at times in every breast, or to the "ought" implanted there. If you have voted thus far for the sale of intoxicating drinks, have one honest talk with yourself before you vote again. That boy of yours is dearer to you than appetite. He has never seen the saloon as he has walked our streets. Its open door has never invited him to enter the way that leads to life's worst wreck and often to its irretrievable ruin. YOU owe something to that boy, to your neighbor's boy, to yourself, to your home, to your city, to your God; yes, something you HAVE NEVER PAID and NEVER CAN while you vote for the licensing here for the sale of intoxicants. Give us your hand therefore, fellow citizen, and help us celebrate. Be in the triumph, swelling it to yet unprecedented majority, as we vote our city into a second decade without a saloon.

DANGER TO TAXPAYERS.

The Re-election of Mayor Fairbanks is of Utmost Importance.

A matter of the greatest importance to the finances of the City will be indirectly involved in the election next Tuesday. Many taxpayers are reflecting what will it cost the City in the battle between Quincy and the Water Company, in case our City be deprived of the immense amount of knowledge, experience and wisdom possessed by Mayor Fairbanks.

Nearly two years ago, the City Council instructed the Mayor to petition for the right to introduce into the City an independent water supply. Most of the taxpayers remember the long and sharply contested hearings at the State House, and the splendid battle waged by Mayor Fairbanks, who showed himself perfectly familiar with the whole matter. It is plain that he actively and most ably assisted Mr. Pattee in handling the City's case. The information he then gained must have made deep impression on his mind, and in his next inaugural address he urged the City Council to take action on the matter, and suggested the line of action subsequently adopted. This shows that his study of the case did not cease with the State House hearing.

Before any action had been taken on his recommendation, we find him again protecting the City's interests by vigorously opposing the granting of further and costlier privileges to the Water Company and prepared with counsel to defend the taxpayer. He then gave the Water question still greater attention, and by his persistent work and influence he brought about the order of the Council to purchase the works, and also its ratification by the voters, and thus saved them from an enormous future cost. It is rumored that some interested in the Water Company were furious that the Company could not get the additional privileges so that their profits would have been simply immense.

Shortly after the purchase, the Mayor employed eminent attorneys to assist the City Solicitor in preparing the City's case to be argued before the Commissioners appointed by the Court. His selection of lawyers of such high standing as R. M. Morse, Esq., and E. Cotter, Esq., to protect the city's interest reflects great credit on his judgment. Later, with a number of scientific experts, he went investigating the whole works and supply through Quincy, Braintree and Randolph. Since then it is fair to judge that he has given strict attention to the matter, and has daily brought into the city's interest the vast fund of information in his possession.

From the first Mayor Fairbanks' influence and business sagacity have been in the front rank, and his guiding hand and wise counsel have always shaped the course of the city in the entire question. For more than two years he has been constantly preparing himself for the momentous struggle that must shortly take place. Fully equipped in every detail, the information that Mayor Fairbanks has amassed on this subject will be a powerful factor in the interest of Quincy and a menace to the company, and makes his assistance of positive necessity and of almost immeasurable benefit to the taxpayers.

The contest will be no simple one and the subject is not one to be comprehended in a few weeks by a hasty study.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are at stake, and the best talent, information and assistance the city can get will be a necessity.

Quincy cannot afford to lose the aid of Mayor Fairbanks at this critical moment. All minor questions fade into nothing when compared with this great issue. Every taxpayer in the city is anxiously awaiting the award of the Commission, and therefore every voter should ask himself if the city can afford to weaken its case by the removal of Mayor Fairbanks.

We desire to be fair to Mr. Hodges, but his firmest supporters would not be so presumptuous as to declare that his knowledge of this most important matter can be given to approach the vast fund of information possessed by Mayor Fairbanks.

Why should we now, on the eve of the battle, remove from our cause the man who, above all others, can render us invaluable service, and place in his stead a man, able it is true, but not familiar with the subject, and who cannot be reasonably expected to get full information of this great and intricate matter soon enough to handle the case as it deserves to be, and as Mayor Fairbanks is already prepared and qualified to do.

When the issue is so great and so far reaching in its results, all voters, irrespective of party lines, should most carefully consider whether the interests of the city should be made to suffer, and her cause perhaps fatally crippled to advance the political prospects of any set of office seekers. Will it be worth what it will cost? How much will a blunder cost? Do we want the city plunged into an enormous debt? In order to raise money to pay for the works, do we want our valuation highly increased? No! The best talent is none too good to keep down the award.

The knowledge that Mayor Fairbanks has of the water fight has not been acquired in a few weeks. He is a brilliant business man, a safe, able and conservative Mayor, and voters should reflect how much it may cost them to be deprived of his assistance in this Water question. It may mean a difference of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Mayor Fairbanks cannot be spared. Voters, next Tuesday, see that Mayor Fairbanks gets a rousing vote, irrespective of party. TAXPAYER.

FAXON VS. HODGES.

Just before election the people of Quincy are always treated to a letter from Mr. H. H. Faxon, in which he tries to abuse others and to glorify himself. We presume that this year will be no exception. Mr. Faxon seems to think that the voters would not know enough to go to the polls and vote without his advice. He has told them what to do for so long a time that he does not seem to think that there will ever be a time to stop. He should remember that the repetition of even a good thing may sometimes become tiresome and that chestnuts are apt to become wormy. People are beginning to see that Mr. Faxon's object is not so much to have the city vote no-license, as to defeat the election of Mr. W. A. Hodges. He makes a great pretence that there is danger that the city will vote license, but at the same time a child can see that the main thing in his communication is the desire to "beat Hodges." In some things Mr. Faxon is a sensible man, but when he says that he thinks that Quincy may vote for license he must have a poor opinion of the intelligence of the voters.

His opposition to Mr. Hodges is of long standing. In 1881, Mr. Hodges, Mr. Wm. N. Eaton and Mr. Alfred Sampson were elected Selectmen. Mr. Faxon was appointed Liquor Officer by the votes of Messrs. Hodges and Sampson. His first official act was to complain of the landlord of the Robertson House because he did not have the sign "Licensed Innholder" over his door. It soon became clear that he did not so much desire to stop the illegal sale of liquor as to annoy those who had licenses and to advertise himself. "Anything to make a sensation" seemed to be his motto. His methods were not satisfactory to the Selectmen, but nothing was done until a woman came to Mr. Hodges and complained that Mr. Faxon was trying to hire her minor son to purchase liquor so that he might get a case against a liquor dealer. Then the matter was brought before the Selectmen and by an unanimous vote Mr. Faxon was removed from office. If ever there was a temperance man and a temperate man, Mr. Sampson was one, but even he could not stand Mr. Faxon's methods. Mr. Faxon has neither forgotten nor forgiven this removal, and probably never will. At the end of the year he went into the Republican caucus and used his utmost efforts to defeat the nomination of Mr. Sampson. He finally succeeded by joining hands with one of the leading Republican politicians whom he had many times denounced. He has ever since been a bitter opponent of Mr. Hodges.

The next year, Mr. Faxon, for political reasons, advised the new Board of Selectmen to grant licenses to druggists. In 1886, 1887 and 1888, Mr. Hodges was elected Selectman, and always voted against the granting of licenses to druggists, in spite of great pressure brought to bear upon him. That is the history of the affair. It may, perhaps, be called ancient history.

With reference to the approaching election and Mr. Faxon's connection with it, some things may be put down as absolutely certain. One is that Quincy will vote no-license. In that case the Chief of Police will enforce the law. Another thing is that Mr. Faxon, in private, does not hesitate to acknowledge Mr. Hodges' enterprise, honesty and business capacity. If Mr. Faxon were compelled, by circumstances, to entrust some large business matter of his own to either Mr. Hodges or Mr. Fairbanks, without a doubt he would select Mr. Hodges. Why then should he not be willing to trust the business interests of the city in the same hands? The only reply can be that the government will be overturned, the officials will be displaced, a change would be disastrous. But governments are not overturned by one election, no one has any right to say that even one official will be displaced, and changes are seldom disastrous. If every one of the city officials should die tomorrow, the world would not stop.

Mr. Faxon undoubtedly has a right to lecture the citizens every year if he chooses, but there is one objection to his so doing. He usually procures the insertion of his letter in the Boston papers. Many people, not knowing the situation, are misled by Mr. Faxon's language and think that the Democratic party in Quincy are in favor of license. He tries to convey that idea, and in that way he does an injustice to one-half the voters of Quincy. He injures the fair name of our city. And when, as has often happened, the very officials whom he assailed are re-elected, Mr. Faxon's words are an insult to every one who voted for them. If the 1890 citizens who voted last year for Mr. Hodges, had voted for license, what would have been the result? Mr. Faxon should expend his ammunition upon those who vote for license, and then he would be consistent. However, to be consistent is not essential to his happiness.

FOUR NEW WITNESSES

Examined by the Grand Jury in the Borden Case.

INSANITY STORY IS DECLARED "BOSH."

Ghastly Relics of the Awful Tragedy Are Again Brought Forth.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 2.—No report yet from the grand jury. Not until this evening, if even then, will public interest, now at fever heat, be appeased. After a thorough discussion of the evidence, and several times seeking light from the district attorney yesterday afternoon, the grand jury adjourned until today.

There is no mistaking the fact that the jurymen are an especially conservative and conscientious body of men, and that their decision, whatever it shall be, will be the expression of their earnest and enlightened convictions.

When the jury met, after its ten days' respite, it went to work at once to complete the hearing of testimony, and the presence of Detective McHenry and wife as witnesses occasioned quite a flutter of excitement about the court house.

Other new witnesses were Mrs. Peckham and Mrs. Hall of Fall River, and it is understood that the testimony upon points that had been developed during the recess.

The grand jury also called for the blood-spattered pillow shams and linen taken from the room where Mrs. Borden was slain, and these, with the two skulls of the victims, were once more submitted to inspection in the jury room. At 11:15 it was understood that

All the Evidence Was In.

The grand jury reconvened after dinner at 2 o'clock, and at once a thorough sifting of the evidence is said to have been entered upon.

District Attorney Knowlton, of course, did not participate in the discussion; but on at least two occasions he was called in to help clear up matters that to the jurymen seemed doubtful.

It was 5:30 o'clock before the grand jury adjourned for the day, and it is stated that no poll was taken during the afternoon.

District Attorney Knowlton broke silence long enough to characterize the "insanity" story as "all bosh," and it may be set down for a fact that all the sensational stories that certain papers have been publishing within the past week are purely imaginary and without substantial basis.

INSANE OR DISHONEST?

Checked Career of a Young Man Who Began Stealing While in College.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—Francis J. Holland, one of three young men who were arrested on the charge of committing burglary at the factory of Glover & Willcomb, in Hyde Park, is credited by the police with establishing quite a criminal record for himself during the last six months. Holland is 37 years old and is the son of a liquor dealer of this city.

When a student at Harvard college about a year ago, he started his criminal career by stealing several articles of value or less value from his college companions.

He was arrested, arraigned in court for larceny, adjudged insane and sent to the asylum at Westborough. He escaped from that institution and came to Boston, hiring a room on Ashburton place with another young man.

Within a few days after his appearance in Boston he called at the furniture store of a well-known firm and ordered a lot of articles sent to his room, payment on the installment plan being promised. These goods were immediately sent from Ashburton place to an auction room and sold.

Instead of personally calling at the auction room for the proceeds of the sale, Holland sent his room-mate, for the money, and the latter was arrested and subsequently sentenced to prison for complicity in this swindling affair.

Through the information given by this prisoner the police captured Holland, but while his name, age, height, etc., were being recorded at the station house, he dashed out of the door and escaped.

He was rearrested in a few days, and the court again concluded that he was insane and ordered his removal to an asylum. He made his escape a second time and was next heard from in Philadelphia, where he passed a worthless check upon a friend of his father's. Later he committed some mischief in Bridgeport, Conn., for which he was arrested in New York city. He was taken to Bridgeport and sentenced to jail. Escaping from there, he came to Boston, and, according to the police, obtained goods from Little, Brown & Co., the bookdealers, and Graham & Co., dealers in boots and shoes.

By means of worthless checks, he wound up his operations by the burglary at Glover & Willcomb's.

GOOD WORK RECORDED.

What the Massachusetts Prison Association Has Done During the Past Year.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Prison Association was held at the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union for the transaction of business and the election of officers. Preceding the election of officers was the presentation and adoption of the reports of the work of the year. The treasurer's report showed that the receipts for the past year had been $5077.83, and the expenditures $5053.23. The report of the committee on legislation dealt with drunkenness and the law governing it, and covered the work of the committee. Rev. F. B. Allen read the reports of the relief and protection committee, which showed the expenditures for the relief of discharged prisoners during the past year to be $1494.35, and the receipts $1145. The meeting was devoted so exclusively to business that there was little opportunity afforded for the discussion of the large questions relating to crime and its treatment.

LOOKING FOR HIS WIFE.

A Maine Sea Captain Robbed While He Was on a Voyage.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—"I want my wife," said Captain George A. Armstrong of Bangor, Me., to Captain Watts of police division 3 yesterday. Captain Armstrong is one of the best known seamen that sail from the Maine coast, and is now hunting for his better half, who, he alleges, has left him home to live with a man in this city. Captain Watts asked the Bangor man to relate his story, and this is what he said: "I left my wife at home over a year and a half ago, when I started on a long voyage to China. During my absence I did not hear from her at all, and when I arrived home two months ago, I imagine my surprise to find my wife had left the city a long time ago. She took with her about all the property I left her in charge of, which included $850, which was in her name deposited at the bank, and a large amount of very valuable India silk which belongs to me.

"You find me the woman so that I can get back that silk and then she can do what she pleases as long as she does not trouble me."

Special Officer Abbott was assigned to the case, and in company with Captain Armstrong, started out to find the latter's wife.

POTTER FILES EXCEPTIONS.

It Will Result in the Case Going to the United States Supreme Court.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—A. A. P. Potter has filed exceptions to the rulings of Judge Putnam of the United States circuit court, who sustained eighteen counts of the indictment charging Potter with making false entries in the books. Yesterday was the last on which exceptions could be filed. He alleges that the counts in the indictment do not state the name of the comptroller to whom the reports were made, and that they should have done so. He alleges that the counts should state the name of the bank examiner who, it was alleged, was deceived by the reports. It is also objected that the counts should have alleged that the books were correctly kept, and legally obliged to know that there were false entries in the books. This brings the case before the United States supreme court on questions of law, but does not delay the trial of Potter, which will take place Jan. 24.

GRANGERS OF MAINE

Are Anxious to Have Legislation on the Subject of Tax Reform.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 2.—The executive committee of the state grange and state board of agriculture met here in conference on matters of interest to farmers. They propose to put the question of tax reform in the legislature, the coming winter, and this was discussed at this meeting. The listing system, in a somewhat modified form, will be the basis of their proposed legislation, and committees will be carefully selected to look after the work and be present in the legislative halls. It is claimed that a majority of the house support tax reform. Reports at the annual meeting in Lewiston will show that there is but slight change in the membership of the grange, it being about 1000. The order is on a good, healthy basis. Four new granges have been organized during the year and three organized.

PATRICK ROONEY'S WOE.

His Wife Has Taken His Children and Skipped with Another Man.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 2.—Patrick Rooney, a resident of Globe Village, Fall River, has been in this city for several days looking for a man named John Lee, who, he claims married his wife on Oct. 15, in this city, while Rooney was serving a sentence of ninety days in jail for the non-support of his wife and three children.

Rooney says he doesn't care to effect a reconciliation with his wife, but wants to find his children who disappeared with his wife after the consummation of the alleged matrimonial contract.

It is thought that Lee has gone to England. Rooney's wife had instituted proceedings for divorce against him while he was in Savannah, and when he came back she had him arrested for non-support.

Yale-Princeton Debate Proposed.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 2.—The Yale union, the debating society of Yale university, has received a challenge from the American Whist and Clioaphic society of Princeton, for a debate between the two societies at a time and place to be agreed upon later. There is little doubt that the challenge will be accepted by Yale. A vote will be taken at a meeting of the Yale union. It is probable that the debate will take place in New York city during February.

Trefethen's Trial.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—It was hoped by ex-Governor John D. Longcounsel for James A. Trefethen, charged with the murder of Tena Davis of Everett, that the trial would be held this month; but it is now doubtful if it can be reached so soon. The three judges who are to sit in the case have the assigning of a day for trial, but as yet none has been named.

Town Treasurer a Defaulter.

ENFIELD, Me., Dec. 2.—A. L. Chapman, town treasurer, is short in his accounts. Chapman is a partner in J. L. Mullen's general store at Montagu. Mullen & Co. are also financially embarrassed. The firm's liabilities are about $9000. The town of Enfield will bring suit against Treasurer Chapman's bondsmen.

Lawrence Journal Changes Hands.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Dec. 2.—The plant and job printing department of the Lawrence Journal was sold yesterday to The Sunday Register, the new Lawrence paper. The Journal will be kept in the Sweeney family, but all the rest goes to The Register.

Where is George Roberts?

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—George Roberts, 38 years old, has been missing from his home at 8 Dove street, Highlands, since noon on Monday and his relatives are anxious as to his whereabouts. Roberts was a motorman on the West End Street railway.

About Time.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 2.—It is semi-officially stated that all differences between the granite contractors of this city and the Concord branch of the National Cutters' union will be settled today, and that the men will return to work in a few days.

Opera House Ablaze.

NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 2.—Nichols' Opera house in New Canaan, owned by G. Duff Nichols of New York, took fire from a defective flue, and several thousand dollars, damage was done. The loss is fully covered by the insurance.

In the Jury's Hands.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 2.—The Halloran poisoning case, which has been on trial all this week, was given to the jury at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. They had no report when the court adjourned last evening.

Mill Destroyed by Fire.

LACONIA, N. H., Dec. 2.—The hosiery mill of William Clark & Son of Lockport and the Belknap mills storehouse, were destroyed by fire last evening. Loss estimated at $4000; partly insured. Origin of fire unknown.

Grand Celebration.

FELLOW CITIZENS:

Celebrations are in order now and YOU are invited to celebrate. The occasion is the completion of a decade of "NO LICENSE" in our city. During this decade we have been appointed by the State to make our own laws touching the sale of intoxicating drink.

Well, we have made these laws and executed them. As a city we are on record in this matter and invite examination of the record. Here it is,—"A decade of No License," "Ten years without a saloon;" and the result,—LESS of poverty, LESS of temptation, LESS of crime, MORE of financial prosperity, BETTER social health, and HIGHER moral order. On every hand are seen the signs of our progress. New streets open almost everywhere. New houses line them. The city wears the new aspect of rapid growth and unusual thrift. There is no slum anywhere BECAUSE no saloon to create it. All honor to this decade of No License. It ought to be the pride and joy and glory of us all, that when temperance legislation has been strengthening through the land, we have carried the banner of this legislation to the front and kept it there.

Now in a few days we are to say whether we will still hold this banner aloft, or FOR A PRICE suffer who will to tear it down. The saloon has been proved beyond question the worst foe of a city's peace and prosperity. It is regarded as the years go by with greater and greater abhorrence. Public opinion save when coined out of money and appetite says "the thing must go." And can a city, yes, CAN A CITY with a decade of no license, with all its blessings registered on its face, vote to give itself back into the power of the saloon?

Fellow citizens, your temperance committee who have appealed to you in a circular like this so many times, can scarce find language in which to tell you a thing so overwhelmingly apparent in itself, as is the result of No License in our city. This result has been not alone prosperity, security, and happiness at home, but also a name carried abroad, told in every city on either slope of our continent. And it is in view of this, which you know as well as we, that we appeal to you voters of Quincy to lift higher yet your already grand majority against the saloon.

A temperance orator waxing warm and impassioned—so a story says—dropped his voice and said: "If all the saloons were at the bottom of the sea, what would happen?" And from some wit came back the quick reply: "Lots of people would get drowned." But with our city the case is quite the reverse of this. With the saloon at the bottom of the sea we are safe. It will only be when it shall come back—if it ever shall—that lots of people will get drowned, drowned in vice and misery. Therefore sink the saloon will you not a little deeper out of sight for '93. This is the grand celebration to which we invite you, and in which we ask you every one to participate. If you have been in years past a silent spectator not voting at all on a question so important, speak now for truth and right. We owe something to the community in which we make our homes, to its local government. We owe something to the reputation our growing city has made. And above all we owe something to that sense of obligation which moves at times in every breast, or to the "ought" implanted there. If you have voted thus far for the sale of intoxicating drinks, have one honest talk with yourself before you vote again. That boy of yours is dearer to you than appetite. He has never seen the saloon as he has walked our streets. Its open door has never invited him to enter the way that leads to life's worst wreck and often to its irretrievable ruin. YOU owe something to that boy, to your neighbor's boy, to yourself, to your home, to your city, to your God; yes, something you HAVE NEVER PAID and NEVER CAN while you vote for the licensing here for the sale of intoxicants. Give us your hand therefore, fellow citizen, and help us celebrate. Be in the triumph, swelling it to yet unprecedented majority, as we vote our city into a second decade without a saloon.

FOR DOUBLE MURDER.

Lizzie Borden is Indicted by the Grand Jury.

HATCHET SAID TO HAVE BEEN FOUND.

A Report That Henry G. Trickey Has Also Been Indicted.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 3.—The story is told by the police and their friends that the weapon with which the terrible Borden murders were committed has been found; that it is in the possession of the police, and that it was shown to the grand jury. Only the blade was shown, it is said, but that fitted exactly the wounds in the bodies of the two massacred people.

It is said that the blade was found in some ashes with the handle burned off. One person, who is believed to know considerable about the find, says that a portion of the blackened stump was still fitted into the head or blade.

MISS LIZZIE BORDEN.

Whether this is so or not will not be vouched for just at present, but the fact of the blade being held now by the police is stated as almost absolutely certain.

Some say that this blade was only found about the time the grand jury was dismissed, eleven days ago, and that that is why the adjournment was taken.

The evidence presented to the grand jury is said by the police to have been complete and minute against Lizzie Borden, and to have astounded even those who were inclined to be conservative and won them over in the polemic.

The poll of the jury is declared to have been 20 for bringing in an indictment, and 1 against. Even the warmest friends of the prosecution had no idea of such a vote.

There is lot of new evidence, but the most important points have been given by new witnesses, it is said. A lot of new witnesses of minor importance were there in Taunton, but only as connecting links for the more important evidence.

The indictment for Murder against Lizzie A. Borden was on two counts, the first of which was as follows:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Bristol s. s. At the superior court begun and holden at Taunton, within and for the said county of Bristol, on the first Monday of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, the jurors of the said commonwealth, on their oath, present that Lizzie Andrew Borden of Fall River, in the county of Bristol, at Fall River, in the county of Bristol, on the fourth day of August, in the year 1892, in and upon the body of Abby Durfee Borden, feloniously, wilfully, and of her malice aforethought, an assault did make, and with a certain weapon to wit: a sharp cutting instrument, did strike, cut and bruise in and upon the head of her, the said Abby Durfee Borden, giving to her, the said Abby Durfee Borden, by the said striking, cutting, beating and bruising in and upon the head of her, the said Abby Durfee Borden, divers to wit: Twenty mortal wounds, of which said mortal wounds the said Abby Durfee Borden then and there instantly died. And so the jurors aforesaid, upon their oath aforesaid, do say that the said Lizzie Borden the said Abby Borden, in manner and form aforesaid then and there feloniously, wilfully, and of her malice aforethought, did kill and murder, against the peace of said commonwealth, and contrary to the form of the statute, in such case made and provided.

The next count is the same as the first, merely substituting the name of Andrew Jackson Borden for Abby Durfee Borden, and ten mortal wounds instead of twenty.

Another indictment against a person whose name was not divulged, as he was not in custody, was also returned by the grand jury.

The attorney-general will be given a copy of the indictment, as will also the sheriff and the prisoner, and through the attorney-general the chief justice of the superior court will be notified of the action of the grand jury. The court will then set a day for the arraignment of the prisoner, and she will be brought into court to plead. At that time, it is understood, a special session of the court will be arranged for, and the time and place set for the trial. It is thought that the arraignment will occur in about two weeks.

Sane or Insane?

The friends of Lizzie who believe she did the killing think that the plea of insanity will be entered in her behalf.

If the story that the evidence was overwhelming against Lizzie is true, the defense can do nothing but plead insanity, say the friends of the accused. The story which started early this week of Lizzie's queerness is much talked about now that an indictment is found.

Lawyer Jennings was not talking to the reporters. He was overrun with visitors seeking further information. "I am not surprised," said he; "I would not be surprised at anything in the case. I've got beyond that. I had hopes after the adjournment of the jury that they might return a bill. Still I did not expect such good news, and rather thought they would, under the circumstances." Mr. Jennings would not say anything about the insanity plea, and is evidently going to be closed mouthed until the trial begins.

Sherry Wright is the only man who could tell how Lizzie acts, and he is silent.

Lizzie's Prison Life.

A story was related of Lizzie and her prison life. She had become a constant knitter and spends most of her time that way. The other day she was knitting something and she looked up cunningly and said: "This would make a pretty necktie for a Christmas present to Mr. Knowlton."

Her intimates in the city are now telling of some queer things she has done at different times. There is only one conclusion, they say, and that is that she is insane.

Her intimate friends won't be interviewed. Pastor Jubb and Minister Buck have refused to say anything.

THOSE BLANK BALLOTS.

Lieutenant Governor Halle Makes a Statement on the Subject.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 3.—To a representative of the Springfield Union Lieutenant Governor Halle remarked that it might be proper for him to set a few words to the public at the present time. He said he had never for a moment questioned the legality of the election of Governor Russell, and that he had never intended to make any contest concerning the same.

Many friends and influential members of his party, he said, had strongly urged him to make a contest for the purpose of ascertaining the number of blank votes he counted which were intended for him. He had given their views careful consideration, but his mind has not changed from the first.

He said he had never authorized any publication of his views until now. He regretted the extension of the personal feeling and friction caused by this unfortunate matter, and strongly deprecates any and all extreme and injudicious criticism and comment.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.

The Special Commissioners on Water Plant Begin Their Work.

The three commissioners recently appointed by the Supreme Court to determine the value of the works of the Quincy Water Company have begun their work. They arrived in the city this morning.

In the party who are making the tour of the works and the city are the three commissioners, Judge Lowell, Judge Bennett and Mr. Clifford; Mayor Fairbanks, President Thompson of the City Council, City Solicitor McAnaney and Lawyers R. M. Morse and J. D. Cotter, representing the city; President Gordon, Treasurer Faxon and Superintendent Hall of the Water Company and their counsel, ex-Governor Robinson, F. P. Golding and Judge Flint; a representative of the DAILY LEDGER and others.

The party was conveyed in hacks, first to the reservoir in Braintree; then up the brook to its source, and the watershed in the vicinity of Great Pond; then to the standpipe and pumping station.

There they were at lunch when the LEDGER went to press. The tour was to be continued this afternoon around the city. A more extended report will appear Monday.

The Gazette is Right.

The Boston Herald looks at the license question from a worldly standpoint. It says that no license would cost the taxpayers $900,000 next year. How much would the tax-payers be saved by the decrease in crime and the smaller police force necessary? The Herald should consider this side of the question and then rise a little from its dollars and cents view of it and think of the moral benefit it would be to the city, the suburban towns and the state if Boston were a no-license city.—Weymouth Gazette.

Wants to Get Even.

In Ward — of Quincy is a hotel whose landlord is noted for eccentricity. At 7 o'clock last Tuesday morning a guest approached mine host in great wrath and delivered himself something after this fashion: "I ordered a fire in my room last night and didn't get it. This morning I wanted a fire to dress by and didn't get it and now I come down to your sitting room and find it as cold as a barn." To which the landlord quietly replied: "If you want to get warm go out and run around." A madder guest never left a hotel breakfast. He happens to be a gentleman of wealth and now threatens to build a new hotel in Ward — to get even with the man who froze him out.

What It Cost Him to Defeat William B. Rice in Councillor Contest.

D. H. Rice of Brookline has filled his report of his expenditures in the campaign.

It was received at the secretary of state's office yesterday morning and says:

"For the purpose of promoting the success of the Republican party I contributed the following sums upon the dates named and for the purposes specified:

"Sept. 28. To political committee of Draper Guards, Dedham, $10.
"Oct. 3. To political committee of Young Men's Rep. Club, Dorchester equipment, $10.

"Oct. 5. To political committee Rep. Club, Brookline (previous subscription), $100.

"And I also contributed to the political finance committee of the second councillor district of Massachusetts $500, suggesting that the local application of money for the Republican cause should, as far as possible, be left to the several regular town and ward committees of the party in the district, and the necessity of bringing out their votes, as shown by the statistics published by the State."

After the contribution accompanying the above letter he further voluntarily contributed: Oct. 17, $500; Oct. 25, $200; Oct. 28, $50; Oct. 29, $50; Nov. 1, $200; Nov. 9, $175.

Well Done.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I read the communication in your paper of Saturday signed "A Democrat," and it is my opinion that the reasons advanced for the choice of Mayor Fairbanks are conclusive. If the taxpayers of this city knew how earnestly our Mayor has worked in their interests they would say, by their votes, "Well done, good and faithful servant." I believe, with my brother Democrat, that there is no need at present of mixing politics in our city election. With Cleveland and Russell elected, Quincy Democrats can afford to be generous when it comes to rewarding so faithful a public official as Henry Fairbanks has been.

Weymouth Aspirations.

The regular meeting of the Century club of North Weymouth will be held next Friday evening, Dec. 9. The subject for discussion will be, "Resolved, That the best interests of Weymouth require a city government." Josiah H. Pratt has the affirmative and James Humphrey will take the negative.

Loved ones say it.

"Restless, irritable, excitable, and exacting" is the charge against you by those nearest and dearest to you.

They don't know the horror that oppresses you.

Every hour pains run rampant through your body. You suffer secretly as long as you can, then go all to pieces and "don't care" what happens.

The iron grip of female disease is upon you.

Dear Sister, Lydia E. Pinkham's "Vegetable Compound" has cured thousands like you.

It kills the pain, and invigorates the system.

No more backache, no more "bearing down," no more restless days and sleepless nights, hope will take the place of despair, your daily duties will be a delight, and life a joy.

All druggists sell it, or send by mail in form of Pills or Lozenges, receipt of $1.

An Eye Opener.

The man who wrote,—perhaps in a joke,—That "Life is but a dream"

Could he look over the new furniture store Would find 'twas no such thing.

You cannot overlook bargains in furniture, they strike every one, and just now Henry L. Kincaide & Co., are holding out inducements with their new and carefully selected stock which are enough to make a miser branch out into lavish expenditure.

Three floors and nearly 8,000 square feet of floor space will give you a fair idea of this modern establishment. They sell everything from the Parlor Set and Carpet you use in your parlor to the smallest utensil used in your kitchen. Their line of Dining Room, Chamber and Kitchen furniture is well worth your inspection, while their Rattan Rockers and Odd Parlor Chairs are finding their way into many a happy home.

Their bedding and blankets are above the standard, while their $1.00 comforters "beat the Dutch."

Their business is conservatively managed and you can readily save from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston Prices by placing your order with them. The New Store, Tirrell's Block, Hancock Street.

More snow.

Charles Francis Adams is quite ill at his residence on Goffe street.

Howard Rogers has bought one of the new houses building on Bigelow street.

Allen M. Jameson of Wollaston returned yesterday from a business trip of two weeks.

A lodge of M. U. I. O. O. F., will be instituted at Doble's hall, South Quincy, tonight.

The new gymnasium of the Young Men's Institute at South Quincy will be opened next Wednesday.

The new residence of City Treasurer Adams, at the corner of Bigelow and Canal streets, is being raised.

At the no license meeting at Wollaston tomorrow night there will be a large choir from the other churches.

Yesterday afternoon a well known resident of Quincy, waged $20 to $10 that Mayor Fairbanks would be re-elected.

Fred Hardwick is to open an auction commission room in his building on the corner of School and Franklin streets.

Miss Ella May Freeman, of Quincy Point, has recently declined a flattering offer of a position on the staff of a leading shoe trade journal.

George Cann sails for London Eng., on Umbria from New York Dec. 3, from London he will go to Guernsey where he will spend the winter.

The lively manner in which Charles H. Brigham is hustling for a bowling alley for the Wollaston club, is pleasing to the members of that growing and praiseworthy organization.

The Atlantic Social Club held its first dance of the season at Music Hall last evening, and was participated in by fifty couples. The floor was in charge of Dr. W. G. Kendall and John Carver.

Our advertisers received the benefit yesterday of a circulation of nearly 4000 papers. In this connection it might be mentioned that the average circulation of the DAILY LEDGER for November was 1200 per day.

We are informed that a prominent granite firm at Quincy Adams will probably be awarded a $50,000 contract in a few days. The work is to be done in connection with two large monuments to be erected by the Masonic fraternity.

H. A. Williams of Wollaston, of the H. A. Williams Manufacturing Co., leaves tonight for Chicago. Mr. Williams may return in ten days or he may be absent for several months. Certain Chicago capitalists are trying to induce Mr. Williams to locate a large manufacturing plant in Hammond, Ind.

The rooms of the Institute at South Quincy are so near completed that on next Wednesday evening its doors will be thrown open to the public for inspection. The young men will have no reason to be ashamed to invite their friends to visit their quarters next Wednesday evening from 6 o'clock to 10 and will make them welcome any evening after.

TODAY'S COURT.

Patrick H. Hand of Randolph was arraigned for breaking and entering and larceny from Simon Schriener and was held in $500 for Monday morning.

BRAINTREE.

Williams, Kneeland & Co., are now putting the finishing touches on their new shoe factory at South Braintree. It will be one of the finest shoe plants in the state.

George Wentworth of Braintree had the end of one of his fingers jammed off by a stone he was moving Wednesday at Mitchell Granite Works at South Quincy.

The board of water commissioners have decided not to appoint a superintendent of the work in room of Mr. M. C. French, who has resigned, till the first of Jan. 1893.

Why would it not be a good plan to have the no-school whistle blown at the pumping station as is done in Quincy. This arrangement is most effective in the case of Quincy and it ought to be in the case of Braintree, a much smaller town.

Mr. Thomas W. Herlick of Central avenue, South Braintree, has had a sore affliction in the death of his little boy, aged about sixteen months who was so unfortunate as to get seriously scalded on Sunday and lingered in great agony till Thursday, when death ended the poor child's sufferings. The funeral takes place this forenoon.

A statement is made by the Treasurer of the recent 250th anniversary celebration at Gloucester, which shows the amount received by subscriptions to have been $15,155.53. After paying all bills a balance of $2214.01 remains on hand.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

M. Martin Confesses That He Was Engaged to Bribe Deputies.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—At the sitting of the Parliamentary Panama canal commission yesterday Deputy Chantagrel said that while he was serving as member of the lottery commission he received an offer of 100,000 francs for his vote, but refused it. As far as other members of the chamber were concerned, he could give no information, but he always supposed that other members of the commission had been approached in a similar manner.

M. Jesiensky, director and formerly editor of The Telegraph, denied that he had been bribed with 120,000 francs or any other sum to boom the canal company's business. M. Martin confessed the authorship of the notorious articles concerning bribery published in Le Libre Parole. He was entrusted with a mission by Baron Reinach to bribe deputies. He was intimate with Charles de Lesseps and Marius Canat of the directory of the Panama Canal company. To his knowledge the three ministers, Bessant, Graner and Burdeau, had cashed drafts for sums of money derived from the company's resources.

Deputies Chavois, Naquet, Sarlat, Saint Martin and Michel were accustomed to attend the meetings of the committee. Rochefort had made violent attacks upon De Lesseps. Before starting for Berlin, however, he went to the Panama company's offices, and thereafter the attacks had ceased. Whether Rochefort had been "fixed" or not the witness did not know, but he and others who knew of the coincidence had regarded the circumstance as suspicious.

Before rising the commission resolved to impress upon M. Loubet the necessity of getting a list of the checks referred to by M. Thierree.

THE COAL CREEK TROUBLES.

Further Lawlessness by Miners Will Be Met by Decisive Military Action.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 3.—It is rumored at Coal Creek that the miners are preparing to attempt to again release the state convicts before Governor Buchanan goes out of office. Governor-elect Turney has declared his intention of enforcing the law, while Governor Buchanan is believed to sympathize with the miners. General Anderson has been authorized to increase his forces, but at the same time the state officials here do not fear trouble, as nearly all the leaders of the riots were run out of the country and have not ventured back.

THE MISSING SPREE.

The Big Lloyd Steamer Should Have

Been Sighted Two Days Ago.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The North German Lloyd steamer Spree, which sailed from Southampton Nov. 23, at 5 p. m., ought to have been sighted Wednesday night or at the latest, at daylight Thursday morning. The agent says that the delay is probably due to disarrangement of the vessel's machinery or stormy weather. The White Star steamer Britannic, which arrived yesterday from Liverpool, had no tidings of her. The Spree carries 350 cabin and 130 steerage passengers.

THE FRENCH CABINET CRISIS.

Brisson Gives Up His Task and Perrier

Will Now Assume It.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—In his statement to President Carnot, giving his reasons for not being able to form a cabinet, M. Brisson gives as the principal cause of failure the conflict between the judicial authorities in charge of the Panama prosecution and the investigating committee, appointed by the chamber of deputies. It is reported that Casimir Perrier has been requested by President Carnot to form a cabinet.

New Boston-New York Route.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A contract has been arranged between the New England and New York and Northern roads for the establishment of a passenger service over those two roads between New York and Boston. It is reported that the Manhattan elevated is interested in the new route. This is the latest New England deal, about which many rumors were current.

Mrs. Deacon Seeks More Trouble.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Deacon has brought an action for slander against The Galganin Messenger for a statement to the effect that Mrs. Deacon agreed to surrender her eldest child and to authorize Mr. Deacon to secure a divorce in Paris, providing he abandoned the criminal action against her.

"Lobby" Leaves The News.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—It is reported that

Henry Labouchere has severed his connection with The Daily News, and that his shares in the company, amounting to one-third of the capital stock, will be divided among the remaining proprietors, Arnold Morley and Mr. Oppenheim.

Aged Broker Sent to Prison.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Cumberland G.

White, an aged Wall street broker, pleaded to a charge of larceny in the second degree, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. He was charged with appropriating the profits of the sale of two bonds.

Machinists Win.

TROY, N. Y., Dec. 3.—The strike of the Watervliet arsenal machinists has been settled. The men have gained their point, and one man will not be obliged to run two lathes. The employes returned to work this morning.

An Unknown Wreck.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—The tug Argus, from Boston, reports that on Tuesday last at 7.50 a. m., three miles from Vineyard Sound Lightship, she passed a sunken three-masted schooner with masts awash.

Old Engineer Killed.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Henry S. Washburn,

one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Boston and Albany Railroad company, was killed in the Huntington avenue yard of the railroad last night.

Railroad Wreck in Kentucky.

ASHLAND, Ky., Dec. 3.—A Chesapeake

and Ohio accommodation train struck a wrecking train, completely demolishing a caboose, tool and box car, and badly injuring five persons.

Navigation Interrupted.

HAMBURG, Dec. 3.—The Elbe is lower than at any time in the previous forty-one years. Between Magdeburg and Lauenburg eighty-three grain steamers are aground.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Communications concerning city and public affairs are invited, and will receive space although in views they may not coincide with those of the editors. They may be signed by initials or otherwise, but the editors must know the name of the writer.

"A Democrat" Gets There Again.

Editors of the Daily Ledger: A writer who signs himself "Genuine Democrat," but whose genuineness is not sufficient to prompt him to a declaration of identity, replies to my communication in the LEDGER of November 26.

Speaking of Mayor Fairbanks, I then asked: "Why discharge a good servant?" My friend does not answer the question. He does not assign one reason for retiring the Mayor who has served us so faithfully. He occupies a column of your space in an attempt to avoid the real point at issue. I therefore again ask: "Why discharge a good servant?"

Does my friend know that Grover Cleveland was elected Mayor of Buffalo by Republican votes? The Republicans of that city knew him to be a competent man and supported him for the office of Mayor. The Republicans of Buffalo said they did not believe in dragging partisan politics into municipal affairs.

Now, as a Democrat I do not believe in turning Mayor Fairbanks out because he voted for Harrison.

Note one feature of this municipal contest in Quincy: No one has dared to oppose Mr. Fairbanks on his official record. Some would be glad to find fault with him if they could, but no word of criticism do we hear. He has made a splendid, hard-working, executive officer.

Think of the Republicans who have voted for Gov. Russell. That gentleman has been elected for the third time on his record.

Should Quincy Democrats be less appreciative in the case of Mayor Fairbanks? I hope not.

In conclusion let me repeat what I said before: I know more than a score of voters of Quincy who voted for Grover Cleveland last month who will vote for Henry O. Fairbanks this month. Yes, I know two score Democrats, who will next week vote to retain the services of our Mayor for another year because they fail to find any reason for discharging him.

Regarding the genuineness of my Democracy I can afford to smile at that fling. You might as well question the genuineness of the Republicanism of those Republicans of Quincy who will vote for Edward Baker because they believe him to be a man desired in connection with service in the council. Why discharge a good servant?

Yours,
A DEMOCRAT.

The City Election.

Editors of the Daily Ledger: Our City election next Tuesday is of unusual importance to the people of Quincy, and I trust that no voter will fail to do his duty.

The clean and business like administration of Mayor Fairbanks ought to insure his election by a handsome majority. He has been tried, and has proved an honest and capable official. The best evidence of his honesty and capability is the character of the men he has associated with him in the several departments of the city government. They are all men in whom our citizens, of all parties, have the fullest confidence. A member of a prominent Boston house, in a recent conversation with the writer, made the following significant statement: "I have business relations with a dozen or more City Governments, and I can testify to the honesty and straightforward business methods of the present Quincy officials which is more than I can say of some others."

Mayor Fairbanks has shown himself broad enough to represent the whole city. In the performance of his duties, he has made some enemies, but I believe the intelligence, honest voters of the city thinks better of him for the enemies he has made. Quincy is a no-license city, and the Mayor deserves the confidence and support of every friend of temperance for the manly way he has enforced the no-license law.

Mr. Hodges does not represent the sentiment of Quincy on this question. If the intelligent and Christian women of Quincy could vote next Tuesday, there would not only be an overwhelming majority for no-license, but also for a Mayor who has always redeemed his pledges to sustain and enforce the law.

What the Conductor Said.

Editors of the Quincy Ledger: Said an old and trusted conductor of the Old Colony road to me this morning: "I have read Henry Faxon's article in the Boston Herald and I hope Hodges will not be elected Mayor of Quincy. The conductors on this road have more trouble with drunken men who ride from Boston to Quincy than with all the remainder of our passengers. I remember how Faxon had to fight Hodges in order to keep whiskey out of Quincy. For heaven's sake don't sacrifice Fairbanks for Hodges, for if you get whiskey into Quincy again the Old Colony conductors will have to deal with drunken men riding from Quincy to Boston. It's bad enough to be compelled to tackle them now from Boston to Quincy."

DIED WORTH MILLIONS.

An Interesting Story of the Life of Jay Gould.

SOME OF HIS BUSINESS METHODS

Raised Him from a Penniless Lad to a Dealer in Railroads.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Jay Gould's family have made arrangements for the performance of the last sad rites over the body of the great financier.

The services will be held at the family residence Monday, at 10 o'clock in the morning. Rev. Dr. Paxton, pastor of the Presbyterian church in which Mr. Gould was a worshipper, will conduct the services. He will be assisted by Rev. Chancellor McCracken and Rev. Roderick Terry. The choir from Dr. Paxton's church will take part in the services. The interment will be at Woodlawn.

Mr. Gould Died Painlessly. All of his immediate family was gathered around his bed. He had been unconscious the night before, but he recovered consciousness before morning. From that time on he lay silently looking at his children. As the end approached he smilingly recognized each with a long look. Then he gradually sank again into unconsciousness.

Mr. Gould knew that his lungs were affected several years ago, but it is only a little over two years since he was made aware that he was doomed to a consumptive's death. He told no one, and up to a very few months ago he did not suspect that his end was so near.

The Utmost Secrecy was observed at the health office regarding the certificate of the death of Mr. Gould, which was filed in the bureau of vital statistics yesterday afternoon. An undertaker (and even his name will not be told) called upon Secretary Clark and requested that the representatives of the press should not have access to the certificate. This is all that is known of the certificate—that it was signed by Dr. Munn, and that it gave the cause of Mr. Gould's death as phthisis pulmonaris.

JAY GOULD.

Chauncey Depew, when spoken to in reference to Mr. Gould's death, said: "Mr. Gould has been for some time unwell, and his property on his two sons, Edward and George, who are now identified with most of his property. Mr. Gould's property, I understand, is so concentrated that it will not be affected by his death. The boys will carry out their father's policy, and will not think his death will either affect the market temporarily or in the future."

Mr. Gould's Career. Mr. Gould was born in West Settlement, a backwoods village of Boxbury, Delaware county, N. Y., May 27, 1802. He was the son of John B. Gould, a farmer, who was fairly well to do, and who had been a deputy sheriff in the famous anti-slavery war in the early '30s. Young Gould was also a cousin of Alfred Gould, the inventor of the chain well pump, and was closely connected with the Mores, a prominent Scotch family, and others well known in the country. His mother died when he was an infant. Mr. Gould left home with 29 cents in his pocket, and studied at Hobart academy, in a neighboring town. Here he earned an extra penny by keeping the books of the village blacksmith, eventually enjoying a brief partnership in the business. He was fond of mathematics, and on leaving school took employment in making surveys for a map of Ulster county at a salary of $20 a month. The correctness of the work attracted the attention of John Delafield, who applied to the legislature to authorize a map of the state to be made, in which Mr. Gould would have a prominent part of the work. The work failed, owing to the death of the promoter. Mr. Gould gained $3000 or $4000 through his previous maps and surveys.

In 1836 he published a "History of Delaware County."

Subsequently Mr. Gould and Zadock Pratt together engaged in the Tannery business in Western New York. This interest he sold out just before the panic of 1837. Shortly after the crisis Mr. Gould bought the bonds of the Rutland and Washington railroad for 10 cents on a dollar. For a period he combined in himself the functions of president, treasurer and general superintendent of the company. He brought about a consolidation of the Rensselaer and Saratoga road and soon moved to New York city, where he engaged in the broker business.

Investing heavily in Erie stock, Mr. Gould soon became president of the Erie, holding the office until 1872. His next move was to purchase large blocks of stock in the Union Pacific, Wabash, the Texas Pacific, the St. Louis and Northern, the Missouri Pacific and other western lines. He also invested in the stock of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company, and on its consolidation with the Western Union he organized the American Union, which was merged in the Western Union in 1881.

By the year 1880 Mr. Gould was in control of 10,000 miles of railroad, or about one-ninth the entire mileage of the country. A year later he dipped into the elevated railroad system of New York city. About this time a signal proof of

Mr. Gould's Prosperity was given in response to a report in which his financial standing was impeached. He called several men into his office, and conclusively proved that he owned stock of a face value of $53,000,000 and could produce at least $20,000,000 more. About five years ago he gained a controlling interest in the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad company, which had 900 miles of road. He also became joint owner, with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe company, of the Atlantic and Pacific, and the western portion of the Southern Pacific. These, with the lines projected, placed at least 3000 miles more of road at his command.

Such, in a shadowy outline, is the history of one of the most wonderful financial careers in this country. In a life, not very long, the public has seen Gould begin with nothing, and, rising step by step, laying hand upon first one important interest and then another, until he stood at the very head of the railroad and related interests. No doubt his southwestern enterprises were only stepping stones to still greater ones, looking toward gigantic railway lines stretching toward South America. Widely extended and varied as his schemes have been, Mr. Gould appears to have made surprisingly few mistakes and suffered almost no reverses which might be called serious.

He Planned Boldly, "played his cards" with a far-seeing eye to all the chances of failure as well as success, and achieved results which read more like romance than veritable history. Physically, Mr. Gould was a small man, weighing not more than 120 pounds. His complexion was swarthy, but his distinguishing feature was his eyes, black and penetrating of glance, and once seen, the beholder was not likely soon to forget them. His private life was free from reproach, and a cultured and attractive home was his. In 1862 he married Miss Ellen Miller. Six children were born to them, one or two of whom have made their mark in the business world in connection with their father's enterprises.

Mr. Gould was not only a man of excellent tastes, but he possessed a love for the fine arts, which led him to invest extensively in paintings, and to bestow much care and money upon the embellishment of his house and estates. His death will leave a great void in the bustling business life of the American people, and his career will ever stand out in unobscured prominence, so forceful was his genius and so successful were his gigantic projects.

The history of Jay Gould, from the barefooted boy who wandered over the rough hills of Delaware county, to the railroad king, whose wealth was estimated at over $75,000, is one of the most remarkable among our self-made men. His life for the past two months had been a constant battle against the inevitable, and all means that medical skill and the interest of friends and relatives could suggest, were employed to prolong the financier's life. He was taken about in luxurious private cars to places where milder air and the absence of business excitement might be expected to work a recuperation of his energies. Frequent reports during the past few weeks were received as to his feeble condition, but were denied by those near him.

About George J. Gould. Now that the "Wizard of Wall Street" has passed away, leaving his amassed millions to be a subject of comment and speculation, public interest naturally turns to his eldest son, George J. Gould, whose position at the head of the house of Gould, and without disparagement be said as the husband of the lady who was once known as the charming actress, Elith Kingdon, makes him a noteworthy figure at this time.

GEORGE GOULD.

That George J. Gould has not the lack of individuality or spirit of self-help, and that he is deserving of mention for other reasons than the mere fact of being son of the millionaire, is evidenced by the self-poise and the financial ability which he has manifested.

Young George is short and dark eyed, and his hair and short moustache are jet black. His skin has an olive or bronze tinge. His voice is modulated almost to softness, and in business life he was as quiet as reserved as was his father. He dresses neatly and generally in dark clothes. Like his father, he wears no jewelry except a tiny gold thread for a watch chain. He preferred experience in his father's office to college life. His vacations can be numbered on his fingers since he determined to tread the pathway his father had laid out for him.

His Personal Traits. George Gould has always been fond of the theater. He has cared little for society. His time has been devoted to his father's family circle, to his San Domingo mahogany desk in the Western Union building and to frequent visits to the theaters. He is a fair boxer and fencer, but a few years ago, when he was initiated as a member of the stock exchange and hustled around, he ran the gauntlet with hands down and took his punishment like a brick. He has seldom appeared on the stock exchange recently, but when he did the brokers liked him for his quiet and unostentatious manners. The brokers called him "Kid" Gould. In his leisure moments he became a proficient telegraph operator.

Mrs. Gould. But so pleasantly and almost romantically is the personality of her who was once Miss Edith Kingdon associated with his career that any notice of him would be incomplete without including her also who is known as Mrs. George J. Gould.

Miss Edith Kingdon was born in Boston in 1862. She comes from an old New England family, which traces its descent in unbroken line to the first batch of Pilgrim Fathers that landed on Plymouth rock. Her father, who was a prosperous merchant, died when Miss Kingdon was a mere child, and the widowed mother took her little girl and settled in Brooklyn, in which city her relatives resided.

During her early years Miss Kingdon was educated under her mother's watchful eye, and later she was graduated with the highest honors from the Elmira Female college. On her return to Brooklyn Miss Kingdon joined several of the amateur dramatic societies which flourish in the City of Churches. Soon after this she joined the ranks, and achieved distinction both in this country and in England.

Grand Celebration.

FELLOW CITIZENS:

Celebrations are in order now and YOU are invited to celebrate. The occasion is the completion of a decade of "NO LICENSE" in our city. During this decade we have been appointed by the State to make our own laws touching the sale of intoxicating drink.

Well, we have made these laws and executed them. As a city we are on record in this matter and invite examination of the record. Here it is,—"A decade of No License," "Ten years without a saloon;" and the result,—LESS of poverty, LESS of temptation, LESS of crime, MORE of financial prosperity, BETTER social health, and HIGHER moral order. On every hand are seen the signs of our progress. New streets open almost everywhere. New houses line them. The city wears the new aspect of rapid growth and unusual thrift. There is no slum anywhere BECAUSE no saloon to create it. All honor to this decade of No License. It ought to be the pride and joy and glory of us all, that when temperance legislation has been strengthening through the land, we have carried the banner of this legislation to the front and kept it there.

Now in a few days we are to say whether we will still hold this banner aloft, or FOR A PRICE suffer who will to tear it down. The saloon has been proved beyond question the worst foe of a city's peace and prosperity. It is regarded as the years go by with greater and greater abhorrence. Public opinion save when coined out of money and appetite says "the thing must go." And can a city, yes, CAN A CITY with a decade of no license, with all its blessings registered on its face, vote to give itself back into the power of the saloon?

Fellow citizens, your temperance committee who have appealed to you in a circular like this so many times, can scarce find language in which to tell you a thing so overwhelmingly apparent in itself, as is the result of No License in our city. This result has been not alone prosperity, security, and happiness at home, but also a name carried abroad, told in every city on either slope of our continent. And it is in view of this, which you know as well as we, that we appeal to you voters of Quincy to lift higher yet your already grand majority against the saloon.

A temperance orator waxing warm and impassioned—so a story says—dropped his voice and said: "If all the saloons were at the bottom of the sea, what would happen?" And from some wit came back the quick reply: "Lots of people would get drowned." But with our city the case is quite the reverse of this. With the saloon at the bottom of the sea we are safe. It will only be when it shall come back—if it ever shall—that lots of people will get drowned, drowned in vice and misery. Therefore sink the saloon will you not a little deeper out of sight for '93. This is the grand celebration to which we invite you, and in which we ask you every one to participate. If you have been in years past a silent spectator not voting at all on a question so important, speak now for truth and right. We owe something to the community in which we make our homes, to its local government. We owe something to the reputation our growing city has made. And above all we owe something to that sense of obligation which moves at times in every breast, or to the "ought" implanted there. If you have voted thus far for the sale of intoxicating drinks, have one honest talk with yourself before you vote again. That boy of yours is dearer to you than appetite. He has never seen the saloon as he has walked our streets. Its open door has never invited him to enter the way that leads to life's worst wreck and often to its irretrievable ruin. YOU owe something to that boy, to your neighbor's boy, to yourself, to your home, to your city, to your God; yes, something you HAVE NEVER PAID and NEVER CAN while you vote for the licensing here for the sale of intoxicants. Give us your hand therefore, fellow citizen, and help us celebrate. Be in the triumph, swelling it to yet unprecedented majority, as we vote our city into a second decade without a saloon.

OFFICERS GIVE IT UP.

Will Make No Further Search for Convict Bradley.

PROBABLY FAR AWAY BY THIS TIME.

Is Thought to Have Coolly Walked Out of Prison.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—That Convict James M. Bradley, alias Maitland, walked out of the Charlestown state prison on Thanksgiving day last, right under the eyes of several of the officers of the penal institution, there is no longer a question of doubt. A majority of the officers who have, since the disappearance of the prisoner, entertained the belief that he was hiding somewhere within the prison walls, now admit that he has flown, and not a few have stated that they believe he made his exit through the front entrance, by way of the guard room.

"It would have been an utter impossibility for Bradley," said one of these officials yesterday, "to have got out in any other way. Officer Crane says positively that he saw him sitting in his own section during the exercises in the chapel. No one could be found who saw the prisoner after that time. He must have."

Came Out With the Crowd after the pardons were granted. If he came down with the prisoners through the north wing and into the yard he never could have gone back without being stopped by some one of the officers stationed at the head of every tier of cells whom he would have to pass.

"The story that he went over the walls after the yard exercises is not true, for ever since the hour that the men began their sports on Thanksgiving morning there has been a guard on the wall night and day. We have looked everywhere about the premises for the missing man, have searched high and low among all the work and repair shops; in fact, not a nook or cranny of the whole institution has been left unexplored, and no trace of the fellow has been found. That he is now beyond the reach of prison officials I am sure every man in the institution now believes if they don't all say so."

Yesterday the searching party made another tour of the yard and buildings, as they have every day since the escape. The same results attended their efforts as on previous occasions.

Absolutely No Trace of Bradley was discovered. Hopes have been entertained, and as a matter of fact one of the leading officials has given it out as his opinion that Bradley was underneath the repair shop, out of reach of the searchers, and was supplied with enough provisions to last him for a protracted siege.

Yesterday the flooring of the shop just over the supposed hiding place was ripped up, and an officer, small in stature, went down and made a thorough inspection of the entire locality. Bradley was not there nor anything else that would indicate that he had been there during the past two weeks or more. The searchers returned to the guard room. No more attempts to find the missing man will probably be made at the prison, and the augmented force of officers in the yard and on the walls will be reduced to the regular number.

HENRY TRICKEY DEAD.

He Received Considerable Notoriety in the Borden Case.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—A report was current last night that Henry G. Trickey of the Boston Globe, whose name has been familiar in connection with the Borden case, had been killed near Hamilton, Ont. In this connection The Globe furnishes the following statement:

"Henry G. Trickey is dead. He was killed by accident at Hamilton, Ont., Saturday morning. Mr. Trickey was on a business trip in the interest of The Globe, and attempted to board a western bound train when he stumbled and fell beneath the cars, the wheels of which passed over him, killing him almost instantly. Members of his family were immediately notified, as was a brother-in-law in the west, and all that is mortal of the energetic young man will arrive in Boston Monday. Funeral arrangements will be announced later."

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 5.—Trickey, the Boston Globe reporter, who wrote the sensational story about the Lizzie Borden murder case and was under indictment, met with a tragic death here Saturday. In attempting to catch a moving train at the Grand Trunk station, he slipped and was swung under the cars and his life was crushed out.

At the time it was thought that his name was Henry Melzar. It was not until yesterday that he was identified. Before the grand jury met at Fall River, Trickey went on a visit to his brother-in-law, Eben S. Melzar of Evanston, Ill. He did not feel safe there, being afraid the grand jury would indict him, and on Nov. 26 he came here, registering at the Royal Hotel under the name of Henry Melzar, New York. The body was taken to Boston last evening for burial.

Settled at Last.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 5.—The differences between the local tool sharpeners and the New England granite workers have been satisfactorily adjusted. It is authoritatively stated that the Granite Railway company will consent to any agreement made with the men by the New England granite workers. Many granite cutters have returned here, and it is expected that operations will be resumed Tuesday or Wednesday by the New England granite works and the Granite Railway company.

Swindling Jeweler Arrested.

WESTPORT, Conn., Dec. 5.—Charles S. Perry, who conducted a jewelry store here last summer, and who subsequently disappeared after robbing his customers of several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry, has been arrested. He will probably be proceeded against by scores of his victims. Perry victimized people in nearly every town between New York and Boston.

A full grown man was caught in a rat-trap the other day, in Braintree.

GOULD'S METHODS DENOUNCED.

A Yale Professor Declares That He Robbed Investors and Society.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 5.—Arthur T. Hadley, professor in political economy at Yale, has an extensive knowledge of the science of railroad matters. Last night he addressed the Yale Y. M. C. A. on the subject "Jay Gould." In the course of his remarks he said:

"I do not mean to canonize Vanderbilt, but his services in providing a means of making money and livelihood were directed toward uplifting humanity. But the other type, of which Drexel, Fisk and Gould are chief representatives, accumulated fortunes by mismanagement and false representations."

"Gould was unlike the others in two salient respects. He was as far from the hypocrisy of the others as from the libertinism of the other, and society sanctioned his scheme. Plainly speaking, he used official positions to defraud those who had especially trusted him."

"But that is not all. He robbed not only the investor, but society, which made him the repository of its economic powers. Many a man among you would be glad to go into Wall street and get rich by just such methods as did Gould. His crime did not arise so much from immorality as from a false system of ethics."

"Not a burglar or murderer in the land has it in his power to do the evil that many a financier in good and regular standing has done and does still do. What can you say to the man who fails to regard money as a trust imposed on him? Have you ever bet on an election? Have you ever played poker? Loose ideas of gambling in the smaller points create loose public sentiments in regard to finance in general."

"If you see a man careless in money spending, you may know that he is destined to do his share to become a member of a society which will sanction the misuse of money entrusted to his charge, and play the game of making money as did Gould."

AN UNBALANCED MIND

Thought to Be Responsible for the Disappearance of Rev. S. F. McCleary.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Rev. Samuel F. McCleary, assistant pastor of the First Unitarian church of the Saviour in Brooklyn, and son of ex-City Clerk McCleary of Boston, has been missing since last Thursday and it is feared that he committed suicide by jumping from the deck of one of the sound steamers. Although the police are still searching for him, a letter received by his father in this city and dated from Brooklyn, the day after he left his residence, states that his father told him to lie at the bottom of Long Island Sound. Overwork, causing an unbalanced mind is ascribed by his friends as the cause of the rash deed.

The missing man was one of the best known of the clergymen in the City of Churches, and although only 28 years old, he early developed unusual talent, and association with the celebrated Rev. H. P. Price C. Miller brought him into prominence and made him many friends. He was a graduate of Harvard college in 1888, and only took the degree from the divinity school last May.

A SKELETON UNEARTHED.

It Gives Rise to Considerable Conjecture in Kingston, Mass.

KINGSTON, Mass., Dec. 5.—William Maguire, employed in excavating graves in a gravel pit near the rear entrance of Evergreen cemetery, unearthed the skeleton of a man which was buried about four feet beneath the surface. Mr. Maguire notified Walter H. Faunce, chairman of the board of selectmen, who, with Dr. Wendell H. Adams, went to the spot, uncovered the bones, and made a careful examination. The bones were those of a person about 6 ft. tall apparently under 50 years of age. In one side of the skull was a hole, possibly from a bullet, and a sharp impression. Nothing was found that would assist the identification of the remains.

This find brings to mind the mysterious disappearance from this town, more than half a century ago, of a man named Jones. Rumor says that Jones was engaged in a battle with a man in this town, but his disappearance has never been satisfactorily explained. Some think the bones are those of a woman. Further investigation will be made by the town authorities.

OBSTACLES REMOVED.

New York and New England Road Will Allow Bonds to Be Examined.

HARTFORD, Dec. 5.—The officers of the New York and New England company at Boston have consented to allow counsel for Nathan F. Goldsmith et al. to examine the books for the purpose of obtaining evidence in the suit brought by Mr. Goldsmith and others to restrain the company from registering $2,000,000 of new bonds with the state comptroller.

When an attempt was made several weeks ago to examine the books, the officers of the company, by the way of Mr. Goldsmith's attorneys, and suit was brought in this city for a mandamus to produce the books. The company has finally consented, without action on the part of the court. The documents are now being examined by the plaintiff's counsel, Ailing & Webb of New Haven. Judge Prentice will make assignment for the trial on Dec. 13.

SIGNS OF GOOD TIMES.

Rhode Island Manufacturers Increase the Wages of Operatives.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5.—The Warren Manufacturing company, owners of an extensive plant in Bristol county, have posted notices of a 7 per cent. increase of wages, to take effect today. The wages of all the operatives in the employ of the Goddards and the Knights in both the Blackstone Valley and along the Pawtuxet were increased 7 per cent.

A good many of the smaller cotton manufacturing corporations have also made an increase, to take effect today. Charles Fletcher, one of the wealthiest manufacturers of the state, is to build a new manufacturing establishment near Oneville. The factory will employ several hundred hands.

McHenry's Fish Knobs.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5.—The McHenry detective agency is closed. The last load of furniture was removed Saturday afternoon. There was in McHenry's office an electric board on which were eight push knobs labelled "chief deputy," "first assistant," "manager," etc. The board, when disconnected, proved to be a dummy.

PINKERTON'S FORCES

Defended from the Attacks Upon Them by Powderly.

BAD CHARACTERS ARE NOT EMPLOYED.

Grand Master Workman is Charged with Deliberate Falsehood.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—When Robert A. Pinkerton was a witness before the United States senate committee that was investigating the labor troubles of last summer at Homestead, he said he would prefer, instead of an open statement, to submit to them a written statement, to submit to them a written statement of the relationship of the Pinkertons to that affair. That statement has just been submitted. It begins with a review of the history of the trouble. Among other things it says: "Mr. Powderly, who is at the head of the Knights of Labor, charged that we employ men of bad character, although he admitted that none of our men has ever been convicted of crime. His testimony before the judiciary committee of the house of representatives would have resulted in"

His Conviction of Perjury if given in a court of justice, and its falsity would have been easily shown had he been cross-examined by any one familiar with the facts."

"It cannot be reasonably doubted that, if labor organizations or their leaders honestly condemned outrages and force, they could readily discipline and control their own members, and we should no longer witness the scenes that usually attend nearly all strikes, and that are such a disgrace to labor in this country."

"It is pretended," says Mr. Pinkerton, "that there would be no acts of violence during these strikes if they were not caused by the Pinkerton men or the Exasperation of the Strikers at their presence. This was solemnly urged before the house committee."

"Yet, shortly after the occurrences at Homestead, and while the labor leaders were professing that the who trouble resulted from the employment of Pinkerton watchmen, the community was shocked by the outrages and the destruction of property at Cour d'Alene and Buffalo. No Pinkerton watchmen were employed or were present at either of these strikes."

PROFESSOR SMITH'S TRIAL

Causes Trouble in All of Cincinnati's Presbyterian Churches.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5.—The trial of Professor Smith has resulted in an effort to depose Rev. Thomas O. Lowe, pastor of the Avondale Presbyterian church, because he is acting as prosecutor of Professor Smith. The supporters of Smith's ideas are in the ascendancy, and the congregation very split. In almost every local Presbyterian church there are two factions on account of the trial, and the liberal element is becoming very aggressive.

Dr. Curtis of Mt. Auburn, who champions Smith, is backed by his entire congregation, one of the largest in the city. The same sentiment is strong in the Second Presbyterian, the richest in the city. The pastors of the Glendale, Wyoming, College Hill and Bond Hill are warmly supported by their flocks in championing Smith.

Prominent Presbyterians regard the situation as very grave, and say that if Smith is convicted there will be a split in nearly every congregation.

A NEW YORK TRAGEDY.

Alleged Insult by an Organ Grinder Leads to His Being Shot and Killed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Francesco Mele, a one-armed Italian organ grinder, was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon in Mulberry street, in this city, by Antoine Morello, a saloon keeper. Carmine Bianchi, who was talking with Mele when he was attacked by Morello, received a bullet in the left side, fired by Morello, and intended for the murdered man. The wound, however, is not serious. Morello claims that his wife was grossly insulted by Mele. She told her husband on reaching home and both started in search of Mele. When they came across him, the woman pointed to him, saying: "That's the man," and Morello drew his revolver and fired two shots with the above result. He was arrested.

A Remarkably Long-Lived Family.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 5.—Bridget McNamara, one of the oldest residents of this city, died yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. James O'Neill, at the advanced age of 102 years. Mrs. McNamara was born in county Clare, Ireland, and the last fifty years of her life had been spent in this country. For a number of years past she enjoyed the best of health, and has had the use of all her faculties, not even having need of glasses. The deceased came of a remarkably long-lived family, three sisters having died, one at the age of 104, one at 98 and another at 108 years.

They Want Free Trade.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The trade and labor assembly adopted resolutions in the form of a communication to President-elect Cleveland urging him to call an extra session of congress for the repeal of the McKinley law. The resolutions declare the assembly to be in favor of free trade, and ask Mr. Cleveland to aid in hastening the time when custom houses will be known only in history.

A Mine Worth $2,000,000.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 5.—The Schlesinger syndicate is said to have purchased the famous Aragon iron mine near Norway, Mich. The consideration is reported to be $2,000,000. The Aragon is one of the richest mines in the upper peninsula, and is in the vicinity of a group of mines controlled by the Schlesinger syndicate.

Attempt on Hippolyte's Life.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A dispatch from Kingston, Jam., says that on Friday three men attempted to assassinate President Hippolyte of Hayti, while he was taking a walk in the palace grounds. The men were arrested before they could do any harm, and soon afterward they were shot.

The polls tomorrow will be open at 6 A. M. and close at 4 P. M. Voters will aid the political candidates by voting in the morning.

Mr. George L. Baker, an old and respected resident of Wollaston, died at his home on Safford street, Saturday afternoon, after a lingering sickness of years duration.

Marshall P. Nye has been on the sick list since last Monday. Not able to get up part of the time. But yesterday he was considerably better.

The burning out of one of the dynamos at the electric light works on Saturday evening, caused great inconvenience to the users of incandescent lights.

The service at the Young Men's Christian Association Rooms yesterday was of more than usual interest. The subject announced for discussion was "What we owe, as Christian young men, to our Country." The speakers were Mr. Simeon Scammell, Mr. B. F. Thomas, Mr. E. W. Branch, Mr. Fred. E. Litchfield, President Wason and Secretary Colton.

The Unitarian church, Wollaston, was crowded to the doors at Sunday's vesper service. The Rev. Hilary Bygrave of Belmont, delivered a powerful sermon on the "Survival of the Fittest." The vocal selections were rendered by a quartette consisting of Mrs. Jennette Noyes Rice, contralto; Mrs. Alice Bates Rice, soprano; Dr. George B. Rice, bass; and Mr. Cornelius Cheney, tenor.

The Number of Cosses.

In the election tomorrow voters in Wards One, Four, Five and Six are instructed by the ballot to vote for eleven, as follows:

For Mayor,—vote for ONE.

For Councilmen at large,—vote for FIVE.

For School Committee at large,—vote ONE.

For Councilman from ward,—vote for THREE.

And Yes or No on the license question.

Wards two and three in addition to the above will also vote for ONE member of the School Committee.

Last year there were 37 blank and defective ballots for Mayor, and 1201 for Councilmen at large.

MAYOR AMONG THE SPEAKERS.

The Usual Majority Against License Predicted—The Larger the Better.

Reports from the no-license meetings held Saturday and Sunday evenings throughout the city, showed increased enthusiasm all along the line and if the full vote comes out on increased majority against license is insured.

In the Centre.

One of the largest audiences ever seen at the Congregational church gathered there Sunday evening at the No-license meeting under the auspices of the Citizens' Temperance Committee. The meeting opened by a service of song which was followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Fritch of Wollaston.

Mr. John O. Hall, the presiding officer, in opening said, "The time is around again when we must make our decision of what it shall be next year, license or no license. It hardly seems necessary when we considered what it means. The liquor traffic is an evil which has no defence; those who are in favor of license will tell you it is a ruin and a curse. It is an element of iniquity which we must stand up against, one that would corrupt our city if we removed the barrier. There have been changes within a few days of settling up a man of straw." It is not a man of straw we are fighting against it is a living and powerful thing. Remove the barrier ever so little and there will sweep over the city a tide of woe. He trusted that the citizen would rally with renewed force Tuesday.

Mr. Hall then introduced Mr. Edward Southworth who spoke of the different branches of legislature. We have a right to legislate whether a license shall be granted in Quincy or not. The important question is how can I best vote for the interest of the city? To his mind there was no question. In closing Mr. Southworth said he had rather a son of his would live where there was no license, when he came to make up his mind to go out of town.

Rev. Mr. Fritch was the next speaker. He said he came from a city where there had been a license to a city where there was none. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. It is ours to make such a stand that its power shall be felt throughout the country. If we license the liquor traffic we give it the prestige of the law. It is a grant of authority to do certain acts and pledges itself to protect the man. No one thinks a grocery store should be licensed, but a saloon is such a hideous thing we have to license it and if you vote to license next Tuesday you must recognize it as a legitimate business made so by special enactments of law. The whole thing of license is an attempt to teach that vice is respectable, Hell is right and Heaven is wrong.

Mayor Fairbanks was the last speaker. He said these meetings show the citizens take a deep interest in the question, shall liquor be sold in Quincy. It is the duty of every law abiding citizen to vote NO next Tuesday. The greatest reform that ever came to us was in 1852 when Quincy declared that liquor should not be sold in Quincy, and much of our prosperity can be traced to that day. It has encouraged the erection of many new houses in our city. It is not so easy to go to Boston as it would be to have on every corner of our streets a saloon. You do not know the struggle that many men have to be upright. If you can keep them in Quincy you can make them true and upright men. It is the duty of our citizens to keep our city to the front. You must increase your majority and forever bury the minority. Quincy had better have a high tax rate than to know that she is having money that was obtained from licenses. In closing Mayor Fairbanks hoped every man would make his voice heard at Tuesday's election. He also hoped to live to see the day that women could vote on this question.

At Quincy Point.

Sunday was "Temperance Day" at the Washington street Congregational church. In the morning Rev. W. Sherman Thompson pastor though scarcely able to fill the pulpit, on account of his illness last week, gave a stirring temperance discourse.

A large congregation was in attendance which gave warm attention to the addresses throughout. Despite the fact that it is almost impossible to say anything new upon the subject, still Mr. Thompson emphasized the danger of "our boys" in such a manner as to bring the subject down with renewed force.

If there was an apathetic parent among those in attendance it seems as if such a one must have been convinced of his duty to throw a "no-license" vote on Tuesday next.

At the evening service Councilman T. H. Newcomb presided in a pleasing manner and introduced Rev. J. H. Humphrey, Rev. Edward Norton and Rev. W. S. Thompson. All the speakers proved interesting. The voters were urged not only to do all in their power to poll an unprecedented "no-license" vote but also to place men in office that would be in sympathy with the measure.

The music by the choir under the direction of Mr. E. Wight at both morning and evening services was exceedingly good and added much to the services.

At South Quincy.

The Presbyterian church was well filled Sunday evening at the no-license meeting under the auspices of the Citizens' Temperance Committee. Mr. George H. Watts presided and brief addresses were made by Rev. Edward Robinson, Rev. Nathan Hunt and Mr. T. Henry Wason. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and much interest was manifested by the audience.

At West Quincy.

An enthusiastic No-license meeting was held in St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Citizens' Temperance Committee. Mr. Jonas Shackley presided and stirring remarks were made by the presiding officer. Rev. H. A. Philbrook, Mr. C. W. Guy and Mr. Theophilus King. The meeting was largely attended and an increased No vote is expected Tuesday.

At Wollaston.

Nearly four hundred people crowded into the Wollaston Baptist church, Sunday evening, to hear the addresses delivered by Rev. J. H. Yeoman, Charles A. Foster and James Donovan on the license question. Mr. George F. Pinkham presided. There was singing by a large choir with Mrs. F. B. Pendleton and Mr. Samuel M. King for soloists.

At Atlantic.

Ward six turned out in good numbers at the No-license rally in Music hall last evening. Mr. W. F. Cummings presided. The speakers delivered by the committee of fifty, were the Rev. W. S. Key and Mr. T. H. Emery of Wollaston and Messrs. C. H. Johnson and W. H. Fay of Quincy. The music was furnished by the Memorial church choir. The speakers were very roundly applauded and by their enthusiasm undoubtedly aroused the audience to the necessity of getting out every No-license voter.

The Atlantic Social club deserve the thanks of people for so kindly furnishing their hall for the occasion free of charge.

VOTERS, ATTENTION!

Shall there be a Halt in Necessary Improvements?—Fair Play Demanded.

It is reported on unquestionable authority that Candidate Hodges has approached several large taxpayers of the city with the promise that if elected he will make the tax rate lower.

I would like to ask any fair minded citizen how he proposes to do it? or how he thinks that he can do it better than Mayor Fairbanks? If he votes all appropriate taxes made by the Council, except those required by law, it will, of course, reduce the rate; but are citizens prepared to go back to the ancient custom of poorly lighted streets, few hydrants, antiquated schools, mud sidewalks and old-time highways? For it is improvements in this direction, together with increase in State and county taxes, what have raised our taxes? Is a step backward calculated to make our city attractive to new-comers? If citizens choose this return to old days, then let them make known their wishes by a change in the Council. It is unfair to assume that it is within the power of the Mayor alone to do all these things. He can only execute the work provided for by the Council.

One more thing—it has come to my knowledge that certain individuals, circulating papers endorsing Mr. Hodges, have attempted to deceive reputable citizens whose signatures were sought, by stating that certain other prominent taxpayers had signed, when such was not the case, in favor of Mr. Hodges.

I am a believer in fair play in politics, as well as in other matters, and I do not believe that any honorable citizen countenances a resort to such deceit. If not, rebuke such methods by voting for Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks for Mayor on Tuesday.

FAIR PLAY.

Opposed to Progress.

Editors of the Daily Ledger. I see by the Advertiser that the friends of Mr. Hodges, claim as one reason why he should be elected is because Mayor Fairbanks has not used the veto power more freely. The idea intended to be conveyed is presumably that Mayor Hodges would have vetoed the various important improvement measures that have come before Mayor Fairbanks, or that in the event of his election Mr. Hodges would veto such measures. As this statement has not been refuted by Mr. Hodges, it no doubt had his sanction. We are astonished that a man of Mr. Hodges intelligence should place himself before the voters as opposed to progressive legislation, and I hardly think that it will help his candidacy in the present contest.

FAIRFAX.

What Does This Mean?

MR. EDITOR: I see that one of Mayor Fairbanks advocates claims that if he is not re-elected the information he has acquired in relation to the water plant will be lost to the city. That is an astonishing statement. It looks like a threat that in case Mr. Hodges is elected, Mr. Fairbanks will sue and refuse to testify. It admits of no other interpretation.

If any are to be frightened into voting for Mr. Fairbanks on this account they should be reminded that some years ago, in a case of the Town against a former official, the Supreme Court decided that all memoranda, books, etc., made in the discharge of official duty, was the property of the town.

WERE CLOSE TO DEATH.

Passengers on the Disabled Spree Sailed Landed at Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 5.—The disabled steamer Spree, about which much anxiety has been felt, was towed here by the British steamer Lake Huron, Captain Carey, from Montreal for Liverpool.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—No great ship's company every escaped so free from seven hundred perils than those which threatened the souls on the steamship Spree during the first forty-eight hours after the disaster to her machinery.

The extent and nature of the danger was not made known to the passengers till yesterday. They knew they escaped death, but they did not know that the escape was miraculous. They did not know that for hours the ship's officers expected her to sink with but little warning. They did not know that the lifeboats and rafts were provisioned and made ready for sudden launching, and that the officers were armed in preparation for the desperate rush that might come in such an extremity. They did not know that resort to the boats in such a sea meant death to most, if not to all.

The danger is over now, but the memory of the last hours of a week ago is so appalling that stout-hearted Moody, the evangelist, could not speak of the trying time without emotion. Most of the passengers are loth to talk of the frightful strain which drove five to madness and one to suicide.

Mr. Moody earnestly affirms that nothing short of the direct interposition of providence in answer to prayers saved the lives of the whole ship's company.

Divers have tried to ascertain the extent of damage without success. It was found that the propeller was still in place, which indicates that the hull itself was probably torn open by the broken shaft, as the men cannot otherwise account for the sudden flooding of the two compartments.

KENTUCKY'S GREYNA GREEN.

A Law Case Which May Inconvenience Thousands of Couples.

COVINGTON, Ky., Dec. 5.—Within a few days a suit will be filed here, the outcome of which will be of vital interest to many hundreds. It has been the custom in this city for many years to marry runaway couples from other states without question, after the probate judge has appointed a guardian for the minor in the couple, or for both, if both are under age. Guardians are appointed on the simple request of the minor, even girls young as 14 being allowed to choose guardians. This process is never followed in the case of Kentucky couples.

Ten days ago T. A. Sawyer, aged 17, and Jessie Raymond, aged 16, children of the two leading families of Gallatin, O., came here and were married under the ordinary process. The young people returned to their homes. The girl's parents took her away, secured her signature to a petition for divorce, and placed her in a convent. The young husband procured counsel and will fight to recover his wife. Out of the trouble has come the breaking up of one of the leading churches of the city.

Mr. Raymond is in this city and is determined to test the legality of these weddings. He claims that as Kentucky couples are not married as guardians are appointed without the knowledge or consent of the parents, they are illegal acts. If Raymond wins thousands of couples will find it desirable to marry.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

Daughter of a New York Banker Dies from a Peculiar Accident.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Miss Mary E. Newcombe, daughter of Isaac B. Newcombe, a banker, was found unconscious in a storeroom of her father's house, and died without regaining consciousness. She had gone to the basement some time after midnight to procure some water. In the darkness she unlocked the door of the storeroom for the old landing up stairs, and went into that room. The door closed with a spring lock, which could only be opened from the outside.

There is a patent gas burner in this room—one of that kind with which the flame is turned up or down by means of a lever worked by two cords. How she extinguished the small flame that usually burns in that kind of burner and turned on the gas can only be guessed at, but once done there was no means of relighting the gas, and it could not have been turned off without some knowledge of the mechanism. It may be that she fainted with fright at finding herself locked in the dark room.

Sunday Auction Sale Broken Up.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 5.—William H. Moffet, a New York land speculator, was arrested here yesterday afternoon, while conducting an auction sale of building lots, in connection with a free barbecue and a sacred concert. Mayor Rankin ordered the police to raid the crowd. Moffet, his clerk, and fifteen musicians were arrested and fined. The appearance of the crowd caused a stampede among the 500 people present. The collection was upset and a general excitement ensued.

De Boucherville Resigns.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—Premier De Boucherville, head of the Quebec government, has tendered his resignation to the lieutenant governor. Mr. Taillon, the leader of the Conservative party, has been summoned to Montreal and asked to form a ministry. The cause of De Boucherville's sudden action is the appointment of Mr. Chapleau to the lieutenant governorship of the province.

Victim of an Inhuman Villain.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Dec. 5.—Susie Allen, 6 years old, who was assaulted three weeks ago by Wallace Emsley, died yesterday. One evening, during the absence of Mrs. Allen, Emsley entered the house and committed the assault in the presence of the little girl's young sister and brother. His victim identified him before she died.

To Live at Lakewood.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 5.—President-elect Cleveland has again rented the Lakewood Hotel, the cottage he occupied last winter. Mrs. Cleveland does not know just when she will take possession. They will occupy the cottage until a short time previous to Mr. Cleveland's entering the White House.

The French Middle.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The situation remains practically unchanged, and the crisis is still unsolved. M. Adolphe Carnot writes to The Cocarde vehemently protesting against the rumor that he had received a bribe of 200,000 francs from the Panama Canal company.

Outstripped Three Trotters.

SAVANNAH, Dec. 5.—Jack Prince, the world's champion bicycle rider, beat three local trotting horses here yesterday. The race was nine miles, each horse trotting three miles. Prince rode nine miles without a stop.

For the Daily Ledger. THE COMING ELECTION.

Hodges vs. Fairbanks.

The numerous articles which have appeared in the Quincy LEDGER of late with reference to Mayor Fairbanks, reached such proportions on Friday that they deserve a reply in order that the public may no longer be deceived or misled.

There is no comparison between the business abilities of a man like Mr. Hodges, who has always managed large financial transactions, and those of Mayor Fairbanks.

In relation to the water question, whatever knowledge on that subject is possessed by the present Mayor, will be at the disposal of the city if he is not Mayor in 1893, if he has any patriotism as a citizen.

When the city petitioned the Legislature two years ago for the right to put in its own water supply, the assistance rendered by the present Mayor to the City Solicitor was very insignificant; as a matter of fact, Mayor Fairbanks personally notified Engineer Blake, who was the principal witness for the city, not to be present on the very day when his services were most needed in cross-examining the experts employed by the water company.

When the Quincy Water Co. petitioned the Legislature for the right to issue $250,000 worth of bonds to extend its mains and purify its supply, Mayor Fairbanks entirely neglected the interests of the city, and it was only after an order (introduced by a councilman from Ward 2) was passed by the council, requesting him to appear before the legislative committee and protect the city's interests, that he appreciated the situation at all, and he then did his utmost to prevent the city's going to the Legislature and getting the right to put in its own supply independent of the Quincy Water Co., and succeeded.

The date in the Order appropriating $25,000 for extending mains, was fixed by the Mayor's near friends at December 1st, and signed by him, notwithstanding he was informed by members of the City Council, that he could not sell the bonds before December 1st, so that instead of the Mayor notifying the Council of that fact, the members of the Council notified the Mayor.

It was simply politics that caused the introduction of the Order, and when it was shown that the Mayor knew none of the money could be used before December 1st, then to try and pull out of the situation an attempt was made to change the date of the Order.

The City Council had no official knowledge that the Mayor had either taken possession of the water works, appointed water commissioners, or needed money to run the water department until three months and nineteen days after he took possession of the works, he having neglected to inform the City Council of the fact until September 19th, although he took possession June 1st, so that the attempt to shift the blame from the Mayor (where it belongs) to the City Council (where it does not belong), is an outrage and an injustice.

The Mayor had no more to do with the erection of the Lincoln schoolhouse at a low price than any child within its walls. A committee of the City Council prepared the plans, the School Committee approved them, the City Council appropriated the money, and a contract with a responsible bidder, after publicly advertising for proposals, was the only possible outcome, and all that the Mayor had to do with it, was to sign the appropriation order.

The defeat of the ordinance relating to the political action of city officers and employees was accomplished by those members of the City Council who are the Mayor's closest personal friends, and who are in daily and nightly consultation with him on all matters that come before the City Council, and the very lame attempt of the Mayor to keep the heads of departments from acting as delegates to conventions was too extremely shallow to deceive any one. Did any citizen ever hear any expression on that line from the present Mayor previous to the adoption of the order by the Council to improve the civil service, which order was reported upon favorably by the committee, and killed by the Mayor's friends when the report of the committee came before the Council?

The present Mayor has been living too long on reflected and manufactured glory, and the citizens now desire something more solid and substantial. The attempt to belittle a man of Mr. Hodges' well known business abilities by attaching borrowed ones of a high quality to the present Mayor will fail of its purpose. The citizens of Quincy are not fools; they are capable of judging fairly if they reach the true facts, and the systematic attempts now being made to run down Mr. Hodges and unduly extol Mayor Fairbanks will, on Tuesday next, meet with the fate they deserve.

Mr. Blank—"My dear, I didn't suppose there was any good taste here to offend."

Mrs. B.—You forget that I have changed considerably since I first became acquainted with you, my love."

APPEAL TO VOTERS.

We, the undersigned, citizens and taxpayers of Quincy, hereby heartily endorse the nomination of the Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks for Mayor, believing that his administration has been just and creditable as well as in the interest of all the citizens irrespective of party, and we earnestly recommend his endorsement at the polls on Tuesday by the voters of this city.

Many Tax-Payers Favor Mr. Hodges.

A personal interview with some of the prominent citizens and heavy tax-payers of this city shows the interesting fact that thirty-six men, representing property assessed for over $1,500,000, or one tenth of the total valuation of this city, stated here that they endorse the nomination of Mr. William A. Hodges for Mayor and intend to vote for him tomorrow.

The following paper was also presented to a limited number of persons, and we append the names of the signers.

The undersigned citizens of Quincy endorse the nomination of William A. Hodges, as Mayor of the city of Quincy, knowing him to be a successful business man, familiar with the proper methods of conducting the city's business and of unquestioned integrity and ability and believe that his election is for the best interests of this city.

A SOLDIER'S SUFFERING.
A Thrilling Story of the War, from the Pen of a Veteran.

I was in the disastrous skirmish known as the Town Creek expedition, under General G. M. Dodge. My company and Co. F of our regiment were ordered to support two pieces of flying artillery in advance of the main column. Only fifteen of our command reached the points designated; and in our retreat to the main army were rendered unfit for duty, and sent to the hospital. After three months, I returned to duty, and remained with my regiment until May 7, 1864, and on that day, at the battle of Bald Bridge, I with thirty-three others of our regiment were taken prisoners of war. We were sent to Andersonville on or about the fifth day of June, where I remained until the last of December, during which time I contracted the scurvy to such an extent that my left leg was contracted to its uttermost being black from the foot to about half-way between the knee and hip; and in this horrible condition I left Andersonville for Florence, South Carolina, where I remained a prisoner until February 26. Our exchange papers were signed at East Ferry, making me a prisoner of war nine months and twenty days. From that day to this I have suffered from scurvy, causing indigestion and constipation to such an extent that from December 26 to March 19 I had only eight operations of the bowels that day, and after the third day I had an operation of the bowels every day. I now have no pains. My appetite is restored. I am gaining in strength every day, and I thank God they came here with their remedies. I am totally blind, and have been for five years, for which the government gives me a pension of seventy-two dollars per month, but I am happy and contented, thanks to Sagwa. In conclusion, dear comrades, I will say I want you who are suffering as I did so long with scurvy and the ill that follow it, to write to me, and I will cheerfully answer your letters for the love I bear you and suffering humanity. I am a member of Casey Post No. 5, G. A. R., Wayne County, Nebraska. For my honesty and sincerity I respectfully refer you to any merchant or banker of Wayne County, Nebraska. JESSE HAMILTON.

THE CITY FINANCES.

By some, whose memory does not go back to the days of the town government, it is thought that our tax rate is higher under a city government, but is it a fact? These figures do not prove it, but show that the city rates have averaged lower. The last four years of the town are compared with the past four of the city government.

Town Rates.	City Rates.
In 1885, $13.60	In 1889, $10.80
" 1886, 15.40	" 1890, 13.60
" 1887, 15.80	" 1891, 13.60
" 1888, 16.70	" 1892, 16.00
Average, $15.37	Average, $13.50

Had not Quincy become a city it is very probable that the rate would have been $17 or $18, if not more, in 1889. People familiar with town affairs in 1888 need no arguments to convince them of that. We became a city in reality Jan. 1, 1889, and the tax rate was but $10.80. This was not because a city government could be administered cheaper, but because we came under a new law which limited the amount that could be assessed and also the tax rate. Naturally, like moving into a new house, the change would for a few years cause extra expense. The city could raise but $10.80 on a $1,000, therefore it practically had to go into debt for the balance between $10.80 and $16.70 per $1,000. In 1890 and 1891 but $13.60 could be raised on a $1,000 and again it was necessary to go into debt each of these years about $3 on a $1,000. This year the maximum rate has nearly been reached and the present appropriations, outside of the water department, will increase the debt less than $20,000 this year.

Allowing that the tax rate would not have increased, had Quincy remained a town, the taxpayers can see that they saved $5.90 per $1,000 in 1889 (the difference between $16.70 and $10.80), $3.10 per $1,000 in 1890, $3.10 per $1,000 in 1891, and 70 cents per $1,000 this year. The total for these four years $12.80, per $1,000, could it have been assessed, would nearly have paid the accumulated debt.

But Quincy as a town could not have remained out of debt. The burning of the Willard schoolhouse would certainly have caused a debt, and there was pressing need for the new Lincoln school, the enlargement of the Wollaston school, the rebuilding of Neponset bridge, and also the rebuilding of Hancock, Washington, Common, Water and other streets.

The increase in valuation has not been made on the property of 1888, but largely upon new houses and buildings and newly developed property. The owner of a small estate finds his tax bill this year to be about the same as it was on the same property in 1888. In most cases where the valuation has been increased it was warranted. When we see the Robertson House sold for 25 per cent. more than it was assessed; the Fellows property much the same, and many more estates taxed much less than their market value, we are convinced that justice to the owners of small estate demands a still further increase.

Who says to each woman: "Look here!"

With my consent you shall never vote.

For you haven't the brains, my dear!

No, you haven't the brains, my dear!

No, you can't have the brains, that's clear;

To drop a vote in a ballot box

You don't have the brains, my dear.

"That's to say, most of you haven't," says

Dibbs,

"Though rumors are heard now and then

Of female monstrosities here and there.

Who knows quite as much as some men.

But their number is small, my dear;

We rarely see one of them here;

So I boldly say you can never vote.

For you haven't the brains, my dear.

"Why, what if two men were up for a place,

Tom Jones and myself, it may be?

Your votes being weak might cause you to err,

And vote for Tom Jones, not for me.

No, you make some mistakes, I fear.

To see how much wiser I am than Jones

Requires some brains, my dear."

A Dibbs you will find wherever you go,

Who will say to each woman. "Look here,

How can you expect I will let you vote,

When you haven't the brains, my dear.

And you haven't the brains, my dear.

That you think you have is so queer,

When Dibbs of South Wales and I have both said,

"You haven't the brains, my dear!"

How could women exist without Dibbs,

To tell us to do thus and so?

And then, if we wish to think for ourselves,

To say: "But you can't, don't you know?"

Who could think without brains my peer.

Look pretty, be good, but don't ask to vote,

For you haven't our brains, my dear!"

THE WATER WORKS.

The Special Commissioners Accompanied by Interested Parties Make a Tour.

The three commissioners recently appointed by the Supreme Court to determine the value of the works of the Quincy Water Company, took their first view of the plant Saturday. The party arrived shortly after 10 o'clock and were escorted to City Hall where introductions to counsel and officials of the City and Water Company were in order. The route decided, the party were seated in four of John Hall's best backs and the trip commenced.

The party were made up as follows: the three commissioners Judge Lowell, Judge Bennett and Mr. Clifford; Mayor Fairbanks, President Thompson of the City Council, City Solicitor J. W. McAnarney, R. M. Morse Esq., J. E. Cotter Esq., and Engineer Howard representing the City; President J. A. Gordon, Treasurer W. L. Faxon, Superintendent F. E. Hall, Judge Flint, Ex-Governor Robinson and F. P. Goulding Esq., representing the Water Company and a representative of the DAILY LEDGER.

The first stopping place was at the reservoir. The party alighted and inspected the gate house and gates, the dam and surrounding. Mr. Faxon stated that at high water the area of the reservoir was 47 1-2 acres, but considerable less now as the water was about 4 1-2 feet below the high water mark. There are two gates in the gate house, both connecting with 20-inch pipes which run through the dam into a 12-inch pipe, which conveys the water to the pumping station. One of these 20-inch pipes draws the water from the top of the reservoir and the other from the bottom. There is also a pipe through the dam to draw off all the water if necessary. At the further end of the dam in an overflow to carry off the water when it becomes too high. The party took a thorough inspection of the reservoir and just before leaving Mr. Morse called the attention of the commissioners to the color of the water in the reservoir, and also to the water which came from the pipe used to draw off the water.

The head of the reservoir, where Town brook empties into it, was then visited, when Mr. Morse called attention to the difference in the color of the water in the two places, and to the row of pig pens which are situated near by.

The party next followed the course of supply up through what is known as Purgatory to the head of Town brook. Frequent stops were made before that point was reached to look at the water shed. The trip was then continued through the woods and through Braintree's new cemetery; thence to the stand pipe of the company which was also inspected.

By this time the party were thoroughly chilled and a drive by the shortest route was taken to the pumping station where the machinery at work was inspected.

Dr. Faxon invited the party to partake of an appetizing lunch to which ample justice was done. The party was loth to leave so pleasant a place and an hour or more was spent in social conversation.

The hour was now so late it was decided not to take any more views and the party was driven to the depot and the first trip was completed.

In this the Water Company took the initiative.

MAGAZINE NIGHT.

Two Papers Read and Discussed by the Literary and Debating Society.

The usual meeting of the Quincy Literary and Debating Society was held in Double's hall on Saturday evening, Mr. A. M. Craig, president, in the chair. The business for the evening was the magazine, and the Editor being called upon, proceeded to read the first paper which was entitled, "The giddy round of fortune's wheel."

The writer who is evidently a believer in the theory of evolution, spoke of the extraordinary changes which have taken place in animated nature since the earliest times of which we have anything like authentic records. There has been one sub-species superseded by a higher sub-species; a lower form of animal life succeeded by a higher. The savage races have been, and are in the course of being supplanted by the more intellectual and civilized races. So the transformation goes on, and one is led to ask the question: "What in the distant centuries, will the position of man in the universe be?"

This paper had the effect of bringing out a discussion on the merits and demerits of the doctrine of evolution and was carried on with vigor by both its champions and opponents.

The next paper read was the captivating title of "True Manhood." In the course of his paper the writer said: "The brightest names in history are those pioneers of knowledge, who in spite of contemporary prejudice and opposition have persisted in investigating their natural surroundings, without reference to previously accepted maxims. With the fear in view, that one is not on the side of the majority, it is deemed more creditable to submit personal opinion to the verdict of members, rather than be isolated through adherence to real convictions."

The writer then proceeded to discuss the relative merits of individual and collective action, and argued that society has no more right to dictate what the individual shall eat, or especially what he shall drink, or refrain from drinking, than one has to intermeddle in another man's private affairs unasked or unbidden."

This writer's views did not meet with the entire approval of the members some thought that if a man by indulging in certain habits, made himself obnoxious to society, society had a perfect right to set its seal of disapproval upon that man's conduct. However, others argued that very often the laws of society infringed upon the liberty of the individual, and this should not be tolerated in a country even nominally said to be free. Upon the whole the two papers gave excellent scope for discussion, and only the late hour, and the extinguishment of the lights, could put a period to the eloquence of the loquacious disputants.

The Water Question.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Your correspondent, Tax-payer, claims that Mayor Fairbanks ought to be re-elected because his services will be invaluable in the trial of the city for taking the property of the Water Company. This is not so. The work to be done before the commission depends entirely upon the counsel, engineers and other experts. Mr. Fairbanks cannot certainly claim to be either. If he chooses he may attend the hearing, but he has no voice there, and the question is of such a practical character that a man like Mr. Faxon, who is better acquainted with the plant and the real estate connected therewith, can make better suggestions. But there are two questions your correspondent does not touch upon which stamp, as it seems to me, the inability of Mr. Fairbanks to deal with such important questions.

1. He procured last spring an appropriation of $10,000, for expenses in conducting this matter. What for? He might have had to pay Mr. Morse a retaining fee and expenses up to the time of the hearing before the commission, perhaps $1,000 more, and yet because he was not informed as to the proper conduct of these cases, he is led into asking for such a sum which until exhausted will be an object of desire by every one who can get a claim upon it. Suppose that the town had taken the water when Mr. J. Q. Adams was its counsel (or even now, if Mr. Rice or Mr. Field or any other gentleman who is accustomed to deal in large affairs had been Mayor) what would have been done? They would have examined the expense account, the likelihood for present or future expenditure, and where we now discuss thousands they would have utilized hundreds.

2. What was the occasion for the Mayor obtaining legislation granting the right to raise $800,000 to pay off the water liability before the commission had made its award? Before that, the city had authority to raise a much less sum and if it became necessary to extend the works to better the supply a limited amount might be granted for that. But when a question was pending, in which the city claims that it owes but a limited amount to the Water Company to get legislation of this character is just the kind of action which the counsel of the Water Company will never tire of speaking about, as an indication that we admit a large liability. Our engineers will be showing this defect and that, that we ought not to pay but a comparatively small sum, and at every step we shall have this big money thrown into our faces. If the Mayor claims that we must have legislation to pay off, I will agree, but why as a practical man did he not hold back, and now that the commission is formed have it said to them that they must decide, as they doubtless will, before the going out of the incoming legislature, then a delay of a few days, and then the proper legislation.

Is this the way to protect the interests of our citizens? If I were the Water company, I should consider my claim thousands of dollars better for this act alone.

WONT BEAR ANALYSIS.

A Reply to Some of the Misleading Statements in the Advertiser.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The zeal of a contemporary seems to have led it to publish statements as in the Advertiser of Saturday, which will hardly bear the closest analysis. Scrutinizing these statements in detail, the following comments suggest themselves.

Tax Rate.

The Advertiser carefully omits to state the tax rate and the "tax for city purposes," for 1888, the last year of town government, William A. Hodges, William N. Eaton and W. H. Ripley, selectmen. Including that year the rates compare as follows:

In 1888,	$16.70
In 1889,	10.80
In 1890,	13.60
In 1891,	13.60
In 1892,	16.00

Out of the twenty-eight cities of the Commonwealth fourteen, have as high or a higher rate than Quincy, as was shown in detail in the LEDGER of Friday last. As to the valuation, sales of real estate during the past year show that it is not "artificial" or unduly high, the Robertson house property, for instance, assessed at $36,000 sold for $54,670. The Fellows' estate, assessed for $15,000 sold for $18,000.

It is a singular fact that although some complain at the valuation, few, if any, complainants are willing to sell their property at anything like the assessed value. To prove this it is only necessary to attempt to purchase available property at the assessed valuation.

As respects the table of "Tax for City purposes" in which the Advertiser omits the year 1888, apparently because it does not suit its purpose, although in its table of "Valuation" it includes that year, the comparison for five years is as follows:

Payment Debt Other City Tax	Total
1888 $13,000	$14,847
1889 10,547	123,690
1890 49,516	139,640
1891 38,815	157,218
1892 50,629	178,822

*Credit on sinking fund account.

The increase in "the City Tax" since 1888 is due almost entirely to increased appropriations for schools, demanded by the large increase of 33 per cent. in the children of school age; increase in State Aid to soldiers, required by law; the loud and persistent demand of citizens for better street lighting and police protection; and interest on debt, incurred largely for construction and improvement of highways and replacing of Willard school-house, destroyed by incendiary fire.

Debt.

The Advertiser makes the statement that "the Republicans in giving the condition of the finances of Quincy try to mislead. They compare the amount of debt this year with the debt limit of next year."

This, I find by reference to the LEDGER of Friday, to be untrue. Comparisons both of the debt and the debt limit are given for both years.

Again the Advertiser states, "The mortgage on the City of Quincy, represented in the debt, is nearly $300,000, an increase of about $70,000 during the past year."

This statement, also, is untrue, the debt comparing as follows:

Debt Jan. 1 1892	$262,386
Increase	19,556

This increase is more than accounted for by the appropriation for the Central Fire Station, $27,000. Even including the Water Debt, $35,000, contracted in consequence of the votes of the city to purchase the works, the increase is less than $55,000, instead of the $70,000 claimed by the Advertiser.

The "Advertiser" says "There has been spent by the city during the past four years, the time we have been a city, over $40,000 for interest on borrowed money. The sum if spent on the highways would benefit everybody."

Considering that at least one-half of the $40,000 has been for interest on debt incurred in reconstruction of highways, while the other half has been principally for interest on School debt, contracted largely through the destruction of the Willard schoolhouse, the fallaciousness of the "Advertiser's" reasoning is quite apparent.

The "Advertiser" asks, "Why was not Councilman Gray re-nominated?"

This question is easily answered by stating that at far the largest and most representative republican caucus ever held in Ward 1, since Quincy became a city, a gathering composed largely of heavy taxpayers, the gentleman received 17 votes, the highest candidate nominated receiving 61 and the lowest 29 votes. His defeat was a most emphatic protest of leading taxpaying citizens against his financial policy of extremely short term loans, thereby heavily increasing the tax rate.

In conclusion, let me say that while I entertain the greatest respect for Mr. Hodges as a gentleman, and as a business man of unusually sound judgment, and strongly deprecate the uncalculated personalities sometimes indulged in during municipal canvasses, yet, on account of the strong tendency heretofore shown by him to affiliate with the undesirable elements of the community in the distribution of official patronage, rather than with the better representatives of his party and City

READY FOR BUSINESS.

National Law Makers Again Assemble in Washington.

SECOND SESSION WILL BE QUIET.

Appropriation Bills Likely to Receive the Most Attention.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The two houses of the Fifty-second congress met today at noon in second session. After ascertaining that a quorum was ready in each branch, resolutions were passed authorizing the appointment of committees to call on the president and inform him that the congress was organized and ready to proceed to business. The committees were informed, and so reported, that the president would shortly communicate with congress in writing. The message is expected to reach the Capitol at about 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. While the committees were executing the commission entrusted to them, the senate and house took a recess. When the committees reported, adjournment took place.

It is the general impression that the coming session will add but little to the legislative records of the country, except in the matter of appropriation bills. The first order of business on the calendar of the senate is the anti-option bill, and it is the purpose of its friends to maintain it in its favored position until disposed of by a vote. Senator Washburn, who has charge of the campaign in favor of the bill, says the Recent Rise in Cotton has not tended to alienate support from the measure, although he admits he was afraid it might do so. He estimates the number of friends of the bill at two to one for its opponents, and says no other bill can be taken up in its place. But a lively contest on this point may be expected, should Mr. Sherman undertake to antagonize the measure with a bill to repeal the silver law of 1890, which he has intimated he will introduce.

The proposition covered by this bill is of such general interest, it is believed by some, that its consideration can be secured even against the anti-option bill. None of the appropriation bills are expected in the senate before the holidays.

There is nothing of special importance on the house calendar, and no appropriation bills are expected to make their appearance the first week of the session. Efforts will be made to push several bills that attracted attention last summer relating to the revenue. Mr. Scott of Illinois has given notice through the press of an intention to urge his bill for the repeal of the sugar bounty. But the first week will probably not show any measure further along on the calendar than it is now.

The Fifty-Third Congress. A roll of members-elect to the Fifty-third congress is being compiled in the office of the clerk of the house. The work has been done with care, but until Mr. Kerr, who is out of the city, returns and approves of it, the roll will not be published. The unofficial list shows 217 Democrats, 128 Republicans, 8 Populists; two districts in Rhode Island, in which election have yet to be held, and the Fifth district of Michigan, at present represented by Mr. Belknap, left blank for the reason that it is regarded as still in doubt.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Collision Between a Street Car and a Locomotive at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—A Philadelphia and Reading shifting engine crushed into a street car at American street and Columbia avenue, the crossing of the North Pennsylvania branch of the Reading system, last night. The street car was driven by Charles Pierce, who also acted as conductor. The car was crowded with forty people, and the western gate being up, Pierce drove on to the tracks, only to find the opposite gate lowered. The car was pinned in and although shifter No. 240 was approaching rather slowly, it could not be checked in time to prevent the disaster. The street car was knocked twenty feet, and that some of the passengers were not instantly killed is miraculous. John Riley, a watchman at the crossing, claims that Pierce did not obey his warning until the engine, which was drawing two coal cars, had passed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Representatives of the hitherto conflicting organizations, the Order of Commercial Telegraphers of North America and Order of Commercial Telegraphers of the United States and Canada, have agreed that the interests of both associations should be merged, and that the Order of Commercial Telegraphers of North America should be recognized as the only organization of commercial telegraphers on the continent of North America.

End of the Iams Case.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 5.—The final disposition of the celebrated Iams case has been made. The court decided that the defendants should not pay the costs, thereby setting aside that part of the verdict directing that the costs of the aggravated assault and battery cases should be equally divided between Colonel Stretator and Colonel Hawkins.

Hope Abandoned.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 5.—It is apparent that only a few hours of life now remain to Senator Gibson of New Orleans. He has been gradually sinking. His relatives and friends who have been so reticent concerning his condition, now no longer attempt to conceal the truth, but announce to their friends that there is no hope.

SIMPLE SERVICES

Will Characterize the Funeral of the Late Jay Gould.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The arrangements for the funeral of Jay Gould are now complete. It will take place at the house where he died at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The services will be exceedingly simple, and the funeral will be private tomorrow morning. They will be conducted by Rev. John R. Paxton of the West Presbyterian church, of which Miss Helen Gould is a member; Rev. Dr. Henry M. MacCracken, chancellor of the University of the City of New York, and Rev. Dr. Roderick Terry of the South Reformed church, who was the pastor of Mrs. Jay Gould for several years before her death. The quartet choir of Dr. Paxton's church will sing an anthem and two hymns. There will be no pall-bearers. The family have decided to make no effort to exclude anybody who wishes to attend the funeral, though it will be made as private as possible without such action. Certain rooms will be reserved for the special friends of Mr. Gould.

The body of the financier still rests in the room where he died in the rear of the house on the second floor. It was not embalmed, but placed in an ice-box of mahogany and surrounded with flowers, great masses of which have been sent in by the friends of the family. Those who have seen the body say Mr. Gould's face looks most natural, and that it is in no wise emaciated, as one would expect from the nature of his disease.

The body will remain where it is until shortly before the funeral, when it will be placed in the coffin. This is of oak, covered with black broadcloth. It is unornamented except for the long handles of solid silver, oxidized, running the whole length on each side, and the shorter handles at each end. The coffin plate is of oxidized solid silver.

WILL COST $150,000,000.

Proposition for Building a Ship Canal Through the Empire State.

ALBANY, Dec. 5.—United States Senator Hill and Congressman Tracy are both making active preparations to try and force through congress a bill to at once build a ship canal through this state. The proposed route is up the Hudson river to the Erie canal and thence through the Erie canal. The argument to be used to hasten the measure is that the completion of the Canadian canal will injure our commerce. Should this Canadian water course detract from the transportation of the Erie canal, as far as western freight is concerned, there can be no doubt but that New York will fall from the position which it holds in western transportation business.

The new ship canal will provide for a water way 200 feet in width, with an average depth of twenty feet. The cost as has been estimated for such a water way will be $150,000,000, but the benefits to be derived are incalculable, resulting in keeping New York the commercial emporium. The question of military supremacy on the great lakes is also concerned, and the question is whether Canada will be allowed to control the west.

THE SHERMAN SILVER LAW.

Bland Doesn't Like It but It Proves Useful Just at Present.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Discussing the international monetary conference and the prospects for results therefrom, Chairman Bland of the committee on coinage says he does not expect anything from it. He was asked: "Suppose that the conference should fail and that a proposition should then be made to repeal the Sherman law, what then?"

"That will be proposed anyway, I presume. I am in favor of repealing it if we can get something better for silver. I don't like the Sherman law myself. At the time it was proposed, I stated on the floor of the house and in my report that it would not increase the value of silver, or tend to promote its restoration as money; that it would be a failure in that respect. Yet, you might say, it is a connecting link between total demonetization and something better. Hence, I think it would be bad policy to repeal it, unless we can do something else at the same time."

Furnished Points for the Lecturer.

RUNGE, Tex., Dec. 5.—James Anglin, aged 17, was shot and killed by S. H. Lyons, the latter being wild with drink, during the progress of a lecture by Mrs. Stoddard, president of the State Woman's Christian Temperance union. The scene of the shooting was but a short distance away, but the lecture continued, the speaker's utterance being given terrible force by the tragedy that had just occurred.

JURORS ARE TALKING.

Latest Features in the Case of Lizzie Borden.

THE ARRAIGNMENT MAY BE DELAYED.

Persons Connected with the Case Show the Severe Strain.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 6.—Will the death of Henry G. Trickey forever exclude the public from a knowledge of the inside, and confessedly highly sensational facts that led to his indictment? This may be the result. As soon as the news of his reported death reached here, Marshal Hilliard and District Attorney Knowlton held a conference over the telephone wire. As a result it was reported that if District Attorney Knowlton were convinced of the truth of the report, he would never allow the facts in connection with the Trickey-McHenry affair to become public.

On the other hand, a member of the grand jury said: "The reported death of Mr. Trickey will not interfere with the trial of the case."

He was indicted in connection with another and more important person; and if this case ever comes to trial, the sensation produced will be greater than that of the murder itself.

The reported death of Mr. Trickey created a sensation in this city; and many persons were heard to express themselves as believing the story to be a fake. This was especially true of the police, but as the day passed and there came no authentic denial of the story, it became generally accepted as true.

Speaking of the Borden case last night, Andrew J. Jennings said he did not expect that Miss Borden would be arraigned today as has been published.

The Theory of the Law is that when an arraignment for the commission of a capital crime is made, defendant, besides pleading, will also have a voice, saying who shall be appointed to defend her. The appointment is made by the presiding judge. There is no doubt that in this case Miss Borden will want Mr. Jennings to continue to act for her, consequently Mr. Jennings feels that when Mr. Pillsbury shall determine the date of the arraignment he (Mr. Jennings) will by courtesy be notified. Mr. Jennings believes that an arraignment will be made within two weeks at the latest.

Jurors Break Silence. The members of the grand jury, having been dismissed for the year, are talking. They are not telling the whole story all at once, but each man adds his mite, and the new evidence that so impressed the jury as to leave only one in doubt of Lizzie Borden's guilt is gradually becoming known.

In speaking to a friend of his experience at the hearing, one juror solemnly asserted, "They'll hang her, sure." Others are more conservative in summing up the case, but it is evident that every one of the twenty-one men was strongly impressed with the weight of the government's evidence, and all, except one, of the lot is positive that the defendant is guilty.

About the Hatchet. That a hatchet was produced as the one used in the murders is positively asserted by one juror. The handle of the hatchet had been broken short off at the head. The hatchet was not new, but sharp enough to inflict the wounds on the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Borden. Professor Wood found no trace of blood on either the hatchet or the piece of handle which was left in it, but he did find that the hatchet had been carefully washed and cleaned with ashes.

The Trickey Indictment. From what has been said by jurors since Friday, it is certain that Henry G. Trickey was not indicted for any dealings he might have had with McHenry. The latter told before the jury his story of the deal with Trickey. The story furnished, he testified, had been fixed up, but had never been intended for publication. The idea was to trap Trickey. The twenty-four hours' notice was required in order that McHenry could give the fake away to Trickey and to prevent its publication.

District Attorney Knowlton stated positively that nothing in the world would be done in the Trickey matter now that the indictments found except those against the principal were against Trickey.

No Known Accessories. No hint has been drawn from any juror that any indictments were brought against persons suspected of being accomplices in the crimes.

In relation to the Trickey indictment, it is now certain that the deal with McHenry had nothing to do with it. The indictment brought was for tampering with another witness, said to be Bridget Sullivan. There was no charge of tampering with McHenry. He was not a government witness; he was acting as an assistant in the working up of the case, and no charge could have been brought against anyone for approaching him even with money.

The reported unfortunate ending of the life of Mr. Trickey has brought to public notice the fact that some other persons are in danger of Going to Early Graves as the result of the great Borden crimes. The news of the indictment, together with the great nervous strain to which Miss Emma Borden was subjected before the grand jury, has made her ill, and yesterday she was almost completely prostrated.

Mrs. Bowen, who was not strong on the day the murders were committed, has been in a highly nervous condition ever since, and at times her friends have been doubtful as to her ability to bear up to the end.

John V. Morse, the rugged farmer, uncle of Miss Borden, who was seen in the postoffice corridor yesterday, also showed the loss of his hearty appearance of some weeks ago.

PITIFUL CASE OF NEGLECT. Four Infants Suffer from Starvation

While Their Parents Are "Visiting." PALMER, Mass., Dec. 6.—On Nov. 25 Dexter, Bartholy and his wife, living in the town of Monson, near the Brimfield and Palmer line, went to visit friends in Connecticut, leaving their four children at home in the care of a 15-year-old daughter of George Fowle, a neighbor. The youngest child was about 9 weeks old, another 1 year old and the next oldest 3 years. There was very little to eat in the house and only $3 in cash, although the parents did not expect to get back until last Friday. In fact they have not returned yet.

The Fowle girl did not know what to feed the baby with, so some neighbors suggested condensed milk and rolled cracker crumbs and on these fed the infant. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Fowle happened to call at the house and found the little one gasping for breath. A physician was sent for but the child was dead before he arrived. The medical examiner was called and he stated that the child was literally starved to death, being nothing but skin and bone. The other two young children are sick and the youngest may not recover. The Bartholys were before the court last summer for neglecting their children.

MAY BE TRIED IN APRIL.

August Langner, the Alleged Murderer, Has Counsel Assigned.

DEDHAM, Mass., Dec. 6.—The Norfolk grand jury came in here yesterday before Judge Richardson, for the transaction of the county's criminal business. It was the county's first appearance at the county seat. A number of important cases are to come before the jurors for their consideration. Among them is that of George Green, the somewhat famous negro burglar, who was arrested while operating in Braintree and Quincy; several cases of breaking and entering, and the Wrentham lottery case.

Before sending the jurors out to hear suits as the disburse attorney had to bring to their consideration, August Langner, who has been arraigned for the murder of Miss Mary Emmerson, whose body was found in a closet in her lonely farmhouse in West Dedham, June 2, 1891, was brought in and held in custody assigned him by the court. Conrad Hillis acted as interpreter, and Henry E. Fales and Charles C. Mellen were appointed as his legal defenders, after which Deputy Sheriff Colburn took him back to jail. Langner has grown stout since his confinement in jail, and has grown a full, dark brown beard. It is doubtful if he will be tried before the April term of the court.

A TOWN IN FLAMES.

Large Portion of Raymond, N. H., May Be Reduced to Ashes.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 6.—The town of Raymond, a small place about twenty miles from this city, is in flames. The fire first broke out about 11 o'clock last night in Pythian hall, over J. H. Watts' drug store. The postoffice and telephone office were burned out. A message asking for assistance from the fire departments was sent to Manchester and Portsmouth, and both responded, but owing to the headway which the fire had gained it is doubtful if much can be saved.

FACTORY LAWS.

Haverhill Shoe Manufacturer Finds That

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 6.—A warrant was issued yesterday against W. W. Spaulding, one of the largest shoe manufacturers in town, for violating the labor laws. Complaint was made by State Inspector of Factories Hannagan and State Inspector Miss Halley, the charges being employing women without posting the hour of labor, and employing minors without certificates. It is reported that other manufacturers in the city will be prosecuted for the same offense.

Curious Circumstance in a Liquor Case.

STOUGHTON, Mass., Dec. 6.—The conviction of Enory E. Lane of this town by a Norfolk county jury on an indictment charging him with inciting Daniel F. Keane to testify that Edward H. Galligan of Canton did not sell liquor to him, has been affirmed by a full bench of the supreme judicial court. A peculiar fact in connection with Lane's case is that, while he is found guilty, Galligan, when tried, was acquitted.

A Move Against Sunday Funerals.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 6.—A movement has been started by the pastors of this city to abolish Sunday funerals. A committee has been chosen to confer with the undertakers on the subject of cooperation. Special objections are made by the pastors to funeral street parades on Sunday, with bands of music, during the hours of services in churches. Exceptions will be made for Sunday funerals in cases of necessity.

They Asked for Freedom.

HARTFORD, Dec. 6.—Six applicants for pardon from the Connecticut state prison gave their reasons for their petitions to the state boards of pardons. The petitions of all the convicts were rejected except that of Patrick Enright, sentenced for ten years in October, 1889, and Horace G. Packanell, sentenced for the same offense for twenty years in September, 1887. Decision in these cases was reserved.

New England Pensioners.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—When the hour of 10 o'clock last night arrived, Pension Agent Osborne had signed checks to the amount of nearly $200,000 for pensions. By next Friday evening he will have paid to pensioners of New England the enormous amount of $1,700,000, and that amount will only represent the December quarterly payment of pensions in New England.

A Missing Detective.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 6.—Private Detective Samuel B. Reed is reported to have disappeared, leaving behind numerous creditors. It is also reported that he has disappeared owing to his connection with the famous Fiske divorce case, which, it is said, is about to be tried, as some new evidence of a startling nature has been secured.

Sensation Exploded.

BLACK ROCK, Conn., Dec. 6.—The report that Pauline Spofford Pearsall, wife of Thomas W. Pearsall, the wealthy New York broker, had procured a divorce on the grounds of desertion at Sioux Falls, Ia., is stoutly denied at the Pearsall mansion here.

The Fall Killed Him.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Charles Freeze, a ten-year-old boy from his team in Somerville last night and sustained a fractured skull. He was removed to the Massachusetts general hospital, where he died.

ABOUT BLACK-LISTS.

Decision of Importance to Mill Owners and Employes.

THE CASE OF FALL RIVER WEAVERS

Acted Upon by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Treasurer John Waring of the Narragansett mills of Fall River, and John Harrison, superintendent of the same mills, will not be ordered to respond to a suit brought against them by some employees who, it is alleged, had been black-listed for refusing to work at a scale of wages fixed by the mill owners. This is the decision of the full bench of the supreme court in a decision sent down in the case of Dinah Worthington and others against Treasurer Waring and Superintendent Harrison. The court says:

The Decision. We take the substance of the petition to be that the petitioners were weavers by trade and had been employed by the Narragansett mills, a corporation in Fall River, and that they demanded higher wages, which the corporation refused to give; whereupon they left their work, and the defendants sent their names to the officers of other mills in Fall River on a list which is called a black-list, and which informed these officers that the petitioners had left the Narragansett mills on what is called a strike, and that the defendants conspired together with the officers of other mills, and agreed not to employ the petitioners, with intent to control them either to go without work in Fall River, or to go back to work for the Narragansett mills, at such wages as that corporation should see fit to pay them. It does not appear by the petition that any of the petitioners had existing contracts for labor with which the defendants interfered.

If the petition sets forth such a conspiracy as constitutes a misdemeanor at common law, on which we express no opinion, the Remedy is by Indictment. If the injury which had been received by the petitioners at the time the petition was filed constitutes a cause of action, on which we express no opinion, the remedy is by an action of tort, to be brought by each petitioner separately. The only grievance alleged, which is continuing in its nature, is the conspiracy not to employ the petitioners, and there are no grounds in equity for enjoining the defendants from continuing such conspiracy or for compelling the defendants either to employ the petitioners or to procure employment for them with other persons.

It is plain, however, that the petition was drawn with a view to obtain some equitable relief. It is well known that equity has, in general, no jurisdiction to restrain the commission of crimes or to assess damages for torts already committed. Courts of equity often protect property from threatened injury when the rights of property are equitable, or when, although the rights are legal, the civil and criminal remedies at common law are not adequate; but the rights which the petitioners allege the defendants were violating at the time the petition was filed are personal rights, as distinguished from rights of property.

The counsel for the petitioners contends that the petition can be maintained under statute of 1887, chapter 283, and it has been suggested that this suit is partly an action at law, and partly a suit in equity, and that if it cannot be maintained as either the one or the other, it can be maintained under this statute.

As Partaking of the Nature of Both. The court then reviews at length the history of the statute and concludes as follows:

We think that the intention of the statute of 1887 is that each proceeding under it must be treated either as an action at law or a suit in equity, with the incidents which by established practice or by other statutes attach to the particular action or suit, and that the pleadings and procedure must conform to this view. The present petition cannot be maintained either as an action at law or a suit in equity.

A Man to Be Pitied.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Holmes, the signal man whose neglect of duty, consequent upon overwork and grief for the loss of his child, caused the terrible railroad disaster to the Scotch express, near Thirsk, on Nov. 2, and the loss of several lives, pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter and was bound over to appear for judgment, if called upon. Deep sympathy has been expressed for Holmes and the case has caused widespread attention to the evil of overwork on railways.

An Editor's Sudden Death.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Lewis Newman, the chief editor of the German edition of The Daily News, died suddenly in Moquin's restaurant, on Fulton street. Mr. Newman had scarcely given the waiter his order when he fell back in his chair, gasping heavily once or twice, and died. Heart disease was the cause of his death. Mr. Newman was 43 years old. He was married and lived in Brooklyn.

Robbed His Employers.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 6.—Herbert E. Ellis, an employe of Foster, Bess & Co., clothiers, was arrested for embezzlement. Ellis was employed at $10 a week, and his pecuniary will exceed $2000. In his room were found a lot of goods that he had stolen from the company, and he had $100 in bank. Ellis came here from Vermont, and cut quite a figure in society, being very popular.

Shot a Fellow Student.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—John W. Smathers of Asheville, N. C., a student at the Jefferson Medical college, shot and probably fatally wounded William E. Williams, a resident of the same place, and also a student at the institution, as they were leaving the college building. Smathers claims Williams assaulted him.

Neville Fined $100.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Robert Neville of Washington, who slapped Samuel S. Howland in the face at the recent horse show, was placed on trial in the special sessions court, on the charge of assault in the third degree, and, after being found guilty, was fined $100.

Reinstated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The stallion Nelson and his owner have been reinstated by the National Trotting association.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time, However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was killed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

West Quincy Man

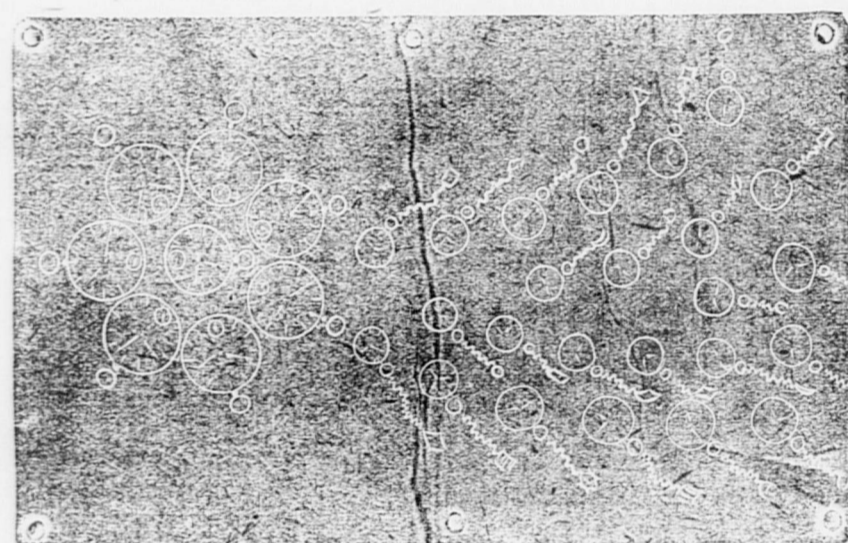

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

NOW ON EXHIBITION

in the show windows of

WILLIAMS,
The Jeweller.

Hundreds of people come from all parts of the city to gaze on the curiosity, and we have had our special artist make a picture of the celestial wonder for the benefit of the readers of this paper.

THE COMET AS IT APPEARS TO THE NAKED EYE.

Scores of people are buying fragments of the Comet, and will keep them as souvenirs. If you wish to be among the lucky ones you should

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The New York World makes a plea for the much commented lithograph of the Babes in the Wood fame, because as it asserts, the lithograph was copied from an original painting of one of the French masters. It is hard to see why the display of these bills is any more justifiable on this account. The French "master," whoever he was, evidently had plenty of time to waste.

The death from alcoholic poisoning, of two Rockland citizens, was an awful example of this terrible curse of alcoholism. If the parties who sold these two unfortunate the poison, for such it was, are not guilty of murder, they are very near it, at least in the minds of the public. Had Rockland a Faxon, there might have been a different tale to tell.

Jay Gould has now been dead four days, but the world has experienced no visible effect. While alive he proved to be a most potential factor in the world's finances, but "now lies he there and none so poor to do him reverence."

Mr. McNeil, the builder of the Lincoln school, will probably receive the contract for the Woodward Seminary, as he is the lowest bidder. If Mr. McNeil does as good a job as he did at the Lincoln school the public will be satisfied.

Now that the Grand Jury has found two indictments against Lizzie F. Borden, the curious are set at rest for awhile, but the sceptical will continue to form new theories until the end.

Several of the Councilmen looked rather onerous last night. It is too bad that they cannot take some satisfaction in the thought that political oblivion, like death, loves a shining mark, but alas! they cannot.

Homer Rogers would have the Old State House removed to make way for travel. Such statements will not be kindly listened to by the citizens of Boston.

It looked at one time as if the City Council meeting had been turned into a Sunday School Conference.

The members of the money congress did not come to any amicable sentiment, and for doing this they were paid salaries of course.

The water question stimulated the election to a great extent.

MAYORALTY VOTES OF THE PAST.

A Summary by Parties Which Will Prove Interesting at This Time.

Quincy has been a city nearly four years, and the mayorality vote at the four elections in 1888, 1889, 1890 and 1891 as given below, will afford an interesting study:

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

	One.	Two.	Three.	Four.	Five.	Six.	Total
1888, Charles H. Porter,	271	207	204	182	229	105	1258
1889, Charles H. Porter,	233	193	210	205	143	112	1099
1890, H. O. Fairbanks,	265	193	241	191	177	127	1194
1891, H. O. Fairbanks,	295	213	270	188	258	160	1384

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

	One.	Two.	Three.	Four.	Five.	Six.	Total
1888, William A. Hodges,	188	162	190	313	36	94	983
1889, Jason G. Witham,	164	157	144	24	84	93	906
1890, Jason G. Witham,	177	183	206	359	94	110	1129
1891, William A. Hodges	225	219	249	441	63	126	1323

RESULT IN DOUBT.

A Very Large Vote is Being Polled.

Both Parties Are Confident, but Democrats Most Sanguine.

No Fear of An Overthrow of the No-License Majority.

The campaign got under full steam the past week and the vote today is unusually large. It may exceed that of the Presidential election just passed but it is doubtful if it does. It is admitted on both sides that there will be considerable scratching. That Republicans are voting for Hon. William A. Hodges, and that Democrats are bolting their party nominee. The Councilmen at large are pretty sure to be divided between the two parties, and the council of 1893 will be more equally divided politically than any of its predecessors.

No anxiety is felt for the no-license majority. It will be about as large as usual.

Vote of the City.

The following summary shows the progress of the voting and compares it with the recent State election and with the city election of last December. The number of names on the lists is approximately correct but may vary a few in each ward. The number of voters is 373 larger than last December.

	Vote today.	Vote in Nov. 1891.	Vote in Nov. 1890.	Vote in Nov. 1889.	Vote in Nov. 1888.
Ward One,	461	470	402	610	549
Ward Two,	368	350	342	519	460
Ward Three,	511	455	408	679	619
Ward Four,	530	512	483	743	679
Ward Five,	365	422	303	481	481
Ward Six,	253	268	244	345	345

Look out for the election extra of the LEDGER which will be issued bright and early tomorrow morning. It will be for sale at the usual places and by news-boys.

Ward One.

The same officers are on duty in Ward One as at the recent Presidential election.

The indications in the early morning were that a larger vote would be thrown than in any previous election. At seven o'clock it was 17 ahead of the November vote and at eight o'clock 25 ahead.

The Republican nominees for Ward Councilmen are sure of an election. C. F. Adams, 24, although a candidate for both parties will fall far below the full vote. Mr. Gray is getting votes from both parties but will bring up at the foot of the list.

The vote by hours is compared below with the past two elections:

Hour.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock,	60	43	34
Eight "	142	118	106
Nine "	232	205	169
Ten "	314	247	228
Eleven "	335	350	285
Twelve "	362	395	325
One "	461	470	402

Ward Two.

The voters of Ward Two are happy this morning because for the first time in several elections they have a good polling place. The polling place is in the front part of C. F. Woodbury's furniture store and the room is cosy and warm. The Ward committees are on hand and have at their command three hacks and several carriages, and if anyone does not vote it will not be because they cannot ride. The election officers say they are not going to be all night counting the ballots and will announce the result by 9.30 this evening.

There is a slight change in the election officers at this election, those in charge being:

Warden, Albert Keating.
Clerk, Michael T. Sullivan.
Inspectors, Edwin R. Newcomb, John S. Gay, William H. Sampson, Jr., James Collins.

A comparison of vote by hours with the past two elections is given below:

Hours.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock,	75	64	53
Eight "	136	130	114
Nine "	183	184	152
Ten "	25	226	185
Eleven "	251	260	227
Twelve "	278	293	262
One "	363	370	342

Look out for the election extra of the LEDGER which will be issued bright and early tomorrow morning. It will be for sale at the usual places and by news-boys.

Ward Three.

Ward Three, the fighting ward, is as usual busy, and the two ward committees are working hard. James Munroe Hayden was the first man to vote. The ward officers say they will not be at work all night this time, but will announce the result by 11 o'clock if not before. There is only one change in the election officers and that is Arthur C. Merritt in place of Charles H. Grindell. The vote by hours compared with a year ago is as follows:

Hours.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock,	76	90	40
Eight "	125	121	100
Nine "	185	177	140
Ten "	226	228	200
Eleven "	293	284	232
Twelve "	370	341	280
One "	511	455	408

Look out for the election extra of the LEDGER which will be issued bright and early tomorrow morning. It will be for sale at the usual places and by news-boys.

Ward Four.

There is but little excitement at Ward Four, although quite a heavy vote is being polled. Mr. Hodges is certain to receive a majority here but just how much the ward committees disagree. It is believed, however, that it will not be as large as last year as many old time Democrats are voting for Mayor Fairbanks.

There is a slight change in the election officers owing to some of the regular officers being candidates. Those in charge are:

Warden, Nathan Ames.
Clerk, Thomas J. Foley.
Inspectors, William D. Burns, Charles H. Glines, John A. McGowan and E. J. Sanberg.

The summary below compares the vote by hours with the last two elections.

Hour.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock,	70	73	60
Eight "	129	134	104
Nine "	179	181	153
Ten "	238	254	212
Eleven "	288	315	267
Twelve "	345	410	342
One "	530	512	483

Look out for the election extra of the LEDGER which will be issued bright and early tomorrow morning. It will be for sale at the usual places and by news-boys.

Ward Five.

Warden Nichols opened the polls promptly on time and these officers reported for duty:

Warden—W. F. Nichols, R.
Deputy Warden—John H. Roberts, R.
Clerk—W. P. Chase, Jr., D.
Inspectors—A. G. Olney, R.; L. W. Nash, R.; C. W. Tucker, D.; H. A. Jones, D.
Police officer—W. C. Seelye.

The re-election of Mayor Fairbanks depends upon Ward Five. This ward large Republican plurality will offset Ward Four's Democratic plurality.

Chairman Sherman of the Ward committee and his lieutenants have been untiring in their efforts to get out the full vote. At eight o'clock 189 votes had been thrown.

At two o'clock this ward had cast 382 votes, a smaller number than at one o'clock last month.

The vote by hours is compared below with the past two elections:

Hours.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock	94	—	36
Eight "	183	170	129
Nine "	270	—	210
Ten "	292	—	224
Eleven "	306	—	251
Twelve "	317	—	269
One "	385	422	303

Ward Six.

If any of the election officers have a snap it is those who have charge of the polling place at Ward Six. They are all good-natured fellows, however, and thus they agree well. The voting thus far is not quite as heavy as at the recent State election. The voting thus far has been in favor of the Democrats, as they are mostly employed near by, while the bulk of the Republicans are employed out of town and they will not vote until they return from Boston. The election officers expect to finish their count early, and the result will be reached before 8 o'clock.

Compared with the past two elections the vote by hours is as follows:

Hour.	Vote Today.	In Nov., 1892.	In Dec., 1891.
Seven o'clock,	78	60	54
Eight "	138	110	102
Nine "	151	140	121
Ten "	182	180	149
Eleven "	196	202	170
Twelve "	214	220	194
One "	255	268	214

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The Finance Committee Report a Substitute Water Ordinance.

NO POLITICAL ORDINANCE YET.

A Large Stone Crusher Plant to be Established—A Late Session.

The City Council held another late meeting Monday evening, not adjourning until 11.15. Some important matters were considered as will be seen by the extended report below.

Committee on Water Supply.

President Thompson appointed the following Standing Committee on Water Supply: Councilmen Holden, Federhen, Jr., and Little.

Traverse Jurors.

Upon notice and motion the following traverse jurors were drawn: Charles F. Hardwick, Robert Mayers and Thomas E. Farnald.

Cross Street.

A communication of Mayor Fairbanks asked an appropriation of $500 for repairs of Cross street, between Miller and Willard streets. On that portion of the street between Miller and Copeland streets it would be necessary for the City Council to give a hearing as a change of grade was desired.

Committee on Streets.

Councilman Hammond offered an order for the amount, which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

An Appropriation Short.

A communication of the Mayor enclosed one of the Board of Health, asking the appropriation of an additional $100 for sundry expenses.

Monthly Report.

The December 1 statement of the City Treasurer was received and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Willard Claims.

William F. Lord petitioned to be reimbursed for labor and material on the Willard schoolhouse to the amount of $2,000. Referred to Committee on Claims.

State Aid.

The application of Stephen Keegan for State Aid was referred to the Committee on State Aid.

Park Street.

A public hearing on the laying out of Park street was given. No one wished to be heard and the hearing closed and the order was recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

Water Ordinance.

The Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the proposed water ordinance, reported a substituted ordinance.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Federhen asked why so radical a change was proposed.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Moxon said the only important change was to make the water bills payable directly to the City Treasurer.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Federhen opposed dropping Section 10 of the first ordinance which provided how receipts should be applied. Thought the provision wise. Believed the Water Supply Committee should also have access to books.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Moxon queried if it was within the jurisdiction of this Council to make appropriation by ordinance.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Federhen had been informed by the chairman of the Ordinance Committee that it was legal.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Moxon had an opinion that it was illegal and therefore impractical.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Gray was prepared to discuss the financial part, but wanted time to consider the ordinance as a whole. Moved to lay on the table, and it was so voted.

Police Ordinance.

The committee on Sewers and Drains reported reference to the next City Council of the petition for a sewer from the City Hospital, the petition to establish urinals in the streets, communication of Mayor for abatement of Copeland street nuisance, communication of Mayor relative to a sewerage system. Adopted.

Police Ordinance.

The same committee reported that the order calling for $1000 for abatement of nuisances ought not to pass.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Powers and Fallon thought the Copeland street nuisance should be abated and criticised the report.

Police Ordinance.

Councilman Newcomb explained that it was upon the recommendation of the Board of Health, and the report was accepted.

Police Ordinance.

State Aid and Licenses. The Committee on State Aid recommended $4 per month to John White. Adopted.

Police Ordinance.

Licenses to collect junk was granted to John Haly, and Fred W. Hardwick was given an auctioneer's license.

W. F. Flanders was refused a license to collect junk.

The Political Ordinance.

The committee on Ordinances reported that the ordinance governing the political action of city officials ought to pass with an amendment so as to exclude only firemen and street employees.

Councilman Gray said this was the wish of the mover Councilman Holden.

Councilman Holden said he had drawn the ordinance hurriedly. He objected to the one previously offered as being too sweeping.

Councilman Byrant favored freedom. Thought no city official had taken a prominent part in a caucus or convention and saw no necessity of making an ordinance.

Councilman Gray favored the ordinance and would go further and include all employees. It was in the interest of clean politics.

The substitute was adopted.

The question then came on engrossment. Councilman Federhen, anticipating that the ordinance would pass, spoke at length criticizing the Council for rejecting the one he offered and then favorably considering this one which now read just the same.

He was glad the time had arrived when the majority did not oppose an order to purify the civil service. He congratulated the Councilman from Ward One who had the courage to offer the ordinance. It was not a question of salary paid but of principle. He was glad to see the sinners return and hoped every Councilman would favor.

Councilman Pratt said it would be time after the vote to see if the "sinners" had returned.

Councilman Federhen said some sinners always remained out.

Councilman Holden was ready for any amendment which would improve ordinance.

Councilman Holt hoped ordinance would be voted down.

Councilman Moxon said the first draft was too sweeping. That introduced by Councilman Holden could be adopted with some degree of propriety, but in its present shape it was a reflection on officers of the city and should not pass. Further, there was no necessity. It was a direct blow to civil service. It was not hinted that any city official had overstepped bounds.

Councilman Gray said that a member of the police force under pay had attended a convention where he was not a delegate. He believed Henry H. Faxon would criticize the party in power were it the other party. He saw it was the evident intention of the Council to oppress any offered by the Councilmen of Ward Two.

There was a further discussion in which Councilmen Bryant, Sherman and Moxon opposed, and Councilmen Holden, Powers, Federhen, favored.

An amendment was lost and the question came on engrossment, which was lost on roll call by a vote of 10 to 11 as follows: Y—Bass, Cunningham, Curtis, Dunfield, Federhen, Federhen, Jr., Gray, Holden, Little, Newcomb and Powers—10.

NAYS—Bass, Bryant, Fallon, Hammond, Holt, Litchfield, Morton, Moxon, Pratt, Rinn and Sherman—11.

Stone Crusher Plant.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the order for a road plant, making it more specific. The amendment offered was lost after considerable trivial discussion, but another was adopted making it read stone crusher plant, etc.

Under suspension of the rules the order was passed to be ordained.

Adjournment Fixed.

Upon motion of Councilman Newcomb it was voted when the Council adjourned it be until next week Thursday.

Police Ordinance.

The President stated that he had neglected to refer the Police Ordinance to the Committee on Finance at the last meeting and he would do so now.

Councilman Dunfield offered an order that the Committee on Ordinances consider the expediency of amending the ordinance concerning telegraph, telephone and other electric wires, that the disfiguring of poles by spikes may be prohibited. Adopted.

In the Calendar.

The order revoking the location of the street railway tracks on the south side of Water street took its final passage.

The order relating to the location of poles of the New England Telephone company took its final passage. Adjourned at 11.15.

Mr. Humphrey's Expense.

The campaign of Candidate R. C. Humphrey in the 10th Congressional district, who ran against Mr. Atwood, cost $573.33. Of the contributors to the fund were James H. Humphrey, $100; W. C. Clapp, $100; J. P. Spaulding and Franklin King, $50 each; Franklin A. Wyman, W. B. Bird and George H. Ellis, $25 each; S. P. Holbrook, $38.05. One-cent envelopes and circulars took $244.84 cents; newspapers received $74.30 most of which went to Quincy; printing $30; Boston Mailing Company, $17.60; directing, $67.04; distributing circulars, $10; George H. Ellis, for printing, $100.75; balance, rent of room and minor expenses. Mr. S. Pinckney Holbrook was the treasurer.

The Boston Extension.

In the Board of Aldermen, Boston, on Monday, an order was passed granting permission to the Quincy and Boston Street Railway Company to construct an overhead single trolley system on Neponset avenue from a point beginning at the Dorchester and Milton branch railroad, over and across Neponset bridge to the Neponset river, connecting with the existing tracks of said company on Hancock street. The work must be completed on or before April 1, 1893.

Colorado and Utah.

A trip to the summit of Pike's Peak, 14,200 feet above the level of the sea, is one of the most novel and thrilling railroad rides that can be made. Mr. George W. Penniman will present a series of pictures of his experiences at Pike's Peak in his lecture at Hancock hall tomorrow evening, together with views of the most picturesque and interesting regions in Colorado and Utah.

How to Make Boiled Peas Look Green.

Put your shelled peas into a bag, and before boiling them wash a handful or two of the freshest shells, and let them boil in the water intended for the peas. After the water is somewhat green put in your salt and your bag of peas without removing the pea shells.

How to Cure Offensive Breath.

It should be the first care of every one to see that his teeth are in perfect order and thoroughly cleansed morning and evening. Let him then look to his digestion, and if in both those quarters all is well, then the following mixture must be taken, and the trouble will be removed: One ounce of liquor of potassa, one ounce of chlorine of soda, one and a half ounces of phosphate of soda and three ounces of water. Mix well together and take a teaspoonful after each meal.

How to Clean Japanned Ware.

Never wash it with hot water, but use warm soapsuds made with a very little white soap. Wipe dry and sprinkle with flour; then polish with a dry soft cloth.

How to Dispose of Garbage.

It is generally conceded that the most sanitary method of disposing of garbage is to burn it. A good way is to dry the refuse first, as its damp state often hurts the fire. If a pan the size of the range ash pan be obtained, the garbage can be put into that, and set in the range when there is a clear bright fire, the ash pan being, of course, removed. The intense heat from the fire above dries the garbage very quickly. It is then ready to put on the fire.

How to Tell Good Beef.

Good beef is of a reddish brown color and contains no clots of blood. The flesh of well nourished beefs is marked with spots of white fat and is firm and compact. Flesh that is dry, tough and dark, with yellow fat, is furnished by old, lean animals.

How to Make Violet Powder.

Violet powder may be made by taking six parts by weight of violet starch and two parts of orris root powder. Reduce the starch to the finest possible powder mix it thoroughly with the orris root, then perfume with attar of lemon and attar of cloves. This, when allowed to dry out well, if put in sachet bags or used with a powder puff, will be found delightful.

To Polish Nickel Plate.

If tarnished, but not worn, use rouge or whiting on a flannel cloth with a little oil.

LOST.

LOST—A young Newfoundland dog, answers to the name of Major. Suitable reward will be paid by returning to 57 Arthur street, West Quincy. Dec. 5-6t

A WORD TO THE WISE.
CERTAIN ADVERTISEMENTS FROM TRADE RIVALS,
who fear the phenomenal success of
Van Houten's Cocoa
in America, contain insinuations against it, and appeal to the authority of Dr. SYDNEY KINCKEL, Professor of Medicine at University College, London,
Author of the Standard Handbook of Therapeutics.
This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:
"From the careful analyses of Professor ATTFELD and others, I am satisfied that Messrs.
VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other COCOAS—it is certainly 'Pure' and highly digestible.
The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA."
The false relation on VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is thus officially refuted and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been compelled to give it a very handsome testimonial.

At the close of the institution and installation the initiatory degree was worked on one candidate. A supper closed the ceremonies.

Young Men's Institute.

The rooms of the Institute will be thrown open to both ladies and gentlemen on Wednesday evening, Dec. 7, from 6 o'clock to 10, for inspection.

The Institute is organized for the purpose of promoting the social, intellectual, physical, and moral welfare of young men, bringing them together in closer relations, by pleasant, healthful and instructive entertainments and amusements, by a well equipped gymnasium, where not only the mechanical movements of the body are taught but also the principals of living, by exerting an influence in maintaining and advancing Christian character, good citizenship, and honest government.

The Institute is non-sectarian in both theory and practice and will welcome to its membership any thrifty and industrious young man of good moral character.

VOTERS AT THE POLLS.

Twenty-one Massachusetts Cities Elect Officers.

ANSWERS TO "NO LICENSE" NUMEROUS.

While Many Cities Cast Their Lot the Other Way.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Yesterday occurred the first of the local elections for the year in Massachusetts cities. Twenty-one municipalities chose new rulers, leaving nine elections for next Tuesday to complete the list.

Many changes are made in the license policy as a result of the day's voting. Chicopee, Fall River, Lawrence, Pittsfield, Taunton, Waltham and Woburn changing a vote of "Yes" last year to one of "No" this year.

On the other hand, Fitchburg, Haverhill, Marlboro and New Bedford changed from "No" to "Yes," while Brockton, Chelsea, Gloucester, Holyoke, Malden, Newton, Northampton, Quincy, Somerville and Springfield made no change in policy in this respect.

Result in the Different Places.
BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 7.—Brockton's vote in the aldermanic contest was a surprise, as was the total vote of 4740, ward leading with 800. Keith (Rep.) was elected mayor.

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 7.—Not for years has Chelsea had such a close and exciting election as occurred. The city went against license by a majority of 200, making three times that of the license vote. The city went in succession. Last year the majority against license was 417. Mayor Converse, the Republican candidate, was re-elected for a second term by 214 majority. Hon. Thomas Martin made a great run, cutting down materially the majority of Mayor Converse of a year ago, on a total vote of 4992.

CHICOPEE, Mass., Dec. 7.—One of the hottest campaigns in the history of Chicopee resulted in the choice for mayor of H. H. Harris (Rep.) over Dr. Mellen (Dem.) by a majority of 61, and a vote for no license by a majority of 56. The Republicans also elected their entire aldermanic ticket, including one Democrat whom they had endorsed and 9 out of 14 councilmen, besides 2 who were on both tickets and 1 on a nomination paper. The contest for mayor was largely a personal one.

A Surprise at Fall River.
FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 7.—The Democrats re-elected John W. Coughlin mayor by 608 plurality over Philip H. Borden, the Republican nominee. The Republicans elect 5 of the 9 aldermen and 15 of the 30 councilmen. The turnover on the license question was surprising. Last year the city voted "Yes" by 909 majority. Yesterday it was carried against license by 1753 majority. The liquor dealers, both licensed and unlicensed, are well satisfied with the result of the vote on license, as they do not look for a vigorous enforcement of the law, since they believe that under present conditions public sentiment will not be very pronounced on such a policy.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Dec. 7.—The result of the municipal election in this city was a Republican victory. They elected their mayor and five aldermen, the sixth alderman is F. W. Brazier. He was re-elected on the temperance ticket, nevertheless he is a Republican. The city went for license by the meager majority of 22.

GLoucester, Mass., Dec. 7.—The city election resulted in the overwhelming re-election of Mayor Andrews, who breaks the record in securing the position for the third time. The city is carried for license by a small majority, and the aldermen stand five to three in favor of the granting of them. Ex-Mayor Parsons cut a small figure in the contest. Mayor Andrews' plurality will reach 1200. The citizens rejected the act for the purchase of the water works by an emphatic vote. The park act was carried. The majority in the city council on a joint ballot is largely Republican.

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 7.—The Republicans swept everything before them and succeeded in electing Oliver Taylor mayor, all but one alderman and a majority of the common council. The city goes for license by 563 majority.

HOLYOKE, Dec. 7.—The city election was the biggest sort of a surprise. The size of Farr's majority was a source of wonder to everybody, his plurality being 949. The most hopeful of the Republican workers did not expect anything at all so large. The city voted against license.

Big Vote Against License.
LAWRENCE, Mass., Dec. 7.—The city election was a surprise to the prominent politicians. The unusually large vote against license can be considered as a rebuke to the wholesale liquor dealers, who, it is claimed, were responsible in a great degree for the scandals which have caused the present board of aldermen to be suspected of submitting to crooked influences in regard to granting 44 liquor licenses last April. The Republicans have elected their mayor, all the aldermen and 15 of the 18 common councilmen, while the Democrats elected 3 councilmen and 1 member of the school committee.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 7.—The total vote for mayor was 3840, and Mayor Henry Winn's majority was 390. He carried every ward in the city, the exception being ward 2, which gave Pierce a majority of 98. Ward 6 was supposed to be a Pierce stronghold, but Winn carried it by 26 votes. Mayor Winn carried his own ward by 107 votes, while Mayor Pierce lost his ward by 54 votes. The no-license people were made happy, having carried the city by 1008, an increased majority of nearly 800 over last year.

MARLBORO, Mass., Dec. 7.—An unusually large vote was polled here. John O'Connor, a leading shoe manufacturer and a Democrat, who was endorsed by the Republicans, was elected over James T. Murphy, the regular Democratic nominee. The great fight of the day was over the license question.

The Largest in Its History.
NEW BEDFORD, Dec. 7.—Jethro C. Brock was elected mayor of this city by a plurality of 249 votes. The total vote was the largest in the city's history.

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 7.—The election in Newton was the quietest ever held in the city. It resulted in the complete success of the Citizens' ticket.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 7.—The Democrats made a pretty clean sweep, re-electing Mayor O'Donnell by a plurality of 253. This is looked upon as an endorsement of his fight against the railroads.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 7.—The election resulted in some surprises, chief of which was the majority of 987 against license. Jabez L. Peck was re-elected over O. W. Robbins by a plurality of 205.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 7.—Although Somerville largely increased her no license majority, that issue was not the one about which the election revolved. The slaughter house defenders were slaughtered without mercy, although Professor Norton passed the thousand mark by a close shave in a total vote that fell below the figures of the national election by about 200.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 7.—The Republicans made an almost clean sweep in the municipal election here, electing every candidate except six councilmen.

TAUNTON, Dec. 7.—A quiet election was the feature of the election. The license vote has almost paralyzed the friends of license.

WALTHAM, Mass., Dec. 7.—Temperance people have surprised this town this year, and have carried every ward in the city for "No license." Erskine Warden, the Republican candidate, was elected mayor.

WOBURN, Mass., Dec. 7.—The triangular fight is over, and Philip K. A. Richardson, the Republican candidate, is mayor-elect. The result of the license vote was hardly a surprise, as for a month past it has been in the air that it would be no license.

The Following Cities Voted for License.
Northampton, Holyoke, Gloucester, Springfield, Marlboro, Fitchburg, New Bedford, Haverhill.

No License.
Woburn, Waltham, Chicopee, Taunton, Lawrence, Fall River, Pittsfield, Newton, Malden, Quincy, Somerville, Chelsea, Brockton.

AN ITALIAN DRUNK

Places One Participant in the Hospital. Another in the Tombs.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—There was a very exciting fire in the Italian tenement house, 275 and 277 North street, at 6:30 o'clock last night, and one of the occupants of the house, Celestino Fiorito, 53 years old, is at the Massachusetts general hospital, badly burned about the face and hands.

Fiorito and a female companion, named Marion Jones, were in the room where the blaze originated, and had, it is said, been drinking freely. During the carousal a kerosene lamp was overturned, and in trying to extinguish the blaze, Fiorito was burned and the Jones woman was slightly burned on the nose. He was sent to the hospital, and she was locked up at station 1 charged with drunkenness. The building is of brick, five stories in height, and is owned by J. T. Bartlett. It was damaged to the extent of $1000. Damage to occupants will not exceed $75.

THE ROTHSCHILD PROPOSALS.

The Scheme, Withdrawn from Further Consideration in the Congress.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 7.—The international monetary conference resumed its sitting and continued its discussion of the report of the committee which examined the Rothschild proposals. After a speech by Sir C. Rivers Wilson, a member of the British delegation, Mr. Rothschild announced that he withdrew his scheme from the further consideration of the congress. Baron de Rothschild withdrew his plan Sir C. Fremantle, deputy master of the English mint, declared himself ready to support any reasonable measure to solve the silver problem effectively.

Sir William Houldsworth of the British delegation, who is a metallist, announced that he had prepared a fresh proposal to be presented immediately. Delegate MacCreary thereupon declared that the Rothschild plan was insufficient, and then Mr. Rothschild announced that he withdrew his plan from the consideration of the conference.

Horribly Burned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Dora Kelley was horribly burned in a fire, which originated in the third story of a business house on Seventh street, where she lived with her husband, and died at the emergency hospital. The woman was rendered insensible by the dense smoke that filled the room. When the fire department arrived on the scene and an outlet was made for the smoke the fire broke out afresh, and before the woman could be rescued she was so badly burned that when removed she was in a dying condition.

The Jesuit Orders.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The Tageblatt states that the Jesuit general, Father Martin, has gone to Cologne to prepare for the return of the Jesuit order to the empire. This the Tageblatt assumes, is proof that the political deal between the government and the clericals has been consummated. The conditions of this deal were that the clericals should support the military bill in return for a bill for the readmission of the Jesuit orders.

Without Food or Clothing.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Great suffering exists among the 30,000 non-union cotton spinners involved in the Lancashire strike. Many of them have been overtaken by the severity of the weather, while penniless and out of work, and consequently they have neither sufficient clothing nor food for their families. They will make an appeal for aid to the unionist strikers.

Against the Triple Alliance.

ROME, Dec. 7.—Ex-Premier Crispien made in Parliament another speech against the Triple Alliance. Rather than make more sacrifice for the sake of her army and navy, he said, Italy should let the Triple Alliance go its way without her.

Senator Gibson's Condition.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 7.—Senator Gibson's condition is unchanged. He is lying at the point of death, and the physicians are surprised at the amount of vitality he possesses, which kept him up this long.

Worcester's Public Building.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The annual estimates prepared by the treasury department and sent to congress include appropriations of $100,000 to complete the public building at Worcester, Mass., and $18,500 for laundry and repairing buildings at the marine hospital at Boston.

A SHORE LINE TRAIN

Wrecked Near South Auburn, Near Providence.

TRACKS HEAVY WITH HAIL AND SNOW.

Passengers Shaken Up, Engineer and Fireman Injured.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 7.—The "flyer" on the Shore line route, due at 7 p. m. and at Boston at 8 o'clock, was wrecked at South Auburn, five miles from Providence, last evening. The "flyer" left New London on time, and was running at its regular high speed, having a straight track before it. When the heavy train was rushing into South Auburn the "flyer" crashed into the rear end of a special freight which had been started from New London and given a pace that was thought would keep it out of the way of the big express. The tracks being heavy with hail and snow probably made the special freight train lose time. The crash was terrific. The big locomotive went plunging through the end of the freight train. The passengers were thrown from their seats, and great confusion was at once created. Everybody on the train believed a frightful catastrophe had happened. Fortunately their fears were not realized, for but two people were hurt. They were the engineer of the "flyer" and a brakeman on the special freight.

The injured engineer is August Kurno. He resides at New Haven, is 46 years of age and married. His wife's people live at South Norwalk, Conn. The injured brakeman is William W. Lester. He is 22 years of age and resides at New London. Kurno's left ear was badly cut. Kurno was sent to Dr. Peckham's office. The big engine of the "flyer" was badly wrecked. It had carried its way through several fully packed box freight cars. The wrecked freight cars were set on fire, and a portion of them was burned.

DAMAGED BY FIRE.

The Public Ledger's Massive Building at Philadelphia Abazed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—The Public Ledger building, a massive six-story brown stone front structure on the southwest corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, and running through to Sansom street, was damaged by fire last night to the extent of $250,000, of which $150,000 is sustained by The Ledger and $50,000 by tenants.

The Ledger's insurance aggregates $40,000—$100,000 on the building and $80,000 on the contents. The other occupants are believed to be fully insured.

The collection of curios in the private office of George W. Childs, The Ledger's owner and publisher, which are inestimable in value, were saved. The damage to the building is $100,000. About half of the structure was gutted by fire and water. The flames were confined to the fourth floor and all above, and the portions below were flooded.

THE SANDBAG.

A Charleston Storekeeper Assaulted by Two Ruffians Now at Large.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—A daring assault and robbery occurred in broad daylight in the store of Louis Cohen, 412 Main street, Charleston, yesterday. Two young men entered the place and asked Mr. Cohen to change a $5 bill. He took a handful of change from the cash box to change the bill, when one of them made a grab for it and the other struck him in the back of the neck with a sandbag.

He dropped to the floor, and the young men made off with about $5 of his money. In their hurry to escape the sandbag was dropped on the floor of the store. Mr. Cohen was not seriously injured, and he reported the case and described the men.

Hope Abandoned.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Hope for the safety of Rev. S. F. McCleary has been banished from the minds of his friends. It is now generally admitted that he ended his life by jumping from the steamer Plymouth into the waters of Long Island sound last Friday night. He could not reach his ideal of what a minister should be; hence his rash act. Everything Mr. McCleary has done, every note he has written and every word he has left with anybody since leaving his boarding house last Thursday, indicates that he was carrying out a settled line of action, based upon his over conscientiousness. He has taken pains to pay every penny of his indebtedness, even sending Dr. Francis $2 which he owed him for services.

Struck by a Train.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 7.—While walking on the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad at East Cambridge yesterday afternoon, Steven Colpress was struck by the 5:30 train and badly used up. The man had an arm broken, was cut about the head and was injured internally. Colpress worked for a carriage manufacturer on Gore street, East Cambridge.

Dry Goods Merchant Found Dead.

TYTUSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 7.—Lehman Uhlman, the leading dry goods merchant of this city, was found dead at his home with a bullet hole in his right temple. His wife found the body lying on a sofa in the parlor when she came down to breakfast. A revolver was lying on his shoulder. Uhlman was about 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and a 2-year-old son. He was quite wealthy.

Kossuth's Sickness Confirmed.

VIENNA, Dec. 7.—A letter just received from Pesth by Herr Holfy, a friend of Kossuth, from Kossuth's son, fully confirms the reports of the grave sickness of the Hungarian patriot. The son writes that his father's condition is such as to inspire the most serious fears that he is getting steadily weaker, and is troubled with a tormenting cough, and the worst is expected.

Three-Story Factory for Waltham.

WALTHAM, Mass., Dec. 7.—The Waltham Dial company has purchased a lot of land on Crescent park and will soon build thereon a three-story factory. The new building is expected to be ready for occupancy by May 1. The company will employ about 300 people. Daniel O'Hara is at the head of the concern.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was billed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

West Quincy Man

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

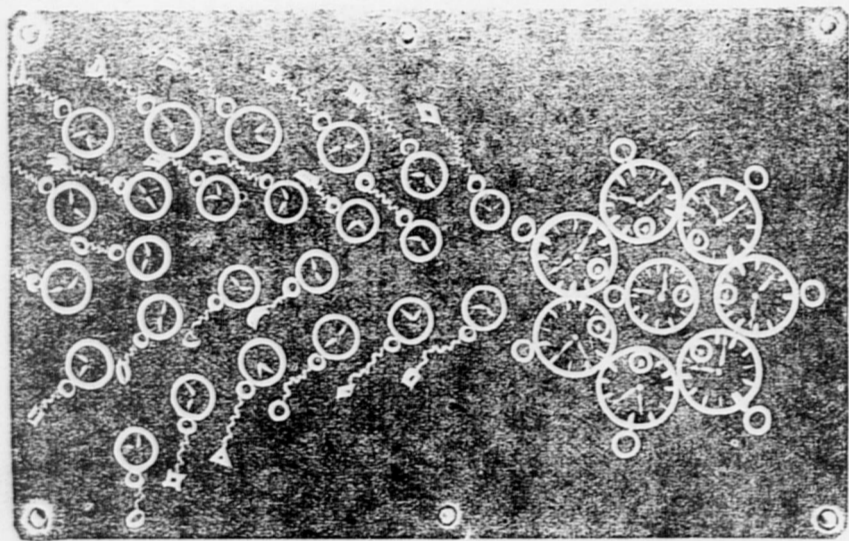

NOW ON EXHIBITION

in the show windows of

WILLIAMS,

The Jeweller.

Hundreds of people come from all parts of the city to gaze on the curiosity, and we have had our special artist make a picture of the celestial wonder for the benefit of the readers of this paper.

THE COMET AS SEEN BY AN ORDINARY TELESCOPE.

Scores of people are buying fragments of the Comet, and will keep them as souvenirs. If you wish to be among the lucky ones you should

CALL EARLY,

as you may not have a chance to obtain a piece of another Comet for perhaps a million years, and you will all be old by that time, and curiosities will cease to have any charms for you.

Now is Your Time.

Magazine Club.

The Magazine Club held a special meeting with Miss Ella M. Freeman, on Tuesday evening, and completed the business laid over from the annual meeting.

The officers for the year of '92 were unanimously re-elected and are as follows: Mr. Frederick H. Smith, President and Treasurer.
Mr. Thomas B. Pollard, Assistant Treasurer.
Miss Kate A. Raycroft, Secretary.

The magazines for the past year were auctioned by Mr. T. B. Pollard, and quite a sum of money realized from the sale.

The list for the new year comprises the following named periodicals: Arena, Art Amateur, Life, Atlantic Century, London Graphic, North American Review, Harper's Weekly, Harper's monthly, Popular Science Monthly, St. Nicholas and Review of Reviews.

The People's Course.

The third entertainment in the People's Star Course will be given in Hancock Hall, December 8th, by the Boston Star Entertainers. This company consist of "Judge" William B. Green the well known humorist and story teller, Miss Minnie M. Peek the celebrated contralto, L. C. Staas the leading clarinet player in this country, and Miss Downer the accomplished piano soloist.

The Norfolk Downs car will run to the Wollaston depot leaving there at 7.15. The Wollaston car will start from front of Hancock hall at the close of the entertainment.

Betterment of the Highways.

The Massachusetts Highway Commission will give a Public Hearing on the subject of "Improvement of the Highways of this Commonwealth" on Saturday, Dec. 10th, at 10 A. M., at the Court House, in Dedham.

Invitations have been sent to the officials of all the towns in Norfolk County. All persons interested in the subject are cordially invited to attend.

"The Heart of the Rockies."

Mr. Penniman's new lecture "The Heart of the Rockies," with nearly 100 of what are promised to be the finest views of American scenery ever shown in Quincy, will be given at Hancock Hall this evening. The members of Paul Revere W. R. C. have sold a large number of tickets and they expect that a full house will greet the former "Quincy boy," who has become one of the best known lecturers on the platform.

Souden-Levick.

A large number of friends were present at the marriage Monday evening of Mr. William Souden and Miss Annie Levick, the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Levick. Rev. D. M. Wilson officiated.

After the wedding supper there was singing and dancing. The happy couple received many presents and good wishes.

The Election Extra.

An extra edition of the LEDGER of over 1,000 copies was issued at six o'clock this morning. It contained the full vote of the city and a portrait and sketch of the successful Mayoralty candidate; also the message of President Harrison to Congress.

The result of Tuesday's vote, that C. W. Guy was elected to furnish the citizens anything desired in the furniture line for the expenditure of a small amount of money.

FAIRBANKS FOR A THIRD TERM.

It Was a Happy Disappointment to the Republicans Who Had Given It Up.

With Ward Four to Hear From Mayor Fairbanks Had a Lead of 211.

The Unexpected Happened, and Mr. Hodges' Majority Was Reduced in That Ward from 253 to 187.

The Republicans Have a Majority of One in the City Council Without Charles Francis Adams, 2d.

Before the polls closed yesterday the Republicans conceded the election of the Democratic nominee for Mayor, Hon. William A. Hodges. If they had any doubt it was dispelled at 4.30 when it was given out that Ward Two had increased Mr. Hodges majority from 6 to about 80, and that Mayor Fairbanks had lost in Ward One and Three.

The first authentic news received at City Hall was the vote of Wollaston, Ward Five, which came by telephone at 7.50. It was a handsome vote for Mayor Fairbanks, the majority being 248, an increase of 53 over 1891.

At 8.25 the vote of Ward One was announced, and Mayor Fairbanks had lost 16. The official vote of Ward Two came at 8.55 and the early report was verified. The returns gave Mr. Hodges a lead of 77.

Many rumors had reached City Hall from Ward Three which placed Mr. Hodges from 25 to 75 ahead. Therefore the vote at 8.55, showing his lead to be but 7 was welcome news to the Republicans.

The total of the five wards gave Mayor Fairbanks a lead of 211, but for all this the courage of the Republicans had ebbed. Few saw any chance of victory, for Ward Four had given a Democratic majority of 253 the year before. About the only one who did not give it up was a young man who had bet $35 and three pair of patent leather shoes on Fairbanks.

Ward Four came at last. Secretary Adams of the Republican committee of Ward One was at the telephone, and he could scarcely believe the figures, which were as follows:

	HODGES,	421
	FAIRBANKS,	234

This was a majority of 187 for Mr. Hodges and he needed 212, and it suddenly dawned upon the crowd assembled that Mayor Fairbanks was re-elected, and the Republicans went wild with enthusiasm.

Many still had doubts as to the accuracy of the telephonic report but it was soon verified by messengers, and Republican stock was inflated.

Mayor Fairbanks was summoned by telephone, it being necessary for his Wollaston friends to get him out of bed. His Honor was indisposed and had retired early, satisfied that he had been defeated. The Mayor's arrival was the occasion for another outburst, and he was heartily congratulated.

The returns below give Mayor Fairbanks 24 majority but there is thought to be a mistake in one of the ward returns which will reduce it 4.

The Republicans have also elected 4 of the 5 Councilmen at large, Messrs. Drake, Holden, Shackley and Badger, and the Democrats the popular candidate from Ward Five, Charles T. Baker.

Eight of the 18 ward Councilmen are Republicans, 9 Democrats and 1 was the candidate of both parties. This makes the Council of 1893 composed as follows: 12 Republicans, 10 Democrats, and 1 the candidate of both parties.

The no-license majority is very gratifying to the temperance workers. The majority was 80 larger than last year and with one exception the largest ever given in the city. The No vote 1890 represents over a majority of the voters of the city, and it pleasing to note the small number of blanks. Every ward gave a no-license majority varying from 59 in Ward Six to 319 in Ward Five.

Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan had no rival as a candidate for School Committee at large, and received a complimentary vote. Chairman Crane is re-elected in Ward Three and James F. Harlow defeated Joseph L. Whiton in Ward Two.

The full vote of the city is appended, including the blanks, and shows the majorities by wards on the mayoralty and license votes:

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

The report that Charles Francis Adams was seriously ill is not a fact. It is his wife who has been sick.

Franklin Jacobs, as district deputy, will visit Winthrop lodge, I. O. O. F., at South Abington tomorrow evening.

This was one of the mornings when sand was needed on the sidewalks. The lively snow squall of last evening left them icy.

Mr. George L. Phillips has purchased Mr. Hazen Ricker's estate on Union street and will remove from the Point the latter part of the month.

Mr. Zenas H. Sidelinger who recently bought the South street property, belonging to the late Mrs. Sarah Kingman, has put the house in thorough repair and rented the same to Mr. A. Bradford Hayden.

The members of the I. S. S. Club are to give a dramatic entertainment in aid of the choir fund of the Universalist Church, in the vestry tomorrow night. See advertisement.

Mr. Shirley F. Nutting of South Quincy, was surprised Tuesday evening by a number of friends who presented him with a handsome ring, the occasion being his seventeenth birthday. J. H. Pierce made the presentation speech.

If you are happy over the results of the election, then celebrate by taking your friends to hear the Boston Star entertainers at Hancock Hall, Thursday night. "Judge" Green is a humorist of the highest order.

The spreading of the rails on the siding at South Quincy this morning caused the engine of the early morning freight to leave the rails. A wrecker came out from Boston and every thing was straightened out at 9 o'clock. There was no delay of trains on the main line.

A Recount for Mayor.

Democrats are already circulating petitions for a recount of the Mayoralty vote. They have nothing to lose and there is a possibility but hardly a probability that it will change the result. The counting in Quincy is usually very accurate.

Wedding Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor, who were married at the New Jerusalem Church, Brockton, on the eighteenth of October, gave a quiet reception at the residence of Mr. E. F. Taylor, Hancock street, Wollaston, on Tuesday evening. There were a large number of guests present and the whole affair was characterized by its elegant simplicity.

K. of H. Officers.

Wollaston Lodge, K. of H., elected these officers at its meeting Monday evening:

P. D.—Arthur P. Gardner.
D.—Charles A. Stevens.
V. D.—George W. Brown.
A. D.—F. W. White.

MAYORALTY VOTES OF THE PAST.

A Summary by Parties Which Will Prove Interesting at This Time.Quincy has been a city nearly four years, and the mayoralty vote at the four elections in 1887, 1889, 1890 and 1891, as given below, will afford an interesting study:

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

	One.	Two.	Three.	Four.	Five.	Six.	Total
1888, Charles H. Porter,	271	207	264	182	229	105	1258
1889, Charles H. Porter,	233	193	210	205	149	112	1099
1890, H. O. Fairbanks,	265	193	241	191	177	127	1194
1891, H. O. Fairbanks,	235	213	270	188	258	160	1364

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

1888, William A. Hodges,	188	162	190	313	36	94	983
1889, Jason G. Witham,	164	157	144	234	84	93	906
1890, Jason G. Witham,	177	183	206	359	94	110	1129
1891, William A. Hodges,	225	219	249	441	63	126	1323

LICENSE VOTE.

For Twelve Consecutive Election Quincy had declined to Grant Licenses.

Here are the votes on the license question since 1882:

Year.	No.	Yes.	Total.	Majority.	Silent.
1882,	1057	457	1514	600	75
1883,	1086	458	1544	628	126

ELECTION ECHOES.

A desperate effort was made by the Democratic city committee to unseat Councilman Moxon in Ward Six, but he came out at the top of the heap, although Mr.
Hodges carried the ward.Councilman Federhen, Jr., is still solid with the voters of Ward Two, being the leading candidate.There were about as many blanks for Councilmen at large as usual.Wollaston, as usual, came out of the fight on the top of the heap with the Mayor and four Councilmen. Wollaston has the most astute political managers of any ward in the city. Good organization is the first step towards success. This ward, with its great Republican majority, is an important factor in the government of Quincy.Janitor Shirley says he hoisted the Fair-bank's flag over the Lincoln school building at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning.The soberest man at City Hall last night was Walter M. Packard. He even looked sadder than he did when he asked Dr.
Everett to sign that paper for Hodges.There was a great cutting on the head of the ticket.The air at City Hall was blue until nearly 10 o'clock when it flashed up like a rocket and was a bright red.The Democratic voters of Ward One were treated to cigars as they came out from voting.There were eighteen votes in Ward Two where the voter put his mark against the name of Hodges and "Yes" on the license question, and the balance of the ticket Republican.Mayor Fairbanks gave up the fight early in the evening and went home and retired.
When it was learned that he had been re-elected, a carriage was sent for him and he appeared at City Hall shortly before 11 o'clock. As he entered the door cheer after cheer resounded through the room.Someone proposed three cheers for Mr.
Hodges, which were given.Henry H. Faxon received two votes for school committee in Ward Three.A well known Democratic was heard to say last night. We have elected Hodges by 200 and have broken that — ring. "I have got something to say about this thing and the first man to go will be Langley."
Do not count your chickens before they are hatched.Councilman Gray and D. Vinton Pierce were a tie in Ward One.A prominent Republican when he crawled out this morning, asked the LEDGER representative, what was Mr. Hodges majority.
His face lighted up when he heard the latest.Mr. Hodges carried four of the six wards.But five of the present Councilmen were reelected, Messrs. Bass, Federhen, Jr., Sherman, Moxon and Holden. Councilman-elect Drake is an ex-Councilman.Charles F. Adams, 2d, although the candidate of both parties in Ward One received but a few more than the other successful candidates.The popularity of Charles H. Johnson in Ward Two is attested by his election as a Republican in a Democratic ward.The re-election of Emery L. Crane is gratifying. The young man had become a valuable member of the School board and there was no good reason for a change.
If there was to be a change W. H. Price would be a very acceptable man.The election officers are entitled to considerable credit for the promptness with which they counted the ballots. They all did well announcing the results before 9.30.Did Galen violate rule 5 on page 19 of the rules and regulations for the government of the Quincy fire department?The happiest man at City Hall is City Messenger Tirrell.Luther S. Anderson will be a valuable member of the City Council.The Republicans cannot account for the mayoralty vote in Ward Two.

Will it be President Bass or Moxon?

William Teasdale, the solitary Republican candidate for the Council in Ward Four, came very near an election. He was but 17 behind Mr. Donahoe.

Ward Five.

Wollaston did itself proud and came down to President's bridge with 218 plurality for Fairbanks. West Quincy, as a factor in the political world, is not in it.
Wollaston, with its great Republican vote,
holds the balance of power in this city.
Hereafter, a man to be Mayor of Quincy, has got to be able to command the full Republican vote of that ward.At 7.27 p. m. Warden Nichols declared the result of the count. At 7.30 a LEDGER representative had sent the complete returns by telephone to City Clerk Spear.A large crowd gathered at the Republican headquarters to hear the returns as Chairman Sherman received them by telephone. The prospects looked doubtful for Mayor Fairbanks until West Quincy's vote was announced as giving Hodges only 187 plurality; a loss of 65 over last year. It was then evident that Wollaston's large plurality had buried West Quincy's. In a few minutes the other wards were received and showed that Mayor Fairbanks had been re-elected by 23 plurality.Mr. W. J. Wellington was immediately deputed to wait upon Mayor Fairbanks and request his presence at the Ward Committee's headquarters. It was not yet ten o'clock, but Mr. Wellington found that every light in His Honor's house was extinguished and that he had retired wholly oblivious of the fact that he had been re-elected Mayor of Quincy.The Mayor soon appeared at the headquarters and was received with three rousing cheers. After looking over the returns he was driven to Quincy.Minnie M. Peek, the well known solo and oratorio singer appears with the Boston Star Entertainers, at Hancock Hall, Thursday night.

DR. EVERETT'S EXPENSES.

He Found It Costly to Run Against Congressman Lodge.It cost Dr. William Everett of Quincy
$3,741.33 to run his campaign in the Seventh Democratic Congressional District this fall.
The report of expenses was filed with City Clerk Galvin of Boston Tuesday morning by the District Committee. Among other expenditures was $1,050 for rallies, $1,200 for advertising, printing, etc., $508 to various committees, of which sum $423 went to the Malden Democratic Committee and $355 to men at the polls. The receipts were $3,905, of which sum $1,650 was given by the Democratic State Committee, $100 by Charles A. Prince, $500 by Henry L. Pierce, $100 by Charles Francis Adams, $500 by J.
M. Forbes, and $250 by H. W. Lamb.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepard A. Burnham of Stoughton, parents of Mrs. W. Augustus Field of this city, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in Stoughton, on Thursday, Dec. 1. Their three daughters, with other members of the family, were present to enjoy with them the occasion. They have two sons living in Oakland, Cal., who, on account of the great distance, were unable to participate in the enjoyment of the evening. Four generations were present, consisting of the aged couple, Mrs. W. A. Field and her daughter, Mrs. Pinkham, and her little daughter. The aged couple were made the recipients of quite a number of useful and pretty presents. Mr. and Mrs. Burnham were married in Quincy by Rev. John Gregory, who was pastor of the Universalist church at that time.

A Serenade.

When Osborne Rogers retired last night it was with the expectation of going to the theatre this week at someone's else expense. But just before midnight he was aroused from his peaceful slumbers by the explosion of fire crackers and fish horn music, and when he had rubbed the sleepers from his eyes he was not a great while in finding out that he was receiving a serenade from his friends in honor of Mayor Fairbanks election. Osborne will go to the theatre just the same but at his own expense.

Granite Trouble Settled.

The Granite Railway Company at Concord, N. H., settled its differences with the cutters Tuesday upon the same terms as the New England company.Work was resumed Tuesday at the New England, and will be today at Granite Railway yard.

TODAY'S COURT.

Daniel J. Gilligan of Weymouth, was arraigned for non-support of his family.
Case continued until Jan. 14.

WEYMOUTH.

The 266 convocation of Pentalfa chapter R. A. Masons received an official visit Tuesday evening from D. D. G. H. P., John A. Fogg of the capitol district and

A Thrilling Story of the War, from the Pen of a Veteran.

I was in the disastrous skirmish known as the Town Creek expedition, under General G. M. Dodge. My Company and Co. F of our regiment were ordered to support two pieces of flying artillery in advance of the main column. Only fifteen of our command reached the points designated; and in our retreat to the main army were rendered unit for duty, and sent to the hospital.
After three months, I returned to duty, and remained with my regiment until May 7, 1864, and on that day, at the battle of Bainbridge, I with thirty-three others of our regiment were taken prisoners of war. We arrived at Andersonville on or about the fifth day of June, where I remained until the last of December, during which time I contracted the scurvy to such an extent that my left leg was contracted to its utmost, being black from the foot to about half-way between the knee and hip; and in this horrible condition I left Andersonville for Florence, South Carolina, where I remained a prisoner until February 29. Our exchange papers were signed at East Ferry, making me a prisoner of war nine months and twenty days. From that day to this I have suffered from scurvy, causing indigestion and constipation to such an extent that from December 26 to March 18 I had only eight operations of the bowels. Since I was mustered out of service, July 9, 1865, I have tried the very best physicians, but they could give me very little relief. On March 17, 1880, the Kickapoo Indians came here with their remedies. I commenced taking the Indian Sagwa March 18, and had an operation of the bowels that day, and after the third day I had an operation of the bowels every day. I now have no pains.
My appetite is restored. I am gaining in strength every day, and I thank God they came here with their remedies. I am totally blind, and have been for five years, for which the government gives me a pension of seventy-two dollars per month, but I am happy and contented, thanks to Sagwa.

In conclusion, dear comrades, I will say
I want you who are suffering as I did so long with scurvy and the ills that follow it, to write to me, and I will cheerfully answer your letters for the love I bear you and suffering humanity. I am a member of Fame, Wealth, Life, Death.

What is fame?
Tis the sun gleam on the mountain
Spreading brightly ere it dies,
Tis the bubble of the fountain
Rising lightly ere it dies,
Or, if here and there a hero
Remembered through the years,
Yet to him the gain is false,
Death hath still his hopes and fears.
Yet what danger men will dare
If but only in the air
May be heard some eager mention of their name,
Though they hear it not themselves, 'tis much the same.

What is wealth?
Tis a rainbow, still receding
As the panting foot pursues,
Or a toy that, youth unheeding,
Seeks the readiest way to lose,
But the wise man keeps due measure,
Neither out of breath nor base;
He but holds in trust his treasure
For the welfare of the race.
Yet what craves some men will dare
But to gain their slender share
In some profit, though with loss of name or life.

What is life?
Tis the earthly hour of trial
For a life that's but begun,
When the prize of self denial
May be quickly lost or won;
Tis the hour when love may bourgeon
To an everlasting flower,
Or when lusts their victims urge on
To defy immortal power.
Yet how lightly men ignore
All the future holds in store, Spending brief but golden moments all in strife,
Or in suicidal madness grasp the knife.

What is death?
Past its dark, mysterious portal
Human eye may never roam;
Yet the hope still springs immortal
That it leads to better days,
Oh, the bliss that lies before us,
When the secret shall be known,
And the vast angelic chorus
Sings the hymn before the throne!
What is love or wealth or life?
Past are praises, fortune, strife;
All but love, that lives forever, cast beneath
When the good and faithful servant takes the breath.

HOW TO SKATE FAST.

An Expert Gives Some Interesting and Seasonable Information.

Joseph F. Donohue, who is recognized as the champion amateur skater of the world, in giving instructions to his friends, tells them to first learn to stand perfectly even on their skates, so that the edges of the blades will not cut the ice.
To gain headway at first, balance on the left foot, give a slight sidelong push with the right and swing the body forward. Then bring the right foot close to the left, change the balance of the body to the right foot and push with the left.

After gaining headway lean well forward and clasp the hands behind the back, letting the arms hang loosely.
This prevents the swinging and working with the arms, which should not be done except when a sharp turn is to be made.
For speed, keep as nearly in a straight line as possible for obvious reasons. A little practice in this will make it easy.
Breathing should be done altogether through the nostrils, the mouth being shut closely. If the skater, after trying to do this, finds it really impossible to do it for some people, a pad should be worn over the mouth. An elastic cord will hold it in place.

It is interesting to know, in these days when nations on skates are numerous, that Mr. Donohue thinks the best skate is a blade eighteen inches long set in a wooden foot rest, fastened in the heel by a screw and by straps at the toe and heel.

How to Exterminate Moths.
It is claimed that whole cloves are better than cedar chips, camphor or tobacco as a protection against the ravenous moth.

How to Lessen Wrinkles.
Those having a flabby skin are troubled most with wrinkles. Years ago the ladies of England used a substance called "wool fat," which they obtained by getting the clippings of sheep's wool and steeping it in alcohol. It can be prepared at home or found at the druggists. A very good pomade for the same purpose may be made from the following recipe: One ounce of wool fat, one ounce of olive oil, one ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of white wax, one-fourth of an ounce of camphor gum.

Put the camphor gum into the oil, let it stand one hour, then add the spermaceti and wax. Put all in a dish and set it in a pan of hot water over the fire. When dissolved stir until smooth, take from the fire and stir again until cold. Apply this every night before retiring, washing it off next morning with warm water.

How Some Landresses Wash Gingham.
Instead of using soap in washing bright colored prints or gingham the water is thickened with flour starch.
Flour is cleansing and it here does the work of soap without fading the bright colors.

WHAT CRISP ADVISES.

Leading Democrats in Conference with the Speaker.

SPRINGER ON TENTATIVE TARIFF BILLS.

Statement Prepared for House and Senate Appropriations Committee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A number of leading Democratic representatives were in conference with Speaker Crisp, for the purpose of talking over several matters which are soon to come up for consideration in the house. Among other subjects discussed was an extra session of the congress to change the time for meeting of congress to after March 4, instead of the first Monday in December. The introduction of the bill for that purpose by General Crook of Mississippi and his announcement that he intends to press its consideration at the earliest moment, brings the question at once before the house. Speaker Crisp, however, informed those who were in conference with him that all propositions for an extra session or of changing the time for meeting of the next congress had better be deferred for the present. After some further discussion on this and kindred subjects the matter was postponed to such time as the speaker might indicate.

INCREASED APPROPRIATIONS.

The Statement Prepared for the House and Senate Committees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—According to a statement prepared by Messrs. Courts and Cleaves, clerks to the house and senate committees on appropriations, respectively, the excess of estimated revenues over the estimated appropriations for 1894 will be $24,900,000. This is exclusive of $48,000,000 for the sinking fund, and also exclusive of deficiencies and miscellaneous appropriations. The excess of estimated revenues (exclusive of deficiencies and miscellaneous) over the estimated appropriations for 1894, is $25,350,000, making the net increase of estimates for 1894 over 1893, $15,929,241.
Increase estimates of regular annual appropriations for 1893, $23,770,507; reduction estimates of permanent and annual appropriations for 1894, under permanent annual appropriations for 1893, $6,385, or $123,034 more; for the District of Columbia, $5,602,125, or $1,455,571 more. For fortifications, $8,386,607, or $4,038,029 more;
for Indian affairs, $8,038,907, or $459,163 more; legislative, executive and judiciary bill, $25,754,038, or $75,982 more; for the post office department, $80,323,491, or $9,917,042 more. For river and harbor improvements, no estimate is made, making the estimated reduction in river and harbor appropriations for next year $21,154, 218.

TENTATIVE TARIFF BILLS.

How the Chairman of Ways and Means Committee Would Treat Them.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Chairman Springer of the ways and means committee has indicated to a number of his friends and also to the Democratic members of the ways and means committee his purpose to take up the remaining tentative tariff bills before his committee and report them to the house. He regards the verdict of the people at the recent election as clearly in favor of the policy of the last congress relative to tariff revision. The people, he says, want free raw material, and he proposes to push all the bills before his committee, including coal, iron ore, salt and lumber, with as little delay as possible.
There are several Democratic members of the committee, however, who do not agree with their chairman in this matter.
They are opposed to going any further in the tentative direction, believing that a general tariff revision should be made, and the indications are that several of the bills will elapse before any decision is reached in the matter.

THE HEBREW CONGREGATIONS.

Officers Elected at Their Biennial Convention Now in Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The biennial convention of the Union of American Hebrew congregations was called to order yesterday morning by its president, Julius Freiberg. Delegates were present from all parts of the country. A temporary organization was effected by the election of Charles B. Baskin of New York as president, and Leopold Wertheimer of Pittsburgh as vice president; Lipman Levy of Cincinnati, secretary, and Benny Salinger of Philadelphia, assistant secretary.
A letter was read stating that the late J. D. Bernd of Pittsburgh, in his will, had donated $2500 to the Hebrew Union college of Cincinnati. The reports of the various officers were presented to the convention without being read, after which a recess was taken.

Commissioner Douglas made a speech at a banquet last evening, and the delegates called on President Harrison today.

Champion Corbett Arrested.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—James Corbett, champion pugilist and professional actor, was legally arrested in this city yesterday afternoon. Corbett will appear at the sheriff's office and give bail in the sum of $3000. The defendant was not taken into custody, and appeared at the Grand Opera house as usual. The action against Gentleman Jack was brought by Joseph
A. Lannon, the well-known Boston pugilist. The suit is brought to recover the sum of $5000 damages for an alleged breach of contract. Lannon alleges that Corbett made an agreement to fight with him (Lannon) a number of rounds at Lannon's exhibition at Music hall, which was billed to take place on the evening of March 15 last. Corbett failed to show up on the night in question.

Took the Oath of Office.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Thomas F. Gilroy was sworn in as mayor of the city of New York by Mayor Grant yesterday afternoon.

PASSAMAQUODDY INDIANS

Appeal to Massachusetts Governor for Restoration of Their Rights.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—The Passamaquoddy tribe of Indians, who live on and near Lewes Island, Me., claim that their rights have been taken away from them,
and now demand that they be restored.
The courts of Maine have decided against them, and as Maine was a part of Massachusetts when the Indian treaty was declared in 1770, they appealed to the governor and council of this state to empower the attorney general to take the cases which are now pending in the supreme courts of Maine, and carry them before the supreme court of the United States for trial.

The right which they claim they have been deprived of that to hunt and fish at all seasons of the year. They also allege unjust treatment in other matters.
They say the Penobscot tribe of Indians at Oldtown is treated with the greatest consideration, and they ask why these rights should be any discrimination. The tribe is one of the largest in the east, and has organized to fight the decision of the court until all legal remedies are exhausted. The executive council will, on Dec. 14, give the Indians a hearing on their petition.

THE CHOSEN ONES.

The Personnel of the New Canadian Ministry Made Known.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—A government paper gives the following as the personnel of the new ministry:
Sir John Thompson, premier and minister of justice.
McKenzie Bowell, trade and commerce.
G. E. Foster, finance.
Sir A. P. Caron, postmaster general.
John Costigan, secretary of state.
C. H. Tupper, marine and fisheries.
John Haggart, railways and canals.
J. A. Oulmet, public works.
J. C. Paterson, militia.
T. M. Daly, interior.
A. R. Angers, agriculture.
W. B. Ives, president of the privy council.

Sir John Abbott, Hon. John Carling and Hon. Frank Smith, ministers without portfolio.

The above form the cabinet.

J. J. Curran is made solicitor general;
N. Clarke Wallace, controller of customs;
J. F. Wood, controller of land revenue.

TO SETTLE CROCKERS.

What Mgr. Sotolli Has to Say Regarding Recent Reports Published.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Mgr. Sotolli, papal legate to the United States, says, respecting the report that he had been appointed by the pope to settle all religious questions between the priests and bishops in the United States: "It is true that by letters dated from the beginning of last month, I have received authority to examine and decide, without appeal, the controversies arising between bishops and priests, etc., in the United States. But it is absurd to suppose that I am to settle the place as authority of a pope in the American church. As to Cardinal Gibbons, for whom the apostolic legate entertains the highest veneration and a special affection, he preserves all the dignity and authority which belong to his office.
There is no reason for surprise in this case, as the pope is accustomed to send legates from time to time to various countries on similar missions and with similar powers."

Two Men Asphyxiated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Two men who were registered at the Home Made Hotel on Greenwich street, yesterday, as Henry Burg and Peter L. Sotolli, were found asphyxiated in their room. The gas in the room was turned on, and the men had evidently blown out on the flame. From papers found on their bodies it is thought that the men were from the state of Washington. Three companions, who had registered with the dead men, left the hotel early this morning without inquiring for their friends. This action was thought to be queer by the police, and they are looking for the men.

Newspaper Sued.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 7.—A libel suit has been brought against Editor D. A. Buck by the Cambridge City of Canada, a Robert B. Baneroff, for an alleged libelous article which appeared in The News last week, implicating him in connection with the proceedings in a gambling house in Cambridge. The suit will come up in the local court Thursday morning, and some interesting developments of a sensational nature are expected.

Short of Orders.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 7.—Because of a lack of orders, the Bessemer rail mill of the Bethlehem Iron company shut down yesterday morning, and 150 men are thrown out of work. The armor plate and gun construction for the government, in the ordnance works, will not be affected. The Carnegie works are not making rails, and the few plants now working are on short time. President R.
P. Linderman says the mill will start up as soon as possible.

Report Made Public.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7.—The committee appointed by the Quebec convention to investigate the affairs of the Montreal and Sorel Railway company have made public their report. The report declares that there was considerable irregularity in connection with the payment of the subsidy to the company, and recommends that in future no subsidies be paid in advance.

HIS PARENTS' GRAVES.

A Boston Man Sacrifices the Deed as Security for a Money Loan.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Some time ago a man named George Sellers obtained a loan from a money lender named Charles A.
Loud, giving as security a deed to the lot in Mt. Hope cemetery in which his parents were buried, and promising to remove the bodies in case the money was not paid.
Sellers disappeared. The money lender note and Mr. Loud applied to the trustees of the cemetery for the transference of the title to him, but he received a decided set-back, for they refused to record it, sanding upon the ground that no sale of any lot in Mt. Hope cemetery is legitimate which is made in violation of their regulations, one of which stipulates that no body shall be removed without their consent. They hold that bodies buried in the cemetery are in their care, and are entitled to protection against an outrage such as the present disinterment would be. They know of no place where the bodies can be reinterred except in the paper's lot, and they refuse to be party to an act which would bring indignity upon the dead. Mr. Loud proposes to take possession of the lot and have the bodies removed.

THREE YEARS' IMPRISONMENT.

A Nephew of the Late Comptroller Knox
Sentenced in Mexico.

ELMHURST, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Word has been received in this city from Mexico to the effect that Robert J. Knox, formerly of Elmira, has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Belam prison on the charge of obtaining diamonds from merchants of that place under false pretenses. Knox is a lawyer, a son of the late Rev. W. E. Knox of this city and a Presbyterian clergyman, well known throughout the state, and a nephew of the deceased ex-comptroller of the currency by that name. Knox went to Mexico as agent for an electric light company whose scheme failed, and he and his wife were left stranded. It is claimed that he then bought a large quantity of diamonds with worthless drafts, pawned some of the diamonds, and was fleeing from the country when arrested. He has been writing pious appeals to friends here for $2000 to settle his case, and a movement was on foot to raise the money for him when word came that he had been sentenced.
Mrs. Knox, who was arrested with her husband, is supposed to be in prison.
Her father also was a clergyman, Rev.
Mr. Bush of Dansville, N. Y.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—Rector Ahlwardt experienced a reverse in the Moabit criminal court, where he is being tried for libelling
the Ludwig-Low company, gunmakers, and Lieutenant Colonel Kuehne. Yesterday Ahlwardt demanded that Count Hohenhaub, Freiherr von Wachenbarth and Dr. Pasch be summoned to testify.
These gentlemen, he said, had overheard
a conversation between himself, Kuehne and Lieutenant Colonel Kuehne, in which the latter spoke in a deprecatory manner of the government gun inspectors. The gentlemen were summoned, appeared and testified unanimously that they had heard no such conversation.

Preferred Stealing to Work.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—F. H. Randall of North Abington came to Boston yesterday afternoon and hired two young men to return with him as employees. All three started to drive back last evening, but the young men changed their minds about going with him. They jumped from the team and took with them the seven novel open mois-teners in boxes and a leather case belonging to Randall.

THE POPULAR MAYOR.

Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks Elected for a Third Term.

He Has a Majority of 20 Over the Democratic Candidate.

New Council Will be Composed of 12 Republicans and 11 Democrats.

Again have the Republicans triumphed, and for the fifth consecutive year elected their candidate for Mayor of the city. It will be the third term of Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, the young, fearless and popular executive, and the DAILY LEDGER congratulates him on his success.

Mayor Fairbanks needs no introduction to LEDGER readers. He has been prominent in the government since Quincy became a city. He served two years in the City Council, being elected each time by the largest vote given any Ward Five Candidate.

In 1889 he served on the standing committee on Fire Department, Police, Ordinances, Licenses, Printing and Rules and Order. He quickly came to the front in that body as an able debater and for conscientious hard work.

President Federhen of the Council of 1889, having declined a re-election to the Council of 1890, the choice of presiding officer was unanimous for Mr. Fairbanks, if we except the vote that gentlemen cast.

As President of the City Council he gave the city faithful service and much of his time. He was a close student of the city charter, city ordinances, rates of order and parliamentary proceedings, and his rulings were always prompt and never over-ruled.

So faithfully did he perform his duty that he naturally became a leader, and upon the retirement of Mayor Porter he was selected as the Republican candidate for Mayor. This was in 1890 and he was elected to that important office. Again in 1891 and now for the third time is he successful.

The record of Mayor Fairbanks during his two terms as chief executive of this city are too well known to need much comment at this time. He has been a hardworking conscientious public servant. He has associated with him as department officials some of the best known and most respected citizens who have given a business-like and clean administration, which the voters seem to appreciate.

Business and Social Life.

Mr. Fairbanks was born in Boston, June 21, 1852, and completed his education at the English High in 1869. He entered the office of the large flour merchant, Nazro Company. In 1880 he went into the flour business for himself, and is agent for three large mills in the West. His father was one of the founders of Wollaston. Mr. Fairbanks moved thither at the time of his marriage in 1875. He has been prominent in Wollaston society, being a charter member of Wollaston Lodge, K. of H., and its first Dictator, and also of Woodbine Lodge, K. and L. of H., of which he is Past Protector. He is a member of the Royal Arcanum. He was also prominent in the formation of the new Unitarian Society at Wollaston and take a deep interest in the Sunday School.

He is also a Past Master of Rural Lodge of Masons, and a few years ago was the Right Worthy District Deputy Grand Master of the Twenty-fourth Masonic District.

The DAILY LEDGER extends its hearty congratulations to Mayor-elect Fairbanks

ABOUT BLACK-LISTS.

Decision of Importance to Mill Owners and Employes.

THE CASE OF FALL RIVER WEAVERS

Acted Upon by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Boston, Dec. 6.—Treasurer John Waring of the Narragansett mills of Fall River, and John Harrison, superintendent of the same mills, will not be ordered to respond to a suit brought against them by some employes who, it is alleged, had been black-listed for refusing to work at a scale of wages fixed by the mill owners. This is the decision of the full bench of the supreme court in a decision sent down in the case of Dinah Worthington and others against Treasurer Waring and Superintendent Harrison. The court says:

The Decision.
We take the substance of the petition to be that the petitioners were weavers by trade and had been employed by the Narragansett mills, a corporation in Fall River, and that they demanded higher wages, which the corporation refused to give whereupon they left their work, and the defendants sent their names to the officers of other mills in Fall River on a list which is called a black-list, and which informed these officers that the petitioners had left the Narragansett mills on what is called a strike, and that the defendants conspired together and with the officers of other mills, and agreed not to employ the petitioners, with intent to control them either to go without work in Fall River, or to go back to work for the Narragansett mills, at such wages as that corporation should see fit to pay them. It does not appear by the petition that any of the petitioners had existing contracts for labor with which the defendants interfered.

If the petition sets forth such a conspiracy as constitutes a misdemeanor at common law, on which we express no opinion, the

If the injury which had been received by the petitioners at the time the petition was filed constituted a cause of action, on which we express no opinion, the remedy is by an action of tort, to be brought by each petitioner separately. The only grievance alleged, which is continuing in its nature, is the conspiracy not to employ the petitioners, and there are no approved precedents in equity for enjoining the defendants from continuing such conspiracy or for compelling the defendants either to employ the petitioners or to procure employment for them with other persons.

It is plain, however, that the petition was drawn with a view to obtain some equitable relief. It is well known that equity has, in general, no jurisdiction to restrain the commission of crimes or to assess damages for torts already committed. Courts of equity often protect property from threatened injury when the rights of property are equitable, or when, although the rights are legal, the civil and criminal remedies at common law are not adequate; but the rights which the petitioners allege the defendants were violating at the time the petition was filed are personal rights, as distinguished from rights of property.

The counsel for the petitioners contends that the petition can be maintained under statute of 1887, chapter 383, and it has been suggested that this suit is partly an action at law, and partly a suit in equity, and that if it cannot be maintained as either the one or the other, it can be maintained under this statute.

As Partaking of the Nature of Both.
The court then reviews at length the history of the statute and concludes as follows:

We think that the intention of the statute of 1887 is that each proceeding under it must be treated either as an action at law or a suit in equity, with the incidents which by established practice or by other statutes attach to the particular action or suit, and that the pleadings and procedure must conform to this view. * * * The present petition cannot be maintained either as an action at law or a suit in equity.

A Man to Be Fitted.
LONDON, Dec. 6.—Holmes, the signal man whose neglect of duty, consequent upon overwork and grief for the loss of his child, caused the terrible railroad disaster to the Scotch express, near Thirsk, on Nov. 2, and the loss of several lives, pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter and was bound over to appear for judgment, if called upon. Deep sympathy has been expressed for Holmes and the case has caused widespread attention to the evil of overwork on railways.

An Editor's Sudden Death.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Lewis Newman, the chief editor of the German edition of The Daily News, died suddenly in Moquin's restaurant, on Fulton street. Mr. Newman had scarcely given the waiter his order when he fell back in his chair, gasped heavily once or twice, and died. Heart disease was the cause of his death. Mr. Newman was 43 years old. He was married and lived in Brooklyn.

Robbed His Employers.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 6.—Herbert E. Ellis, an employe of Foster, Bees & Co., clothiers, was arrested for embezzlement. Ellis was employed at $10 a week, and his peculations will exceed $2000. In his room were found a lot of goods that he had stolen from the company, and he had $100 in bank. Ellis came here from Vermont, and cut quite a figure in society, being very popular.

Shot a Fellow Student.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—John W. Smathers of Asheville, N. C., a student at the Jefferson Medical college, shot and probably fatally wounded William E. Williams, a resident of the same place, and also a student at the institution, as they were leaving the college building. Smathers claims Williams assaulted him.

Neville Fined $100.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Robert Neville of Washington, who slapped Samuel S. Howland in the face at the recent horse show, was placed on trial in the special sessions court, on the charge of assault in the third degree, and, after being found guilty, was fined $100.

Reinstated.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was billed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

West Quincy Man

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

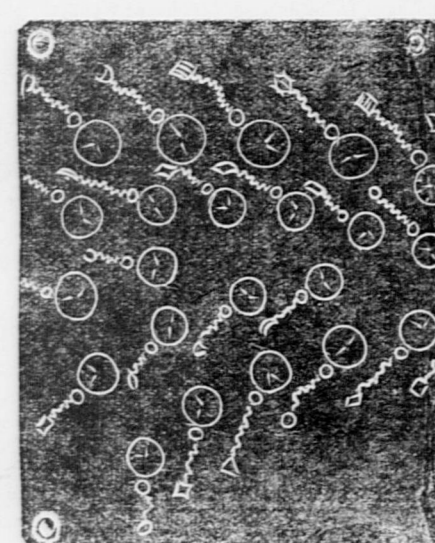

NOW ON EXHIBITION

in the show windows of

WILLIAMS,

The Jeweller.

Hundreds of people come from all parts of the city to gaze on the curiosity, and we have had our special artist make a picture of the celestial wonder for the benefit of the readers of this paper.

THE COMET AS IT APPEARS TO THE NAKED EYE.

Scores of people are buying fragments of the Comet, and will keep them as souvenirs. If you wish to be among the lucky ones you should

CALL EARLY,

as you may not have a chance to obtain a piece of another Comet for perhaps a million years, and you will all be old by that time, and curiosities will cease to have any charms for you.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The New York World makes a plea for the much commented lithograph of the Babes in the Wood fame, because as it asserts, the lithograph was copied from an original painting of one of the French masters. It is hard to see why the display of these bills is any more justifiable on this account. The French "master," whoever he was, evidently had plenty of time to write.

The death from alcoholic poisoning, of two Rockland citizens, was an awful example of this terrible curse of alcoholism.

If the parties who sold these two unfortunates the poison, for such it was, are not guilty of murder, they are very near it, at least in the minds of the public. Had Rockland a Faxon, there might have been a different tale to tell.

Jay Gould has now been dead four days,

but the world has experienced no visible effect. While alive he proved to be a most potent factor in the world's finances, but

"now lies he there and none so poor to do him reverence."

Mr. McNeil, the builder of the Lincoln school, will probably receive the contract for the Woodward Seminary, as he is the lowest bidder. If Mr. McNeil does as good a job as he did at the Lincoln school the public will be satisfied.

Now that the Grand Jury has found two indictments against Lizzie E. Burden, the curious are set at rest for awhile, but the sceptical will continue to form new theories

until the end.

HARRISON'S MESSAGE

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

In submitting my annual message to congress I have great satisfaction in being able to say that the general conditions affecting the commercial and industrial interests of the United States are the highest degree favorable.

A comparison of the existing conditions with those of the most favored period in the history of the country will, I believe, show that so high a degree of prosperity and so general a diffusion of the comforts of life were never before enjoyed by our people.

HARRISON'S MESSAGE.

The subject of the power of the treasury to deal with the matter without further legislation has been under consideration, but circumstances have postponed a conclusion. It is probable that a consideration of the propriety of a modification or abrogation of the article of the treaty of Washington relating to the transit of goods in bond is involved in any complete solution of the question.

The Trouble with Chili.

Congress at the last session was kept advised of the progress of the serious, and for a time threatening differences, between the United States and Chili. It gives me now great gratification to report that the Chilean government, in a most friendly and honorable spirit, has tendered and paid an indemnity to the families of the sailors of the United States who were killed, and to those who were injured in the outbreak in the city of Valparaiso, the sum of $75,000.

This has been accepted, not only as an indemnity for a wrong done, but as a most gratifying evidence that the government of Chili rightly appreciates the disposition of this government to act in a spirit of the most absolute fairness in its intercourse with that brave people. A further and conclusive evidence of the mutual respect and confidence now existing is furnished by the fact that a convention submitting to arbitration the mutual claims of the citizens of the respective governments has been agreed upon. Some of these claims have been pending for many years and have become the occasion of much unsatisfactory diplomatic correspondence.

I have endeavored in every way to assure our sister Republics of Central and South America that the United States government and its people have only the most friendly disposition toward them all. We do not covet their territory. We have no disposition to be oppressive or exacting in our dealings with any of them, even the weakest. Our interests and our hopes for them all lie in the direction of stable governments by their people, and of the largest development of their great commercial resources.

Our Relation with Hawaii

have been such as to attract an increased interest and must continue to do so. I deem it of great importance that the projected submarine cable, a survey for which has been made, should be promoted. Both for naval and commercial uses we should have quick communication with Honolulu. We should before this have availed ourselves of the concession, made many years ago to this government, for a harbor and naval station at Pearl River. Many evidences of the friendship of the Hawaiian government have been given in the past and it is gratifying to believe that the advantage and necessity of a continuance of very close relations is appreciated.

General Foreign Relations.

The friendly act of this government in extending to the government of Italy its representation and abrogation of the lynching of Italian subjects in New Orleans, the payment of $125,000 francs, or $21,330.90, was accepted by the King of Italy with every manifestation of gracious appreciation, and the incident has been highly promotive of mutual good will.

The recent disturbances of the public peace by lawless foreign marauders on the Mexican frontier, have afforded the government an opportunity to testify its good will for Mexico, and its earnest purpose to fulfill the obligations of international friendship, by pursuing and dispersing the evildoers. The work of relocating the boundary of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo westward from El Paso, is progressing favorably.

Our Intercourse with Spain continues on a friendly footing.

I regret, however, not to be able to report as yet the adjustment of the claims of the American commissioners arising from the disorders at Ponce, in the Caroline Islands, but I anticipate a satisfactory adjustment in view of renewed and urgent representations to the government at Madrid. The treatment of the religious and educational establishments of American citizens in Turkey has, of late, called for a more than usual share of attention. A tendency to curtail the work of education which has so beneficially prevailed is discernible, and has called forth the earnest remonstrances of this government.

International Copyright.

International copyright has been extended to Italy by proclamation, in conformity with the act of March 2, 1891, upon assurance being given that Italian law pertains to citizens of the United States copyright of their works, substantially the same basis as to subjects of Italy. By a special convention, proclaimed Jan. 15, 1892, reciprocal provisions of copyright have been applied between the United States and Germany. Negotiations are in progress with other countries to the same end.

The Nicaragua Canal.

I repeat with great earnestness the recommendation which I have made in several previous messages that prompt and adequate provision be given to the American company engaged in the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal. It is impossible to overstate the value from every standpoint of this great enterprise, and I hope that there may be some time in this Congress to give to it an impetus that will insure the early completion of the canal and secure to the United States its proper relation to it when completed.

The Monetary Conference.

Congress has been already advised that the invitations of this government for the assembling of an international monetary conference to consider the enlarged use of silver, were accepted by the nations to which they were addressed. The conference assembled at Brussels Nov. 22, and has entered upon the consideration of this great question. I have not doubted, and have taken occasion to express that belief as well in the invitations issued for this conference as in my public messages, that the free coinage of silver upon an agreed international ratio would greatly promote the interests of our people, as equally those of other nations.

Condition of the Treasury.

The report of the secretary of the treasury will attract special interest, in view of the many misleading statements that have been made as to the state of the public revenues. Three preliminary facts should not only be stated but emphasized before looking into details. First—That the public debt has been reduced since March 4, 1891, $29,074,230, and the annual interest charge $11,684,409. Second—That there have been paid out for pensions during this administration up to Nov. 1, 1892, $425,241,757.94, an increase of $14,409,356.06 over the sum expended during the period from March 1, 1885, to March 1, 1890; and third, that under the existing tariff up to December 1, 1891, about $300,000,000 revenue which would have been collected upon imported sugars, if the duty had been maintained, has gone into the pockets of the people and not into the public treasury, as before.

If there are any who still think that the surplus should have been kept out of circulation by hoarding it in the treasury, or deposited in favored banks without interest, while the government continued to pay to these very banks interest upon the bonds deposited as security for the deposits, or who think that the extended pension legislation was a public robbery, or that the duties upon sugar should have been maintained, I am content to leave the argument where it now rests, while we wait to see whether these criticisms will take the form of legislation.

The Revenues
for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, from all sources, were $25,988,290.22, and the expenditures for all purposes were $45,563,806.56, leaving a balance of $90,445,396. There were paid during the year upon the public debt $40,570,677.38, the surplus in the treasury and the bank redemption fund passed by the act of July 14, 1890, and the general fund furnished in large part the cash available and used for the payments made upon the public debt. Compared with the year 1891, our receipts from customs duties fell off $4,200,924.108, while our receipts from international revenue increased $28,462,213, leaving a net loss of revenue from these principal sources $3,737,441.705. The net loss of revenue from all sources was $329,759,728.

The revenues estimated and actual for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, are placed by the secretary at $263,529,944 and expenses at $461,328,530.44, showing a surplus of receipts over expenditures of $200,000. The cash balance in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year, it is estimated, will be $20,000,000. So far as these figures are based upon estimates of receipts and expenditures for the remaining months of the current fiscal year there are not only the usual elements of uncertainty, but some added elements.

New revenue legislation, or even the explanation of those changes and the time of their taking effect cannot in any degree be forecast or foretold by him. His estimates must be based upon existing laws and upon a continuance of existing business conditions, except so far as these conditions may be affected by causes other than new legislation.

Apportionment Evils.

In my last annual message I endeavored to invoke serious attention to the evils of unfair apportionments for congress. I cannot close this message without again calling attention to these grave and threatening evils. I had hoped that it was possible to secure a non-partisan inquiry, by means of a commission, into the existence of which is known to all, and that of this might grow legislation from which all thought of partisan advantage should be eliminated and only the higher thought appear of maintaining the freedom of the elector, without the guaranty of which the government could not have been formed, and without the continuance of which it can not continue to exist in justice and prosperity.

It is time that mutual charges of unfairness and fraud between the great parties should cease, and that the sincerity of those who profess a desire for pure and honest elections should be brought to the test of their willingness to free our legislation and our election methods from everything that tends to impair the public confidence. In the announced result the necessity for an inquiry and for legislation by congress upon this subject is emphasized by the fact that the tendency of the legislation in some states in recent years has in some important particulars been away from and not toward free and fair elections and equal representation.

Conclusion.

This exhibit of the work of the executive departments is submitted to congress and to the public in the hope that there will be found in it a due sense of responsibility and an earnest purpose to maintain the national honor and to promote the happiness and prosperity of all our people.

And this brief exhibit of the growth and prosperity of the country will give us a level from which to note the increase of decadence that new legislative policies may bring to us. There is no reason why the national influence, power and prosperity should not observe the same rates of increase that have characterized the past thirty years.

We carry the great impulse and increase of these years into the future. There is no reason why in many lines of production we should not surpass all other nations as we have already done in some. There are no new frontiers to our possible development; retrogression would be a crime.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, D. C.

The Death Rate in December.

Each time we reach the end of December we should think with satisfaction that we have got over the most dangerous month, since in this country more deaths are said to occur in December than at any other time of the year. A subject for serious reflection is it that 35,000,000 of people die every year—few of these from old age. In a doctor's opinion, nearly as many people shorten their career by overeating as from excessive drinking; while in England and persons are annually cut off through accidental poisoning.—Chambers's Journal.

A Wise Choice.

The World's fair at Chicago should be made the center of as many features of local and traditional interest, tending to arouse genuine American feeling, as possible. If by means of the exhibition we can make any strong historical association of a state or even of a neighborhood the common property of all the people, the fair will be of more than material advantage.

Each state—in the building which it is to construct at Chicago for its "club house" or headquarters—aims at something representative in some way of its special conditions of life or its history. Many appropriate devices for state headquarters have been hit upon, but none is more interesting or fitting than the selection of New Jersey.

Few houses associated with the memory of George Washington, with the exception of Mount Vernon itself, are better known or are the objects of a deeper sentiment than the beautiful old mansion still standing at Morrisstown, New Jersey.

This house is noteworthy not only for its associations, but also because it is a pure and noble example of colonial architecture.

With a slight and harmonious addition this old house is to be reproduced by New Jersey on the World's fair grounds at Chicago. There it will speak eloquently of the father of his country, and together with such buildings as the Massachusetts building, which is modeled after the Hancock house in Boston, it will speak also of the large, serene and hospitable life of the people before the Revolution.—Youth's Companion.

Singing the Old Songs Once More.

A sacred concert was given at Welsh Run, Drinker church on Sunday afternoon which brought together a large and appreciative audience to hear some of the old time singing teachers. These were Professor Solomon Baughy, who for more than fifty years has been known in southern Pennsylvania for his charming voice, and in his younger years as a most successful singing master; Jacob Mangan, of Mangansville, Md., who in 1844, with Solomon Baughy, gave a similar concert in the same building, and Mr. Myers, of Broad Fording, who is also a well known conductor. Each of the gentlemen took the floor.

All of the dear old church hymns were gone over. The large congregation, which had been constituted the singing class, united in the song service with spirit. Professor Baughy is now well advanced in years, but he still has a sweet, melodious voice and the presence and manner on the floor which have never deserted him. There were many persons present from Maryland and Pennsylvania. It was a notable occasion and one that revived pleasant and delightful recollections of yesteryear.

The Boston Extension.
In the Board of Aldermen, Boston, on Monday, an order was passed granting permission to the Quincy and Boston Street Railway Company to construct an overhead single trolley system on Neponset avenue from a point beginning at the Dorchester and Milton branch railroad, over and across Neponset bridge to the Neponset river, connecting with the existing tracks of said company on Hancock street. The work must be completed on or before April 1, 1893.

Colorado and Utah.

A trip to the summit of Pike's Peak, 14,200 feet above the level of the sea, is one of the most novel and thrilling railroad rides that can be made. Mr. George W. Penniman will present a series of pictures of his experiences at Pike's Peak in his lecture at Hancock hall tomorrow evening, together with views of the most picturesque and interesting regions in Colorado and Utah.

How to Make Boiled Peas Look Green.

Put your shelled peas into a bag, and before boiling them wash a handful or two of the freshest shells, and let them boil in the water intended for the peas. After the water is somewhat green put in your salt and your bag of peas without removing the pea shells.

How to Cure Offensive Breath.

It should be the first care of every one to see that his teeth are in perfect order and thoroughly cleansed morning and evening. Let him then look to his digestion, and if in both those quarters all is well, then the following mixture must be taken, and the trouble will be removed. One ounce of liquor of potassa, one ounce of chlorine of soda, one and a half ounces of phosphate of soda and three ounces of water. Mix well together and take a teaspoonful after each meal.

How to Clean Japanned Ware.

Never wash it with hot water, but use warm soapsuds made with a very little white soap. Wipe dry and sprinkle with flour; then polish with a dry soft cloth.

How to Dispose of Garbage.

It is generally conceded that the most sanitary method of disposing of garbage is to burn it. A good way is to dry the refuse first, as its damp state often hurts the fire. If a pan the size of the range ash pan be obtained, the garbage can be put into that, and set in the range when there is a clear bright fire, the ash pan being, of course, removed. The intense heat from the fire above dries the garbage very quickly. It is then ready to put on the fire.

How to Tell Good Beef.

Good beef is of a reddish brown color and contains no clots of blood. The flesh of well nourished beef is marked with spots of white fat and is firm and compact. Flesh that is dry, tough and dark, with yellow fat, is furnished by old, lean animals.

How to Make Violet Powder.

Violet powder may be made by taking six parts by weight of wheat starch and two parts of orris root powder. Reduce the starch to the finest possible powder mix it thoroughly with the orris root, then perfume with attar of lemon and attar of cloves. This when allowed to dry out well, if put in sachet bags or used with a powder puff will be found delightful.

A WORD TO THE WISE
CERTAIN ADVERTISEMENTS FROM TRADE RIVALS,
who fear the phenomenal success of
Van Houten's Cocoa
in America, contain innuendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of
Dr. SYDNEY KING, Professor of Medicine at University College, London.
This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:—
"From the careful analyses of Professor ARNETT and others, I am satisfied that Messrs. Van Houten's Cocoa is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocoa—it is certainly 'pure' and highly digestible."
The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to Van Houten's Cocoa."
The false reflection on Van Houten's Cocoa, as thus effectively refuted and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been brought to give it a very handsome testimonial.

At the close of the institution and installation the initiatory degree was worked on one candidate. A supper closed the ceremonies.

Young Men's Institute.

The rooms of the Institute will be thrown open to both ladies and gentlemen on Wednesday evening, Dec. 7, from 6 o'clock to 10, for inspection.

The Institute is organized for the purpose of promoting the social, intellectual, physical, and moral welfare of young men, bringing them together in closer relations, by pleasant, healthful and instructive entertainments and amusements, by a well equipped gymnasium, where not only the mechanical movements of the body are taught but also the principals of living, by exerting an influence in maintaining and advancing Christian character, good citizenship, and honest government.

The Institute is non-sectarian in both theory and practice and will welcome to its membership any thrifty and industrious young man of good moral character.

Lucky Magee and Unlucky Ah Ping.

When the Pacific Mail steamer City of New York arrived from Panama, J. A. Magee, a New York sporting man, was one of the passengers. When he got up he forgot nine $100 bills in a small pocketbook that he had placed under his pillow the night before, and when the tug came alongside, while the steamer was at anchor in the stream, he made haste to land. No sooner had he reached the Baldwin hotel than he discovered his loss, and hiring a coupe made for the Pacific Mail dock, which he reached just as the steamer was made fast. An inquiry for the lost bills proved that they were safe in Captain Johnston's hands. Ah Ping, a Chinese in the steward's department, while making up Magee's berth, had found the bills and taken them to the captain.

Magee was handed his money, and called for Ah Ping, to whom he gave twenty-five dollars.

The Chinese had hardly time to appreciate his good luck when Chief Steward Cottrell was angry because the stray bills had not been given to him to return to the owner, instead of the captain, and ordered that Ah Ping should be discharged. Unless the wrathful steward is calmed down by some of the head officers of the company Ah Ping will have to leave the steamer for being honest. Had he chosen he could easily have secreted the valuable paper bills so that no one could have found them and made away with the whole sum.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Prisoner's Inventions.

Visitors to the World's fair will have an opportunity to judge of the merits of some of the inventions of Tobias Hudson, a prisoner in the Maryland penitentiary.

Hudson was convicted of horse stealing in Washington county, and has two years yet to serve. His being crippled makes it impossible for him to do the regular prison work, and he has perfected a number of inventions in his spare time. Three of these—a lock which is used in the prison, an electric lamp and an electric socket—have been patented for Hudson by Mr. Robert S. Wiesenfeld and Warden Weyer.

Mr. Wiesenfeld has secured space at the Columbian exposition for a display of Hudson's electric lamps, which will be entered in competition with the others on exhibition. Hudson says he has twenty-two inventions that he will patent from time to time, and he hopes to derive a revenue from them that will keep him in easy circumstances after his term expires. He asserts that he would not sell his electric socket patent for his liberty and $10,000.—Baltimore Sun.

A Heroic Dancer.

One of the dancers in the Black Crook company, who is known by no other name to the employees of the Academy than Annie, or "Walking lady No. 17," was standing in the wings Friday night waiting for her turn to go on with the rest of the ballet. She wore a blond wig and was costumed in the scant attire demanded by the exigencies of the occasion. She seemed nervous and looked pale and ill, but nobody noticed it. Suddenly she reeled and fell.

When a doctor was summoned it was found she was suffering from lack of food. It was also subsequently discovered from other sources that the young woman had sent all her wages away to her two little sisters who were in want and had reduced herself almost to starvation. These facts I know to be true.—Cor. New York World.

Sour Florida Oranges.

If they only knew it the Florida growers are hurting their market by sending sour, unripe fruit. For weeks after these oranges appear in the market they are a disappointment to buyers and injure the reputation which Florida oranges gained and can easily keep under suitable conditions.—Hartford Courant.

MAYORALTY VOTES OF THE PAST.

A Summary by Parties Which Will Prove Interesting at This Time.

Quincy has been a city nearly four years, and the mayoralty vote at the four elections in 1887, 1889, 1890 and 1891 as given below, will afford an interesting study:

AND IT SNOWED.THE FRENCH CABINET.

Indications That the Crisis Has Been Bridged at Last.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—Politicians are conferring with M. Ribot, and it is believed that a new government will be organized in time to be gazetted tomorrow morning. The list regarded as probable, if not reasonably certain, is as follows:

M. Ribot, president of the council and minister of foreign affairs; M. Bourgeois, minister of justice; M. Loubet, minister of the interior; M. Sarrien, minister of commerce and industry; M. Charles Dupuy, minister of instruction; M. Freycinet, minister of war; M. Burdeau, minister of naval affairs; M. Derville, minister of agriculture; M. Rouvier, minister of finance; M. Viette, minister of public works.

All except Dupuy and Sarrien were members of the Loubet cabinet. While retaining his old portfolio as minister of the interior, Loubet would be succeeded in the premiership by Ribot, who will also retain his old portfolio, that of minister of foreign affairs. M. Viette, M. Rouvier, M. Burdeau and M. Freycinet would have their old portfolios, while M. Bourgeois, in deference to the Panama canal scandal, would be transferred from the ministry of public instruction to the ministry of justice, thus replacing M. Deluns Montaud, who would be dropped.

Charles Dupuy, a new man, would take Bourgeois' old portfolio. M. Jules Roche would be dropped from the ministry of commerce to make room for Sarrien, also a new man. Sarrien is a lawyer, 52 years old, in politics since 1871, and, in 1885, minister of postal and telegraphic communication. Charles Dupuy, the other new man, is an instructor and general authority on educational subjects, 41 years old, in politics since 1885, although having held several offices in his professional capacity.

THE NEW VALKYRIE

To Be Built in Secret on the Clyde. About Dunraven's Challenge.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Mr. Watson, who is designing for Lord Dunraven the yacht Valkyrie, which is to contest for the America's cup, should a race be arranged, says that the vessel will be built with complete secrecy on the Clyde. Mr. Watson refuses to say whether she will be constructed with keel or counterboard, or give any particulars whatever regarding the new yacht. The Valkyrie will be commanded by Captain William Crane-field, and the crew will be English. She will take part in several races in British waters before crossing the Atlantic. NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The letter containing the challenge of Lord Dunraven was opened by the secretary of the America's cup committee, A. Cass Canfield. He said that the points of difference were only in the wording and in some minor matters, not in the body of the challenge, and the race would be sailed unless something unforeseen happened. The fact of the satisfactory nature of the challenge was immediately telegraphed to General Paine in Boston. When he arrives a meeting of the committee will be held. It is expected by all that as the committee has made arrangements for a race, on the conditions laid down by the club at its last meeting, the action of the committee will be ratified. It is improbable that a meeting of the club will be held before next Monday.

A STARTLING EPISODE

In the Chamber of Deputies During the Panama Canal Discussion.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—In the chamber of deputies the Panama question again caused great excitement. Deputy Letellier demanded that the proceedings of the committee of investigation should be taken down stenographically, in order that the record might be perfect for future reference. It was important, he said, that the whole truth should be made known. Mr. Brisson replied that he had no objection to such a course, but feared it would be difficult to have the proceedings reported stenographically.

At this instant a fearful shriek rang through the chamber, and the deputies sprang to their feet and gazed in the direction from which the shriek had come. Deputy Dubreuil was writhing in the convulsions of epilepsy. He was pawing with his hands, and seemed to be foaming at the mouth. It was a fearful spectacle, and one that horrified the deputies. The sitting was at once suspended, while a score of members ran to succor their unfortunate companion, who was borne still shrieking from the chamber.

When the excitement had been somewhat allayed, a vote was taken upon the proposition of Deputy Letellier, and it was rejected by a emphatic majority.

FORTUNE TO FAMILY

Not a Penny of His Immense Wealth for Charity.

THE WILL OF THE LATE JAY GOULD.

His Children Named as Executors on Heaped-Up Millions.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The following abstract of the will and codicils of the late Jay Gould is given to the press by Judge Dillon, the counsel for the executors.

The original will is dated Dec. 24, 1885, during the lifetime of his wife, Helen D. Gould. It made various provisions for her benefit, which failed of effect by reason of her death before the death of her husband. After, and in consequence of her death, Mr. Gould, on Feb. 16, 1889, executed the first codicil of his will, making such changes as became necessary by the death of his wife. A second and a third codicil to his will were executed on Nov. 21, 1892.

Will and Codicils.
There is given to his sister, Mrs. Northrop, and daughters, three lots of ground in Camden, N. J., also a bequest to Mrs. Northrop of $25,000 and the further sum of $2000 annually. To Mrs. Annie G. Hough and Mrs. Elizabeth Paley, and to his brother, Abraham Gould, there is given the sum of $25,000 each, and also the further sum of $2000 annually during their lives, payable in equal quarterly payments. To his daughter, Helen M. Gould, he gives the house 570 Fifth avenue. To his son, Edwin, he gives the house 1 East Forty-seventh street.

To Grandson Jay Gould, he gives the sum of $500,000, to be held in trust for the said grandson by George J. Gould.
To George J. Gould
For services, $5,000,000, payable as follows: $500,000 in cash, less the amount advanced by me for the purchase of a house for him on Fifth avenue, New York city; $500,000 in Missouri Pacific 6 per cent. mortgage bonds; $500,000 in St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway company consolidated 8 per cent. bonds; $500,000 in Missouri Pacific trust 5 per cent. bonds; 10,000 shares of Manhattan railway stock; 10,000 shares of Western Union stock, and 10,000 shares of Missouri Pacific stock—all to be taken and treated as worth paid.
He appoints as executors and trustees of his will his sons, George J. Gould, Edward Gould and Howard Gould, and his daughter Helen M. Gould. George J. Gould and Helen M. Gould are appointed guardians of Anna M. Gould and Frank J. Gould during their minority.

Other Dispositions.
All the rest of his estate is devised and bequeathed to the said executors and trustees in trust, first, to divide the same into six equal parts or shares, and to hold and invest one of such shares for each of his said children, with authority to collect and receive pay and apply the income thereof to each child for life.

He directs that these trusts shall be kept separate and distinct, and that the accounts therefor shall be separately kept; that no deductions shall be made by reason of any gifts or advancements heretofore made to or for any of his children.

The Last Codicil.
"The better to protect and conserve the values of my properties, it is my desire that the shares of any railway or other incorporated companies held by my executors and trustees, or my said trustees, shall always be voted by them or by their proxies as a unit; and in case my said executors and trustees or my said trustees do not concur as to how such stock shall be voted, then, in view of the fact that my son George J. Gould has for years had the management of my said properties and is familiar with them and with other like properties, I direct and provide that in such event his judgment shall control."
Children Must Marry with Consent.
There are the usual provisions in the will that the property of his daughters is for their sole and separate use, free from any estate or control of their husbands, prohibiting all dispositions for charges by any of the legatees by way of anticipation or otherwise.

There is a provision that if any of his children shall marry without the consent of a majority of the executors and trustees, then the share allotted to such child be reduced one-half.

SEVERAL INJURED.

But None Seriously by a Railroad Accident in Vermont.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 8.—At about 4:15 o'clock yesterday morning No. 52 train (northbound express from New York) met with an accident at Ferrisburgh, which resulted in injuries to seven persons, but fortunately was unattended by fatal effect.

A broken wheel under a sleeping car caused the derailment of the car and a passenger coach forward of it, the two going down a fifteen-foot embankment. The sleeping car was not overturned, but the passenger coach was tipped completely over. The connection with the car in the rear of the sleeper was broken, keeping the remainder of the train from leaving the rails.

A special hearing officials of the Central Vermont railroad and Drs. Jenne and Paige went at once to the scene of the accident and the wounded were promptly cared for. Drs. Willard and Chipman of Vergennes were also summoned. The injured suffered entirely from bruises which are serious, and no bones were broken.

Robbery Discovered.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—It is developed now that the Long Island Express company were the victims of a robbery on Nov. 22 last, by which goods valued at $4000 were taken. The theft was committed in Long Island City, and the goods taken were a number of gold watch cases, valued at $4000, that had been shipped by Joseph Fahy's Watch company of Sag Harbor. The matter was kept quiet, until so as not to hamper the police in their efforts to run down the robbers, but they have as yet no clue.

FINAL COUNT AND RESULT.

Massachusetts Vote for Governor and Presidential Electors Given.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—The number of blanks cast for governor at the last election is much larger than has been supposed. It is now announced, positively for the last time, by the powers at the state house, that the number of blanks is $5,731, an increase of over 5000 over what was supposed to be the correct number. The entire number of ballots cast for all candidates for governor was 405,867, of which Russell had 186,377; Halle, 183,848; Russell's plurality, 2534. Governor Russell lost, on the second count, 161 votes.

The vote for presidential electors at large is as follows: John D. Long and N. P. Banks, Republican—Long, 202,814; Banks, 222,811; P. A. Collins and J. E. Russell, Democrat—Collins, 178,513; Russell, 178,510; Harrison's plurality in the state, 26,001. Twice have the returns been counted, once by the councilors and once by expert clerks from the secretary of state's office. The latter was a thorough one, and there remains no doubt but what the figures are correct.

As was told in the press, some great changes have been made in the count made by the council, although that body were quite positive that the totals of the four state officers which were made public some time ago were correct. The vote for presidential electors has changed to such an extent that one who had seen the totals made by the council would hardly believe that the figures were the result of the same election. But this was not due to the carelessness of the council. The town and city clerks are a good deal to blame for not sending correct returns in the first place, and a good many changes are due to this fact.

PRACTICALLY NULLIFIED.

Ruling of Judge Gresham on the Interstate Commerce Act.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Judge Gresham rendered one of the most important decisions which has been handed down since the interstate commerce act was enacted. Last July W. G. Brinson, David Brown, L. Hopkins, Henry Walker, W. R. Steeking and others refused to answer certain questions propounded by the interstate commission, and under the twelfth section of the act District Attorney Millchrist brought a petition before Judge Gresham to compel the production of the books and the answer of the questions. Judge Gresham in a long opinion refuses to grant the petition to compel the witnesses to testify and produce books, holding that the court could not be made subsidiary to or a subordinate auxiliary to a non-judicial and administrative body. This is the famous case in which the Chicago and Grand Trunk, the Calumet and Blue Island, and other railroads were accused of unjust discrimination in favor of large Chicago shippers, notably the Illinois Steel company.

FIRE RAGING BRISKLY.

Brisk Blaze at Eagle Hill Colliery Near Philadelphia.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—Fire broke out in the return air-way of Eagle Hill colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, and raged briskly. The officials were notified and notified at once, and a large force of men were set to work fighting the flames. An engine from the Pottsville fire department was sent to the scene, and water from an adjoining creek being led into the mine at the seat of the conflagration. Although from present appearances the fire is of a most serious nature, the officials are confident with the means thus taken of subduing it. Eagle Hill shaft is one of the best producing collieries of the Reading company in the lower Schuylkill region and employs about 500 men and boys. It is located about two miles north-east of New Philadelphia. The origin of the fire is as yet unknown.

TO WARD OFF PIRATES.

An Oyster Farmer Secures a Cruiser to Protect Himself.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 8.—Apprehension lest Long Island sound should furnish a parallel to the oyster wars in Chesapeake bay has induced all the owners of extensive beds in the sound to take extraordinary precautions against the pirates and encroachments which have been gradually increasing the past few years.

The latest attempt of the oyster bed owners is unique and promises to be effective. The idea was conceived by H. J. Lewis of Stratford, an old oyster grower, whose 200 acres of oyster farms on the bottom of Long Island sound extend from this city to South Norwalk who has just procured a steamer, which he will arm with a picked crew, to scour the waters of the sound for oyster thieves.

Celebrating Her Divorce.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Pauline Pearsall of New York secured a divorce here last Saturday, and it is now on file in the Lake county district court. The defendant appeared through his attorney. Mrs. Pearsall and her retinue of servants have returned to New York. Mrs. Pearsall was to all appearances overjoyed at the sundering of her marital bonds. Saturday evening she gave a dinner party to friends here, and the menu was from Delmonico's. The party was very swell, and the hostess distributed favors aggregating $1000 in value. It was the most striking wind-up ever witnessed in the Sioux Falls divorce mills.

Lynched for Brutality.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Dec. 8.—One white man and two negroes were lynched yesterday by a mob from Jellico, Tenn. The men were taken from the custody of the sheriff and hanged to trees. They had outraged and brutally murdered a young white girl named Mildred Bryant near Jellico. They cut her throat and threw her body into a culvert, where it was found.

To Overhaul Their Steamers.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The Inman company will withdraw its steamers from Dec. 14 to Feb. 8, in order that they may be completely overhauled prior to entering upon the service between Southampton and New York. There is no truth in the report that the company would withdraw all its steamers from the Atlantic trade on account of a restriction in immigration.

HYDE PARK, Mass., Dec. 8.—A box containing a suit of boy's clothes, and a thirty-pound tub of butter, was stolen from one of Corporal Hyde Park express teams between Hyde Park and Boston last evening.

THE CAUSE UNKNOWN.

Mystery in Connection with Death of Mrs. Pierce.

A YOUNG WOMAN SHOTS HER BROTHER

By Discharge of a Gun She Didn't Know Was Loaded.

SOUTH HADLEY FALLS, Dec. 8.—Mrs. George R. Pierce was found unconscious on the floor beside her 20-months-old infant when her husband returned from his work, and died yesterday without having recovered consciousness. The symptoms looked like those of poison, and the attending physician gave the woman emetics, thinking she had made a suicidal attempt. Mrs. Pierce must have lain on the floor for ten hours before she was discovered, for the neighbors heard the child's cries all day, but suspected no wrong.

Physicians worked over her for hours, and Dr. Davis said that when he reached her she was suffering from convulsions which might have been caused by poison, but no traces of it were found. An investigation is likely to be made. There was no poison anywhere about the house, and as the woman's home life was said to be a happy one, no reason could be assigned for her taking poison unless by accident. The little baby was almost famished for nourishment when found. Mrs. Pierce was 36 years old and her friends scout the idea of poison.

SHOT BY HIS SISTER.

The Young Girl Frantic with Grief and May Die.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 8.—Michael Hoctor, aged 16 years, who lives in a tenement house on Main street, near the Boston and Maine station, was accidentally shot by his younger sister, and he cannot live. It is another case of "didn't know it was loaded." Young Hoctor was making preparations to go a-gunning, and after cleaning and loading his rifle he placed it behind the door and went down town.

During his absence his sister entered the room, and seeing the weapon, began fooling with it, not knowing it was loaded. A short time after her brother returned, and as he entered the room she playfully pointed the rifle at his head and pulled the trigger. There was a loud explosion, and the young man fell to the floor, shot through the head.

Drs. Lord and Bassford were quickly summoned, but were unable to find the ball, which entered the head near the right ear. They say he can live but a few hours. The young man's sister is frantic with grief, and it is feared that she will lose her mind.

THE AMERICAN HEBREWS.

Their Interest in World's Fair and Adjournment of the Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The first business considered at the second day's session of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations was the reading of reports from the various committees. The finance committee in their statement reported that the total receipts were $30,539. The maintenance of the Hebrew Union college for seventeen months amounted to $22,894. The matter of the part to be taken by the Hebrews in the religious congress, to be held in connection with the World's fair in August next year, was presented in the report of the special committee to which was referred the communication from the central conference of rabbis, petitioning the council to co-operate with it in a proper presentation of Judaism at the congress of religions. It is proposed to treat the subjects historically, subdivided into biblical, medieval and modern, giving the history of Jewish beliefs and customs of the various lands and times. The history of the domestic and inner social life of the Jews in the various periods, and a history of the education of the Jewish people, public and private, will also be shown. The report recommends that the conference send a special invitation to representative men and women from the various congregations to make other minor recommendations, all of which were adopted. The convention adjourned to meet in New Orleans in January, 1894. The members of the conference were received by President Harrison at the executive mansion at 1 p. m.

FAVORABLE EXHIBIT

Of the National Finances Said to be Disconcerting Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The favorable exhibit of the national finances presented by the president in his message has very much disconcerted the Democratic managers, who were counting upon this as a strong reason for an extra session. The fact that there will be ample funds to meet all government expenses till the end of the fiscal year, if due economy be observed, and also for the next year, with prudent legislation by the Democratic majority, is therefore a surprise. Mr. Holman and other representatives of his school are disposed to controvert the position taken by the president and the secretary of the treasury. Chairman Holman says he intends to keep the appropriations down to the lowest mark, but he does not think that will be sufficient to meet the enormous demands for pensions, river and harbor, public buildings and other objects provided for last year.

Peculations Exceed $41,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Wallace Ogden, a custom house broker, with an office at 58 Wall street, was arrested by Treasury Agent Charles H. Traiteur on the charge of having defrauded the United States government by making false entries and other illegal operations. It is said that the amount of his peculations exceeds $41,000. Ogden was taken before Commissioner Shields and held for examination.

A Useless Office.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—A. G. Warner, commissioner of charity of the District of Columbia, recommends that the office be abolished, because it is useless and serves only to complicate matters.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was billed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

West Quincy Man

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

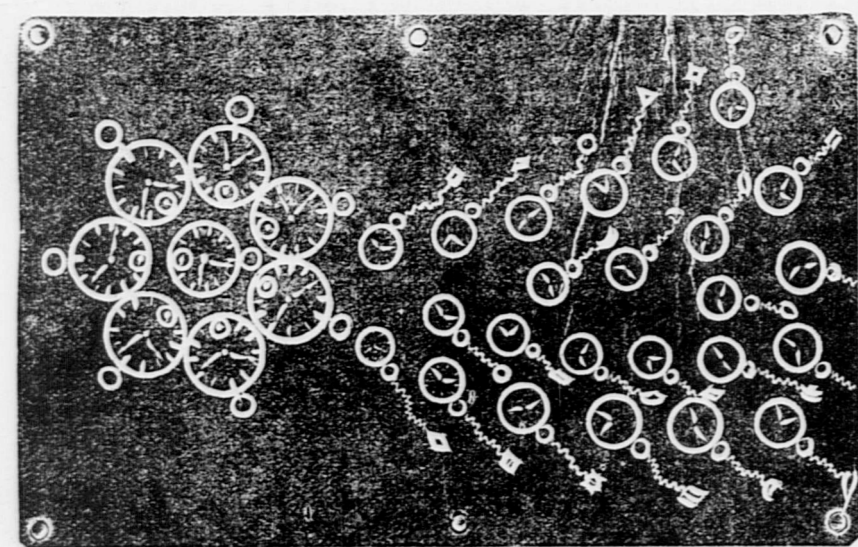

NOW ON EXHIBITION

in the show windows of

WILLIAMS,

The Jeweller.

Hundreds of people come from all parts of the city to gaze on the curiosity, and we have had our special artist make a picture of the celestial wonder for the benefit of the readers of this paper.

THE COMET AS SEEN BY AN ORDINARY TELESCOPE.

Scores of people are buying fragments of the Comet, and will keep them as souvenirs. If you wish to be among the lucky ones you should

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Rothschilds have withdrawn their plan from the consideration of the international monetary conference now sitting in Brussels. They probably foresaw that there was not much chance to increase their millions. The Rothschilds are no children.

The Hoboken ferryboat, "Hamburg," was hit in the East River last night by a Providence boat. Uly the Providence boat or any other sailing craft should stop so low as to run into a Hoboken ferryboat, is a mystery.

They do say the wire pulling of Tuesday is responsible for failure of the trolley wire to work and thereby causing a tie up on the street railway.

A recount is not an election.

Birthday Party.

Miss Pauline Jones, youngest daughter of Mr. George W. Jones of this city, celebrated her thirteenth birthday with a party of her friends, at her house on Foster street, Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in a pleasant and social manner. Pauline was kindly remembered, and among her gifts was a pretty moonstone ring presented her by her little friends.

Interesting Lecture.

Mr. George W. Pennington, of Brockton, delivered his new lecture, "Through the Heart of the Rockies," under the auspices of Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps. The lecture was intensely interesting and was profusely illustrated with the stereopticon. The trip through which Mr. Pennington takes his audience commences at Colorado and goes through many of the important cities of that state, including a visit to several of the gold mines and to the top of Pike's Peak. From Colorado the audience is taken to Salt Lake City, the home of the Mormon church. In connection with Salt Lake City Mr. Pennington gave an account of his visit there and his attendance at their church.

Today, being the feast of Immaculate Conception, mass was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, at St. John's church, at eight o'clock, this morning. At eight o'clock this evening, there will be benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Work was begun on South street today. The mass of rocks near the Bigelow barn will be blown out and the corner at this point, taken away.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

A Popular Young Barrister Married to a Well Known Society Belle.

The marriage of Miss Frances B. Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wood, of Boston, to Mr. Paul Rupert Blackmur of this city, took place at the home of the bride's parents, 136 Huntington ave., Boston, last evening. Rev. Perley B. Davis, formerly of Hyde Park, performed the ceremony. The bride's father, Mr. William A. Wood, gave her away. Miss Minnie F. Pratt of this city, acted as maid of honor and Mr. James F. Harlow, also of this city, was best man.

The bride looked very beautiful in a gown of white Duchess satin trimmed with mousseline de soie. She wore a veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore a Parisian gown of baby blue brocaded tulle and pink Lyons velvet. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Copley Square Hotel, at which about four hundred guests were invited. The ushers were Mr. Harry L. and Fred B. Rice, both of this city, Mr. Maurice Goddard Perry of Boston, Mr. Robert C. Johnson of Hyde Park, and Mr. Fred B. Wood of Boston.

Among the guests were noticed:

From Quincy—Mrs. John L. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rice, Miss Rice, Mr. E. B. Pratt, Miss Bessie L. Pratt, Mr. E. B. Pratt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dewson, Mr. George Dewson, Mr. C. A. Kollock, Miss Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. Moreley, Miss Tripp, Mrs. George Rice, Miss Chamberlin, Mrs. Edward Durrell, Miss Farnsworth, Miss Emily Sturtevant, Mrs. T. H. Omistrom, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Johnson and Miss Jenkins.

From Boston—Maj. Horace Williams, Miss Stevens, Mrs. L. D. Raymond, Miss Lillie Townsend, Miss Helen Hamblin, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Watson, Mrs. Ernest F. Fenollosa, Mr. E. W. Byrd, Mr. Billings Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Sommer Swasey Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Chase, Mr. Porter Crosby, Mr. Guilman Hall, Mr. Arthur Wellington, Mr. J. B. Frederick, Miss Grelwyn Monroe Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod all of Boston.

Music was furnished by Gott's orchestra. A feature of the evening was the cutting of the bride's cake. Miss Alice Adams of Quincy, was the fortunate young lady who received the piece of cake containing the ring. After a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Blackmur will take up their residence in Quincy.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION.

A Crowded House and a Novelty in Entertainment Last Evening.

From 7:30 to 10:30 Wednesday evening the beautiful rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association were filled to overflowing with the young men and their friends, on the occasion of the second reception of the season. The gymnasium had been converted into an entertainment hall, and shortly after eight o'clock it was completely filled with the guests, two hundred persons being present, fully seventy-five percent being young men.

The programme for the evening was in charge of Mr. George A. Sidelinger and Mr. A. D. Albee, and consisted of selections by a quartette from North Weymouth, composed of Mr. Charles Newton, Miss George Shaw, Mrs. Walker, Mr. A. J. Sidelinger, and Miss Clara Newton, accompanist. Among their selections, which were excellently rendered, were, "Come where the Lilies Bloom" and "The Harvest Moon."

Mr. Charles E. Snow, Wollaston's well known reader, gave several entertaining selections which were very pleasing, particularly "The Picnic" and "The Owl Critic."

The novelty of the evening was eleven extemporaneous speeches. Eleven gentlemen had been selected by Mr. Albee, who were to speak for three minutes on any subject given them. The subjects had been written out by various persons on slips of paper, and as a person's name was drawn, he took his place, and a slip bearing his subject was drawn.

Rev. Preston Gurney occupied his "time" by speaking on "Chronology." Mr. T. B. Pollard told what he considered an "ideal woman." Mr. Frank Damon told what he didn't know about "The Comet." Mr. S. A. Foster found himself in the embarrassing position of having to give his opinion on "Women on the School Committee" without losing the favor of the ladies present. Mr. H. W. Pinkham appeared with a dictionary to elaborate on "Artists." Mr. A. R. Baxter showed himself well posted on "Fashions." Mr. B. F. Thomas received a "Slap in the Face." Mr. R. S. Elliott wished he could spend his three minutes in "Siberian Exile." Rev. W. S. Thompson described the World's Fair.

President Wason entertained the audience by not speaking on "Sidewalks," and Secretary Colton was given an opportunity to ride his hobby "The Young Men's Christian Association."

After the program was completed, refreshments were served by the Women's Auxiliary. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the evening's enjoyment, and six young men gave evidence of their pleasure by putting in their applications for membership.

C. L. Staats, the celebrated clarinetist will be one of the attractions, Thursday evening, at Hancock Hall.

An Eye Opener.

The man who wrote, "perhaps in a joke,-- That 'Life is but a dream'"

Could he look over the new furniture store Would find 'twas no such thing.

You cannot overlook bargains in furniture, they strike every one, and just now Henry L. Kincade and Co., are holding out inducements with their new and carefully selected stock which are enough to make a miser branch out into lavish expenditure.

Three floors and nearly 8,000 square feet of floor space will give you a fair idea of this modern establishment. They sell every thing from the Parlor Set and Carpet you use in your parlor to the smallest utensil used in your kitchen. Their line of Dining Room, Chamber and Kitchen furniture is well worth your inspection, while their Rattan Rockers and Odd Parlor Chairs are finding their way into many a happy home. Their bedding and blankets are above the standard, while their $1.00 comforters "beat the Dutch."

Their business is conservatively managed and you can readily save from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston Prices by placing your order with them. The New Store, Tirrell's Block, Hancock Street.

Brooklyn, (N. Y.) DAILY CITIZEN, MAY 3, 1892. Analyze what Mr. GREEN does and the product, outside of Riley's choice things, would be almost inappreciable. It is his indescribable funny method, his natural manner which makes him popular. No matter how often he repeats a story it is always new and refreshingly original.

Will appear at Hancock Hall, Thursday evening.

—Mayor-elect Richardson of Woburn is but 29 years of age.

YOUNG MEN'S INSTITUTE.

Opening of the New Rooms on Liberty Street at South Quincy.

The Young Men's Institute on Liberty street will be opened to the public for the first time this evening. The rooms are four in number and all fitted up nicely, and the two hundred or more, who are members of the Institute, are to be congratulated upon having been so successful in their undertaking.

Classes for instruction will be organized and work begun immediately. Instructions will be given every evening with the exception of Saturday; the last half hour to be devoted to boxing; while the latter is going on no member will be allowed in the room except those using the gloves.

A description of the new rooms will not be out of place. Entrance from the street is had directly into the reading room which is about twenty feet square. This room is fitted up with chairs and tables, and a writing desk. On the table and in the racks will be found all the leading daily and weekly papers including the LEDGER and PATRIOT, and the leading magazines. On the walls are hung several handsome pictures representing historical events. Attached to this room is a coat room.

A door to the left leads into the game room which is 16 by 20 feet and is supplied with a number of games such as checkers, chess, dominoes, crokinole, etc., on the walls of this room are also several game pictures.

In the rear of these two rooms is the gymnasium whose dimensions are 20 by 30 feet. This room is fitted with the latest and most improved apparatus, including dumb-bells, Indian clubs, chest weights, parallel, horizontal and vaulting bars, rowing machine, medicine ball, abdominal mat, boxing gloves, mattresses, etc. An arrangement is also made for playing hand ball.

The bath room is located in the basement which is reached by a stairway leading from the gymnasium. This room is about 30 by 30 feet and is fitted up with sponge, tub and ring baths, wash bowls, etc. One corner of this room is partitioned off for a dressing room where hooks have been substituted for lockers. This will be of great advantage as the clothing after being used in the gymnasium is hung up and by a system of ventilation they are dried before they are used again.

There is also in the basement two strike bags.

Mr. S. H. Galbraith, who is very popular with the young men, has been engaged as superintendent and instructor of the institute which is a sufficient guarantee that the instruction received will be thorough.

Sons of Veterans Elect.

At the regular meeting of Francis L. Southern Camp, No. 27, Sons of Veterans, held last Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Captain, —Melvin C. Holmes.

First Lieutenant, —George H. Jones.

Second Lieutenant, —Clarence E. Byard.

Camp Council, —Joseph Crickmay.

George M. Chubbuck, Frank W. Munroe.

Delegate, —Samuel A. Allen.

Alternate, —George H. Foss.

Rev. S. A. Sisson of South Braintree, was mustered into the camp making over 75 members in good standing. After the election of officers, Brother S. A. Sisson made a very short but interesting speech as to the welfare of the camp. There were also remarks from Captain-elect M. C. Holmes, past-Captain Bowler, and others. After a late hour the meeting was adjourned, each member feeling that the camp was in a flourishing condition and one of the best in the State.

Drive Whist.

A large and pleasant gathering of ladies and gentlemen assembled at the rooms of the Granite City club on Wednesday evening to enjoy a game of drive whist.

The lady's prize, a beautiful vase, was won by Mrs. James Thompson, who made the unusual large score of forty-seven in twenty-five hands. The gentleman's prize, a pair of pictures, was taken by Geo. W. Prescott.

Faxon a Large Contributor.

The Prohibition State committee received $3,975.79 and expended $3,957.48. Among the large contributors were: William H. Phillips, Taunton, $800; Henry H. Faxon, Quincy, $1,000; Edward Kendall, $100; John M. Fisher, Attleboro, $100; James H. Roberts, Cambridge, $100; Mellen H. Walker, Westboro, $100. The expenses included: Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, lecturing, etc., $412; George E. Crosby & Co., printing, $1,034.10; S. D. Hastings, treasurer national committee, $500; John P. St. John, of Kansas, for speeches, $370.50; advertising in Boston papers, $50; Rev. L. A. Banks, speeches, $137; Harvey N. Shepard, legal services, $50.

MILTON.

The Democratic committee of Milton received and spent but $50.20 in the Presidential campaign.

A Miss Roether, who is the jailer of the Walkerton, Ont., prison, is reported to be the only woman "jailoress" in Ontario.

McNary's Expenses.

The campaign expense account of the 10th congressional Democratic committee, where William S. McNary was the candidate, was filed in Boston, yesterday. The document shows that Mr. McNary gave in $2,000, and J. J. Nawn settled the balance of the expenses, which amounted to $150.76 additional. The expense account shows that printing cost $400; bill posting, $172.50; Boston Mailing Company, mailing, postage, etc., $445.39; rent of halls, $250; ward 19 committee, $100; ward 20 committee, $150; ward 22 committee, $150; ward 24 committee, $150; Quincy committee, $100.

Two Ways of Taming Horses.

What is announced as being a trial of the relative merits as horse tamers of Leon, of Australia, and Sample, of America, was commenced in the theater adjoining the Westminster aquarium the other evening. A committee of between forty and fifty gentlemen, including military men, veterinary surgeons and others, has been formed to supervise the affair, and it is intended to award the winner a prize of $100. A number of intractable and vicious horses, or horses suffering from other defects of temper, will be submitted to the rival tamers, and the committee will decide as to which, in the words of Professor Atkinson, most nearly conforms to the requirements of simplicity, humanity and practicality. Owing to various causes last night's demonstration was of a rather restricted character.

Each man "handled," as the term is, two horses, and with, from his own point of view, success. Leon's system of "taming," as is perhaps generally known, consists in the subjection of the animal to be operated on by an ingenious and most effective arrangement of bits, gags and cords, while Sample, after securely boxing up his patient, brings him into close proximity with a steam engine, and having familiarized him with its noises while under restraint, afterward drives him right up to it. Both men gave demonstrations of their respective methods with a fair amount of success, and it is understood the committee will award points nightly and give their decision at the end of the fortnight.—London Telegraph.

Slavery Still Exists.

A slave woman, captured recently by H. M. S. Blanche, has just been condemned. She was on her way to Pemba when the attention of the officer of the watch was attracted by the unusual number of Arals in a dhow standing in toward the land. On boarding her the dhow was found to contain thirty-three slaves and to have come from Pangani. Three of the slaves were selected by chance to be examined in the prize court.

Of these two came from the neighborhood of Mombasa. One, a male, said that he had been sold by his brother on account of famine prevailing in the district; the other, a young woman, said that a year ago she had been sold by an Arab of Mombasa, and had eventually been sold to the captain of the dhow; the third slave was a little boy, and when examined he said he came from Unyamwezi with a caravan. The captain of the dhow said it was the business of the people on the coast to sell slaves, and that he had paid for every one of the thirty-three slaves and had not stolen or kidnapped any. The slaves were turned over to the missionaries, and the captain and Arab crew have been dealt with by the sultan of Zanzibar.—London Army and Navy Gazette.

—For the year ending June 30, the 1891, ordinary postal revenue of the United States, exclusive of money order business, was more than $65,000,000. Something like $41,500,000 of this came from letter postage, the majority of which came from the sale of two-cent stamps. It is estimated that the whole number of this stamp used exceeds two billion yearly.

—The red glow of the planet mars has puzzled everybody but a French astronomer, who gives it as his opinion that the vegetation of that far away world is crimson instead of green. He also says that he hasn't the least doubt but that there are single flowers on the war god's surface which are as large as the incorporated limits of Paris.

HOW TO REDUCE FAT.

Obesity May Be Cured by a Rigorous Diet.

The real mode of life and diet should be changed if the fat would be reduced. If necessary procure a pair of scales and weigh the different foods that are taken into the system. Reduce the diet then to about four ounces of starch or sugar material per day, one and a half ounces of fat taken chiefly in the form of butter, and about six or seven ounces of albuminous food, such as lean meat or fish. This is the minimum that should be resorted to, and the patient can take more of each at first and reduce the diet gradually to this point. The proportion of the different food compounds, however, with the exception of figs, dates, grapes and nuts, should also be eaten daily, and one-third of a pound of some of the following vegetables: Asparagus, turnips, cucumbers, parsley, water cress, celery, kale or cabbage. Fluids have a fattening tendency, and they must be taken in small quantities.

The drinking should be confined to tea, coffee or water, and never should be taken at mealtime nor within one hour of a meal. This is peremptory, for food will produce fat much quicker and surer when watered by some good beverage.

How to Make a Good Face Mask.

Grate a little alum, put what you can lay on a dime in one teaspoonful of rose water. Beat the white of an egg, then add it to the rose water and beat together. Prepare it at night, spread it on the face and cover with a piece of soft chamois skin, which can be fastened to the face by means of strings, with places cut for the eyes, nose and mouth. Wash the face well in the morning with warm water.

How to Clean Ivory Ornaments.

Brush them well with a soft tooth brush, using lukewarm water and a little soap. Rinse them in water of the same temperature, dry with a cloth and brush till the luster reappears. Pour a little alcohol upon the brush, and should the ivory have become yellow drying it in a gentle heat is recommended by a manufacturing jeweler as the best means of restoring it to its original color.

How to Color Shells.

Boil a little lac dye and let it stand to thicken. Then dissolve it in a solution of tin chloride. Clean the shells and dip them in the mixture.

How to Pose for a Photograph.

If you have bones in your neck and a clear, full light is turned on you they will not show, but if you turn yourself in shadow in hopes of hiding them, the ugly things will become the most prominent feature of the picture. That is one secret for girls who would love to be taken in evening dress, but don't dare. The simpler the frock worn the better. Plain straight folds can be handled more attractively, and by the way, the idea of dark gowns for photographs is obsolete. Contrasting backgrounds are not often necessary. One of the most successful pictures seen at a recent photographic artists' meeting was that of a tall girl in a soft, clinging white gown against a dead white ground. The effect was ideal and created a sensation.

How to Straighten Bent Whalebones.

Wash them in warm water and dry them, then iron them with a moderately hot iron. Care must be taken to clean the iron with salt or wax as the bone leaves it streaky and rough.

How to Make a Child Grow.

To aid the growth of a child try the following, and you will see astonishing results. Let the child stand by a door and turn out the toes at an angle of 60 degrees. Now see if lips, chin, chest and toes touch the door. Is the abdomen held back several inches? If so the child is standing perfectly erect, and will measure its full height. This will really seem hard work, as it makes one feel very stiff, but practice it several times a day and it will soon be easily accomplished. While in school a child is usually stooping over one sort of work or another, and it is well to help the figure back into good shape by this simple method.

How to Make Egg Drink for Sick Stomach.

Beat a fresh egg for twenty minutes, add a pint of water, a pint of milk, and sugar to taste; then boil. Drink when cold as long as the mixture remains thin.

How to Make a Whisk Holder.

Many designs have been used for this purpose. One of the newest is a large sunflower made of yellow felt, brown velvet and brown ribbon. Cut the petals from the yellow felt in various sizes and plait the lower end so as to form a fullness. Place them in position on a pasteboard background in rows according to size. Fill the center with the brown velvet and work it in stitches of various lengths. A strip of ribbon is fastened across the back to hold the broom in its place, and at each side the suspension ribbon is tacked, being prettily bowed at each of these points. The flower may be made of paper, but cloth or felt is more desirable.

How to Cut or Bore Rubber.

Dip the borer or knife into a strong solution of caustic potash.

How to Keep the House Healthy.

Don't neglect your cellar. It is usually the place where are thrown old rags, bottles, ashes and boxes of all kinds. For the winter use have the coal and wood make its appearance in the month of August. Cleanse and whitewash ceilings and sides, and once in awhile use disinfectants for health and cleanliness. To free the place from insects and vermin. This much despised room is of infinite value to the mistress, whose business it is to see that it is set in order, for it is the storehouse where are kept warmth, light and comfort for the family in winter.

The Model Husband.

Most wives will end their story with, "Ah, well, men are but human!" I long to tell the secret of A truly happy woman.

Through all the sunshine lighted years. Lived now in respectation. My husband's word brought never tears Nor caused a sad reflection.

Whatever the burdens of the day, Unflinching, calm and steady, To bear his part—the larger half—Always find him ready.

Housecleaning season brings no frown, No sarcasm pointed keenly, Through carpets up and tacks head down He makes his way serenely.

Our evenings pass in converse sweet Or quiet contemplation. We never disagree except To "keep up conversation."

And dewy morn of radiant June, Fair moonlight of September, April with bird and brook atone, Stern, pitiless December—

Each seems to my adoring eyes Some new grace to discover, For he, unchanging through the years, Is still my tender lover.

So life no shadow holds, though we Have reached the side that's shady. My husband? Oh, a dream is he, And I'm a maiden lady!

—Eleanor M. Dennis.

Odd Custom in Brazil.

A woman lately returned from Brazil tells of the curious nomenclature of the streets of Para. They are Biblical or commemorative of some event in the Brazilian history. It seemed to her quite irrelevant to be told that a desirable location was "at the corner of St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist streets." She went with her uncle, who was on business, to dine at the house of a wealthy merchant.

Everything was very gorgeous and lavish in South American style, but on leaving she was amazed to hear her hospitable host say to her, "If you have any washing send it here." It is a custom there, it seems, for wealthy households to take in laundry work as an employment for their large retinues of servants.—Cor. Utica Herald.

"Old Physics" Crawford.

General S. W. Crawford was called "Old Physics" because in the beginning of his military career he was a surgeon. He was with Major Anderson during the bombardment of Fort Sumter, and saved the life of Roger A. Pryor, of Virginia, who, while under a flag of truce inside the fort, unceremoniously picked up a glass of liquid from a table and drank it for a "whisky straight." It proved to be iodine of potassium, but "Old Physics" pumped him out and saved his life.—Washington Star.

Something About Oranges.

It is orange season again, and those who are fond of them are very glad to get their favorite fruit once more. It is possible to buy oranges at any season of the year, and as nearly everybody likes them there is a steady demand for the fruit all the year round. But the orange months have always been from December until May. Oranges are sweet then and very juicy.

This year, however, it has been discovered that oranges can be easily brought all the way from Brazil, and as the Brazilian oranges are at their best in November there is a plenty of them to be found now.—Exchange.

The Cabinet Will Resign.

MADRID, Dec. 8.—The cabinet council decided at a meeting last evening that the ministers should not resign until after a resolution of confidence could have been passed by congress. This resolution was presented. It was so worded that the dissident Conservatives would not vote for it. It was passed by a vote of 107 to 7, almost three-quarters of the deputies refusing to participate in the ballot. The abstention of the dissident Conservatives from voting revealed the irreconcilability of the government factions. The cabinet will resign.

HOT BEER.

Five Men Blinded by Steam Badly

Scalded in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 8.—Five men were badly scalded with boiling beer last night at C. Baerlein & Co.'s brewery. They were standing in the vat house when the valve of a hop-jack gave way, sending a flood of scalding beer upon them.

The five men had entered the vat house to inspect the place. At the time of the accident the tank contained about 115 barrels of the scalding liquid. No one of the company was aware of the danger until all were startled by a snapping sound. The valve had given way.

By the time the men glanced up, a stream of boiling beer was bursting from the tank and surrounding them. A dense steam arose from the gurgling flood, blinding the men so they could not tell which way to flee. All they could do was to stand still and try for help. The clerks in the office heard the cry, and, after some hard labor, succeeded in rescuing the men, who were already standing knee deep in the flood.

None of them were able to walk, and when their injuries were dressed carriages were summoned, and they were removed to their homes. The scalded men may not recover.

FROM HEADQUARTERS.

The Circular Issued from the Republican National League.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The following has been issued from the headquarters of the Republican National League:

New York, Dec. 7, 1892. The following gentlemen are hereby appointed as a sub-executive committee of the Republican National League: Joseph H. Manly, Maine; James A. Blanchard, New York; Isaac Trumbo, California; E. P. Allen, Michigan; George W. Patchell, Indiana; John M. Thurston, Nebraska; Henry E. Tappan, Rhode Island; R. W. Austin, Alabama; W. E. Riley, Kentucky; W. W. Stacy, Illinois; John R. Robinson, Pennsylvania; J. P. Kelly, Wisconsin; H. De B. Clay, Virginia; Frank J. Cannon, Utah.

An early date will be named for a meeting of this committee to take up the detail work confided to this organization by the Republican party.

The reports received from the local leaders show renewed energy and courage on the part of the Republicans, and there is everywhere a strongly expressed desire to go to work for the future.

If a meeting of the Republican national committee shall be held in January, as is now proposed, a meeting of the entire national committee of the league will be called to meet with it for conference, and an agreement upon a common plan of work for the ensuing four years.

COUNTING THE COST.

Statement of the Receipts and Expenses of the State Campaign Filed.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—The account of the Republican state committee, of its receipts and expenses during the campaign, were filed at the city clerk's office yesterday afternoon. The expense report covered twenty-two pages with thirty items on a page, and the total amount expended is in the neighborhood of $50,000. The balance left from last year was $11,552.50. The total receipts, including that balance, were $52,945.15.

There were a good many big contributions, among the largest being Henry Cabot Lodge, who gave $7200; Eben S. Draper, $3113.02; F. L. Ames, $2000; Oliver Ames, $1000; J. M. Lassell, Northbridge, $1500.

The sum of $25,381.44 was received from E. S. Draper as chairman of the Republican committee.

MURDER CONFESSED.

Brutal Butchery of Countess Visconti and Maid

BY A HEARTLESS GERMAN FARMER

Who Was Arrested in A Saloon and Admitted His Guilt.

ROME, Dec. 8.—Countess Visconti and her maid, Marie Prevati, were murdered in the countess's villa at Ferrara on Friday. The deed was done with peculiar bloodthirstiness. The countess was strangled and stabbed eighteen times in the stomach, breast and shoulder. One breast was cut almost off. When found, her body was bloodless, as, besides stabbing her body, the murderer had cut the veins in her wrists. The maid was nearly hacked to pieces. The stabs all over her breast and stomach were hardly an inch apart. Her neck had been cut all around, and there was a gaping wound in her throat. Both women had been assaulted immediately before or after death. Each lay in a large pool of blood, and everything near the bodies was spattered with blood.

The murders were committed evidently early on Friday evening, but were not discovered until next morning. Suspicion fell upon a German named Schumann, who was an overseer in a tannery in the city. He had intimate acquaintance with the countess's maid and from her was known to have learned the ways of the house and the countess's habits. He was not at work on Saturday morning, and signs of hasty departure were found in his sleeping room. A description and request for his arrest were telegraphed to all Italian cities with the result that last evening he was caught in a saloon of this city. When arrested he struggled hard to escape and tried to throw a purse out of the window. For this he was handcuffed and taken to the police station. He was found with a silver, and in it the detectives found her card and several hundred francs in notes. At the police station Schumann at first denied his guilt. After he had been locked up an hour he called the turnkey and confessed both murders.

IN A FIT OF MADNESS.

A Philadelphia Lawyer Believed to Have Committed Suicide.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—John M. Cohen, a rich Philadelphia lawyer and financier, was found lying on the floor of his sleeping apartment in the Hotel La Vita at 2300 North Dearborn and Chicago avenues yesterday, with the blood of a fatal wound on his forehead in the right temple. He was taken unconscious to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where he expired at 5:30 o'clock. All the evidence points to deliberate suicide. This purpose, Mr. Cohen came to Chicago about six weeks ago. His high standing in Philadelphia's social club and financial life was known among moneyed men of this city. He came to invest, in Chicago securities, the funds of a heavy eastern trust company. Mr. Cohen opened an office in suit-505 Madison street.

During his stay at the La Vita he impressed his fellow boarders as being a man of great energy and of broad education. For the last four or five days he had complained of being unable to sleep, and Tuesday placed himself under the care of a physician. The guests at the La Vita had noticed that Mr. Cohen did not appear as usual Tuesday evening. He again came to the city, and the effects of the somnolence from which he suffered, and declared his intention of going to his room and again trying to sleep. He was seen to enter the room, and that was the last seen of him alive.

BIG CARGOES AT PORTLAND.

Transatlantic Steamers Are Busy Loading at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 8.—Several carloads of emigrants from the northwestern part of Canada arrived here by the Canada Pacific railway. They sailed on the Sardinian of the Allan line, which will carry one of the largest cargoes of the largest number of passengers of any of the transatlantic lines that leave here. Nine thousand barrels of apples comprise a portion of her cargo.

The steamer "Warlock" of the Donaldson line sailed for Glasgow with full cargo. The Allan line officials evidently will soon take some action in regard to immigration and the handling of immigrants and quarantine. It is reported that not many more steerage passengers will be brought here, the annoyance caused by detention and disinfecting here renders this class of traffic unprofitable. The Numidia, Liverpool for Portland, has very few immigrants on board.

On the other hand, the Dominion line will bring off its immigrants to Portland, instead of landing them at Halifax. Thus far there have been twice as many emigrants as immigrants.

The Maine Militia.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 8.—Among the bills which the next legislature is reorganizing the militia, one of the most important is the bill for the reorganization of the militia on a basis, as proposed by Captain Hall in his report. General Beal says it must be done in conformity with the new tactics. If the Maine troops go to the World's fair in August, it is likely the state muster would be dispensed with. The plan is for the United States to pay for the transportation and rations of the soldiers and the state their wages.

Another Victim of Electric Cars.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—Gaylord Leonard, 31 years old, and whose home is at Providence, was crossing Tremont street near Castle, at 7:30 o'clock last night, when he was knocked down by an East Boston electric car numbered 145, sustaining a dislocated shoulder. He was attended by Dr. Hubbard at station 4, and was sent to the city hospital.

A Stolen Kiss.

HORSEMEN OF THE NATION

Devote a Day Discussing the Death of Grover S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The board of review of the National Trotting Association continued its annual meeting. The evidence and arguments in the appeal cases of the members who were expelled from the association by the judges at the Point Breeze Park, Philadelphia, last summer, because of the falling dead on the track of the horse George S., were presented to the board.

It was alleged that landman was given to the horse in sufficient quantities to kill it, and as a consequence the expulsion of William Shanley, the owner, J. A. Lyman, the driver, and R. Hollister, a pool seller, all of Binghamton, N. Y., followed. Lawyer Dewitt argued that the horse had been given the drug as a relief from heart disease.

Two of Father Bill Daly's cases were also presented. One of these was the case of the mare Ida Jefferson, entered in the 250 class at Manchester, Conn., last summer. The heats of the race were given to another horse and the claim was made that Ida Jefferson had made a record of 2:45 at New Britain previous to that race. It was shown that the 2:45 record had not been properly kept.

THE TREATY OF 1817.

Report in Answer to Inquiries Transmitted to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Secretary of State Foster has transmitted to the president a report in answer to the inquiries introduced in a senate resolution of April 11, 1892, which was laid before the senate. The questions related to the treaty of 1817 between the United States and Great Britain respecting the maintenance of armed vessels on the great lakes.

The secretary says that the terms of the treaty are held by the department of state to be still in force, and that neither power is in violation of the treaty. The report shows that subsequent to the notification by President Lincoln, in 1835, ratified by resolution of congress in 1835, of the desire of the United States to withdraw from the treaty, diplomatic correspondence ensued, with the result on March 8, 1855, the United States minister at London was instructed to withdraw the previous notice. This was communicated to Sir P. Bruce, British minister, by Secretary Seward, June 15, 1855, at which date correspondence in regard to the termination of the treaty of 1817 ceased. Since that time it has been regarded by both governments as in continuing force and effect.

A VERDICT OF $15,000

Rendered in Favor of Alice Richardson's Mother.

ICEMAN BETRAYED HER DAUGHTER

And the Unfortunate Girl Died a Short Time Afterward.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—A verdict for $15,000, the largest ever awarded in this country in a seduction case, was yesterday rendered against John N. Winkley of the Winkley & Maddox Ice company in the second session of the superior court.

The jury were occupied nearly two days with the evidence and arguments in support of the $25,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Sarah Richardson of Bath, Me., against Mr. Winkley, for the seduction and consequent death of her young daughter, Alice Etta Richardson.

The charge to the jury.

Judge Sherman, in his charge yesterday, told the jury the questions they must answer affirmatively before they could find for the plaintiff. They must determine first whether or not Mrs. Richardson had given her daughter her time, as the saying goes—that is, agreed to relinquish all claim to her wages and control over her actions. The fact that Alice was in Boston and her mother in Bath did not prove this. It did not depend on the amount Alice contributed to her mother's support. It only was a question whether the mother had relinquished her claim.

In finding for the plaintiff, the jury found that Mrs. Richardson had not relinquished any right to her daughter's services.

The second question which Judge Sherman told the jury they must decide was whether or not John N. Winkley was the betrayer of Alice Richardson. The reported were not evidence on this point. The way the defendant received the news that she had accused him, taken with the other facts touching their relations, were evidence.

Declarations of the Girl

At the request of Mr. Jewell, for the defense, Judge Sherman ruled, in effect, that if the girl's death was due to causes between the alleged seduction and her death, with which the defendant was not connected, the defendant was not liable.

The jury found that the defendant was the girl's betrayer, and was liable under the ruling of the court.

Then came the question of fixing the amount of the damages. Here Judge Sherman ruled that the jury was not limited to the actual loss of the girl's services but to take into consideration the effect upon the mother's health, which the sorrow, bereavement and disgrace had wrought. They could impose punitive damages upon the defendant if the facts seemed to merit it.

The jury found that $15,000 was their pecuniary measure of the mother's loss and suffering and of the defendant's offending.

The jury went out at 12:30 o'clock, went to dinner at 2, and at 4 o'clock, just before the court adjourned, rendered their verdict. The only person present of all those interested, whether lawyers or citizens, was Mr. Winkley. He received the verdict with fortitude, but his ruddy face paled.

The alleged seduction is claimed to have taken place May 1, 1890; the death of the girl occurred July 7, 1892.

A KNOTTY QUESTION

About a Man's Disappearance to be Decided by a Supreme Court.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—A lot of lawyers and scores of people are interested in a suit pending in the supreme judicial court. Property valued at over $75,000 is involved and the case had a beginning in the courts away back in 1839. The facts are so complicated that it is doubtful if all the attorneys engaged fully understand them. One all-important question in the case is: Where is John Smith, Jr.? If alive, where is he? If dead, when did he die?

In 1839 Nancy Babcock married John Smith, Jr., and soon after a marriage settlement was made of property on Hanover street and Creek square, Boston, one Henry Watwright taking it in trust for Mrs. Smith. The latter did not get on well with her husband, and in 1836 procured a divorce, marrying later on Chandler Carter. John Smith, Jr., disappeared in 1840, being last heard of in New Orleans. Mrs. Carter died many years ago, leaving two daughters and her second husband. The daughters are dead and so is the second husband, the latter dying in 1855 at Berlin, Mass.

Since Carter's death the rents and profits have been paid under the will of his wife to his heirs, who, when they decided to sell the property, found it necessary to advertise for the purpose of giving notice to some half a hundred people who might be interested, because under the marriage settlement if Mrs. Smith died before John Smith, Jr., the latter had certain rights in the property which would pass to his heirs. The advertising brought out a good many claimants who want to be sure that John Smith, Jr., is dead, and if dead that he died after his wife had ceased, otherwise they propose to assert a claim on the property. The court is asked to find out all the facts and say what is to be done. Meantime everybody is asking for John Smith, Jr.

GRIM SUSPICIONS.

Neighbors of Old Man Norton Puzzled by His Strange Actions.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 9.—Interest in the case of Roland Norton of North Kittery, who mysteriously disappeared Sunday, Aug. 28, was revived again yesterday by a report to the effect that his body had been buried behind his father's barn at this place.

A visit to the locality proved the report a canard. Mr. Norton was found in the barn caring for his stock and said he had heard the report, but that his neighbors supposed those who had found the body would produce it. He knew nothing about it. Throughout the entire interview Norton maintained perfect silence on direct questions and returned evasive answers to others.

Many think that Norton knows more than he is willing to tell, or is insane. Very little credence is placed in the letters received from Boston and Chicago regarding the missing boy. Mrs. Norton was written to as to the whereabouts of her son, but so far no answer has been received, and the belief that Roland Norton has been the victim of foul play will not be removed from the minds of the residents of North Kittery until word is received from the lad or his mother.

THE BORDEN CASE AGAIN.

Counsel Adams and Professor Wood Not in the Trickey-McHenry "Deal."

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 9.—The latest gossip concerning the Borden case is based on statements made before the grand jury relating to the counter statement by Henry G. Trickey and Detective McHenry, one of whom was seeking matter for a newspaper sensation, and the other fame in police circles.

By tracing alleged understanding on the part of Attorney Adams and Professor Wood, it is said that Trickey tried to gain McHenry's confidence by saying that Professor Wood "had been fixed" by the defense; that the detectives communicated with the Fall River police and endeavored to impress them with the truth of Trickey's decoy statement. The meetings at Providence and Attleboro followed, and the much-talked-of money was passed to McHenry.

The sensation was exploded prematurely and the public knows the rest. It is said that there were warm times in the grand jury room, growing out of sharp questions on the part of one juror, who criticized Fall River police methods, and on the part of another who was formerly in the local police department.

At the time of the Trickey-McHenry negotiations Counsel Adams was sick with typhoid fever. It is needless to say that Professor Wood is not in the "fixing" business.

MILL PROPERTY BURNED.

Loss May Reach $200,000 and 300 Operatives Will Have a Vacation.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 9.—The village of Jefferson, in the town of Holden, was the scene of a disastrous fire yesterday. The woolen mill property owned by the Jefferson Manufacturing company took fire from a spark in the picker house, and one of the two mill buildings, the stock house with all its contents, and a two-tenement house were burned. The other mill was badly damaged by water.

Ald was summoned from Worcester, and the fire did efficient work when they arrived. They stopped the progress of the fire. The loss is between $175,000 and $200,000. The insurance on the entire property was $250,000, of which $100,000 was on the upper mill, which was not burned.

The lower mill, which was burned, was used for the manufacture of satinet. About 150 operatives were employed in the building. The building was of wood, 125 feet in length and three stories high. It contained six sets of woolen machinery, and six sets of narrow looms. The building and machinery were entirely destroyed.

The upper mill was considerably damaged by water and not able to run for two months. In the meantime nearly 300 operatives will be idle. The Jefferson company will probably rebuild.

TEST CASE AT FALL RIVER.

Legal Struggle Begun to Test the Legality of the Fifty-Eight-Hour Law.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 9.—A case to test the constitutionality of the fifty-eight-hour law for the employment of women and minors in factories was brought before the district court here by State Inspectors Dexter and Tierney. The Union Cotton Manufacturing company is charged with employing Rosanna Bergew in over fifty-eight hours in one week, in violation of this law.

Andrew J. Jennings, counsel for the corporation, filed a motion to dismiss the case on the ground that something impossible was required when the defense was asked to prove the employment of women and minors in factories was brought before the district court here by State Inspectors Dexter and Tierney. The Union Cotton Manufacturing company is charged with employing Rosanna Bergew in over fifty-eight hours in one week, in violation of this law.

This is the first case brought in the state under the new law. Mr. Jennings wanted a week to prepare for trial, and the case was continued till Dec. 15.

TWO RUNAWAY BOYS.

Parents and Police Are Looking for Herbert Thomas and Thomas Whitcher.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Dec. 9.—Herbert Thomas, the 15-year-old son of Charles H. Thomas of Middleboro, and Thomas Whitcher, another 15-year-old boy of Raynham, have been missing since Saturday night. They have carried with them clothing for a long trip, and the Whitcher boy said to have stolen between $300 and $400 from his folks and taken it with him. They planned for a trip to Europe, but search at different sailing ports gives no trace of them.

Whitcher is dark, with nearly black hair. Thomas has brown hair, large dark brown eyes, is of medium height and rather heavy. They are thought to have gone either to New York or the west. The police in New England have been notified to report any trace of them to Mr. Thomas at Middleboro.

Refused a New Trial.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—The motion for a new trial in the case of Carrie A. Holmes vs. her father, H. W. Smith, has been overruled by Judge Bishop in the superior court. Mrs. Holmes sued to recover $30,000, a gift alleged to have been made in October, 1889, by her father. At the previous trial she had a verdict for over $30,000, which was set aside, and at the second trial the verdict was for the defendant.

They Need a Spanking.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—According to the police, three little boys, George Pope, John Callahan and George Murray, played in the character of highway robbers. They sprang upon another boy, Edwin Colpitt, while the latter was walking on Porter street, East Boston. Two of them held Colpitt while their companion robbed him of 43 cents.

FIERCE AND BLOODY.

Maheer Knocked Out by Goddard in Three Rounds.

THE IRISH LAD MAKES A GAME FIGHT

But the Australian Derives Benefit from Superior Strength.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 9.—Despite the unpleasant weather the big hall of the Coney Island Athletic club was crowded last night, and every city of any size in the country was represented by lovers of prize fighting. The attendance numbered 8000. The sport of the evening opened with a very lively ten-round bout for a $500 purse between two 115-pound men, Barney Mullins of New York and Jerry Sullivan of Brooklyn. The referee decided that Mullins was the more skilful of the two, and gave him the fight. Sullivan's face was bruised and blackened and he was covered with blood.

The next event was the fight between Joe Goddard of Australia and Peter Maheer of Ireland. For a Purse of $7500, of which the winner will receive $5000 and the loser $2500. Goddard was the first to appear, followed by his seconds, and he entered the ring with an air of confidence. He was given a hearty reception, and many exclamations of approval were heard as he shed his long ulster. But Goddard's reception was nothing as compared with the ovation given Maheer, who was greeted with a vast shout of encouragement. Goddard walked over to Maheer and shook him by the hand cordially. The coin was tossed, and when it was seen that the Irish lad had won the lucky corner a great shout of joy arose from the Maheer contingent.

The Battle.

Round one—The men sparred cautiously, Goddard having a confident air. Each man held his right as if waiting to get that member home on his opponent's jaw. Goddard led in the first round, but his knees, when he took advantage of the necessary ten seconds. Maheer drew first blood. Each man fought like wildcats. Maheer landed right and left and was forced to the ropes by Goddard, who was so tired that he could hardly stand. Maheer made a great rally, but his blows only seemed to make Goddard angry, and he hit right and left, landing at will, taking anything that Maheer could give if he could only get in his blows. Maheer was wild, hoping against hope, to get in his right, which he did four or five times, but Goddard only went at him all the more determinedly, and the fight looked to be a short one, for Maheer was winded and could not hold his own with his powerful opponent. When time was called Maheer staggered to his corner, and it was plainly all day with him. No two featherweights ever fought a faster round, for it was give and take from the start.

Round two—Goddard landed with left and right, and then both men closed to hard in-fighting, hitting with right and left, until Goddard landed a right that sent Maheer to the floor. He was up in time and they were at it again, hammer and tongs, smashing each other with right and left until they were both so tired that they could scarcely stand upon their feet by the time the round was completed. Neither of them showed the slightest signs of science. It was purely a case of brute strength, and the man who landed the most blows was sure to win. Both men Received Terrible Punishment.

Round three—Both men came up looking dazed from the furious fighting of the previous round, but both were determined to end the contest as soon as possible. They rained blow after blow on each other as fast and hard as possible. Goddard was the worst punished man in appearance, as his face was covered with blood, which flowed in streams down his breast. He went at Maheer like a wild beast, and fairly beat his man down by brute strength. The Irish lad stood up gamely under the shower of blows, but at last was laid low by a straight right on the jaw and fell face down on the floor. The excitement was intense, the crowd being fairly crazed with excitement. The round lasted just fifty seconds.

The fight, for the time it lasted, was one of the bloodiest and fiercest battles ever witnessed. Goddard was covered with blood from almost the first blow, but was much the stronger man, the difference of twelve pounds in weight in his favor badly handicapping Maheer.

A FIFTY-ROUND BATTLE.

Police Interfere at Buffalo and Feather-weight Haugh is Declared Winner.

BUFFALO, Dec. 9.—Tommy Creed, feather-weight of the Downtown Athletic club, New York, gave an exhibition of pluck and endurance in his fight with Mickey Haugh of Brooklyn at the Buffalo Athletic club here, that is unprecedented in this part of the state. For fifty rounds the men fought without a knockout. For the first thirty rounds Creed punched Haugh about the stomach as he pleased, but, after that, Haugh's longer training got in its work, and for the last ten rounds he could not keep away from the Brooklyn man, who punished him severely about the head. Time and again Creed would take advantage of eight or nine seconds to lie on the floor and rest, and his cleverness earned him frequent applause. Haugh hit clean and hard in the last rounds. The police interfered in the midst of slugging in the fiftieth round, and Haugh got the decision. If the police had not interfered it is understood the club would have called a draw after the round. About 700 people paid $4 each to see the fight.

O'Connell Beaten.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—Dawson beat "Doc" O'Connell after a hot fight last night in the twentieth round.

Another Trial for Curtis.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—Owing to the death of Juror Libby, which occurred yesterday, Judge Murphy has dismissed the jury in the Aetor Curtis murder trial. The case will be retried.

CROWDED TODAY.

The large whole page advertisement of Drake & Co. arrived unexpectedly at 11 o'clock this morning, after two pages had gone to press and it has been necessary to lay over until tomorrow considerable local news and other advertisements.

CHURCH RECEPTION.

An Enjoyable Evening at the Wollaston Congregational Church.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of the Congregational Church, Wollaston, gave a reception in the church vestries on Thursday evening.

The guests, as they arrived, were received at the doors of the auditorium by the reception committee, Mrs. J. G. Witham, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson and Miss Jones.

After the informal reception in the auditorium the guests were escorted to the vestries where they were introduced to Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Robinson by the ushers, Miss Prescott, Miss Lincoln, Miss Thompson, Miss Mae Lincoln, Miss Hinckley, Mr. W. S. Sayward, Mr. James H. Lewis and Mr. W. M. Wright.

The vestries were beautifully decorated. The walls were draped with yellow silk tulle, and ferns and palms were scattered profusely about. The floors were covered with fur and Persian rugs, and the rooms were furnished with rich Turkish couches and divans. The whole effect was softened by the rays from a dozen great piano and banquet lamps.

After the reception a lunch of oysters and ices was served. Mrs. William J. Thompson and Mrs. E. H. Brock poured chocolate, and Mrs. H. T. Whitman poured the coffee.

Then came a solo by Mr. Samuel M. King. Rev. Mr. Robinson followed with a few remarks; Mr. N. G. Nickerson spoke of the work done by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor; Miss Jones, the Superintendent of the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor, outlined the work done by that organization; and Mrs. J. G. Witham reviewed the work done by the Ladies Benevolent Society, of which she is President.

More Election Expenses.

The election expenses of the Democratic committee of the Second Councillor district were filed in Boston, Thursday. There was contributed $1,028.45, all by William B. Rice; expenditures amounted to $1,038.30. Newspaper advertising cost $482; Tremont House headquarters cost $4.95; canvassing expenses, $177; stenographers, $53; printing $71, and distributing slips at polls, $55.

Michael J. McErick, candidate for Congress, 10th district—Receipts, $1,123.10, from himself; all paid to John F. Shea, treasurer campaign expense fund.

John F. Shea, treasurer, 10th congressional district, Independent Democratic committee—Receipts, $274.08, of which $1,028.98 came from Michael M. Cunniff; $1,123.10 from Michael J. McErick. The largest item of expense was for advertising, $1,210.98, of which the South Boston News received $705.98, and the Review Publishing Company $525, including copies of papers. The Boston Beacon also received $100 for advertising. The entire balance, with the exception of the election day expenses, for hack hire and canvassing, which amounted to less than $200, was spent for halls, headquarters and the furnishing and care of the latter.

Other Recounts.

William H. Warner who was defeated by Frank E. Badger by 28 votes for Councilman at large is to petition for a recount. It is possible that William H. Teasdale, the defeated Republican in Ward Four may petition for a recount.

All petitions must be filed within six days after election.

BRAINTREE.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Judge Humphrey Says the Water Street Grade Crossing Should be Abolished.

James Humphrey, justice of the District Court of eastern Norfolk, filed in the clerk of courts' office at Dedham, Thursday, his report of the inquest into the death of Antonio Tarentino. He finds that deceased came to his death Nov. 24, 1892, at Quincy, by being struck by the engine of passenger train No. 225, Old Colony railroad, near the Quincy Adams depot, and that "the railroad corporation, its agents and its servants, were not guilty of negligence in respect to this fatal occurrence, but the frequent loss of life at this grade crossing plainly indicates the urgent need of action for the separation of these grades.

THOMAS & MILLER.

Nov. 9.

WAS A QUINCY BOY.

The Story of a Hero as told in the Boston Journal.

Every one of the many thousand readers of the Boston Journal war articles must recall the pathetic story told by Major Everson in a recent issue about the death of the boy soldier, Joseph Jordan. Though sick in hospital when the battle of Gaines's Mill began, the youth rushed to the field of battle, catching up the first gun he could secure, and, entering the ranks of the Twenty-second Massachusetts, fell among the first killed on the line of that command.

The sequel of that story has now reached the Journal, and is equally pathetic. It seems that the family of young Jordan, now living in Quincy, never knew of his fate until they read Major Everson's article in the Journal's war tales. They simply knew that the boy was "missing," but had no knowledge whether he died, or, if he died, how he fell. To them therefore, this report was of inestimable value.

The letter written by a nephew of the hero further says that the history of the family of Dedrick Jordan was a particularly sad one. During the first year of the war an elder son had enlisted in the first Massachusetts Cavalry, a few months before it was reported that Joseph was "missing," and his father soon after joined the Thirty-fifth Massachusetts infantry, leaving his wife and five small children at home, three of whom, two months after his departure, were stricken with that dread disease, diphtheria, and died in one short week.

Card of Thanks.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I ask the use of your paper to express my appreciation of the vote of my friends in Quincy, especially the very flattering endorsement of Ward Two. To the successful party I tender cordial congratulation. If better men and better measures is the result no one should be disappointed. "The power that be," override, or should, every personal consideration.

The loss of the remunerative salary attached to the office of a Councilman in Quincy is a regret.

While differing with the administration, and having no compunctions of conscience on my record in the Council, I retire with no ill-will to any one.

Like the man in the gutter, when a sympathizing philanthropist came along and said: "My dear fellow I am very sorry," I reply as the man did, "Well, if you are very sorry I'll forgive you this time."

Christmas Numbers.

The abrupt contrasts of the California Christmas, as it sometimes happens, is shown in the snowy scene in Yosemite, constituting the frontispiece, and in the opening article in the Californian Illustrated Magazine, on "California Wild Flowers," by Bertha F. Herrick. In this article popular description and botanical accuracy are so joined and illustrated by life-like process engravings as to interest all lovers of flowers. "Christmas Days of Early Californians," "One Christmas Dawning," "A Christmas Bighorn" and other timely articles appear.

Encouraged by the unprecedented success attending the introduction of illustrations in the department of Newest Books, the editors of Current Literature have decided to devote about fifty pages of the Christmas number to the discussion of Books of the Season. One hundred and fifty volumes, fresh from the press are classified and reviewed with descriptive and critical comment boiled down to the fewest words. The Current Literature Publishing Co., 52-54 Lafayette Place, New York.

The December number of The Mother's Nursery Guide contains a valuable article on catarrhal affections. A talk on milk, certain fallacies concerning the use of eyeglasses. The interesting "Personal Experiences in Home Training" are continued, holiday books for children are discussed, and there are a number of "Kindergarten-at-Home Stories." The present number begins the ninth volume of this indispensable mother's guide. $2 a year. Sample copies sent free. Address, Babyhood Publishing Co., 5 Beekman street, New York.

PLEDGES ARE BROKEN.

Canada Must Discontinue Her Offensive Attitude.

DRASTIC MEASURES BY UNCLE SAM

May Have the Effect of Bringing Provincials Into Line.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The communication from the secretary of state, giving a resume of the relations between the United States and Canada under the treaties between this country and England during the past ten years, is received with general favor in both houses of congress. There is more behind this correspondence than has been submitted to the senate. It is well known that Canada has assumed a very arrogant and obstructive attitude toward the United States ever since the exercise of American jurisdiction over the Behring sea.

This colonial dependency has taken every occasion to interfere in the settlement of controverted points relating to Behring sea, the fisheries and the canal tolls, which were purely international questions. In addition to this Canada has violated every important agreement.

Concerning Armed Vessels on the lake. While the United States government has rigidly complied with the terms of this compact, Canada has been secretly at work constructing vessels, claiming that they are revenue cruisers, when they are really vessels which could be utilized for war vessels.

This action was regarded as sufficient cause to warrant the abrogation of the present agreement, so that the United States may be free to adopt such a policy of defense and naval patrol of the lakes as they may see fit.

The tone of conversation of the members of the foreign committee of the two houses indicates that.

They Indorse the Views expressed by the secretary of state, and will take his letter into consideration. It will be remembered that when President Harrison called the attention of congress to the offensive attitude of the Canadian government in discriminating in the matter of tolls against American vessels passing through the Welland canal, and suggesting retaliatory legislation, the two foreign committees, without regard to political parties, passed the necessary measure to protect American interests. The correspondence and negotiations since have shown that the Canadians are smarting under this summary treatment. The general inclination of congress is to adopt a more aggressive policy toward those insolent people.

THE FINANCIAL INVESTIGATION.

Ways and Means and Appropriations Committees Both Want the Honor. WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—A rivalry has broken out between the appropriations committee and the committee on ways and means of the house over the question of to whom is to be given the honor of investigating the financial condition of the country. Dockery introduced a resolution the other day authorizing the appropriations committee to make such an investigation, and introduce a bill to that effect. The border line of responsibility for such questions is very indistinct between the two committees, and the fact that the work is liable to attract considerable attention and have a direct bearing on the policy of the next house makes each committee anxious to undertake it. The committee on rules, to whom was referred the two resolutions, held a meeting yesterday, and discussed the matter without coming to any conclusion as to the form of the resolution to be reported.

It is the opinion of the members of the committee on rules that the work should be done by the ways and means committee, as the information to be sought will relate to the matter of raising the revenues, of which they have direct charge. The Breckinridge resolution will probably be amended so as to include some subjects of inquiry which are contained in the other resolution, and will then be favorably reported.

The object in placing the investigation in the hands of the ways and means committee is to have them so extend it as to collect a large amount of the information necessary to the formation of a tariff bill and on the way to advance the work of next congress. It is probable that the appropriations committee will make an effort when the matter comes before the house to have the resolution so amended as to place the investigation in the hands of that committee.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

England's Wavering Policy May Frustrate Its Desired Purpose. WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The cable advice from the American commissioners at Brussels are not very encouraging. The course of the English delegates, acting under immediate instructions from their government, show a change of policy which has taken place since the conference met. The American commissioners were led to believe that England would co-operate in an effort with the United States to secure an enlarged use of silver. But later developments and the attitude of Germany and France have caused a change of base. The wavering conduct of England may frustrate the objects of the conference.

The belief among the English and other authorities is general that congress may repeal the Sherman law of 1890, authorizing the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion a month. There are several other bills proposed in congress to the same end, which have attracted the attention of the parties to the Brussels conference, and which have evidently had more or less effect on their deliberations.

Chilian Claims Treaty Ratified.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The senate in executive session ratified the treaty with Chili providing for the appointment of a committee to settle the claims of citizens of the United States against Chili, negotiated by Minister Egan in Santiago.

Farmer Robbed by Highwaymen. MIDDLEBOROUGH, Mass., Dec. 9.—As William Barney, a Lakeville farmer, was entering his stable, two men seized him, threw a blanket over his head and tied it about him. They then robbed him of his pocketbook, containing over $30, and made their escape.

EDITOR DANA FOR SENATOR.

The New York Herald Comes Out with a Strong Plea in His Behalf.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The Herald demands that the United States senator for this state, soon to be elected by the legislature, shall be "some gentleman who is a native of this state, who has shown the quality of his Democracy by his public acts, and the mettle of his integrity by an unblemished record." The editorial proceeds to say:

If we set Mr. Dana's ripened statesmanship, his practical and profound knowledge of national questions, against the political views and wire-pulling of Mr. Murphy, the result is not in doubt. Mr. Dana is not only a New Yorker in all his interest, but he did more than Mr. Hill did in the last campaign to win the battle for the Democratic party. If reward were to be distributed, why select Murphy, who was energetically opposed to the successful candidates, rather than Dana, who threw his whole strength into the fight and so deserves the recognition which his honor implies?

And if a man of brains is to be our choice, why hit upon a plummy when a giant is near hand? If Dana and Hill are to be chosen, and if their professions of service to the people are genuine, will send Mr. Murphy to the rear and bring the name of Charles A. Dana to the front.

LOOKS BAD FOR GARDNER.

Dr. Parkhurst's Chief Detective Indicted on a Charge of Extortion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The grand jury yesterday afternoon found two indictments against Charles W. Gardner, chief detective of Dr. Parkhurst's society. The indictments charge him with extortion and the other with attempted extortion. The complaining witness is Lily Clifton, alias Catharine Amos, the keeper of a disreputable house, who alleges that he obtained $50 from her for "protection" and $150 to secure the quashing of an indictment he said had been found against her.

Another Hitch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—There is a hitch in the proceedings for the extradition of America's cup. Whether or not it is a serious one, time alone will show, but it certainly contains possibilities which may even prevent the making of a match altogether. In brief the hitch is that the New York Yacht club's cup committee has found that the challenge from the Royal Yacht Squadron on behalf of Lord Dunraven does not say specifically that it is under the new deed of gift and the committee therefore propose to lay the whole matter before the club at the meeting on Tuesday next and let the club decide for itself.

Director Evans Found Guilty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The jury in the case of Nelson F. Evans, late director of the Spring Garden National bank, who is charged with misappropriating the funds of the bank, was out but ten minutes when word was received from them that they desired again to come into court. They were allowed to do so, and their foreman announced that they had agreed. They found Evans guilty. The defendant took the news calmly, but turned very pale.

Banker Badly Injured.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—L. H. Kingsbury, president of the Dedham National bank, was knocked down by a horse at the corner of Congress and Water streets. He was taken to the emergency hospital, where it was found that his skull was fractured and that he had sustained a fracture of one of his arms. He also received internal injuries. In spite of the severity of his injuries, it is thought that he will recover.

Another Crank.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Daniel McLaughlin, a blonde young man, who runs a blacksmith shop when he's at home at Roanoke, Va., dived off the top of the iron guard rail on the north side of the Brooklyn bridge. He was picked up by the police of the river patrol, and is now in Chambers street hospital. The full extent of his injuries is not known, but they are not considered to be serious.

New Immigration Rules.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The rules adopted by the steamship companies, in view of the new restrictions upon immigration, are that steamer companies or certificates must be accompanied by the signed declaration of the passenger, either that he is a citizen of the United States or a resident in a specific state. The declaration must also set forth whether he or she is returning to America.

Cigar Makers Will Vote for License.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—The cigar makers last evening decided to vote for license at the coming election. This was brought about by the promise of the Boston Liquor Dealers' association to sell them cigars. The meeting in Commercial hall was addressed by prominent labor agitators.

No Change.

DENVER, Dec. 9.—Colonel Dodge, general manager of the Rio Grande Western, says that the report telegraphed from Salt Lake City that the Southern Pacific had secured control of his road is absurd and without the slightest foundation.

Bad Crash in a Fog.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 9.—During a fog here the rear car of a passenger train on the Central railroad of New Jersey was telescoped by a locomotive. No one was killed, but fourteen persons were more or less seriously injured.

Order for 3,000,000,000 Stamps.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Postmaster General Wanamaker has sent an order to the American Bank Note company of New York for 3,000,000,000 Columbian postage stamps, to be delivered in 1893.

A Double Murderer.

JERSEY CITY, Dec. 9.—Kenny Haynor, a canal boatman, who was on Wednesday convicted of killing his wife Lottie, was yesterday arraigned for killing Michael Adams, another boatman.

The Deacon Case.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The appeal of Mr. Deacon against the jurisdiction of the court at Grasse to try his case, came up at Aix, and was postponed until Feb. 1.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—There was a little wrangle over the rules in the house. The session of the senate was short.

MORE CAMPAIGN ACCOUNTS.

Governor Russell Makes Affidavit That His Election Cost Him Nothing.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—John L. Nichols, treasurer of the Young Men's Democratic club of Massachusetts, has submitted his statement of receipts and expenditures to City Clerk Galvin. The document is more voluminous than that of the Republican state committee. It covers sixty-six pages of legal cap, finely ruled. The receipts total up $29,000. The receipts came in 2005 separate payments, of which 1948 payments were from $1 up to $10, the majority of which were membership fees. There were a few $100 subscriptions and one $1000 subscription, from B. Thayer.

The expenditures were $13,373.01, leaving a balance on hand and in the bank of $67.56, and in the safe in cash of $21. Printing, bill posting, postage, newspapers, rallies, music, stationery, clerical work and salaries took up the greater portion of the expenditures.

Governor Russell makes the following sworn statement: I, William E. Russell, hereby declare that neither as candidate for nomination or for election to the office of governor in 1892 have I paid or promised to pay any sum of money or expended or disbursed any money or paid any expenses, except personal expense for traveling and for the purposes mentioned in section 16 of the act of 1882, nor have I received any money for purposes of election.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

Georgia Saloon Keeper Takes the Life of a Man Who Tried to Knife Him.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 9.—John Griffith was shot and killed by Cash Tinsley, the proprietor of the Casino saloon on First street. Griffith was drunk and called Tinsley out from behind the bar, calling him ugly names. Tinsley walked to the street door where Griffith stood, and the latter rushed on him with an open knife. Tinsley drew his revolver and fired twice. The first bullet missed, but the second struck Griffith just over the heart. He died in an hour and a half later. Tinsley is under arrest. Griffith was a freeman on the Central railroad, and Tinsley was for many years a conductor on the same line. The prisoner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

A Trump's Lucky Strike.

UTICA, N. Y., Dec. 9.—William Hahn, a month ago a tramp, has just received information that he is heir to $100,000. Hahn has had a good many ups and downs, mostly down, and now that he has struck it rich he can hardly believe in his good luck. He was born in New York city thirty-four years ago, and has since been all over the country. A few days ago he was again taken ill, and when again on the verge of financial dissolution, he received a letter from the burgomaster of Witzberg, Bavaria, saying that his deceased uncle had left him $100,000.

Republicans Get Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 9.—The official count of the state vote was made peacefully yesterday, though the place where it took place was guarded by armed men. Governor Bourne was denied admission, and the acting governor, Barber, presided. A contest was had on the returns from Carbon county, and the board accepted the returns sent in by the clerk of that county. This gives the governor to the Republicans. The Democrats will organize the house and act upon the contest.

Evidently Satisfied.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 9.—So far as can be learned, the single operator on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northcut road went out yesterday as ordered by Grand Chief Ramsey, and it is not anticipated they will join the strike on the Rock Island road proper.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Pacific east-bound rates are being cut. A regular burlard is raising in Kansas. A convict mutiny at Chester, Ills., was subdued. A freight train was derailed near Lincoln, Neb. The city armory, Cleveland, was destroyed by fire. Two great oil wells were opened near Portland, Ind. A Burlington (Ind.) saloon was blown up by dynamite. The telegraphers' strike on the "Big Four" may be averted. Twenty-six buildings were wrecked by wind at Paragould, Ark. Railroad passengers must pay fares whether given seats or not. A planter and his son were fatally shot from ambush at Atlanta. Henry Villard says he would not accept a position in Cleveland's cabinet. The Canton (O.) Steel Rolling company's plant was destroyed by fire. Six men were injured by an explosion of dynamite at Melrose Highlands, Mass. Concord (N. H.) business men have decided to hold a carnival during the winter.

The Chosen People of Chosen.

The announcement that the Cowley manor estate, Cheltenham, is in the market reminds a correspondent of a quaint story in connection with Chosen, a small village lying at the fringe of the property. A worthy locum tenens thought to please the good people of the village, and gave out as his text, "And make all thy Chosen people joyful." A horrid hand swain, however, who had wandered from a distant parish, interpolated the ejaculation, to the no small consternation of the said locum tenens and the amusement of the Chosen people themselves, "And what about we poor Hockleut folk?"—Pall Mall Gazette.

WIDOWS MAY BE BENEFITED

By a Decision Just Rendered by the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—A widow's dowry is the subject of a decision of the full bench of the supreme judicial court, just sent down. The case in point was a petition by Mrs. Elizabeth Mace for the assignment of dowry, filed in the probate court more than twenty years after the decease of the petitioner's husband. The court says: "It is the intention of the legislature that a widow who has for more than twenty years after her husband's death occupied with the heirs of the deceased land of which he died seized, and of which she was dowry, or has without objection received her share of the rents and profits of such land, can, without being barred by the statute, claim, or begin an action or proceedings for the recovery of her dowry, whenever any heir shall deem it proper to hold his share in severalty."

The Care of the Soldier.

"The five years now drawing to a close have been marked beyond any similar period in the history of the military establishment by legislation and modification of regulations calculated to ameliorate the condition and improve the situation and surroundings of the enlisted men." This is taken from the report of the adjutant general of the army. New quarters of the most improved designs have been erected, the vegetable component of the ration has been increased, post exchanges have been established, the clothing has been increased, new barrack furniture and equipments have been supplied, a method of procuring discharges by purchase has been provided and the enlisted men have the option at the end of three years' service of returning to civil life with an honorable discharge, and the existing methods of lighting, heating and ventilation of the quarters leave nothing to be desired. It would seem that the enlisted man has no longer reasonable ground of complaint. His material surroundings are far in advance of those prevailing in any European army.—New York Tribune.

A Political Club.

A good story is told on one of the political managers. He was approached several days before election by a young man who stated that he had organized a club of eighteen men and would name it after any prominent man who would furnish the uniforms. He did not want much—just cape dusters and plug hats. The manager studied the matter over, and finally got the dusters and hats and threw in some nice canes for good measure.

This is the last that has been heard of that club. It has not been named after any prominent citizen so far as anyone is aware. It has been learned, however, that the young men have organized a minstrel company, and are prepared to give a nicely dressed street parade when they start on the road.—Indianapolis News.

Good News for Braintree.

Rice, Hutchins & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers, having shut down for the purpose of taking account of stock, have started up again. It would not be a surprise to us, having had a conversation with the intelligent foreman at South Braintree, Mr. F. H. Hersey, should the firm begin the erection of a large factory on the land they have bought near the railroad station on Pearl street. Plans of said building are in the hands of contractors, and the firm is only waiting to see what the outcome will be in order to begin operations.

The idea is to bring down North Easton business to South Braintree and carry on the whole under one roof, thereby saving expense and time in manufacturing. The firm is more than satisfied with Braintree as a manufacturing centre, having railroad facilities unsurpassed by any town in New England, if not in the country.

This is good news to the people of Braintree.

Trains to Hull.

Miss Floretta Vining is a woman of push and energy and seldom fails in anything she undertakes. Now she has scored another victory outwitting the rum element of Nantasket, who were opposed to the running of trains to and from Hull during the coming winter. Within twenty-four hours Miss Vining had all the money subscribed and it is now a sure thing that the Old Colony will run trains daily for the accommodation of the people of Hull.

BAY STATE PAUPERS

Crowded from the Poorhouse and Landed in Gotham.

PLAN SYSTEMATICALLY CARRIED OUT.

New York World's Story Meets with Denial at Boston.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The World prints
the following:

For months and even for years past the state charity authorities of Massachusetts have been sending their paupers, idiots and incurables to this city by wholesale and dumping them in batches of a dozen or more at a time upon the town, without any means or subterfuge, and apparently in the expectation that they will eventually drift into charitable institutions here.
According to the information obtained, and which has been abundantly verified, the practice is one that has become regularly established, and the clearing out of the Massachusetts poorhouse is a matter of weekly occurrence. They are almost all sent to New York, it would appear, because in the great city they are more easily scattered, and their coming here attracts little attention.

Although the members of the local board of charities and correction say they have long suspected that New York was being used as a dumping ground for paupers from other states, they have never been able to obtain satisfactory or direct proof of these practices.

A Gang of Eight

of these Massachusetts state paupers was handed yesterday from the steamer Pilgrim of the Fall River line. They were brought here under the charge of Thomas Doane, who is said to be the authorized agent of the state board of lunacy and charity of Massachusetts. Six of them came directly from Tewksbury almshouse, and the seventh from the South Braintree almshouse.

That institution, it is said, can accommodate about 1000 inmates, but at the present time the number confined there is over 1100. Something must be done to get rid of the surplus supply of paupers, and if the stories that are told by those who arrived in New York are true, the greater number of them are sent here and literally turned loose upon the town.

The World publishes interviews with several of the paupers who arrived on the Pilgrim yesterday, in which they stated that they were shipped to New York by order of Dr. Lewis, state agent of charities of Massachusetts.

A DENIAL FROM BOSTON.

An Official Says That but 3 Per Cent. of Discharged Paupers Go to New York.

Boston, Dec. 10.—Superintendent of Indoor Poor Wrightington was seen at his office in the state house. "What do you do with your paupers at the expiration of their committal?" asked the reporter.
"Oh, we send them to their homes," was the reply. "I do not care to talk to any extent," said Mr. Wrightington, "unless there have been specific charges made."
There is certainly no systematic dumping of the poor of this state on the city of New York.

"A man will come to me and say, 'I want to go to this state and work after here I was arrested for vagrancy. My home is in New York, and if I could get there I have friends who would take care of me until I could find some work to do.'
We send that man back to New York because we consider it wise to put a man in a place where he will be self-supporting.
When we send a pauper back to New York
we pay his fare on the boat and give him
25 cents to buy something to eat on the boat."

Mr. Wrightington went over the reports from the Tewksbury almshouse since June 1, which showed that of the 100 paupers discharged since that time, only thirty-four were sent to New York.

"Of course that is only one institution," said the superintendent, "but of the entire 1500 paupers discharged from all the public charity institutions during that time this year, perhaps there were seventy of them who said that they belonged in New York state, and whose fares were paid by the state of Massachusetts to that point."

"I should think there might be 3 per cent. of the discharged paupers of this state who were sent to New York."

Dr. Graves' Case.

DENVER, Dec. 10.—The story from Providence, that one of the judges of the Colorado supreme court has stated that Dr. Graves will be granted a new trial, is denied here. The defense has discovered no new evidence to aid its client. If a new trial be ordered, the case will be nolle prossed, for the state will not go the expense of gathering the witnesses again, and Conrad on several occasions stated that he would not.

has two months to accept or reject the

COL. STRACHAN'S MONUMENT

Quincy Firm Has the Contract—A Description.

Swithin Brothers, of this city, have the contract to cut the monument which is to be placed over the grave of Colonel William M. Strachan, also to furnish the handsome curbing which will enclose the lot in Calvary cemetery.

The monument will be of Quincy granite, six feet in height and six feet four inches at the base. On the front of the second base will appear the family name, in raised letters, while above on the front panel will be the regimental badge, danked by smaller panels, upon which will be displayed the cross and crown and the thistle of Scotland. Below will be inscribed the epitaph and the record of Colonel Strachan's services.

Around the top of the die a row of Minie bullets will be carved in relief, while on top of the capstone, also in relief, will appear representations of the plumed helmet, sword and belt of the deceased soldier.

It is expected that the monument will be completed and placed in position before Memorial day.

Last Wednesday evening the Braintree Pine Tree Club held their first meeting for the season in the High school room at the Town Hall. The annual election of officers resulted as follows:

President—A. C. Drinkwater.
Vice-Presidents—C. G. Anderson, Mrs.
M. D. Holbrook, Mrs. G. T. Woodman.
Secretary—Warren H. Foss.
Assistant—W. C. Daniels.
Treasurer—F. C. Roberts.

The Maverick Oil company have erected a new tank for holding oil in a more elevated position than that occupied by the old one, and, this, for the purpose of gaining more pressure. The old tank, at the works, has been taken down and is going to be put up in Cambridge, where the company has, also, a distributing station.

the order. The interesting proceedings, took place in Odd Fellows Hall.

The Old Colony Cotton Mills on Adams street have been shut down for repairs.
The intention is to put in a larger boiler and additional new machinery. When they start up again they will be under new management and, possibly, augmentation of capital, caused by an increase of those owning the same.

Thursday night a benefit concert was given in the Town Hall, the beneficiary being Miss Ethel Holland, our young, talented amateur. The idea originating with her friends, being to put her in a financial position to take a course of musical instruction. To this appeal there was a pretty good audience, numbering, perhaps, between two and three hundred.
The Republican committee of Braintree, expended but $129.77 in the Presidential campaign, all contributed by three persons. The Democratic expenditures were still less, only $78.84.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was billed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

West Quincy Man

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

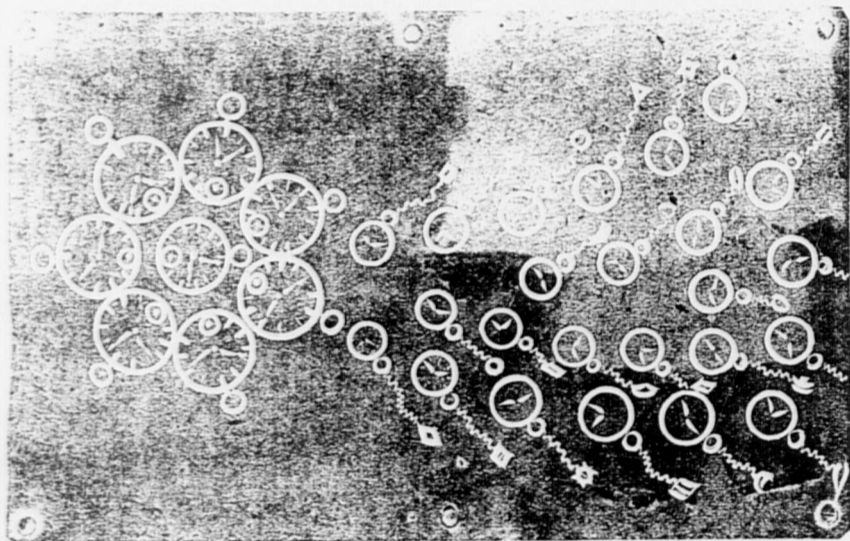

NOW ON EXHIBITION

AN ATLANTIC CONCERT.

A Musical Treat at the Memorial Church Last Evening.

The concert given at Memorial Church last evening by the church choir, Mrs. W. F. Cummings, soprano; Miss Kathleen Russell of Roxbury, contralto; Miss Estelle J. French of Cambridge, reader; Mr. W. A. Owen tenor; Mr. B. H. Stenzil violinist and Mr. H. H. Bemis accompanist, was unusual pleasant affair, and those who contributed had good cause for the satisfaction with the results of their efforts.

Mrs. Cummings was heard in "Der Engel Lied," G. Braga, (with violin obligato), and in a duet, "Nearest and Dearest," Caracciolo, with Miss Russell.

Miss Russell sang "Changeless," H. Trotters; "Could I," F. Paolo Tosti, and in a duet with Mrs. Cummings.

Miss French was first heard in "Lessons in Cooking," Anon, and again in "Ruth" Tennyson and responded to two encores.

Mr. Owen was suffering from a cold and was heard in one solo, "Madrienne," Stults, and Mr. Stenzil was heard in a violin solo, "In ter mezzo from Cavalleria," Rusticiana.

Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Carver, Miss Annie P. Hall and Miss Lelia O. Moxom were heard in a quartette "The Two Roses," Werne and the choir was heard in "Marsellaise Hymn," a Lullaby, "Sweet and Low," Barnby, and in a Part song, "Good Night, Good Night Beloved," Pinsuti.

Miss Russell's singing was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated. She has a very pleasing voice and shows rare musical intelligence and feeling in her vocal work. Her selections were admirably calculated to display her voice to advantage. Mrs. Cummings also has a beautiful voice which although familiar to Atlantic audiences was not the less enjoyed.

Miss French proved a valuable acquisition to the programme and her selections were of such a nature as to promote mirth. Mr. Owen and Mr. Stenzil are also well known to Atlantic audiences and their work at this concert served to increase their popularity.

Miss Moxom, Miss Hall and Mr. W. F. Cummings' voices were only heard in the choir singing and in the quartette, but they gained great favor with the audience who demanded and were accorded encores.

LODGE A CENTURY OLD.

Old Colony Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Celebrates Its 100th Birthday.

On the 9th day of December, 1792, a handful of Masons, hardly 20 in number, were instituted as a lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons by the officers of the grand lodge of Massachusetts.

The new lodge was christened "Old Colony lodge, A. F. & A. M."

Yesterday afternoon and evening the 100th anniversary of the institution of the lodge was fittingly observed by its present members assisted by the grand lodge of Massachusetts and other invited guests, and the event was one which will be remembered as one of the most interesting in the history of the secret organizations of the state.

The exercises were held in Agricultural Hall, at Hingham Centre, which proved none too large for the accommodation of the large number in attendance.

The literary exercises were opened by music by the Germania orchestra of Boston, after which the following programme was successfully carried out:

Anniversary hymn, written by Rev. Bro. William C. Litchfield of Old Colony lodge, sung by the Apollo quartet, tune "Webb"; address of welcome by Worshipful Master Charles H. Marble; prayer by Bro. Edmund Hersey, 2d, chaplain of Old Colony lodge; music by the orchestra; address by Most Worshipful Grand Master Samuel Wells; masonic prayer, "Wisdom, Strength and Beauty," written by Rev. Bro. Joshua Young, D. D., chaplain of Old Colony lodge from 1865 to 1872, sung by the Apollo quartet, tune "Old Hundred"; music by the orchestra; historical address by Rev. Bro. Joshua Young, D. D.; ode, "The Permanency of Masonry," by Rev. Bro. Allen G. Jennings, chaplain of Old Colony lodge from 1871 to 1888, sung by the Apollo quartet, tune "Auld Lang Syne"; benediction.

At 6 o'clock a banquet was served in the lower hall. This was followed from 8 to 9 by a promenade concert, and then dancing was enjoyed until midnight.—Herald.

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward Murphy of Randolph, for disturbing the peace, was fined $10.

Charles Hawes of Randolph, for assault on Thomas J. Buckley, was fined $10.

Edward Kerrigan, John Kerrigan and Cornelius Duggan of Quincy, for disturbing the peace, were fined $7 each.

A Painstaking Official.

I am pleased to notice in the accounts of the municipal elections that Mr. Chas. H. Johnson of Quincy was elected to the City Council in that flourishing city. Mr. Johnson was a former residence of Hingham, and of course it gives me great satisfaction to witness the advance of any Hinghamite. The citizens of Quincy will find in the gentleman referred to a painstaking official; but of that they were probably assured in their own minds before they honored him with their suffrage.—Hingham Journal.

SOCIAL CLUB DRAMATICS.

Quincy's Four Hundred Applaud Fine Acting of Local Amateurs.

There was a crowded house at the chapel of the First church last evening, and it was delighted with a production of two amusing comedies.

In the first, "Lend Me Five Shillings," the cast was as follows:

Mr. Golightly, Mr. Boyd
Captain Phobbs, Mr. Rice
Captain Spruce, Mr. Pfaffmann
Morland, Mr. Dewson
Sam (a waiter), Mr. Harlow
Mrs. Major Phobbs, Miss Hamblen
Mrs. Captain Phobbs, Miss Pratt

With the exception of Mr. Boyd and Miss Hamblen it was a local cast. It would be difficult to tell who excelled, as each did remarkably well. Mr. Boyd was the most prominent figure and the audience sympathized with him in his dilemma. The scene opened at a grand ball, and after Mr. Golightly had been "cut" by Mrs. Major Phobbs, he gambled and lost his money. Later, when the lady desired his attention, he had no money to obtain a supper or a fly. Mrs. Major Phobbs was a charming society lady, as was also Mrs. Captain Phobbs, and admirably took their parts. Captain Phobbs made an excellent military man and outraged husband. Captain Spruce and Morland were fine society men. Mr. Harlow, as Sam the waiter, was equal to the occasion.

The other play was entitled "Ici on Parle Français," and the cast:

Major Regulus Rattan, Mr. Foster
Victor Dubois, Mr. Ford
Mr. Spriggins, Mr. Harlow
Mrs. Spriggins, Miss Harlow
Angelina (Their Daughter), Miss Pratt
Julia (Wife of Major Rattan), Miss Russell
Anna Maria (Maid-of-all-work), Miss Adams

Mr. and Mrs. Spriggins essayed to open a lodging house and to catch Frenchmen hung out a sign, "Ici on Parle Français" or French spoken here as Mr. Spriggins interpreted it. Two soon arrived, a mysterious gentleman and lady, and two rooms were rented, but Spriggins and his household could not understand French and trouble began, the maid-of-all-work left, and the enraged Major traced his wife to the house.

Major Rattan was a gruff military man who made it exceedingly uncomfortable for Spriggins, "the old humbug" as the Victor styled him. Mrs. Spriggins, who rather objected to the lodging plan, was the unwilling tool of her husband. Mr. Ford took the difficult role of Victor Dubois with great credit.

Instrumental music was furnished between the parts by Miss Alice Crane, the accomplished pianist.

Proposed Monuments.

A foundation, combining with it a soldiers' monument is to be erected at Xenia, Ohio.

Funds are being raised at Jersey City, N. J., for the erection of a monument to the late Congressman McDonald of Harrison.

The citizens of Frenchtown, N. J., and vicinity are making efforts to raise a sufficient sum to erect a soldiers' monument in their cemetery.

A movement is on foot towards the raising of funds for the erection of a soldiers' monument on the Military Common—The Oranges, N. F.

Sierra lodge, K. of P., East Las Vegas N. M., will erect a handsome tombstone to the memory of their departed brother, inside guide, C. H. Millette.

A committee has been appointed by the Supervisors' Association at Charleston, S. C., to begin work in the matter of raising a monument to the memory of Gen. Ripley.

It has been suggested and a movement has already been begun to erect a monument in Natchez, Miss., to the memory of Sargent S. Prentiss, the genius of modern speech.

It has been decided by the Early Settlers' Association of Dubuque, Iowa, and a considerable fund has been raised to erect a monument to Julian Dubuque, the founder of the city.—Monumental News for December.

In the Peoples Course.

The inclement weather did not prevent several hundred people from hearing the Boston Star Entertainers at Hancock hall, Thursday night. This was the first appearance of "Judge" Wm. B. Green in Quincy, but if that evening's reception was any indication, it is safe to say that the "Judge" will have a full house on any future visit. Judge Green's humor cannot be excelled. The most of his selections are from his own writings, and he tells them in such a natural manner that one forgets that he is a professional humorist, and imagines that he is simply conversing with a group of friends.

Every selection rendered that evening seemed to give him a stronger hold upon his audience, and he was encored again and again, and never failed to respond. "Knee Deep in June," "Frost is on the Pumpkin," "An Old Sweet Heart," "Dusendbury and the Pie" and "The District School" were among his best selections, the latter fairly taking the audience by storm.

Clarinet soloists, especially good ones, are hard to find, but it is seldom one hears such a performance as that given by Mr. C. L. Staats. His bass clarinet is a rare instrument and proved quite a novelty.

Mrs. Peeks, the contralto soloist, sang "Tis the Gale" in a very acceptable manner. Miss Jessie Downer, who is well known in this vicinity, was the pianist.

The next entertainment in the People's course will be given Thursday, Jan. 10th. It will consist of a gymnasium reception.

New England for December.

The December number of the New England Magazine is a very varied one, and will afford interest to all classes of readers. It appeals to all sections of the country, and contains specific contents for those musically, literary, sociologically, artistically or poetically inclined. The number opens with a beautifully illustrated article descriptive of "The Builders of the Cathedrals," by Marshall S. Snow. Charles Lewis Slattery contributes a very suggestive article, "Can Religion be Taught in the Public Schools?" William Ordway Partridge, the poet-sculptor, writes very intelligently and interestingly of "The Outlook for Sculpture in America." He contrasts the conditions of the periods of great art with the conditions obtaining in modern American life, and finds that our moral atmosphere is getting ripe for the production of great art.

WEYMOUTH.

Thomas Doran was found dead in his bed this morning. Heart disease was the cause. He was 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and one child.

A SOLDIER'S SUFFERING.
A Thrilling Story of the War, from the Pen of a Veteran.

I was in the disastrous skirmish known as the Town Creek expedition, under General G. M. Dodge. My Company and Co. F of our regiment were ordered to support two pieces of flying artillery in advance of the main column. Only fifteen of our command reached the points designated; and in our retreat to the main army were rendered unfit for duty, and sent to the hospital. After three months, I returned to duty, and remained with my regiment until May 7, 1864, and on that day, at the battle of Bainbridge, I with thirty-three others of our regiment were taken prisoners of war. We arrived at Andersonville on or about the fifth day of June, where I remained until the last of December, during which time I contracted the scurvy to such an extent that my left leg was contracted to its utmost, being black from the foot to about half-way between the knee and hip; and in this horrible condition I left Andersonville for Florence, South Carolina, where I remained a prisoner until February 26. Our exchange papers were signed at East Ferry, making me a prisoner of war nine months and twenty days. From that day to this I have suffered from scurvy, causing indigestion and constipation to such an extent that from December 26 to March 18 I had only eight operations of the bowels. Since I was mastered out of service, July 9, 1865, I have tried the very best physicians, but they could give me very little relief. On March 17, 1890, the Kickapoo Indians came here with their remedies. I commenced taking the Indian Sagwa March 18, and had an operation of the bowels that day, and after the third day I had an operation of the bowels every day. I now have no pains. My appetite is restored. I am gaining in strength every day, and I thank God they with their remedies. KILLED HIS MOTHER.

Rum-Crazed Man Savagely Attacks an Aged Invalid.

A DETAILED STORY OF THE TRAGEDY.

Erring Son is Held to Await the Action of the Grand Jury.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Morris Powers, aged 35, lies in the Charles street jail to await the action of the grand jury. His mother was Bridget Powers, an invalid of 85 years, who came to her death, according to Medical Examiner Draper, "from meningitis, resulting from blows upon the head."

The son, who ought to have been the mother's shield and protection, is held as the possible slayer of his mother.

The police have until now succeeded in keeping the matter a strict secret, and although the affair happened Nov. 13, the facts never became public until now.

Morris, who is a modern Samson, during a fit of intoxication, beat and pummelled the helpless mother, smashing her nose and lacerating her face and head and leaving her in her terrible state to be picked up by the neighbors. This happened at their home at 1 Emmet place, East Boston. The police arrested the alleged assailant on a charge of assault and battery and took him to the city hospital, where she died on Dec. 1 from the effects of her injuries. The police reported the case at the time as simply assault and battery.

Result of the Attack.

The medical examiner says in his autopsy: "The lids of the left eye were swollen with inflammation; the ball of this eye showed discoloration due to bruises; there was a diffused greenish-yellow discoloration of the skin of both cheeks; of the forehead; around the right corner of the mouth; on the front of the neck; in front of the ears; under the collar bone; over the center of the breast bones; on the back of the neck, and in the middle of the back between the shoulder blades. The outer member of the membrane of the brain was thickened and its vessels were injected. The inner membrane of the brain was the seat of a general diffused, purulent inflammation (meningitis), the entire surface being covered with thin pus. At the posterior part of the brain the surface of both hemispheres was covered with blood, mingled with pus."

Powers is a laborer. On Saturday night, Nov. 12, he quit work and, it is said, with his week's earnings, started in the direction of his home. On his way he dropped in at some liquor stores and drank heavily. It was only the closing of the public barrooms that made him cease his tippling. He managed to reach the lowly home on Emmet place, East Boston. The place is a short thoroughfare leading off of Everett street. The district comprising this street is made up of the homes of the poorer classes.

It was in the early hours of Sunday morning that Powers arrived at his home. There in long and patient waiting for her son was an

of 85 years, who longed for her son's return to procure some food, without which she had been since Saturday noon. She was dependent upon the earnings of the son for her daily sustenance. The hour for his expected arrival had come and passed, no son, no bread.

She met him at the top of the stairs. She saw his intoxicated condition, and, resting a hand on his, she led the way inside the kitchen. Powers dropped helplessly upon the floor, it is said, and his old mother assisted him to an old sofa in the room to sleep away his drunken stupor. He awoke in a few hours, thirsty, angry and infuriated. Uneasy in mind, agitated by her son's conduct, her condition aggravated by hunger, the old woman walked the floor, weeping. Her eyes had not closed during that night. She anxiously awaited the return to consciousness of her son, that she might ask him for some money with which to purchase something for Sunday's meals.

It was at sunrise that the eyes of Powers, reddened from his debauch, opened. His first words were: "Mother, bring me a drink."

His mother was at his side in an instant. She offered him a cup of water. He cast it off with a curse and cried for whisky. "Morris, there is none in the house. You know I have no money," she yelled.

"I cannot get whisky without it. You know I cannot get liquor without it. There are lots of things we want more than whisky. There is not a scrap of food in the house."

By this time the man had changed his posture on the lounge. He was now sitting up. Her Asking for Money Angered Him.

In an instant he was, it is said, hurling chairs, utensils and everything loose that he could lay his hands upon about the house. The decrepit mother tried to pacify her son. His anger and madness was beyond control. Infuriated by the refusal to do his commands he struck savagely at his mother and felled her to the floor. Blow after blow was dealt with fatal force, and the old woman was in a state of semi-consciousness. Her eyes, mouth, neck, back and the back of her head were badly bruised and dented, and blood oozed from her wounds.

The son left the house to seek whisky, unconscious of the cruel and fatal treatment which he had done his mother. Helpless and in excruciating pain, cloths of blood about her, lay the old woman, unattended. It was about noonday that a neighbor was attracted to the bloody chamber by deep moans, that now and then grew faint. This neighbor opened the door. There was the old woman lying on the floor, unable to help herself to the bed, which was in the next room. Everything about the room was topsy-turvy.

Horridly, the visitor shrieked "Murder!" Rushing from the house he went to notify the police. The police ambulance carried the old woman to the station house, where medical attendance was summoned. The doctor ordered her removal at once to the city hospital as her condition was precarious.

Powers was arrested Nov. 12, in the afternoon. He was intoxicated, and brought before the municipal court and committed to jail on the charge of assault. His aged mother lingered between life and death for more than two weeks. On Dec. 1, last, her soul was in eternity.

An open letter to women. No. 1. Laurel Ave., San Francisco, May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born, five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."

PREACHER VS. POLICE.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst Makes Some Scathing Statements.

BYRNES IS HANDLED WITHOUT GLOVES

And Accused of Aiding Vices Which He is Supposed to Suppress.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Dr. Parkhurst has given out a statement in reply to Superintendent Byrnes, in which he says: "In his latest statement, Mr. Byrnes jumps from vituperation to theology. If possible, he is a worse theologian than he is a police superintendent. There is such a thing as the law, and there is such a thing as the gospel. Both are good when kept distinct, but both are spoiled by being mixed. The gospel requires us to deal leniently with sinners. Mr. Byrnes deals leniently with sin, which is another matter. His business is to take iniquity and make it execrable in the public estimation, which is exactly what he is not doing and has not the remotest idea of doing."

"His business is to make the law majestic. He makes it contemptible. He plays infractions of it, and, unless the March grand jury were utterly at fault, he stands at the head of a department that coils wealth out of the vices it is constituted to suppress. We cannot have a police department until the animating head of it is a moral inspiration to the force."

"He says he can show me a well trodden path that leads from the very door of my church, as it were, to a brothel hardly a gunshot away. You acknowledge then, do you, Mr. Byrnes, there is a brothel near my church that you know of, and that you know that young men in great numbers are flocking to it? How is that for moral purpose?"

"You threw it in my face in a previous statement that I was making accusations against you without proof. Accept my thanks for it."

"This New Item of Proof, which I can put alongside of what I have already. I am obliged to you for your unsolicited confession."

"I loathe the man with unutterable contempt who, occupying the position of a police superintendent, does, dares to come out publicly and confess that he is permitting—which is another way of sustaining—one of those hell-holes into which he says he knows young men are being enticed. In the name of the 23rd section of the consolidation act, and in the name of the wretched young men of my congregation whom that accursed den, under your protection, is blighting and ruining, I demand of you, Mr. Byrnes, that you put your official hand upon that brothel and crush it."

"For the Lord's sake, Byrnes, when you quote, don't eulogize the gospel in the same vile breath with which you make that damning self-incrimination. Your case is stronger when you say the least. You had better quit the homily business and attend your legitimate concerns."

Superintendent Byrnes said of this production: "I decline to criticize that one way or the other, except to say that I have defended the police department. I think, in a courteous and gentlemanly manner, and I don't think that statement amounts to anything but uncalculated abuse."

Gardner Pleads Not Guilty.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Charles W. Gardner, the chief detective of Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's society, was arraigned in the general sessions court to plead to the indictments charging him with extortion and attempted extortion. Though Lawyer Frank Moss, one of the members of the society, who is acting as his counsel, he pleaded guilty, with leave to withdraw the plea and enter a demurrer within a week. Gardner was then taken back to the toms. No day has been set for his trial.

A Spendthrift's End.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The body of a well-dressed man was found in the woods at Stapleton, S. I., yesterday. There was a bullet hole in the temple. The suicide proved to be Charles E. Whitehead, a son of Judge Henry E. Whitehead. Young Whitehead had been wild and squandered a fortune which he inherited five years ago. He had attempted suicide once before. He was about 30 years of age and unmarried.

Search Abandoned.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Rev. S. F. McCleary, the missing clergyman, has been unwillingly given up by his friends as gone into the great unknown. All efforts to locate him have proved failures, and his relatives are forced to accept the theory of suicide. An intimate friend of the absent clergyman gave it as his opinion that the unfortunate man was dead beyond doubt, and that further search for him would be useless.

Schools Closed by Scarlet Fever.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Dec. 10.—In accordance with the orders of the Framingham school committee and the board of health, the schools in South Framingham closed last night and will remain closed until after Jan. 1. This is due to the existence of scarlet fever in the village. Six deaths from the disease have occurred in the last two weeks.

Will Try It Again.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10.—A third trial has been granted in the suit of Angelina V. Burnham against the New York, Providence and Boston Railroad company, for damages for the death of her husband, an engineer, by a collision. The first trial resulted in a verdict of $7500 for the plaintiff, and the second in a verdict of $8000.

Expelled for Hazing.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—Naval Cadet Arthur L. Fairbrother of Rhode Island was dismissed from the naval academy for hazing. His case has been pending nearly two months in the hands of Secretary Tracy. Several other cadets are implicated in the October hazing, and will probably be dismissed.

Crippled for Life.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Conductor Keeney of the West End railway had one of his legs seriously crushed between two electrics at Everett. He will probably die, but his leg will have to be amputated.

Maine Schooner Wrecked.

MACHIAS, Me., Dec. 10.—Schooner Julia A., of Tremont, was blown upon the ledges near Jones' point, during a gale. The vessel was bilged and was abandoned by her crew.

THE GREAT COMET

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was killed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

Miss Julia Hall Again Appears at Her Home.

WON'T TELL WHERE SHE HAS BEEN.

Statement That She Has Made Two Attempts at Suicide.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Dec. 12.—While the devoted parents of Miss Julia Hall were in consultation with a score or more of sympathizing friends and townspeople in the parlors of the Hall homestead last night, devising means and measures for the prosecution of the search for the missing daughter, the young woman suddenly appeared before them.

Her appearance created almost as much consternation for the moment as her disappearance. The shock to the agonized parents was almost painful to witness, but soon the reaction came, and the parents of the girl broke out in tears of joy at the safe return of the lost one.

In appearance Miss Hall has not suffered much during her fifty-four hours' absence, and, save a few evidences of slight mental and physical exhaustion, her eyes particularly, one could hardly believe that she had been away from the ordinary surroundings of a young lady in good circumstances for so long a time.

When the first feelings of joy and thanksgiving had passed after her return, an effort was made by Mr. Hall to draw from his daughter some information as to where she had been and why she had gone away in such an unceremonious manner.

She Was Decidedly Taciturn.

even to her father, and told inquiries she paid out the slightest heed, and neither by word or gesture vouchsafed reply. At length, when all efforts to gain any information from her had been abandoned, she opened her mouth. She then simply said: "I was exceedingly miserable when I left home, and went away because I wished to be alone. That's all." After giving this statement she again relapsed into a condition of absolute silence.

The young lady was immediately put to bed and physicians summoned to look after her.

It has just leaked out that Miss Hall attempted to take her own life for the first time about three weeks before Thanksgiving by jumping into a well upon her father's premises. She was gotten out in safety, and the general impression of the time was that she had simply fallen in.

Another interesting fact that likewise came out is that Miss Hall told her father that during her absence of two weeks ago she took an overdose of laudanum and was for thirty-six hours under its influence.

Heretofore the girl's parents have been very reticent as to the girl's mental condition for some time past, but the facts given out seem to indicate that she is hopelessly insane, and, needless measures will be taken to prevent another disappearance of this character.

WILL REMAIN OUT.

Draught Weavers Insist That the Union Shall Be Recognized.

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 12.—The weavers in Collins' mill in Draught have voted not to return to work until the union is recognized by Mr. Collins. The Lowell Weavers' union voted to assess its members $1 in aid of the locked-out employees. A woolen weaver said: "The Weavers' union is in better financial condition to fight Mr. Collins than it was at the time of the strike in the Merrimac woolen mills."

"We look upon it that Mr. Collins is giving the public a bluff. It was only a short time ago that he built an addition to his mill. The result is, we are informed, that his building is not large enough for the renovated mill. He was going to stop work at about this period to replace them, and took occasion to give the impression that he was only stopping work on account of his dislike to union men."

"His weavers do not recognize his right to control their actions outside the mill when they are not disturbing the peace of Collinsville. The members of the union have made no demands upon him. He gave the idea of a hall to form a temperance society in his village, but when he found his weavers were going to further advance their interests by organizing a union he ordered the hall vacated. The weavers do not consider that Mr. Collins or any other manufacturer is running a mill for the purpose of giving them employment; he is in the business for money, and by the skill of the weaver and other operatives he has made money."

"Beaver cloth is principally made at the Collinsville mill, and we are informed that for weaving the same Mr. Collins pays about 1-2 cent a yard lower than is paid at the Merrimac woolen mills. Some of the weavers are the owners of their own homes in Collinsville; others reside in the houses erected by Mr. Collins. It is with the latter that Mr. Collins hopes to be successful, as he has threatened to turn them out of the houses if they don't return to work in a certain time."

Mr. Collins has been in business in Draught for sixteen years. He has been in business in New Hampshire and in Cavendish, Vt., before coming to Lowell. He is considered one of the best dyers in the country.

DENNIS HERLIHY'S DEATH.

A Remark by His Aunt Said to Have Aroused Suspicion as to Its Cause.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 12.—The estate of the late Dennis Herlihy is said to be much larger than was first estimated. It is thought that he had considerable cash deposited in one of the local banks, besides owning from eight to eleven tenement buildings fronting on Canal street. His mill left him a large amount of cash, and it is known that he added much to it by habitual economy.

The police will give out only the merest details of the results of their investigations into the cause of the death of Herlihy. They say that disclosures will injure the reputations of several persons who are entirely innocent of any wrong doing in connection with Herlihy's death. Herlihy was in many respects a simple-minded fellow, but in money matters he was shrewd and far-seeing.

The original cause of the suspicions of foul play which have arisen concerning Herlihy's death is said to have been a remark made at the coffin side by Mrs. Julia Smith, an aunt of the deceased, who is not mentioned in the will. She saw a slight abrasion on the dead man's forehead, and loudly asked how it came there.

Several mortgers who sat around the room thought this statement was an indication that Mrs. Smith had suspicions of crookedness on the part of the heirs.

Dr. John H. Leary, ex-city physician, attended the case, and he scouts all idea of foul play in connection with Herlihy's death. It is probable that the local police will not make public a report on the case, at least until called upon to do so before the probate court.

"DIDN'T WANT TO FIGHT"

So Edward Walker Stabbed Harry Gordon in the Back.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 12.—A stabbing affray occurred in the central station of the Boston and Maine railroad yesterday afternoon, the victim being Harry Gordon, a young man, who was standing in the station, when he had some words with one of the number, Edward Walker.

Walker turned on his man savagely, drew a jackknife about four inches long from his pocket, opened it and made three lunges at Gordon. The latter struck him in the back and the blade entered as far as a rib bone, when it glanced downward, making a flesh wound about two inches long. Walker then put the knife, opened, into the breast pocket of his tunic, where into the gent's waiting room of the depot and sat down.

Officer Carroll called the ambulance and then arrested Walker. He also found the knife in the prisoner's pocket. Gordon was carried to the hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Walker refused to give his name at first, and said the reason he stabbed Gordon was because he threatened to lick him, and as Gordon was twenty pounds heavier than he (Walker) did not want to fight. Walker is now locked up in the police station at the address of the police in the hospital. Both men belong in Haverhill.

May Be Suicide or Murder.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 12.—About a week ago a carl was found on Vaughan's bridge in this city on which was written: "My body will be found in this water. I am sick of life." On the other side of the carl was the printed address of Harmon & Co., employment agents, Boston. Saturday afternoon a young girl was crossing the bridge when she saw the body of a woman floating in the water. It is supposed to be a case of suicide, but as the writing on the card resembles that of a man, there are some conjectures of foul play.

Evangelist Moody Criticized.

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—In regard to Dwight L. Moody's claim that the German steamer Spres was saved by prayer, The Post has interviewed three leading preachers on the subject. Rev. Dr. A. A. Miller says Mr. Moody's claim is "magnificent assumption," and that the saving of the ship was due more to the knowledge of the seamen than prayer. Rev. M. J. Savage characterizes the statement as "absurd."

Rev. E. J. Haynes says that Mr. Moody is wrong in claiming that the ship was saved entirely by prayer.

Boy Sawed in Two.

NORWICH, Conn., Dec. 12.—At Martin's saw mill, near Brooklyn, Jerry Perry, 10 years old, was sawed in two by a large circular saw do its work, when the teeth of the rapidly revolving saw caught in his overcoat. In an instant he was drawn in, and before the saw could be stopped his body was completely severed just below the ribs.

Manslaughter Charged.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—The grand jury has indicted J. J. Powers, 35 years old, of East Boston, for manslaughter in causing the death of his mother, Bridget Powers, aged 85, by beating and pounding her about the head. Powers pleaded not guilty, and was held in $200.

Passed Worthless Checks.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 12.—Saturday evening a well dressed stranger passed worthless checks signed "William Ward & Sons," at the office of the Singer Sewing Machine company and at the Portsmouth Furniture company's store, in each case receiving $4 in change.

Church Dedication.

NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 12.—St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, this city, was consecrated by Rt. Rev. Lawrence Stephen McMahon, assisted by Deacon of Consecration, Rev. John Russell of New Haven; sub-deacon, Rev. Hugh Treanor of Waterbury.

Captain Died at Sea.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 12.—The brig Sullivan, from Milk River, Jam., for Boston, twenty-two days out, put into Narragansett ferry, with the captain, Foster, dead on board. He died Saturday. His home was in Milford, Me.

No Proof of Guilt.

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—The grand jury found no bills against Walter S. Flinder and Abram Brown, charged with the murder of Daniel O'Leary in Chelsea.

Natural Gas Fight.

ANSONIA, Conn., Dec. 12.—There is a possibility of considerable trouble over the announcement by the gas company here that natural gas is to be turned off Dec. 15, and the belief that this is done to afford Dayton a better supply. Some of the citizens threaten to blow up the Dayton mains if gas is cut off here.

For Killing a Rival.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Dec. 12.—The jury in the Gaffey murder trial returned a verdict of murder and fixed Gaffey's punishment at imprisonment for life. Gaffey fatally shot Ed Buggy, while the latter was walking with Lizzie Murphy. Gaffey was in love with the girl.

Burial of Martin Burke.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The funeral of Martin Burke, who died in Joliet penitentiary while serving a life sentence for the murder of a woman, took place yesterday afternoon. There was a small attendance. The interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Tommy's Warren's Sentence.

WACO, Tex., Dec. 12.—Tommy Warren, the featherweight pugilist, was convicted of murder and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. He killed a negro porter in a saloon while he was trying to get a shot at another man.

Mamie Sweet's Great Fall.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 12.—Mamie Sweet, 42 years old, fell from a seventh-story window at her home to escape punishment. She fell 125 feet and suffered no injury other than a dislocated shoulder and a severe cut on one leg.

A Railroad's Heavy Loss.

SALIDA, Colo., Dec. 12.—Fire destroyed the round house and repair shops of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. Fourteen engines and a great deal of new and valuable machinery was destroyed. Loss $400,000.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

Interesting Features of Secretary Tracy's Report.

THE GRANTING OF AMERICAN REGISTRY

Should Be Carried Out in All Cases Where It Is Practicable.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The annual report of the navy department is made public. Secretary Tracy has made a document of about the usual length, and parts of it are as follows:

Another year of experience, of discussion and of criticism both at home and abroad confirms the department in the views which it adopted in the annual report of 1890, as to the policy of construction which the navy should pursue. The policy then advocated, which was a radical departure from any view previously presented in this country, consisted in the production of three principal types: First, the armored battleship, of 10,000 or more tons; second, the armored cruiser, of from 8000 to 9000 tons, and, third, the commerce protecting and destroying cruiser, of extreme speed, of 7500 tons.

In pursuance of these views congress authorized the construction of one additional battleship, to be of the seagoing type, and provided with a greater coal endurance than those previously authorized. In reference to vessels of the ordinary monitor type, as distinguished from the development of that type which recent years have seen in the battleship, the department reiterates the views which it has previously expressed, that there is

No Advantage to Be Gained in building vessels of this description. In the class of unarmored, as in that of armored cruisers, it should be the object to build only vessels of the highest type. The Columbia, and her sister ship, the Minneapolis, stand at the head of this class of vessels in speed, in coal endurance and in every other essential quality.

An act of great importance, approved May 10, 1892, entitled "An act to encourage American shipbuilding," provides that the secretary of the treasury shall be authorized to grant registrars as vessels of the United States to certain foreign-built steamships of not less than 8000 tons and capable of a speed of not less than twenty knots, belonging to foreign corporations, not less than 90 per cent. of whose stock is owned by citizens of the United States, upon the acquisition of a complete transfer and title by the American owners of such majority interest to the steamers, with this provision, that the American owners shall build

In American Shipyards steamships of an aggregate tonnage of not less than the amount of the steamships so admitted to registry, each steamship so built and contracted for to be of a tonnage of not less than 2000 tons. It is earnestly recommended that the same principle, which is embodied in a bill now pending, to grant an American registry to the steamship China, of the Pacific Mail company, may be carried out not only in this, but in all similar cases.

The creation of the naval militia is one of the most important steps in our recent naval progress. In the short space of three years a body of men has been organized, trained and disciplined, whose number is already equal to one-fourth of the regular service and is rapidly growing, while its efficiency has earned for it a high reputation in the localities where it exists.

The Estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, for the navy and marine corps, including those for public works and for increase of the navy, amount to $24,471,498.21, being $2,713,141.39 less than those for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893.

The estimates for the running expenses of the navy and the marine corps for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, amount to $14,767,841.21, being $135,943.59 less than the estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893.

The estimates for the increase of the navy amounts to $9,703,657 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, and are $2,577,108 less than those for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893.

NO IMMEDIATE DANGER.

General Rosecrans' Sickness Was Brought on by Too Close Attention to Business.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Ex-Governor Joseph K. Toole of Montana, son-in-law of General Rosecrans, has arrived in this city. When asked about the general's condition he said that the patient was doing well; at least, that was what the doctor told him, and he was of the same opinion. Governor Toole further said that, as to the reports that the general had an attack of paralysis, that there was no truth in it. His condition is owing to extreme prostration, brought about by excessive work, and close application to official duties. He is resting easy and is very cheerful.

General Stinson's Troubles.

DENVER, Dec. 12.—General L. K. Stinson, who was arrested on an indictment charging him with forgery and embezzlement of opium, has obtained bondsmen. Stinson asserts that there was malice in the indictment. Chin Foo is said to be the Mongolian who purchased the drug which General Stinson is accused of embezzling. It is stated that he will be arrested for receiving stolen goods.

Idaho's "Diamond" Field.

BOISE CITY, Dec. 12.—The diamond excitement is growing more intense. The New York lapidary to whom specimens of the stones found on the south bank of the Snake river in Owyhee county were submitted, reported that they were closely allied to the stones of the general, adding that a little search in the soil where the specimens came might result in the unearthing of genuine gems of great worth.

Gospel for Oystermen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Bishop Paré of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Maryland and the District of Columbia will soon have built for him a steamer, the inside of which will be fitted as a church. The steamer will carry the bishop and his assistants to the oyster dredging ground on Sundays, where services will be held.

Baron Reinach's Death.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Dr. Brouardel denies the rumors that he has found that Baron Reinach's death was due to unnatural causes. The Libre Parole, nevertheless, persists that the examination revealed that death was due to aconite poisoning.

OLD WHEAT FLOUR.

We have in Stock and bought to arrive,

1,000 BARRELS OF FLOUR

Ground from best selections of Wheat grown in 1891. It is unnecessary to say to any experienced housekeepers that flour milled from new wheat never makes as good bread as from wheat that is thoroughly dry from age. In order to insure our trade the best to be obtained, we have placed orders as above of our well-known brands, including

CORRUGATED,

PILLSBURY'S BEST,

NORTHWESTERN,

& WHITE LION.

We fully guarantee every barrel sent out to be entirely satisfactory and price lowest to be obtained in Boston or vicinity.

NEW TEAS.

100 Chests of New Early Picked FORMOSA OOLONG, ENGLISH BREAKFAST and JAPAN TEAS. Early teas are always the finest in flavor and strength, and those looking for the best in this line can always find it at our establishment.

Canned Vegetables and Fruits.

Although rather early in the season for these goods, we are stocked with the largest assortment of domestic and imported staple and fancy canned goods which we have ever carried.

General Goods.

Our stock of general goods and assortment is so large and varied that it would be impossible to enumerate in this space, but can assure the public of Quincy that we can supply anything in our line that is kept by any large city store. We are always pleased to show our store and goods whether to purchasers or not.

RECOUNTS of votes thrown at an election are getting to be a nuisance, as there is not one chance in a thousand of the result being changed, and there is just as much chance of the three members of the City Council making a mistake as there is of the election officers. Take the present recount which takes place today, leaving outside the recount for Mayor we come to Councilmen at large. Mr. Warner was defeated by 28 votes. Personally he was perfectly satisfied with the result reached by the election officers, but the party is not, thus the recount. It is understood upon good authority that Mr. Warner did not know anything about the recount himself until one evening when he visited the headquarters he was informed that the petitions had been circulated and were already to file with the City Clerk.

Again, take the recount asked for in Ward Two for Ward Councilmen, the election officers, both Democratic and Republican, acknowledge that there is not a possible chance of a change by the recount, and the only reason that can be surmised why a recount is asked is to give Mr. Sullivan or his friends an opportunity to look at the ballots that they may see how many Democrats scratched Mr. Sullivan and voted for Mr. Johnson.

Again in the recount for Mayor it seems as though the principal reason for asking for a recount was that an opportunity may be had to look at the ballots thrown in Ward Four to satisfy certain persons curiosity as to how many citizens or rather how many Democrats scratched Mr. Hodges and voted the balance of the ticket Democratic.

If the above assertions are true, which it is believed they are, there is room for great improvement in the Australian ballot system.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

We have received a copy of the paper read by Charles Francis Adams before the Massachusetts Historical Society in November, on "Columbus and the Spanish discovery of America." Practically the same address was made by the same gentleman at the Columbus celebration in this city and reported in the LEDGER at the time.

The Lynn "yes" and "no" vote of today will attract great interest in that city. A license city for 10 years, the "no" element is hopeful for victory today, although many conservative people, heretofore against license, will vote "yes."

The majority for license in Boston last year was but 4323. The Yes vote was 25,637 and the No vote 21,314. There may be a No majority today.

Gained by a Recount.

The Democrats of Woburn gained a councilman by a recount in that city yesterday. Great changes were made from the ward count; one candidate gained 1, and three lost respectively 10, 5 and 1. The greatest loser was defeated by the candidate who lost 1. In a ward where there was a tie no change was made.

THE COUNCIL OF 1893.

Rumors of Changes in the Conduct of City Business.

Never since the city government was inaugurated was there such a change in the legislative branch of the city, the City Council as in the recent election. But ten of the twenty-three councilmen were re-nominated and only five were successful at the polls, Messrs. Bass, Holden, Federhen, Jr., Sherman and Moxon. One other member-elect, Councilman Drake, represented Ward Two in 1891.

None of the first Council remain. The oldest in point of service will be Councilmen Bass and Sherman, both of whom entered the Council of 1890 and have now been elected for the fourth year. Councilmen Moxon and Holden will enter their third year; Councilmen Drake and Federhen, Jr., their second year, and the remainder, seventeen in number, their first year. Here is the Council of 1893 divided politically:

REPUBLICAN.
John E. Drake,
John O. Holden,
Jonas Shackley,
Frank E. Badger,
E. W. H. Bass,
Luher S. Anderson,
Charles H. Johnson,
Charles H. Grindell,
Sylvester Brown,
Edward L. Robbins,
Charles E. Sherman,
Stephen O. Moxon.

DEMOCRATIC.
Charles T. Baker,
H. M. Federhen, Jr.,
Robert J. Williams,
Edward J. Lennon,
Alexander C. Smith,
Peter J. Donahoe,
John O'Connell,
John H. Rooney,
Horatio N. Holbrook,
William H. Owen.

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC.
Charles Francis Adams, 2d.

It will be noticed that the Republicans have a bare majority without C. F. Adams, 2d. If they place one of their number in the chair, and Mr. Adams votes as a Democrat their would be a political tie on the floor, and the President's vote would often be required. But politics may not be an issue. In the four years of city government it has not been strictly drawn on any question, and it should not be.

With hardly an exception all the Republicans will be active workers, all being well known business men. Many of the Democrats are not so prominent, but may be no less conspicuous.

The responsibility of appropriations of over $300 will not rest with either party for they will require a two-thirds vote of all the Council, 16 votes, which neither side commands.

There are rumors of some changes in the rules. Another effort may be made to abolish most of the standing committees, or falling in this to reduce the number of each to three. And certain Councilmen will advocate a more complete separation of the legislative and executive work.

There will be great changes in the make up of the committees even if their numbers remained the same. Councilmen Moxon and Sherman are the only members of the Committee on Finance re-elected. Councilman Holden the only one on the Street Committee, and Councilman Moxon the only one on the Committee on Public Buildings. On the Committee on Sewers Councilmen Bass and Sherman, and on the Committee on Fire Department and Police, Councilmen Bass and Federhen, Jr., Councilmen Holden and Federhen, Jr., on the Committee on Water Supply. On three committees, no member was re-elected.

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

The afternoons have begun to lengthen. T. L. Collins is sick at his home on South street.

Walter Randall is raising his new house on Bigelow street.

The roof of the new Central fire station is almost completed.

Several more new houses are talked of in Atlantic as soon as spring opens.

Quincy Court of Foresters nominated officers Monday evening.

Work on Water street is progressing finely and will soon be completed.

The watch chain, advertised as lost, has been found. It pays to advertise.

The Atlantic Social club hold their second hop Friday evening at Music hall.

Clan McGregor, O. S. C., nominated officers at their meeting Monday evening.

There were no cases from Quincy or vicinity in the Superior criminal court at Dedham, Monday.

The Sunday schools connected with the Atlantic Memorial and Methodist Episcopal churches are arranging for Christmas festivals.

The recount of votes will commence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is thought it will take over ten hours to complete the recount.

Francis L. Souther camp, S. of V., accompanied by the drum corps, go to the fair of Post 87, G. A. R., at Braintree, Thursday evening.

Atlantic people think there should be some way to heat the lockup. As it is now, if an arrest is made, a carriage must be hired to drive to Quincy.

The Universalist Ladies' association hold their first monthly supper and sale of the season, in the vestry tomorrow night. The ladies will serve as usual one of their popular suppers which will be followed by a drama, the cast being from the Shawmut avenue church, Boston. Readings will be given by Mr. Frank A. North of Harvard University.

TODAY'S COURT.

George Alfred Beyett and Mrs. Lilla Mann of Randolph, were arraigned for adultery and held in $400 each for the grand jury.

Walter Mann and Jennie Beyett of Randolph, were arraigned for fornication, and were fined $25 each.

WEYMOUTH.

Francis E. Loud, one of Weymouth's wealthiest citizens, died at his residence on Commercial street Monday, aged 77 years. For nearly half a century he has been engaged in the lumber business with Mr. Edwin Pratt, under the firm name of Loud & Pratt. He was connected with the First Congregational church of which society he has been a deacon for a number of years. He leaves a widow, two unmarried daughters and one son, Mr. Frank Loud, who is a professor in a Colorado College.

Columbian Stamps.

The United States Government has begun its distribution of Columbus postage stamps, and they will be on sale at all post offices by January 1, 1893. The stamps will be on sale for one year, and then will be withdrawn from general use. The following is a technical description:

ONE CENT.

TWO CENT.

"Landing of Columbus," after the painting by Vanderlyn in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington. Color, purple maroon.

Girl's Magazine.

On the counters of E. B. Souther will be found a most unique New York publication called The Doll's Dressmaker. This monthly magazine is a guide, companion and friend to little women who love their dolls, and will serve to keep many little fingers out of mischief, and help mothers in their search for something new to occupy their little girls' minds. The low subscription price of $1 a year places it within the reach of all, and no more appropriate Christmas gift to a young miss could be selected.

Plumbing Ordinance.

The Salem city council at a meeting Monday evening passed a plumbing ordinance by an almost unanimous vote. It places all plumbing under the inspection of city officials and requires that it shall be done with good material.

—The Brockton Agricultural Society has held its annual meeting and elected its old board of officers. The exact receipts of the fair this year were $26,494.58. The expenses amounted to $16,341.43. The net profits were $10,093.15. The society spent in construction this year $6,650.52.

A WORD TO THE WISE.
CERTAIN ADVERTISEMENTS FROM TRADE RIVALS,
who fear the phenomenal success of
Van Houten's Cocoa

In America, contain innuendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of Dr. SYDNEY RINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London. This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:—
"From the careful analyses of Professor ATTFIELD and others, I am satisfied that Messrs. VAN HOUTEN'S Cocoa is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocos.—It is certainly 'Pure' and highly digestible.
The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to VAN HOUTEN'S Cocoa."
The false reflection on VAN HOUTEN'S Cocoa is thus effectually repelled and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been prompted to give it a very handsome testimonial.

MR. MATTHEWS AGAIN.

He is Re-Elected Mayor of New England's Metropolis.

LICENSE HAS A VERY CLOSE SHAVE.

Fights Over the Liquor Question in Other Municipalities.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—Mayor Matthews is re-elected. The only question was as to his majority, which is found to be this year 13,121 in a total vote of 66,577, against a plurality last year of 15,171 in a total vote of 55,013.

The mayor will have to support him this year a board of aldermen composed, as in 1892, of seven Democrats and five Republicans.

The common council will consist next year of 41 Democrats and 31 Republicans, against 51 Democrats and 24 Republicans this year, a loss of 7 to the Democrats, who are, however, still left with a strong working majority.

The result of the vote for school committee shows the effect of the position of the women on the question, and only here the Democrats met with any serious set backs. Not one of their candidates for the school committee was elected, the highest one on that ticket receiving 33,088, against 35,884 for the lowest successful candidate, a difference of 2,846; and it is probable that between 4000 and 4500 represented the strength of the women vote.

The License Question overshadowed in interest all other issues which were to be decided yesterday. And never before since the local option law went into effect was the public so eager to learn the result. Hitherto the fact of a majority for license had been taken for granted, and the only question was as to how much. This year the threats made directly after the state election by those who had hitherto sustained the "Yes" side to reverse their position, together with the extra efforts of the Prohibitionists, raised early in the municipal campaign a grave doubt as to the outcome. The vote for license was: Yes, 31,480; no, 34,994; majority for license, 1186.

Barcroft and No License. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 14.—The voting here yesterday resulted in the election of Colonel William A. Barcroft (Rep.) for mayor, and in an increased majority for no license as against last year. The majority contest was the most exciting ever known in the classic city, because of four candidates entered in the race, and the most remarkable on account of the marked fitness of each candidate for the office. The election of Colonel Barcroft will probably give more general satisfaction than if either one of the other three had been successful, as Barcroft was unquestionably the second choice of the supporters of all the others. The no-license folks are fully as well pleased with their handsome majority of between 800 and 900, which is the largest ever given in the city. Last year's majority was only 486, that being the smallest mark yet reached.

Temperance Prayers Availed Not. WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 14.—The chief feature of interest in connection with the city election was the tremendous majority for license. The temperance women were represented at the polls, and held a prayer meeting all day in the interest of no license, but their prayers did not avail. The pendulum of popular opinion, as registered in the voting, swung from a no license majority of 398 last year to a license majority of 1691. The election of Henry A. Marsh, the Republican candidate for mayor, was conceded in advance. He polled the biggest vote ever cast for mayor in this city. His personal strength, carried through the whole Republican ticket for aldermen, though the majorities were considerably less than his. The Republicans elected a majority of candidates for common council and school committee.

How Lowell Voted. LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 14.—Lowell in her municipal election has chosen a Republican mayor, five Republican and three Democratic aldermen, thirteen Democratic and eleven Republican councilmen, three Republican and three Democratic school committeemen, and the city goes for license by a plurality greatly reduced from last year. The great surprise of the election is the result of the mayoralty contest. John J. Pickman is elected over W. F. Courtney by 41 plurality, a reversal of a Democratic plurality of 351 last year. Another surprise is the election of Frank Dunlap (Rep.) over Thomas J. Sparks (Dem.) to the common council from ward 8. A Republican councilman from ward 8 is a circumstance hardly within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

No License in Lynn. LYNN, Mass., Dec. 14.—"Yes" and "No" was the principal feature of Lynn's election yesterday, as the mayoralty was practically settled in advance by reason of two Democratic candidates, Lemuel M. Brock and John W. Healey, "municipal reformer," being opposed to Mayor Elihu B. Hayes, the Republican candidate for a second term. Only one Lynn mayor in late years has been defeated for a second term, and Mayor Hayes was accorded the usual courtesy of a second term with a plurality of about 2000, against a plurality of 1200 last year. Practically the entire Republican ticket is elected, the Democrats securing only three of the twenty-four common councilmen.

License Majority Cut Down. NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 14.—The city declared for license by 60 majority, the smallest for years, the majority last year being 511. On this question interest centered, as there was but one candidate for mayor. With a thorough organization the city would have gone no license. With one exception, the board of aldermen is the same as the present year. Eben A. Young defeated Alderman Plummer. The common council eight members were candidates for re-election, and seven of them were winners. Mayor Guernsey is returned to the office without opposition, an honor which has been accorded but half a dozen mayors out of twenty-five that have filled the chair.

License Overturned in Salem.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 14.—The result of the city election was the re-election of the present mayor and, with a single exception, the present board of aldermen. The board will rigidly enforce the liquor law. The great interest centered in the license campaign, and the result was a complete overturn, the city going no license for the first time since 1882. The majority for no license is 372, as against about 600 for license last year. Mayor Rantoul's majority is 471. There was no politics in the city campaign in Salem, and the re-election of Mayor Rantoul is evidence of personal popularity.

Medford's Verdict. MEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 14.—Medford polled a large vote yesterday at its first election for its city officers. The total number of voters is 3742, and there were 239 votes cast. General Samuel C. Lawrence was elected mayor by a big plurality. The license men feel somewhat pleased with their vote, they being beaten by only 282, as against nearly 500 last year. The new city government will start out with a good set of officials, the Republicans being largely in the majority.

Everett's First. EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 14.—After passing through the hottest political fight that she has ever experienced, Everett chose as her first mayor, Hon. A. H. Evans. George E. Smith was his opponent. Evans secured his election by 189 majority. The Smith men secured a board of aldermen not in sympathy Mayor-elect Evans. The city went no license.

The Result in Keene. KEENE, N. H., Dec. 14.—At the municipal election Frederick A. Faulkner (Rep.) was re-elected mayor without opposition. The Republicans elect officers in four wards, ward 5 going Democratic by a small majority.

RIVER LINE DETERMINED.

Decision of Interest to Residents of Western Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—The Connecticut river line in the city of Springfield is practically established. The subject will come before the legislature in the form of a report from the harbor and land commissioners, and then the matter will be settled. The subject has been legislated on for some time. In the western part of the state it has been the cause of many legal fights.

There will be no great changes made in the line, but it will be so established that land owners on the bank of the river, who have for years been filling in and making land, can go only so far. In that section where Springfield park fronts the river considerable land will be taken to make the park larger, and it is said that many improvements will be made. The city engineer of Springfield is at present at work on the matter and will soon have completed his work.

The landowners of Springfield who owned land on the river front made a strong fight to have the river narrowed so that they could build more land, but in the establishing of this line they are defeated. They will not be allowed to dump dirt and rocks in the river any more, and its course will not be changed.

REFUSED TO MARRY HIM.

Cyrus Young Brutally Assaults the Girl He Professed to Love.

DOVER, N. H., Dec. 14.—Cyrus Young was arrested here on a warrant sworn out in South Berwick, Me., the charge being an aggravated assault on Carrie Doty of this city. Miss Doty is confined to her bed from the result of her injuries. She claims that some time ago he asked her to marry him, but she refused. She says that on Sunday night he took her riding, and that while on the road to York Beach, Me., he drove into a wood path, tied his horse, dragged her from the carriage and struck her and kicked her repeatedly.

After the assault, she says, he brought her home and a doctor was called, who found that her right arm was twisted from its socket and that she had received other injuries so severe that she would be confined to the house for some time. Young admits the assault, says he is not sorry and acknowledges that he has assaulted her twice before. He claims that she had been false to him. Young was taken to South Berwick after his arrest and will be given a hearing there.

TO BE SUED FOR LIBEL.

Prominent Salem Citizens in Trouble for Alleged Malicious Statements.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 14.—Hon. Arthur Huntington is preparing a law suit for libel against two prominent citizens of this city for originating and circulating stories to the effect that Robert S. Rantoul, mayor of the city, and Alderman Arthur F. Courtney were in an intoxicated condition in the city hall a few evenings before the state election. The stories have been persistently circulated, with a view probably of defeating Mayor Rantoul and Alderman West in the city election yesterday. Both men are men who never drink, and are highly indignant. Mr. Huntington thinks he has traced the stories to two political enemies of Mr. Rantoul, and the case will be pressed. The affair caused intense excitement at the polls at the city election.

IN A BAD FLIGHT.

Consul McCrillis' Credentials Were in One of the Seized Vessels.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—Ransom F. McCrillis of Salem, who sailed from Hoboken, N. J., on Saturday, as United States consul to Denia, Spain, after having his baggage and overcoat seized for debt, is in a worse plight than was at first expected. The baggage was seized within five minutes of the time the ship on which Mr. McCrillis was to sail left her dock, and the consul went on without it. Upon examination of the baggage it has been found that the consul contains his credentials, so the consul will be unable to prove his identity when he reaches his destination.

The Decie Case Ended.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 14.—In the superior court the jury in the case of Decie vs. the Boston and Portsmouth Steamboat company found for plaintiff in the sum of $1876.10 2/3. The suit was brought by the father of C. H. Decie, who claimed that there was a drunken brawl on the boat, during which his son was thrown overboard, as he was never seen after he went on board on an excursion.

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

New York Yacht Club Accepts Dunraven's Challenge.

A MATCH WITHIN TEN MONTHS.

Future Misunderstanding in the Matter Not Likely to Happen.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Lord Dunraven's challenge for an international yacht race has been unconditionally accepted. At a large meeting held at the New York Yacht club last night, copies of the following cablegrams were sent to Lord Dunraven and Richard Grant, secretary of the Royal Yacht squadron:

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. Lord Dunraven, London: Resolved, That this club accept the challenge of the Royal Yacht squadron, in the name of the Earl of Dunraven, for the America's cup, the match to begin ten months from Dec. 5, 1892, the date of the receipt of the said challenge by the New York Yacht club, but the date of the match to be subject to alteration for mutual convenience and by mutual consent.

The Meeting at the Clubhouse was presided over by Commodore Gerry and attended by about 200 members of the club. As only yacht owners are allowed to vote there were but thirty-two votes cast, but they were unanimously in favor of acceptance. At the opening of the meeting, which lasted half an hour, the cup committee presented the following report:

In regard to this challenge your committee would report as follows: Your committee had agreed to recommend for acceptance a challenge based on Lord Dunraven's letter of Nov. 7, in which he writes: "I trust that a challenge on the terms of my former letter as herein modified will be accepted." In the former letter alluded to, that of Sept. 16 to Mr. Oddie, Lord Dunraven wrote, "I will sail a series of matches under the rules of the new deed of gift, with the following exception and addition." This clause your committee considers as the basis of the whole negotiation. The terms of the letter to Mr. Oddie had been declared by the New York Yacht club as acceptable with certain exceptions which do not affect the force of the clause above quoted.

The challenge, containing no reference or equivalent to the clause, but purporting to recapitulate the stipulations required and agreed to, fails to characterize them as exceptions or additions at all and so does not even imply the existence of other and very important conditions of the deed such, for instance, as the convenants and agreements required on the part of the winner of the America's cup under the rules of

The New Deed of Gift. Further, the challenge in no way sanctions the use of its preceding correspondence for the purpose of its interpretation. Your committee feared that this omission from the challenge of an explicit statement contained in Lord Dunraven's letter might involve a risk of some future misunderstanding, and considered that the most expeditious method of preventing any possible misunderstanding would be to obtain authority from Lord Dunraven to use his letters in which the challenge was to be based as explanatory of the challenge itself. As the committee feared that its limited time would prevent the obtaining of an authorization by the squadron, to use Lord Dunraven's letters, communication with Lord Dunraven was carried on by cable. Then followed the official correspondence. The meeting was attended by nearly all the prominent yachtsmen of this vicinity. The vote was decided in this vicinity. The challenge of the New York Yacht club to the Dunraven's Valkyrie.

In Favor of Raum's Removal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Representative Enloe has introduced in the house a resolution setting apart Dec. 19 for the consideration of the report of the committee that investigated the charges against the management of the pension office. The committee expressed the opinion that Commissioner Raum should be removed.

THE CATTLE MARKETS.

Massachusetts...	8	8	...

Totals.....1,878 2,139 19,612

Prices for western beef cattle per 100 lbs live weight—Choice, $1 05/16; second quality, $40/16; third quality, $32/16; poorest grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, Texas, Colorado, etc., $1 20/16.

Prices for northern and eastern beef cattle per 100 lbs dressed weight—Choice, $5/16; second quality, $4/16; poorest grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, etc., $2/16 per lb.

Working oxen—None offered.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The supply was about the same as last week. Trade was active with values showing no change.

Milk cows and springers—The supply was large with the demand slow and no sales were quoted up to the noon hour.

Veal calves—The receipts figured up a total of 944 head. Trade was active and a clearance was quickly effected at 1/4 higher than last week.

Sheep and lambs—There was a good demand and trade was active, with prices showing no change.

Western beef cattle—The receipts were consigned to shippers and exporters.

The Brighton Market.

BRIGHTON, Mass., Dec. 14.—Amount of live stock on the market:

	Cattle	Sheep	Swine
Western.....	512	1,470	18,880
Massachusetts...	119	69	15
Maine.....	354	2,699	...

Vermont.....	219	599	41
Canada.....	...	3,089	...

Totals.....1,782 8,410 19,922

Working oxen—None offered for working purposes. Those brought in were in a fat condition and were for slaughter.

Milk cows and springers—The demand was fair and trade active, with good cows selling readily from $20/16.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The receipts were very heavy and were in excess of the demand, causing the values to drop a strong 1/2 per lb from last week. The quality of the cattle was excellent. A few pairs of extra Christmas cattle brought 56 per lb, but the top price on the average regular stock was 4 1/2 per lb.

Veal calves—The supply was much lighter than last week, with the quality poor. The demand for good calves was brisk and prices were a strong 1/2 higher than last week. The improvement in the Boston market for the advance prices.

Sheep and lambs—Good qualities are firm. The quality of those offered was poor. Western beef cattle—Sturtevant & Haley received 100 head of choice cattle fattened in southern Illinois. They were the best cattle seen on the market for some time.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mayor-elect Richardson, at 20, will be the youngest Mayor in Massachusetts in 1893. There will be but five others younger than Mayor Fairbanks of this city, viz: Mayor Farr of Holyoke and Coughlin of Fall River, each 31; Mayor Bancroft of Cambridge, 37, and Mayor Matthews of Boston, 38. The new city of Everett will have the oldest Mayor, Alonzo H. Evans, who is 72. With one exception every Mayor-elect was born in New England, and 16 in Massachusetts.

Five of the nine cities which voted yesterday made a change. Worcester was the only gain for license, while Lynn, Lowell, Salem and Medford will try to temperate. Cambridge and Everett will remain temperance cities, and Boston and Newburyport in the license column. Newburyport reduced its license majority from 511 to 99.

Only one of the present Mayors-elect of Massachusetts has been chosen for a fourth consecutive term, Mayor Rantoul of Salem. Mayor Keith of Brockton, however, will enter his third term and had previously served three.

The North American Steamship Companies have decided not to bring any more steerage passengers to this country after January 1st. "For this relief, much thanks."

An unfortunate state of affairs exists in the new city of Everett at the start. It is announced that the board of aldermen are not in sympathy with the Mayor-elect, Evans.

An exchange says that Claude Lorraine was bred a pastry cook. How he could be bred and a pastry cook at the same time is rather difficult to understand.

"The Crust of Society" is John Stetson's latest production. If the crust is any harder than the interior of society, it must be very indigestible indeed.

The "roasting" that the Speaker of the House of Representatives received in New York has made him a little too hard to be crisp.

Divorces seem to be common in Brockton. In the superior court Tuesday ten couples from that city were separated.

The idea of raising the fallen women of Boston is an object worthy of the support of every believer in morality.

The atmosphere around the naval academy at Annapolis, seems to be rather hazy at present.

Only 1,184 majority for license in Boston at yesterday's election, against 4,096 last year.

Mayor Matthews, as well as Mayor Fairbanks, is "in it" for a third term.

There are now seventeen license cities; next year there will be but twelve of thirty.

Miss Rehan may be Beach'd after all.

Close Call in Boston.

The Herald says: "The vote on the license question shows that but for the active work of the advocates of license within the last few days this city would have been committed to no license by a considerable majority; and if Gov. Russell had been defeated on the 8th of November last, the vote would have gone that way, in spite of the work done."

It is estimated that the election cost the liquor dealers $100,000.

SWINDLED PHYSICIANS.
A Young New Englander Has Many Charges of Forgery Against Him.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—George L. Tiffany, a graduate in medicine, who has been swindling physicians in various parts of the country by means of forged checks, was arrested here last evening on the complaint of Dr. J. L. Kent, dean of the post graduate school of homoeopaths, for swindling him out of $115. Checks on the People's National bank of Brattleboro, Vt., the Worcester Safe Deposit and Trust company of Worcester, Mass., the Vermont National bank of Brattleboro, and the First National bank of Geneva, N. Y., amounting in all to $1005, were also found on Tiffany. The checks were variously signed. Tiffany is about 34 years old, of respectable appearance, and says he is a graduate of the Missouri Medical college of Atlanta. He says he formerly practiced medicine at his home at Manchester, Conn., but got into a scrape, and was compelled to leave there.

WRECK ON THE SANTA FE.

Wires are Down and Definite News of the Disaster is Lacking.
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14.—East-bound Santa Fe passenger train No. 2 from Kansas City, went through a bridge between Camden and Floyd, forty miles east of here, yesterday. The baggage car and one coach went through into the creek and several passengers are reported as badly hurt. It is expected that the baggage man was killed outright, but as the wires are all down on account of a storm, it is impossible to get the details of the wreck. The Santa Fe is sending all trains by the Walcott to Lexington Junction. The officials here admit there was a serious wreck, but claim no one was killed outright. Superintendent McClellan has gone to the scene of the wreck and the wounded will be brought to this city. It is impossible to get any details.

A TERRIBLE CYCLONE

Sweeps Through a Portion of Louisiana with Fatal Results.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14.—A cyclone passed two miles above Summit, carrying death and destruction in its path. The house of Rev. S. S. Mrs. Young and family were rescued from the ruins of their residence, all dangerously wounded. The path was 300 yards wide, carrying everything with it. Lat. pine trees were uprooted and scattered in pieces. The residence of S. A. Love was completely destroyed, and his horse and effects scattered for miles. Four persons were killed and seven seriously injured.

RECOUNT OF VOTES.
Three Wards Give No Change in Mayoralty Votes.

JOHNSON'S LEAD IS INCREASED.

Slight Changes for All the Councilmen at Large.

The recount of the votes cast at the recent city election for Mayor, Councilmen-at-large and Councilman from Ward Two as petitioned for by William A. Hodges, William H. Warner and William H. Sullivan, was held by the committee on elections of the City Council Tuesday afternoon commencing at 2 o'clock.

Mayor Fairbanks was represented by J. H. Benton, Jr., counsel for the Old Colony railroad and Wilbur F. Powers of Hyde Park. Mr. Hodges was represented by G. A. Pattee and H. A. Keith. William H. Warner by J. F. Burke; F. W. Folsom by Walter M. Packard; Charles H. Johnson by Albert Keating; William H. Sullivan by William H. Sullivan, and Arthur W. Newcomb by Arthur W. Newcomb.

In Ward One there was only one disputed ballot for Mayor and that was in the last block counted. In this ballot the voter placed his mark in the blank space. Mr. Pattee claimed it was nearest the name of Mr. Hodges, and therefore showed the intent of the voter to be for Mr. Hodges. Mr. Benton and Mr. Powers claimed that it should be counted as a blank, as it was against no name.

According to the returns of the election officers it had been counted as a blank. Mr. Duffield voted in favor of counting it and Messrs. Federhen and Pratt of calling it a blank.

Two hours and fifty minutes were consumed in counting Ward One.

There was a slight change in Councilmen at large.

In Ward Two there was no change in the vote for Mayor and but a slight change in the vote for Councilmen at large.

For Ward Councilmen, Johnson gained two, Sullivan gained one, Williams gained three and lost two, Weeks gained one, Newcomb gained one and lost one, and Federhen gained one and lost one. This makes a net gain of two for Johnson, one for Sullivan, one for Weeks and one for Williams.

The corrected vote will stand: Federhen, Jr., 249; Williams, 231; Johnson, 225; Sullivan, 218; Newcomb, 208; Weeks, 200, and the first three are elected.

The recount of Ward Three was completed about midnight. There was no change on the vote of Mayor and but a slight change in Councilmen at large.

At this hour an adjournment was taken until 7 o'clock this morning when after counting 300 of the votes of Ward Four, another adjournment was taken until this afternoon at 2:30. There was no change in the vote of Mayor for Ward Four as far as counted.

There was no dispute on any of the votes for Mayor except that in Ward One, which was called a blank. A vote of the same kind was found in Wards Two and Four and these were also called blanks.

The three disputed ballots were marked thus:

Henry O. Fairbanks
William A. Hodges

THE GREAT COMET CHRISTMAS.

HAS STRUCK AT LAST.

Not on Schedule Time,
However.

THE great tramp luminary that has been soaring through space for millions of years, and has recently attracted the attention of astronomers in every portion of the civilized world, was killed to strike this planet of ours several days ago. Many men have become famous through the discovery of comets by powerful telescopes, but there they have stopped, and it remained for a

to go a step further and actually capture one. Many of our readers will smile incredulously at this bit of news, but it is really the case, and the comet is

The Changing Climate.

Six inches of snow in the Texas "Panhandle" and none in Boston is a curious turnabout. We shall soon have those Southern cowboys going around on snowshoes and sneering at the enervating climate of New England. But seriously, six inches of snow, which would mean nothing but reasonable weather for Massachusetts and fun for man and beast, on the wide-sweeping Texas prairies is a real calamity.

Sheep and cattle, unprotected, perish by thousands of the cold, for while the storm endures the fierce winds cut and lash with almost the severity of a Dakota blizzard. The hope which these sudden northerners have blighted and the fortunes which they have swept away cannot be easily enumerated.—Journal.

A REVEREND MOTHER SPEAKS

The Reverend Mother of the Convent of the Holy Family, Batle, Conn., writes that she can speak in only the highest terms of the Kickapoo Indian Remedies, and that she keeps a supply of each kind constantly on hand for the year round, as for several years they have stood the test in every case. "The health of two hundred children under my care is paramount to everything else, and fever, cold, and cough is seldom known, thanks to the Kickapoo Indian Oil and Cough Cure; while the Kickapoo Indian Salve and the Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer have often proved their effectiveness."

WARNING TO CANADA.

Must Not Interfere in Our Dealings with Great Britain.

STATEMENT BY SECRETARY FOSTER

Shows Instances Where the Dominion is Greatly in Error.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The attention of the secretary of state, John W. Foster, was called to the lengthy interview which was telegraphed from Ottawa by the Canadian minister of finance, Hon. George E. Foster, containing a detailed review of President Harrison's annual message. Secretary Foster stated that the Canadian finance minister's arraignment of the president was neither justified by the message nor sustained by his lengthy criticism.

The minister's arraignment is of four topics of great interest to both countries, viz.: Reciprocity of trade, fishery rights, the canal discriminations and the railroad traffic. On the first point little fault is to be found with the Canadian statement, for the reason that in every particular does it qualify the president's declaration.

But in this particular the minister is seriously in error. During the reciprocity conference of last winter Mr. Blaine did not insist that in a reciprocity arrangement a uniform tariff would be necessary for both Canada and the United States, nor, much less, that it would be on the line of the present United States tariff. He did ask that the schedule should not be confined to natural products, but should include an agreed list of manufactured goods, and that the reciprocity should be confined to Canada and the United States; and because of these two conditions negotiations were fruitless.

The Fishery Question

covers more than a century of voluminous discussion and prolonged controversy, but a most limited examination of it would show that in every step in its history the Canadian have been unreasonable demands of Canada have frustrated otherwise harmonious adjustments between Great Britain and the United States. This is especially noticeable in the fur seal controversy. It is a well known fact that in 1888 the subject reached a complete basis in London between Lord Salisbury and Minister Phelps, when the remonstrance of Canada defeated the arrangement and precipitated the two governments into the bitter discussion, out of which has grown the pending arbitration.

Secretary Foster said that the Canadian minister's statement of the issue involved in this arbitration was most imperfect and misleading. It was not a question of free fishing on the high sea. The government of the United States does not seek to restrict the legitimate freedom of the ocean; but, in the language of Mr. Blaine, it does claim that the law of the sea is lawlessness. It holds that the fur seals born and reared on the Pribilof islands, on which they spend a large part of their existence, and to which they return with unvarying instinct, represent a large and valuable interest and industry, which should not be permitted to be exterminated by the barbarous and inhuman methods of the Canadian poachers, and it has every confidence the tribunal of arbitration will so decide.

The Vital Question at Issue.

The minister clouds the canal controversy by shifting the real ground to an alleged comparison of the relative advantages the United States and Canada derive from each other's concessions, under the treaty of Washington, in the matter of navigation. The whole movement is evidently designed to force the United States to yield to Canada the free navigation of the Hudson river, a concession which was left unconsidered in the conference of Washington, and which they return to Washington. The navigation of Lake Michigan by the Canadians was then made the express and ample equivalent of the navigation of the St. Lawrence, and if it was a fair compensation in 1871, what is it now, when the commercial field of operations in Lake Michigan is many fold increased?

Every attempt to bring about a better understanding of the question of the canal tolls has been met by the demand of Canada that the free navigation of the Hudson river shall be thrown in by us at the price of Canada's fulfillment of the simple terms of the treaty of Washington. All nations have carefully guarded their internal avenues and communication and coastwise commerce from foreign intrusion, and the president has neither the inclination nor the power under the existing laws to pay the price of the surrender in this instance to secure the observance by Canada of what he regards as his plain treaty obligations.

The attitude of Canada to our railway traffic the secretary regards as the least defensible of all its relations with the United States. Briefly stated by its great and overshadowing corporation of our national policy of railway control in the interest and for the protection of the public. While our American railroads are under the restriction of the interstate commerce law the Canadian Pacific is reaping the benefits of its exemption therefrom, at great inconvenience, if not serious loss, to the treasury department and to the injury of American interests. Our toleration of the system thus far has been one of the many instances of the forbearance of the executive, and a distinguished mark of a desire to cultivate friendly relations with Canada. Certainly it is the last matter about which the finance minister should find fault with President Harrison's utterances in his message.

It is a defiance

It would be easy to multiply the instances cited by the president wherein our negotiations with Great Britain have been thwarted by Canada.

Secretary Foster believes that the minister is greatly in error in his assertion that the president's message does not represent the sentiments of the people of the United States. On all these questions there can be but one opinion among patriotic Americans. While there is no disposition in this country to interfere in the slightest degree with the political relations of Canada, we do expect a faithful compliance with treaty obligations and fair and equal treatment for American commerce, and there will be no question wherever the president finds it necessary to take steps to enforce the one or secure the other.

HOW THANKSGIVING DAY ORIGINATED

President Lincoln First Made It a National Holiday.

Prior to 1863 Thanksgiving day was a state holiday only, and was not always observed in all states. Moreover, it was often fixed at different dates in different states, the dates being selected by the governors. It was a New England celebration originally, but was generally adopted in most of the states prior to the war.

In 1863 President Lincoln proclaimed a special day of thanksgiving for a victory of the Union troops. In 1863 he proclaimed a similar special day, and in November, 1863 and 1864, he proclaimed the annual Thanksgiving day as a national observance. Since then all succeeding presidents have followed the example, and Thanksgiving day is, strictly speaking, the only national holiday in the year. All other holidays, such as Fourth of July, Christmas and the like, are observed in deference to state laws only, congress not having made them legal holidays.

How to Make a Handsome Piano Cover.

Take a sufficient quantity of green plush or velvet to make a spread large enough to cover a piano and decorate it with pond lilies and pads. Make the flowers of white satin (not cream color), shot with silver—this will have the same effect as silver white. Use silver thread to sew the petals to the plush and work the petals and stems in solid embroidery. The lily pads of green satin are couched or stuffed and then veined with gold thread. Place here and there a mock jewel to imitate a drop of water. Appliqued work is now very fashionable, and for this article any color and large design can be used.

How to Mend Cracks in Stoves.

Mix a little wood ashes and salt in a paste with water and apply over the crack. This can be done when the stove is either cold or hot.

How to Drive Rats from a House.

If other baits fail put a few drops of oil of rhodium on the bottom of the cage. This always attracts them; or put a layer of moist caustic potash on the floor near their holes. This causes sore feet and tongues, and the rats will avoid this locality. Half fill a vessel twelve inches deep with water and sprinkle bran over it, setting it in the most infested place. The rats will drown in trying to get the bran.

How to Keep Cellars or Closets Dry.

Keep vessels containing lime about in damp places. The lime will absorb the moisture.

How to Shave.

The best time is on leaving the bed or bath. Wash the beard with soap and cold water, then rub dry just before putting on the lather. Move the razor in a sloping direction, and hold it as flat as possible against the face, drawing the skin tightly with the left hand. Stopping a razor by pressing on the edge rounds it; therefore hold it flat on the strop. When through wipe the razor with soft plate leather and strop it. Put the brush away with the lather on it, crush end up in the cup.

How to Prepare Your Own Lard.

Try out five or six pounds of the nicest beef suet, and pour the fat into the jar where it is to be kept. While it is hot stir in one cup of pure olive oil.

How to Take Care of the Eyes.

Avoid using them by a poor light. Have light come from the side if possible. Do not read or study when ill, very tired or lying down, and if doing work that must be held near stop often to rest the eyes. A stooping position is bad when the eyes are in use. Avoid improper hygienic conditions and take open air exercise. Reading by firelight is very bad, also working at a table where the glare from the light falls directly upon the eyes.

How to Prevent India Rubber Cracking.

Steep in melted paraffine for a few seconds and dry in a temperature of 212 degs. Fahr.

How to Wash Silk or Woolen Goods.

For an ordinary article, not too large, take two gallons of naphtha. Put the first gallon into some deep earthen vessel, like a bowl or basin. Wash the article in it as you would with soap and water. Rub spots as hard as you can. Wring out, throw away this naphtha, and rinse in the other gallon the same way. Shake well and dry in the air, but not in the sun. If necessary the goods can be pressed, but it is not at all necessary. It will dry in a few minutes, and all odor will have left in a half hour.

How to Remove a Glass Stopper.

To remove a glass stopper that has become fast put a drop of sweet oil or glycerin in the crevice about the stopper. Let it stand for about an hour and it can then be easily removed.

How to Fix Drawing Paper on the Board.

Dampen the paper on the wrong side with sponge and water, leave it a short time, then put floor paste along the edges, and lay the paper on the board, pressing it down with care. Lay four thin pieces of smooth wood along the edges, and put weights on the corners. When the drawing is done run a knife under the edges, lift the paper and scrape off the paste on the back. In this way no paper is wasted.

How to Clean Felt Hats.

Rub the hat with ammonia and water, washing it with fuller's earth if greasy. To stiffen them apply glue size, made by diluting 1/2 of glue with hot water, on the inside of the hat, then put them on a block. The thicker the glue used the stiffer the hat.

How to Free Canary Birds of Mites.

Throw a white cloth over the cage at night. The mites will collect on it by morning. Then wash the cage thoroughly.

THE FEDERATION OF LABOR

Considers Matters of Interest to the Toiling Masses.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—At yesterday's session of the Federation of Labor a number of resolutions were referred to appropriate committees, the most sensational of which was the following offered by Delegate Morgan of Chicago:

Resolved, That this convention join in the plea to the governor of the state of Illinois for the pardon of Oscar Neebe, Samuel Fielding and Michael Schwab.

George E. McNeill of Boston then read a paper on the labor problem, in which, after declaring the American Federation of Labor to be the highest development of organized effort, he referred to the Knights of Labor in this strain:

The departure of the Knights of Labor when they had reached the climax of their powers, necessarily led to a demoralization from which the laborers under the banners of the trades unions are now rallying. Free as I am from any antagonism to the rank and file of that organization, in fact, of deep sympathy with them, I must protest that the spirit of centralization which has governed them will surely, and ought surely secure their overthrow.

The first business after recess was the question of making an appropriation to the Homestead sufferers. Delegate Skelington of Boston presented the report of the committee on the president's report, recommending that the convention donate $1000 to aid in the defense of the arrested strikers. This was adopted after an amendment that a collection in addition be taken and a substitute resolution deferring the payment of the appropriation had both been killed in this strain:

First Vice President McGuire of Philadelphia moved that $500 be contributed to the defense fund of the Court d'Alene miners. This went through with a rush, but when Delegate Toltenhausen of Knoxville, Tenn., made a motion that $500 be appropriated to the support of the Tennessee miners, some of the delegates thought that the matter had been carried too far. A general objection followed.

Delegate Foster of Boston moved that the matter be referred to the committee on resolutions. This was lost. At 5:50 p. m. the convention adjourned.

BLAINE IS IMPROVING.

James G., Jr., Says His Father Has Not Joined the Catholic Church.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—James G. Blaine, Jr., said to a reporter of the United Press: "Father is improving and progressing nicely. We have no apprehension as to the final outcome of his indisposition."

"Has your father or the family made any definite plans for his proposed trip, when the weather will permit?" was asked.

"How about the rumors that Dr. Ducey and Cardinal Gibbons indicted your father into the Catholic church?"

"There is no truth in the rumor. Dr. Ducey called to see father the day only in a friendly way, as did Cardinal Gibbons. That is all there is to it."

WIRES ARE DOWN.

Telegraphic Communication Interrupted by a Severe Storm in the West.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—A storm of sleet, rain and snow combined is general throughout the west, and has caused an almost complete interruption of telegraphic communication. Neither of the companies can handle any but the most urgent dispatches, and press matter is almost at a stand still. The storm extends eastward into Pennsylvania, and west beyond the Missouri river, and the outlook for better weather is not at all encouraging. Wires are down in all directions.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Dec. 14.—The worst snow storm for years has visited this section. It is still snowing.

Suspicion of Crookedness.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Dec. 14.—J. A. Carpenter, bookkeeper of the Whitney Basket company at Marlborough, has been missing since Dec. 9. Rumors are that he is a defaulter, but this cannot be definitely settled until the interior safe doors are opened, as Carpenter has taken with him the keys.

Judge Swift Exonerated.

LIQUOR THE ROOT OF SOCIAL EVIL.

Committee of One Hundred Citizens to Map Out Plans.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 15.—The much talked of movement for the suppression of local vice assumed definite form last evening, and a meeting of pastors of several denominational churches was held in the Young Men's Christian association building to take action upon a series of resolutions which had been drafted by Secretary Conant of the ministers' conference, and to devise methods whereby concerted measures might be taken for the purification of the municipal atmosphere. There were about 150 clergymen and laity in attendance, and the meeting was harmonious and fairly enthusiastic.

Some opposition was manifested to a joint movement for the suppression of the illegal selling of liquor with the social evil, on the ground that this was assuming

Too Arduous a Task, and that the removal of the latter being more necessary, should not be interfered with by embarrasments resulting from a divided responsibility. This was speedily checked by the emphatic declaration that liquor was the root of the social evil, and that if the meeting failed to incorporate its determination to suppress the illegal traffic, it would make itself a laughing stock in the community.

The sentiment of the meeting was antagonistic to confining the movement to ministers of the gospel on the ground that as citizens more effective work could be done, while as clergymen there were natural limitations to which they were restricted. It was also deemed wise to christen the movement

A Citizens' Organization on the ground that the recognized duty of a law and order league was to enforce laws, an obligation for which here is imperative upon the regularly constituted authorities.

The conclusion of the meeting was rendered interesting by the startling disclosures of an apparently well-informed man from Mount Pleasant, involving church communication with the social evil.

It was finally voted to appoint a nominating committee of nine, which should select a committee of 100 citizens, and to hold a joint meeting next Wednesday at the same place, at which some method of prosecuting the work will be decided upon.

AN IRATE LANDLORD

Resorts to Extreme Harshness to Evict Tenants Who Were in Arrears.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Dec. 15.—A real old-fashioned Emerald Isle eviction occurred here Tuesday and yesterday. It took two days to complete it. There is much indignation expressed by the townspeople. A Bohemian tailor, Anton Lithobosky, his Irish wife and two children lived in a tenement street, in one of the houses formerly part of the Wixon property, but now standing in the name of Lawyer C. A. Babbitt.

A week ago the rent was due, a trifling amount, and Lithobosky could not pay. He was given a week of time to get the money. Monday the owner called for the money. He didn't get it. To facilitate matters he took the covers from the stove and carried them away.

Tuesday afternoon he took out two of the windows to try and freeze the woman, which he promptly and in somewhat forcible language declined to do. In the altercation that ensued it is reported by the bystanders that the woman was struck by the irate landlord. The circumstances are aggravated by the woman's condition. A physician was then called in.

The unfortunate couple had a tenement engaged at the corner of Water and First streets, but didn't have money enough to pay for moving their goods. They finally invoked the aid of Clerk Whitney of the owners of the poor, who moved their goods to their new abode.

The affair will doubtless get into the courts. Public sympathy has been so much aroused that the Lithoboskys have won many supporters in any future action.

A DEAD MAN'S PROPERTY

Brings to the Front Two Women, Each Claiming to Be His Wife.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 15.—Litigation over the estate of the late William Foley, a North End merchant, is about to be begun. Catherine Foley will place evidence in a lawyer's hands which she believes will lead her to be recognized as the legal wife of the deceased William Foley. She claims that she was married in Blackburn, Eng., in 1880. Two years afterward, during the cotton panic, she claims her husband came to America. She received a letter saying her husband intended making America his home, and which also said that out of sight meant out of mind.

Almost thirty years passed, when the wife came to this city, recognized her husband, and found he had a wife and family here. This American wife, Bridget Foley, denies the charges of Mrs. Foley No. 1, and says that she (Bridget) is his first and only wife. Foley left considerable property.

His Troubles Ended.

HAMBURG, Dec. 15.—Corow, the absconding broker, whose firm failed with large liabilities a few days ago, has committed suicide. His body was found hanging to a tree in the outskirts of the Kiel.

Served Him Right.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—Alfred Baeker of Remscheid, in Rhenish Prussia, an imperial bank director, has been sentenced to three years' hard labor for forgery and embezzlement.

CRUSHED BY A TRAIN.

Two Boston Women May Lose Their Lives as a Result of an Accident.

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—Three young ladies were nearly crushed to death at the Maverick street crossing of the Boston and Maine railroad in East Boston. One of the young ladies escaped without injury, but the two others were seriously if not fatally injured. The three companions were returning from their work in the city. It was about 5:30 yesterday afternoon when they reached the railroad crossing at Maverick street. A train was passing, so they waited, unmindful of the danger which threatened them.

Suddenly one of the young ladies was pulled backwards. She was safe. A young man had seen her danger and had caught her in time. But the others! An unnoticed freight train had mercilessly backed down the track. The remaining two young ladies were knocked down and crushed by the wheels of the ponderous freight cars. The right leg of one was completely cut off below the knee, while both legs of the other were crushed both above and below the knee.

Miss Kate Donahue, 20 years old, and Miss Delia Barry, also 20 years old, were the two struck down by the grinding wheels. It was stated at the hospital last night that Miss Barry, who had both legs crushed, had also received internal injuries and there was some fear that she might not survive. Miss Donahue was resting quietly, and it was thought would recover.

IN A PRETTY PICKLE.

Lew Dockstader Has an Unpleasant Experience with Law at New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 15.—Lew Dockstader was arrested in this city Tuesday night, after the close of the performance of his minstrels, to satisfy a judgment of $841.37 and interest, obtained against him on an action of contract for wages in the New York city court by George F. Marion, the comedian, in October, 1891. The arrest was made at the instance of Peter F. Maher, a Boston lawyer. Dockstader was released on $500 bail, a New Bedford man being surety. Dockstader made application to take the "poor debtors' oath," and his counsel, Thomas F. Desmond, asked immediate action so Dockstader could get to Biddeford, Me., last night and join his company.

Maher stated that he should take five or six hours in the examination, and Desmond protested that Dockstader is falsely arrested, as the writ of attachment contained no instructions to seize the body in default of goods. The court continued the hearing till afternoon so as to look up the authorities on Mr. Desmond's statement, and Dockstader was unable to rejoin his company last night.

The case against Dockstader came to a funny ending in the afternoon. Judge Borden refused to administer the poor debtor's oath to Dockstader or to release him from custody. Deputy Sheriff Kirby, to whom Dockstader was again given in custody, refused to hold the defendant, as he has received no advance from the plaintiff for board or for fees.

Mr. Dockstader left the court house in company with his lawyer. Mr. Maher took the train for Boston, saying he thought he was in a case course he was pursuing, and that he would hold responsible F. William Oesting, Dockstader's bondsman, in the sum of $2500.

WILL WED AGAIN.

Announcement of the Engagement of Actress Hattie Schell to a Physician.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 15.—The engagement is announced here of Miss Hattie S. Schell, the actress, to Dr. Albert Tracy of Westfield, a practicing physician of acknowledged standing. This will be Miss Schell's second marriage, she having recently been divorced from Lieutenant Jeffrey Carden of the United States navy, who lately opposed his wife's remarriage on the stage.

Miss Schell persisted, however, and a notable struggle followed in the courts. Miss Schell spent last summer at Westfield, where her mother has lived for many years, and it was then that her acquaintance with Dr. Tracy ripened into love. The doctor came to Westfield from Montreal six years ago, being a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of that city.

Miss Schell is now on tour with the Maudie-Mason company, but counts this city as her home. She is the daughter of the late J. S. Schell, scenic artist at the Boston theater, and is best known for her performance of Susan in "Held by the Enemy." She was prominent in the New York Lyceum theater production of "The Wife," and in Matthews and Smyth's "Burglar" company.

THE KEELEY TREATMENT

May Be the Means of Keeping Two Vermont Men Out of Jail.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Dec. 15.—A precedent in the trial of criminals in Vermont was established here by Judge Joabman Ross, chief justice of the supreme court of Vermont, who is presiding at the December term in Caledonia county.

Among the cases for hearing were those of the state against B. F. Stanley, and the state against Thomas Griffin, both having been arrested for the third offense of intoxication, the penalty for which in this state is two months' hard labor in the house of correction and a fine of $30 and costs. Both respondents pleaded guilty to the offenses charged, and were duly sentenced as usual.

Both Stanley and Griffin were desirous of undergoing the Keeley treatment, and said that they would be assisted by their friends in the matter if their cases were continued and fines withheld. Judge Ross promptly ordered that in each case issue of mittimus be suspended, with the understanding that if the men failed to take the treatment, or the treatment failed to work, they should be promptly taken to the house of correction to serve their sentences.

A Suspicion of Murder.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Dec. 15.—Bernard Dorscheid, aged 65 years, mysteriously disappeared from his home in this city on Sept. 17, 1891, and yesterday his relatives offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of his body, with the conviction of the parties causing his death. His friends failed to take the treatment, or the treatment failed to work, they should be promptly taken to the house of correction to serve their sentences.

HIS LUNGS DISEASED.

James G. Blaine Reported to Be on His Deathbed.

PHYSICIANS' SKILL OF NO AVAIL.

Death Said to Be Only a Question of a Short Time.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The following special dispatch from Washington has been received: James G. Blaine is now on his deathbed. The strength-sapping malady from which he has suffered for so long a time has assumed a form which warns his family and friends of a speedy termination. The disease attacked his lungs a short time ago, and its course has baffled the skill of his physicians. The visit of Dr. E. Janeway of New York to Mr. Blaine is indicative of the extreme anxiety of the family.

When the fact became known that Mr. Blaine's lungs were succumbing to the ravages of disease plans were laid to convey the distinguished invalid to Pasadena, Cal., in the hope that a mild and soothing climate might enable him to rally. Mr. Blaine's weakness, however, increased so rapidly that it was deemed unsafe to move him, and the trip to California was abandoned. There is reason to believe that the ex-secretary's death may occur at any day.

"Resting Nicely."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—James G. Blaine, Jr., says that his father is resting nicely. He said that in the interview printed relative to Father Dukey calling on his father he had been misunderstood by the reporter. Dr. Dukey had not been to the house since his father's sickness.

CLEVELAND'S CABINET.

Carlisle May Be Secretary of the Treasury but Prefers the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Since the return of Senator Carlisle from New York, where he had a protracted conference with Mr. Cleveland, he has been the center of much interest among Democratic senators, who have been anxious to get an inkling of what the prospective president is doing concerning the selection of his cabinet advisers. Senator Carlisle said that so far as he could say the president-elect has not finally determined upon any member of his cabinet. He is, however, receiving the views of his friends and correspondence from persons entitled to consideration. He proposes to move slowly, as so many personal, sectional and political interests must be taken into account in choosing these important members of the government.

"The statement," said Senator Carlisle, "printed in a New York paper, that I had been offered the treasury portfolio is not true, and what the president-elect proposes to do in reference to that important position I do not know. I prefer, in many respects, my seat in the senate." In response to the question as to what he might do if the place were offered to him, he replied, "I should take the subject into very serious consideration. While the position is a very important one, it is also very laborious."

LONG INDICTMENTS

May Prove Tiresome to Jurors Who Will Try the Maverick Bank Case.

BOSTON, Dec. 15.—The jurors who are to try the case against Asa P. Potter in the United States circuit court next month will not have a very enjoyable job. The case will doubtless last a good many days, but probably the tiresome part of the work will be reading the indictments. This will take from one to two days, and the clerks will take turns in reading, no one man being able to read for an entire day. It is possible that as the counts are substantially alike that some agreement may be reached between court and counsel by which part only of the indictments will be read, but if the defendants ask that it be done, it will be necessary.

Not a Bad Job.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The president has appointed Jed Lake of Independence, Ia., Arthur A. Smith of Colerain, Mass., and Arthur P. Swinburn of Princeton, Ind., a commission to appraise certain lands and improvements within the Round Valley Indian reservation in California. The commissioners receive $13 a day while actually employed.

George—"And, great heavens! where would I go?"

"To make the room large enough to hold 600 square yards of paintings on its walls," said the architect, rapidly jotting down some figures on a sheet of paper, "will make it out of proportion with the rest of the house and will involve a much larger outlay."

"I don't care what it costs," said the millionaire, calmly. "I have got to have the space. I am making a collection of original portraits for Christopher Columbus."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The charges of heresy brought against clergymen of certain religious denomination, are getting to be of almost daily occurrence. It is rather hard to understand why in this free country, a man cannot believe according to the dictates of his conscience without being branded as a heretic by a body of men who are as liable to err in matters of faith as the accused "heretic."

Our Secretary of State Foster can, in a very few words, tell the Canadian Minister of Finance what he thinks of him. Although Mr. Foster does not call the Canadian diplomat, who by the way is another Foster, a liar, yet one must judge from his remarks, that the latter gentleman has been handling the truth very carefully.

It is curious, but nevertheless a fact, that there is almost as many people drowned in winter as in summer. From this time till spring, the thin ice accidents will keep pace with the "didn't know it was loaded" ones.

And now it is the ministers of Providence that are forming a Law and Order League for the suppression of vice in the above named city. If they succeed, no one will doubt but that it will be an act of Providence.

Everett's vote against license was among the most emphatic in the State: No, 1452; Yes, 439; a majority of 1013. Last year the vote was; No, 513; Yes, 175; a majority of 338.

Rev. Henry Preserved Smith is the latest minister to be suspended on the charge of "heresy." The reverend gentleman may still be Preserved a Smith, but not a minister.

The New York Yacht Club has accepted Lord Dunraven's challenge and it now looks as if a race was assured. "Lay on MacDuff!"

The rumblers of Boston spent $100,000 to save Boston from voting no license on Tuesday, but they will rob enough of unfortunate beings before another year to amply repay themselves.

Lord Salisbury is at Monte Carlo this week, but whether he is acting as the agent of the Prince of Wales or not, it is no known "Dreu et mon droit."

Worcester and the new cities of Medford and Everett are the only ones which elect aldermen for two years. Medford also elected a Mayor for two years.

Col. Elliot F. Shephard trying to bribe the New York police commissioners? This is rich.

No, no, startled anxious ones, the Kate Field arrested in Boston for shoplifting, is not "our Kate" of journalistic fame.

The judge who divorced ten Brockton couples should be divorced from his power.

NOT A VOTE CHANGED

In the Recount of the Mayoralty Vote.

WARNER TWENTY-FIVE BEHIND.

Slight Changes in the Totals for All the Councilmen at Large.

The Committee on Elections of the City Council completed their recount of the votes at 7.45 Wednesday evening, the total time consumed in the recount being sixteen hours and fifteen minutes. Councilman Duffield, of the committee, was not present at the recount yesterday, all the work devolving on Councilmen Federhen and Pratt.

In the votes for Mayor there was not the slightest change, which reflects credit upon the election officers.

In the votes for Councilmen at large there were slight changes in each ward but the general result remains the same. The changes will be noted in the table below.

Ward Four.	Ward Count	Recount
Badger	203	203
Baker	301	292

Briefly stated Baker, Duffield and Warner each gained 4; Holden and Pratt gained 3; Badger and Pope gained 1, and Drake, Folsom and Shackley each lost 2.

ANOTHER SCHEME.

The Democrats Hope for a New Election in Ward Six because of Irregularity.

There was a rumor Wednesday evening that having failed to count Mr. Hodges in on a recount another scheme would be tried, and this was to petition for a new election in Ward Six on the ground that the recent election was illegal. This claim is said to be based on the following:

On the morning of the election there was one Democratic inspector short and as there was no member of that party in the audience, the Warden, after reading the warrant, officiated as inspector until a Democrat appeared, which was in a few moments. It is doubtful if Mr. Hodges' wishes are consulted, if this rumor takes form, as it is known that he personally was satisfied that the result of the election as returned by the election officers was correct, and the recount asked for did not originate with him but with the party managers.

Run Over and Leg Broken.

Shortly before one o'clock this noon as James Griffin and another man were on a loaded furniture team of John Cavanaugh's, bound to Braintree, their horses started suddenly when on Hancock street near Hodges' bakery, and Griffin was thrown off and one wheel passed over his leg. Dr. Sheahan pronounced it a compound fracture, and after dressing it temporarily, ordered his removal to the City Hospital.

John Adams Council.
The following list of officers were elected by John Adams Council 1210, Royal Arcanum, on Monday evening:

Regent, C. F. Wilde.
Vice Regent, W. C. Pierce.
Orator, J. N. Emerson.
Guide, Geo. W. Brown.
Chaplain, F. W. White.
Treasurer, W. H. Brasee.
Collector, C. W. Tucker.
Secretary, C. A. Stevens.
Warden, A. E. Rhodes.
Sentry, G. M. Stokes.

Reform Club Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Quincy Reform Club held at the club room on Monday evening, the following officers were re-elected:
President, John D. Nutting.
Vice Presidents, Henry H. Faxon and Charles H. Hersey.
Directors, Theophilus King, Nathaniel Nightingale and Elmer W. Baker.
Secretary and Treasurer, Henry Chubbuck.
Marshals, Joseph W. Whiting and Thomas Kelly.
The report of the treasurer showed the club to be in a good financial condition. Three new members were elected. A vote of respect to the memory of the late Joseph M. Gilson was recorded.

Granite Polishers Fined.

The Concord Granite Manufacturers' Association, on Wednesday, unanimously voted to impose a fine of $25 each on J. H. Tressider, W. H. Mudge and Harry Phillips of the State Capital polishing works, and to suspend them from membership for violating the rules of the association in doing work for contractors outside of the organization.

Brookton Universalists.

It must be gratifying to the Universalists in this section of the State to know that the enlargement of the church building in this city was made an absolute necessity by the inability to accommodate those who desired to attend its services.—Brookton Enterprise.

Former Pastor of Hingham.

The statement that Rev. H. Price Collier, recently pastor of the Unitarian church of the Saviour in Brooklyn, has gone to South Dakota has given rise to a report that he went there to secure a divorce from his wife, who left him last spring and returned to her mother's house in Brookline, Mass., soon after the birth of her baby.

Supper and Entertainment.

The unpleasant weather of Wednesday did not prevent a good attendance at the Universalist church vestry in the evening. A supper, the sale of useful articles and entertainment were the attractions, and the members of the Ladies' association are to be congratulated on their success. The evening's entertainment began with a finely rendered piano duet by Messrs. Nye and Pratt, the musical director and organist of the church. This was followed by a duet; "Till we meet again," sung by Mr. Nye and Mrs. Winslow, which was heartily applauded. The funny farce, entitled "A picked up Dinner" was given by Mr. Ernest F. Lovejoy, Miss Grace Carter and Miss Grace Whitney of Boston. Their acting was superb, in every respect. Mr. Frank North, of the Harvard Law school, read a selection from Poe in an artistic manner. His method of reading brought out vividly the author's meaning. Much regret was expressed that Mr. North felt somewhat indisposed, and declined to give selections of a lighter character, in which he excels. When he comes again he will be cordially welcomed, and this may be said of those who served the audience to "A picked up Dinner."

Ladies' Night at Wollaston.

The Wollaston Club gave a delightful ladies' night and reception on Wednesday evening. The club house was thronged with a brilliantly dressed party. Mr. E. H. Brock and Mr. Edward A. Lyman had charge of the reception, and Mrs. Brock and Mrs. Lyman were the hostesses. After an informal musical, at which Miss Harriet W. Lincoln and Dr. George B. Rice sang, accompanied by Miss Olney, a light lunch was served. Mrs. Charles H. Brigham and Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong poured the chocolate. The next ladies' night and reception will be held on December 28.

A Large Account.

In the Norfolk Probate Court in this city Wednesday, Judge White allowed the largest account that has been in the court for a long while. It was the account of Charles P. Hemenway, William P. Bacon and Charles J. Morris, as trustees under the will of Augustus Hemenway, late of Milton, of certain estate held by them for the benefit of Mary Hemenway, Amy Hemenway Cabot, Edith Hemenway Eustis and Augustus Hemenway, and was for $5,393,897.11.

MANY LEFT BEHIND.

Twenty Dead Bodies Brought Out from a Ruined Mine.

AWFUL SCENES IN AN ENGLISH TOWN.

The Full Extent of the Disaster is Not Yet Known.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A fearful explosion occurred at the Ban Furlong colliery, Wigan, and many lives have been lost.

Hundreds of women and children surrounded the mouth of the mine, waiting anxiously for news of fathers, husbands, brothers and sons. Some of the women volunteered to assist in the work of rescue, but their assistance was not required. Despite the efforts to extinguish the fire the flames spread to the engine house, at the head of the air tunnel. This Stopped the Pumping of Air into the mine and added greatly to the peril of those who were in the pit. The fire was not subdued until 5 o'clock. Some little time after, the bodies of twenty of the miners who had been suffocated by the noxious gases generated in the mine after the explosion, were brought to the surface by the rescuing parties. Though the work is extremely dangerous, the exploration of the works is continued in the hope that some of the miners in the pit at the time of the explosion, may have reached places of safety, where they are awaiting the approach of the rescuers.

The rescue party reached the scene in the mine. In the main roads the bodies lie in twos and threes, as the men fell, faces downward and heads toward the entrances of the shaft. Large sections of roof and galleries have collapsed. Amid the ruins were found Mangled Bodies and Half-Burned Limbs. The ruins have blocked many parts of the mine and therefore the men searching for bodies are unable to give any definite idea of the number lost.

Several miners, who were just alive when found, died on their way to the surface, or shortly after being taken from the car. One rescue party reached the surface half suffocated by the heat and smoke caused by fresh outbreaks of the fire. The rescued miners believe that the explosion was caused by sparks from the engine house, which is said to have caught fire a few minutes before the explosion. Men were sent through the mines warning the laborers, and many of those nearest the shaft escaped. The miners who worked further from the shaft tried to rush through fire and smoke and were suffocated in the effort. The work of rescue will be continued, although there is little hope that more men will be taken out alive.

Manager Hutchinson of the Ban Furlong mine went down into the pit with one of the last rescue parties. In his anxiety to make a thorough search for the men he remained too long and was overcome by smoke. He was brought up, apparently lifeless, and was revived with difficulty.

STATUE OF GENERAL LOGAN

Will Be Cast in Bronze and Placed in a Prominent Position at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Logan monument commission, appointed to select a design for a monument to be erected in this city of General John A. Logan, have unanimously agreed upon a model designed by Franklin Simmons, the famous American, who resides in Rome. The monument selected from a large number submitted. It will be an equestrian statue, representing General Logan on a fiery steed, wearing the full uniform of a major general of volunteers. The statue will rest on a high pedestal. Both pedestal and statue will be of bronze, being in this respect different from any equestrian monument in this city. General Logan, in bronze, will look down on posterity from Iowa Circle, at the junction of Thirteenth street and Rhode Island avenue, N. W. The monument complete will cost $35,000. Mr. Simmons has cabled his acceptance of the proposition and will start from Rome within the next few weeks for the United States, to give personal attention to casting the statue, etc.

American Corn Abroad.

HAMBURG, Dec. 15.—Another mill has been started in this city for the purpose of grinding Indian corn exclusively. This is the third mill now running here which grinds nothing but Indian corn from America. The establishment of these mills is due to the efforts of Charles J. Murphy, the special agent of the United States agricultural department, who was sent to Europe to introduce Indian corn and to point out the various methods of preparing it.

Young Sent to Jail.

DOVER, N. H., Dec. 15.—Cyrus Young was arraigned at South Berwick, Me., before Trial Justice Oakes, charged with assault on Carrie Doty with intent to kill. He waived examination and was ordered to recognize in the sum of $500 for appearance at the January term of the supreme court. He was unable to obtain bail and was committed to jail.

Nihilists Suspected of Murder.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 15.—Colonel Davidoff was murdered at Kieff and the crime has caused a great sensation in military and official circles. Colonel Davidoff is known to have incurred the enmity of the Nihilists, and it is the general belief that some member of that party was his assassin.

Whole Cabinet Resigns.

QUEBEC, Dec. 15.—Hon. Mr. DeBoucherville, premier of Quebec, the successor of Count Mercier, resigned yesterday, and with him his whole government, because he refused to serve under Mr. Chapleau, who arrived here yesterday as the new lieutenant governor of Quebec.

Two Killed and Two Injured.

HAZELTON, Pa., Dec. 15.—An explosion of dynamite occurred at Milnesville last evening with terrible results. Thomas Walter and Michael Parrish were blown almost to atoms. Dominick Walter and Michael Maren were fatally injured.

CASE IS DISMISSED.

Fall River Mill Wins on the Fifty-Eight-Hour Question.

A DECISION ON TECHNICAL GROUNDS

Which Permits Manufacturers to Run Ten Hours a Day.

FALL River, Mass., Dec. 16.—In the Second district court Counsel A. J. Jennings filed an answer to the complaint charging the Union Cotton manufacturing company with violation of the fifty-eight-hour law. Counsel presented a motion, which was read and filed, which called for quashing the complaint on technicalities.

One important feature of the motion, which had much effect upon the court and which finally resulted in the discharge of the defendant, was in relation to the fifty-eight hour notice posted in the mills. The statute calls for such to be posted in each room, stating the hours of starting, stopping, etc. this to be attested by the chief of the state police and the attorney general.

The latter's signature was wanting in the present case, and the court dismissed the defendant on the ground that there was no obligation for the mill to run under the schedule mentioned, since it was not signed by nor attested by the attorney general.

The case involved the stability of the fifty-eight-hour law as it is enforced in the various workshops and mills of the state, and, according to the opinion of the justice.

The new statute referring to the shortening of the hours of labor for women and children, under the decision, becomes a dead letter, and the cotton mills of this and other cities can run ten hours per day, as of old, without molestation, until the breach in the enforcement is healed.

The Union Cotton Manufacturing company was charged by State Inspector of Factories Tierney with violating the fifty-eight-hour law in employing a woman more than fifty-eight hours a week. The testimony showed conclusively that the corporation did not run its machinery thirteen minutes over time. But Andrew J. Jennings, counsel for the concern, filed a motion to quash the complaint, setting forth ten points wherein he attacked the complaint in form and substance. He allowed that it was drawn according to the statutory provisions, but he claimed that the Statutes Were Radically Wrong.

The court in the first place overruled his motion to quash, and then evidence was submitted which was strong as above stated.

In his argument Mr. Jennings raised the point that it did not appear in evidence in the complaint that the printed notices posted in the mill, setting forth the time during which the mill should run, were furnished by the chief of the state police, or approved by the attorney general.

The statute specifically demands that these notices shall be furnished by the chief and approved by the attorney general. The notice was submitted in evidence, and upon its face there was nothing to show who fathered it or where it came from. The court.

Dismissed the Action

upon this ground and said that the charge against the corporation was that it had violated a certain provision which the statute intended should be posted according to law, but which was not.

Legally, there is no notice posted in the mills of the state, and, therefore, the chief of state police has not complied with the law. There being no notice, there could be no violation thereof.

This is the first case brought before the courts of the state under the new statute relative to the shortening of hours of labor of mill employees, and Mr. Jennings was prepared to fight into the tribunals of last resort if he had not been successful in the lower court.

Before the law can become operative new notices must be sent out by the chief of the state police, under the approval of the attorney general.

The decision is considered important, inasmuch as all the notices in the other mills are a reproduction of this one.

CONNECTICUT LAW.

One Section of It Is Decidedly Unsatisfactory to Lawyers and Other Persons.

HARTFORD, Dec. 16.—Richard Mansfield, the actor, has left the city with the impression that he had been robbed and blamed Connecticut law for aiding and abetting the crime. The box receipts of Wednesday night's performance were attached and only released on payment of about $1000 by Mr. Mansfield. The cause of action originated in England. A person there claimed to be Mr. Mansfield's agent, without warrant, the latter gentleman declares, and sued for 300 pounds. Through negligence of his English lawyers Mr. Mansfield lost his suit. Later the English judgment was assigned to a New York theatrical agent, who instituted proceedings in an American court.

The case came up last Saturday in New York, but as neither Mansfield nor any of his legal representatives were in court to defend the case, judgment was again rendered against the actor, this time by Judge Lawrence, and by advice of his counsel here the actor settled the case, since to endeavor to fight it in the courts would entail delay and monetary loss.

The actor expressed himself very forcibly on the injustice of the Connecticut law, that allows a man's property to be attached on the very first move in a legal proceeding. Mr. Mansfield's opinion is shared by a great many people, and lawyers are almost unanimous in condemning the law.

HON. LEOPOLD MORSE.

One of Boston's Leading Citizens Dies Suddenly of Paralysis.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Leopold Morse's generous heart is still. Just at the threshold of festivities, death made his presence known, and with a warning of only two hours the noble merchant passed away.

Mr. Morse was seated in a chair in the rotunda of the Hotel Vendome talking with many of his merchant friends, who had gathered to partake of the annual banquet prepared by the Merchants' club of Boston, of which Mr. Morse was an honored member. In the midst of speech his face suddenly turned pale and a look of mute appeal showed in his upturned eyes. In a feeble voice he said he felt sick, and a moment later his form, surrounded by anxious friends, lay lifeless and motionless in the office chair. It was paralysis.

Two physicians were called and after a hasty examination he was conveyed to his home, 238 Commonwealth avenue, only a few rods across the broad thoroughfare. A carriage was summoned and the stricken merchant was carried and placed within and driven to his own door, from which only a short time before he had emerged feeling as buoyant as any of the prosperous throng. He passed away two hours afterward.

Hon. Leopold Morse was born at Wachenheim, Bavaria, Aug. 15, 1831; consequently he was 61 years old. A few years afterward he located in Boston and engaged in the clothing business. During the first years of business he devoted himself exclusively to his work and let nothing interfere with it. He was enriched him to a large extent, so that soon after he turned his attention to politics. A life-long Democrat, he began to work for his party's interest after the war.

He served ten years in congress, five successive terms. He is the only Hebrew who has held the office of congressman from this state, and one of the few from any section of the country. He was talked of for governor for several years, but he preferred to remain in private life. His greatest hobbies in politics were tariff reform and civil service. At one time Mr. Morse was a large stockholder in the Boston Post. As a director he was elected president, and served in that capacity for several years.

BANK BOOK ASSIGNMENTS.

A Suit of Great Interest to Depositors in Savings Banks.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—An unusual legal question is involved in the equity suit brought by Daniel McCarthy against the Provident Institution for Savings and Loan, which was heard in the equity session of the superior court. An assignment of a bank book containing a deposit of $890 in the bank was made to McCarthy in February, 1890, by Sarah Donovan, the depositor. In some way the book got into the possession of the Donovan woman, who delivered it to Mrs. Barron. Afterward, the Donovan woman died and Mrs. Barron, on presenting the book, was given the amount of the deposit. McCarthy holds an assignment of the book given by the Donovan woman, and he now claims that the bank and Mrs. Barron are jointly liable to him for the amount of the deposit.

It appears that the Donovan woman, who was well along in years, desired the care and attention of someone, and, in consideration of McCarthy's giving her a maintenance during her life, she had assigned the book to him, but she also lived with Mrs. Barron.

The bylaws of the bank, which were signed by the Donovan woman, provide that the having possession of the bank book shall be deemed the only one legally entitled to withdraw the deposits. The Barron woman presented the book and she was paid the deposit. The bank claims that it is not liable, as the Donovan woman made the deposit subject to the rules of the bank, and the fact that she afterward assigned the book and delivered it does not make it liable when the book is presented by a different person from the assignee.

The court reserved its decision.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING CASE

Occupies the Attention of the United States Court at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 16.—In the United States district court the case of Alexander Cockran of Caribou, a laborer, charged with smuggling liquor into Caribou from the provinces, came up. Frank Drake, Jr., a young man of Caribou, testified that he saw Cockran buy seven bottles of whisky at Rogers' Hotel, five miles over the boundary line in the provinces. Cockran had treated the witness.

William Drake and Warren Drake also testified that they had seen the defendant buy whisky at Rogers' Hotel on various occasions. Further testimony revealed the fact that Cockran had testified against a relative of the Drakes in a liquor case before this court.

The defense maintained that these three witnesses, on account of this act, were prejudiced against Cockran, and so were witnesses against him. William K. Jencks, deputy collector of customs at Houlton, produced his import books which showed that Cockran had never paid duties on liquors. United States Marshal Hudson Saunders testified that Cockran, in conversation, had admitted to having smuggled small quantities of liquor.

The defense had no testimony to offer.

AN INTERESTING ROW.

Police Captain and a Lawyer Practically Charged with Aiding Crime.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 16.—Officers raided a disreputable house yesterday, in the day Captain Newell of the police force was arrested on the charge of frequenting the place and assault. His case was continued until Monday.

In the trial of the women, testimony was given that Captain Newell and James T. Lynch, a prominent local lawyer, were at the house Tuesday night and participated in a row, in which John Sullivan was clubbed and John Lewis badly beaten, Sullivan's injuries being liable to prove fatal.

Harry Hazard, a rough, reported to have been in the row, has disappeared. Captain Newell and Attorney Lynch deny the allegations, and their statements are supported by witnesses who prove an alibi for the accused.

Injuries Result Fatally.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Miss Katie Donahue, who was so terribly injured by a shifting train on the Maverick street crossing of the Boston and Maine railroad, died yesterday at the Massachusetts general hospital. Miss Della Barry, who was hurt at the same time, has but slight chance of recovery. Miss Barry is fearfully mangled above and below the knees of both legs, and injured internally.

HASTENED BY GRIEF.

Mr. Blaine's Disease is Making Rapid Progress.

NOW SAID TO BE KIDNEY TROUBLE.

It is Plainly Evident That He Will Never Recover Health.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Inquiry at Mr. Blaine's residence elicits simply the responses through an attendant that "Mr. Blaine's condition is about the same." From another source it is learned that his condition is less favorable than it was. There is no doubt that Mr. Blaine is very sick, and his condition excites the gravest fears. A person qualified to speak, by reason of relationship with the family, says:

"It is only within the past four days that Mr. Blaine's family have fully realized that the sands of his life are running out. At no period of his declining health, for some time past, has Mr. Blaine failed to appreciate that he was stricken with disease that must sooner or later terminate fatally, but with splendid courage he has Carefully Guarded the Secret from his family, and performed his duties, public and private. Mr. Blaine's disease is of the kidneys. Those organs become congested whenever he takes cold.

"Mr. Blaine is suffering from a cold contracted while out driving a few days ago. His throat and lungs are incessantly affected. Upon the occurrence of every relapse, such as the one from which he is now suffering, his vital powers show less and less recuperative energy. He is growing weaker and weaker as the days go by. He is emaciated as compared with his condition six days ago.

"Mr. Blaine now speaks upon the subject of death freely, and is preparing for the end. The death of three children within a comparatively brief period has sorely stricken him, and his grief has hastened the progress of his malady."

PROTECTION TO COASTERS

Is the Prime Object Embodied in Senator Frye's Transportation Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The bill introduced by Senator Frye last week, amending the existing terms relative to transportation of merchandise from one American port to another by foreign vessels, is aimed to prevent vessels from American from loading goods in American ports, transporting them to foreign ports and then bringing them again to the United States in discrimination against our coastwise trade. The bill, as favorably reported yesterday from the commerce committee by Senator Frye, prevents the transportation of merchandise from any foreign vessel from one United States port to another via any foreign port. Under the present laws it frequently happens that tramp and other foreign steamers load in one American port, carry the load to Europe, and after taking aboard foreign merchandise, return to another port here, where both cargoes are discharged.

Wants the English Plan Adopted.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 16.—Rev. John Brown proposes to present a bill in the general court to revise the liquor laws after the English plan, which licenses the building and not the keeper of a saloon. The high fee will be retained, but the measure will aim to remove restriction as to number and will invest granting power in a commission.

The Riotous Yale Men.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 16.—The Yale faculty was unable to dispose of the cases of the "riding" freshmen at a special meeting of the governing board. A number of the suspected students were examined, but no vote was taken in regard to the disposal of any of the cases. Another meeting will be called in a few days.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The McGarrahan and anti-option bills claimed the attention of the senate, but no decisions were reached. The senate adjourned until Monday. The house passed a bill to ratify and confirm an agreement with Kickapoo Indians in Oklahoma territory and regulating the liability of carriers.

No Wonder!

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—One of the causes of stringency in money yesterday was the payment of about $3,000,000 into the treasury of the General Electric company, the first payment on account of the subscription to the $9,000,000 bonds recently authorized by the company having fallen due.

Prosperous Spinners.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 16.—A meeting of the Spinners' association showed a remarkable financial condition. The treasurer reported $29,000 in local banks, the limit allowed unchartered organizations, and several thousands in Taunton, New Bedford and Boston banks.

Elected by One Plurality.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 16.—In the supreme court the vote for Merrimack county officers was declared according to the declarations of the moderators in the several towns and wards, by which James F. Fellows of Andover, Republican, is elected sheriff by one plurality.

Peru Adopts a Gold Standard.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The bureau of the American Republics is informed that the Peruvian government has issued a decree establishing a gold standard and limiting the coinage of silver to 4,000,000 soles. The maximum legal tender in silver has been fixed at 20 soles.

Colonel Shepard Wins.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The jury in the Gray-Shepard suit returned a verdict in favor of Colonel Shepard. A motion for a new trial was denied, and an allowance was granted to the defendant of 5 per cent. upon $14,000.

Was Nipped in the Bud.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Chief Drummond of the secret service, in his annual report, refers to the discovery and frustration by his officers of an attempt to loot a United States sub-treasury.

Certain Firemen and Assistant Engineers

Petition for Increase of Pay.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held Thursday evening, but being an "off night" the attendance of citizens was small. Twenty of the Councilmen were present and considerable business was transacted, although the session was but eighty minutes long. The absentees were Messrs. DeWitt, Feltner and Morton.

Among the interested spectators were some of the new Councilmen-elect, including Charles H. Johnson and Robert J. Williams of Ward Two, and John H. Rooney and Peter J. Donahoe of Ward Four.

A communication of Mayor Fairbanks requested a transfer of $350 from interest to the police account. An order making the transfer was read once and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Another communication requested a transfer of $600 from interest to election expenses, and like action was taken.

Upon request by the Old Colony Railroad the Mayor appointed Joseph A. Theroux the Atlantic station agent as railroad police. Appointment confirmed.

A communication of the Mayor forwarded a communication of Chief Engineer Ripley recommending an increase of pay for the members of Hose 2 and 4 and of Chemical 2, and of the Assistant Engineers in Wards Two, Five and Six, each from $37.50 to $50 per annum; also a petition of Messrs. Brown, Barry and Collins of the permanent force from $10 to $17. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

A communication of the Mayor requested authority to sell the present fire station and also the house on the new location. Referred to Committee on public buildings.

The Treasurer's statement to December 1 was received and referred to Committee on Finance.

A communication from the School Committee requested a transfer of $35 from evening common schools and $200 from teaching to various school accounts. An order making the transfers was passed.

Upon notice, the following were drawn as traverse jurors for the January term: Daniel Flowers, Thomas F. Burke and J. B. F. Ramsdell.

Minor Petitions.

Applications of Charles L. Holbrook for State aid, and John Keilher to collect junk, were referred to appropriate committees.

Election Returns.

The committee on elections reported the result of the municipal election as corrected by the recount, and the result was declared in accordance therewith. Mayor Fairbanks plurality was 29 as shown in the election count, the recount making no change.

Financial Policy.

The Standing Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the order of the Council relative to "some systematic plan of finance for the city," having duly considered the order, report:

That a careful study of the financial resources and requirements of the city has brought your committee to the conclusion, that in making time loans against the borrowing capacity of the city, great care should be had that the amounts to fall due each year should be so apportioned as not to create any wide difference in the rate of taxation for succeeding years.

The plan of liquidation by process of a sinking fund does not commend itself to your committee in this particular case, in consequence of the extraordinary addition of the official department, which would be necessary to put such plan in operation and maintain it, more especially as the present plan of issuing notes or bonds to be retired at certain fixed dates within the time required by law seems to answer every requirement in this direction, and is entirely free from expensive detail.

With regard to the reserving of a portion of the debt limit for emergencies, your committee recommend that only under stringently urgent circumstances should the entire borrowing capacity of the city be made use of and then only when a considerable part of the city debt will almost immediately fall due and be paid.

In view of the fact that the present debt of the city will fall due and be payable in such sums and at such times as will create an unnecessary large rate of taxation for some of the years in the near future, your committee urgently recommend:

That such legislation be had as will set forward a part of the debt which is to fall due in the year 1893 in about the following amounts, viz: $3,000 to the year 1897, $5,000 to the year 1898, $7,000 to the year 1899 and $7,000 to the year 1900, and that future appropriations be so made that the sums which shall fall due and be payable in any one year shall not be more in the aggregate than an amount equal to 12 1/2 per cent. of the total debt limit of the city for the year in which such appropriations are made.

A considerable saving of interest can be made if all notes and bonds of the city be made payable in November and December of each year, thereby reducing the amount necessary to be borrowed in anticipation of taxes.

Report laid on table.

Legacies to Next Council.

The following matter upon recommendation of committees were referred to the City Council of 1893:

Petition for Ward rooms in Ward Three.

Petition for public landing places on shore.

Communication of School Committee for new High school.

Statement of Auditor relative to land taken for taxes.

Petitions for Hose house and ward room in Ward Two; petition for Hose house in Ward Four.

Petitions to lay out Tolman street and Miller Street road.

Appropriation Passed.

The Finance Committee reported that the order appropriating $100 additional for Board of Health ought to pass. Passed to be ordained.

Police Ordinance.

The police ordinance came up for its final passage, and by a vote of 16 to 4 was passed to be ordained. The vote:

YEAS--Bass, Bryant, Cunningham, Fallon, Hammond, Holden, Holt, Litchfield, Little, Moxon, Newcomb, Pratt, Rinn, Sherman, Thompson and Warner--16.

NAYS--Curtis, Feltner, Jr., Gray and Powers--4.

Land for Road Plant.

The Committee on Finance reported an order authorizing a lease of land of Terrance Keenan for a road plant for a term of ten years at an annual rental of $125, the same to be charged to annual appropriation for highways.

Leave to Withdraw.

The following petitioners for additional damages on the Water street widening were granted leave to withdraw: Merry Mount Granite Co., William S. Williams and Mrs. S. Kincaide.

Also H. E. Chickering for State Aid.

State Aid Voted.

Stephen Keegan was granted $6 per month State Aid upon recommendation of the committee.

Edward A. Brown was granted $3 per month and his wife $2 per month.

Inexpedient to Insure.

The Committee on Finance reported inexpedient relative to insuring school buildings. Accepted.

Finances All Right.

The monthly statement of the Auditor was reported correct and placed on file.

Authorized to Settle.

The Committee on Claims recommended reference to the executive with authority to settle the claim of Miss Mary Mead for damages.

Cross Street.

The Committee on Streets reported that the order appropriating $500 for Cross street between Miller and Willard streets ought to pass. Ordered to second reading.

The petition for that part between Cope and Miller streets was referred to the next Council.

Park Street.

The Committee on Streets reported that the order laying out Park street ought to pass. Ordered to second reading.

Adjourned suddenly at 9.05 without completing all the business on hand.

Reunion of Mountaineers.

At jolly reunion of Russell House Mountaineers, Wednesday evening at the Park House, Boston, the following prominent Quincy people were present: President Thompson of the City Council and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Mr. John Shaw, Mr. Rufus Foster, Miss Foster and Miss Lella C. Ordway. The gathering consisted of some forty-five sojourners at North Woodstock, N. H., this fall.

Mr. Joshua Penning of Wakefield presided over the board as toast master and delivered a bright original poem.

Among toasts responded to were "Forestry," by Mr. James Thompson; "Snapslots," by Miss Ordway, and the customary good-natured remarks that usually follow the rising of Messrs. Tisdale and Foster upon a post-prandial occasion.

Burchsted of Beverly Farms responded to the toast of "The Ladies."

Representations were present from Boston, Cambridge, Wakefield, Beverly, Fall River, and there is added to the list of White Mountain tourists another gathering of those who find pleasure in mid-winter reminiscences of the beauties and grandeur of the Penikese Island Valley.

At the present time the whole number of double stars known and recorded by astronomers is something over 10,000, far exceeding the number of stars visible to the naked eye in the entire firmament (about 6000) and others are being frequently discovered by the great telescopes now in existence.

A scientific writer says that if people on the star Sirius have telescopes powerful enough to distinguish objects on this planet and are looking at it now they are witnessing the destruction of Jerusalem, which took place over 1800 years ago. Of course, the reason of this is that the light which the world reflects, travelling, as it does, at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, would take over 18 centuries to reach the nearest fixed star.

With regard to the reserving of a portion of the debt limit for emergencies, your committee recommend that only under stringently urgent circumstances should the entire borrowing capacity of the city be made use of and then only when a considerable part of the city debt will almost immediately fall due and be paid.

In view of the fact that the present debt of the city will fall due and be payable in such sums and at such times as will create an unnecessary large rate of taxation for some of the years in the near future, your committee urgently recommend:

That such legislation be had as will set forward a part of the debt which is to fall due in the year 1893 in about the following amounts, viz: $3,000 to the year 1897, $5,000 to the year 1898, $7,000 to the year 1899 and $7,000 to the year 1900, and that future appropriations be so made that the sums which shall fall due and be payable in any one year shall not be more in the aggregate than an amount equal to 12 1/2 per cent. of the total debt limit of the city for the year in which such appropriations are made.

A considerable saving of interest can be made if all notes and bonds of the city be made payable in November and December of each year, thereby reducing the amount necessary to be borrowed in anticipation of taxes.

NEW BRASEE BUILDING.

A Description of the New Business Block and Society Hall at Wollaston.

The new Brasee Building at Wollaston, which is to be dedicated to the uses of the Knights of Honor, Knights and Ladies of Honor and Royal Arcanum, this evening, is a great addition to Wollaston from an architectural point of view.

The building, which was designed by Mr. I. Howland Jones and built by Mr. George E. Thomas, was studied from some of the old buildings found in Brittany and Normandy, with their projecting stories and overhanging gables, the small panes of glass set in white sashes in the windows carry out the idea of a quaint old-fashioned building. The whole building, to carry out the architect's ideas, is shingled, and will not be stained, but left to turn a silver gray with the weather.

The first floor of the building is devoted to stores, there being two. The store at the corner of Brook street and Newport avenue is to be occupied by Mr. Charles R. Sherman, the general manager of the Wollaston Land Company, as an office. This office is 30 by 32, with a private office leading from it, 15 by 10. Both offices are finished in natural wood. The other store is occupied by John Litchfield & Co., grain dealers, and is 80 by 30.

The entrance to the Knights of Honor hall is on Brook street. The entrance hall is 10 by 12, finished in hard pine. The staircase leads from this to the upper hall, from which opens an entry to two dressing rooms, and the staircase to the kitchen, which is over the dressing rooms. Each dressing room is furnished with a set bowl and a toilet room.

The kitchen, which is 15 by 20 is connected with the hall below with a large dumb waiter. The kitchen is supplied with all the culinary conveniences that a chef could want. The small hall with which the kitchen is connected by a dumb waiter is so constructed that it can be screened off and used as a serving room.

The small hall opens directly into a large hall or lodge room. This hall is 32 by 45, and is finished with open timber roof, all of the trusses, rafters and boarding being exposed to view and stained to represent old oak. The general idea of the hall was suggested by some of the halls of old English houses with their big timbers now turned dark with age, quite different from the halls in this country where everything is either covered with a smooth white coat of plaster and paint and where any woodwork that has to show is cased up with clear boards instead of letting the real construction show with its knots and cracks, and uneven color which is really the most pleasing finish. The walls are plastered and tinted an olive shade.

The floor, which is of rift hard pine blind nailed, is the finest floor in the city. The Wollaston club has secured the hall on that account for its subscription parties. The hall has a seating capacity of 325.

The building is lighted throughout by electricity, and heated by steam.

How They Robbed the Marquis.

In the old range cattle boom days, when money from foreign lands was pouring into the west like water, there were a good many sharp tricks practiced in delivering cattle. It is recalled that the Marquis de Mores, who tried to cut such a conspicuous figure as a revolutionizer of the American meat trade, and who later became notorious as a duelist, was badly sold. While in Dakota he bought 10,000 head of cattle from two Englishmen. They were first class cattle and cost forty dollars a head. When these two Britons delivered the cows they worked one of the nearest "skin" games that was ever heard of. Medora, you know, sits in a valley, with table lands on each side.

Well, the Englishmen ran 5,000 head of cattle in the marquis and collected for 10,000. The way they did it was by running the same 5,000 twice around the hill. De Mores never "tumbled" until he had paid his $400,000 and the merry cockneys were bound for South America. It was a clear steal of $200,000, but the marquis didn't make much bones about it. He had plenty of money and didn't care. --Chicago Drovers' Journal.

The Sensations of Battle.

A gentleman who was distinguished in the war of the rebellion for his personal bravery, and who fought in some of the most bloody battles, was recently asked just how it felt to be under fire.

"Shall I tell you just how a battle affects me?" he asked, smiling. "It is not elegant, but it is at least true."

"Yes," was the reply, "tell us exactly what it is like."

"I can only speak of my own feelings," the old soldier said, "but as far as the effect on me personally goes, a battle is like a champagne drink."

"You mean that it is so exciting?" the questioner asked.

"I mean," was the reply, "that there is first an intense and glorious excitement, and then after that comes a most undignified, but inevitable nausea. I was never in battle in my life without being seasick afterward." --Boston Courier.

Great Men and Their Policies.

Suppose the Marquis of Salisbury or Mr. Gladstone were this night to become conscientiously convinced that the party of which he is the mouthpiece is the party of false doctrines, and had the courage to say so. What howls there would be from a hundred platforms! Does any one doubt that the men who defy today would crucify tomorrow? Each particular section of the British public likes to have its own particular pipe, and it insists on calling the tune. Let the piper play a tune of his own, and there is a sudden change of pipers. --All the Year Round.

Westendard-Newcomb.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the Neck on Thursday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Newcomb, on Howard street.

The contracting parties were Miss Cora A. Newcomb, granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret Newcomb, and Mr. Henry W. Westendard of Wollaston.

The house was prettily decorated with holly and evergreen and the bridal couple stood under an arch of the same.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of white china silk, trimmed with crepe de chene, and looked exceedingly lovely, and the groom added his share to the attractiveness of the scene.

Miss Rose E. Day, and Miss Mabel Stokes of Dorchester, officiated as ushers. The former was dressed in a gown of light blue albatross, with steel trimmings, and the latter wore black lace and scarlet. Both of these young ladies added much to the grace of the occasion.

Caterer Wales served an excellent supper to the guests. The presents were exceptionally well chosen.

The newly wedded couple left the same evening on a ten days' trip, which will include New York and other places of interest. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Westendard will reside in Lynn, for the present. They have the good wishes of their many friends for a long and happy life.

Finding Lost Baggage.

It was on the Stormy division of the C. B. and Q. it happened, when Superintendent Dugan's jurisdiction embraced that division. The east bound passenger train, then called the Cannon Ball, had on board five corpses, through from Denver, in charge of the train baggage man. It was in June, and the weather was hot. The baggage man finding the atmosphere in the baggage car becoming undesirable moved three boxes containing a corpse each to the platform of his car outside, one on top of the other.

MILTON.

There will be a Christmas concert at the Congregational church Sunday evening, Dec. 25.

Miss Mary Leary celebrated her birthday last Wednesday evening, by the gathering of a number of her friends at her residence on Granite street. Games, singing and supper served to make the evening pass in a pleasant manner. Miss Leary received a number of handsome presents.

The Jones associates have elected these officers: President, William Barron; Vice-President, Thomas Callahan; Treasurer, James Barry; Secretary, Thomas Forbes.

The M. U. Club has elected these officers: President, George Hatheway; Vice-President, James Gallagher; Treasurer, Walter Bates; Secretary, Robert Robertson.

Mrs. William Robertson is sick with rheumatic fever.

The show windows of T. L. Pearce and Kemp & Tisdale look very attractive.

Atlantic Social.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society had a bad night for its social, Wednesday, but a good sized company were present. The "C" supper was a great success and the entertainment very pleasing. Especially noticeable were the cornet solos of Prof. Boardman of Boston, and the readings of Mrs. Willis-Hurse. These two are real artists, and when, as they do occasionally, give an evening from their professional work to Atlantic, they always meet a rousing welcome. Mention ought to be made of the excellent work of Mrs. Coe and Mr. Phineas Coombs on piano and cornet.

Christmas Carol.

Miss Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Birds Christmas Carol" has been dramatized and was seen on the stage for the first time in this city at the sociable given in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian Church, Thursday evening. Miss Marion Sherman took the part of Mrs. Ruggles and was ably supported by a strong company of young folks. Besides the Christmas carol the large audience was entertained by this programme:

Violin Solo, Miss Beatrice Key
Piano duet, Miss Phalen, Miss Corthell
Song, Miss Lulu Phalen
Harmonica Solo, Mr. Herbert W. Dunbar Good night march, Six Little Girls

Deficient Collegians.

Messrs. Charles Francis Adams, E. L. Godkin and Josiah Quincy have decided that the students who enter Harvard are deficient in English and that a more thorough training must be given them in that department. This decision was the result of careful investigation on their part. Nothing was said in their report, however, on spelling, but if the developments in a recent case in the city courts here is any sample, there would seem to be equal need of that. The lawyer who warrants a horse free from "decease" when he means "decease," has a better knowledge of phonetics than orthography.—Journal.

Holiday Number.

The January Godey's Magazine will be one of the finest specimens of periodical literature ever brought out. The frontispiece, printed in twelve colors, from a water color painting by W. Granville Smith, illustrating the complete novel, A Christmas Witch, by Gertrude Atherton, is a feature never before attempted. There are also many special and brilliant features in this number. Every book lover should have this issue of Godey's.

Owing to the rush of holiday trade at the stores of Saville & Jones, Granite Clothing Co., and D. E. Wadsworth in Adams building, they will be open every evening, Sunday excepted, until after Christmas.

Mr. Corthell has secured from the author an autograph copy of "America," which will be framed and presented to the Wollaston School. He has now twenty-eight pledges for large pictures and busts towards the forty-two desired.

"Well, Tommy," said the visitor, "how do you like your baby brother?" "Oh, lots and lots—only I don't think he's very bright." "Why not?" "We've had him 'most two weeks now, and he hasn't said a word to anybody."

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following—Banquet Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 33 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rockers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Slide Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaid & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston prices.

THE BALLOT RECOMMENDED

As the Weapon to Be Used by Labor in Fights Against Capital.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15.—In the Federation of Labor convention a plan to consolidate local labor unions was referred to the committee on laws. A special committee was appointed for the consideration of methods for limiting to their proper functions the military and judicial powers, which it was resolved had been used in contravention of law and government during recent labor encounters. Another resolution on the same topic was reported favorably, providing that as the strike and boycott had failed as weapons of organized labor, that a campaign of education should be inaugurated by the federation, and the irresistible power of the ballot should be arrayed in the struggle for union supremacy. For this purpose the executive council was recommended to use the funds of the federation as should be found necessary. The resolution was referred to the special committee preceding, with several others aiming against the militia.

Numerous other resolutions were introduced, and among them were the following: "Favoring the assistance of labor men in the inspection of certificates of returning Chinese;" "Prohibiting Japanese immigration;" "For a congressional investigation of the cause of Alameda street;" "For establishing friendly relations with the Knights of Labor;" "Favoring the opening of schoolhouses for public meetings;" "For the removal of federation headquarters west of Cincinnati;" "For the organization of the labor problem in public schools."

A breeze over the tariff was provoked by a negative report on a resolution asking an extra session of congress for the passage of free trade legislation. An attempt was made to discuss the resolution, but the chair decided that any discussion on the tariff was not germane to the issues before the federation, and that the resolution was out of order.

A LETTER FROM MILLS

Denying Statements Credited to Him Regarding Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Senator Mills of Texas sent the following letter to E. Ellery Anderson, president of the Reform club, regarding the Crisp incident:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14, 1892. Colonel E. Ellery Anderson, President Reform Club. DEAR SIR:—It is stated in the New York Sun of the 13th inst., that I said to several Democrats Saturday afternoon of the 10th inst. "Speaker Crisp has come to town with a speech prepared, but I know that he will not have an opportunity to deliver it." And the Tribune of the same date says that I am reported to have said: "Crisp has got a speech ready to deliver at the Reform club dinner to night, and has given it out to the press, but he won't get a chance to fire it off. He will find that this isn't his show."

Both of these statements are false, wholly so. I never knew that Mr. Crisp was invited to speak or had a speech prepared, or that he was invited to the dinner, or that he was in the city until I sat down to the table and saw his name on the program and the seat he was to occupy. He soon appeared on the stand, I advanced and shook hands with him, and found him in the seat set apart for him. I learned for the first time in the papers Sunday morning that he was indignant at his treatment, and said then and there that I do not believe the club or any of its officers intended to show him the slightest disrespect, and I have no more connection with the matter than the moon in the moon.

Speaker Crisp declines to discuss the Anderson letter or to give it out for publication. His reply will probably not be long delayed.

Senate Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The senate, in executive session, confirmed the following postmasters: Maine—William H. Rich, Berwick. Massachusetts—V. B. Townsend, Quinsigamung. C. H. Riley, Dedham. H. H. Johnson, Haverhill. W. C. Hinman, Great Barrington. J. C. Cooper, Chester. J. B. Parsons, Attleboro Falls. James Pettie, Jr., South Abington. W. A. Torrey, South Braintree. Connecticut—D. B. Wood, Watertown. H. E. Carpenter, East Hampton. Rhode Island—C. N. Brown, Woonsocket. A. K. Goodwin, Pawtucket.

The Hennevey Millions.

DEBHAM, Mass., Dec. 15.—In the Norfolk probate court Judge White allowed the account of Charles P. Hennevey, William B. Bacon and Charles J. Norris, as trustees under the will of Augustus Hennevey of Milton, of certain real estate held by them for the benefit of Mary Hennevey, Amy Hennevey Cabot, Edith Hennevey Eustis and Augustus Hennevey, and was for $5,393,897.11.

Americans Are Barred, Too.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Mr. Peters, secretary of the North Atlantic Steamship association, has telegraphed to the representative of the United Press that the decision not to carry storage passengers on the vessels belonging to the association after January, 1893, applies to American citizens and residents of the United States as well as to persons who have never been in America.

Talked About Quay.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15.—At a session of the state senate, Patrons of Husbandry delegates offered a resolution denouncing Senator Quay for neglect of official duties, and endorsing ex-Representative A. L. Taggart for the United States senate. Friends of Quay and Taggart succeeded in having the resolutions laid on the table.

Kansas Farmers Glad to See Snow.

EMPORIA, Kan., Dec. 15.—The heaviest snow experienced here for years covers the earth to a depth of nearly a foot. It is too heavy to drift, and is worth thousands of dollars to the farmers, as it will be a fine covering for the wheat and will saturate the ground when it melts.

Mr. Merriam Accepts.

HARTFORD, Dec. 15.—The professorship of practical theology in Hartford seminary, lately held by Professor Graham Taylor of Chicago, has been accepted by Rev. Alexander R. Merriam, late of Grand Rapids, Mich., who will enter on his new duties Jan. 1.

Merits Severe Punishment.

MARBLEHEAD, Ind., Dec. 15.—The grand jury returned a bill believed to be indictments against persons in this locality for desecration of soldiers' graves, as the jury was charged only with the investigation of that matter.

License Vote Stands.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Dec. 15.—The license votes cast in the last municipal election were recounted yesterday afternoon. The ward office returned 1747 yes and 1735 no, while the recount showed 1751 yes and 1738 no.

Coal Trains Collide.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 15.—Two east-bound coal trains collided at Alleghen, on the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad. Nine cars of coal caught fire. No one was hurt.

A WOMAN'S ADVICE.

For two whole years Captain Jumpson had been the idol of the spinsters of Bunborough-by-the-Sea. Chery, good natured and good looking, his private means were limited, if they existed at all, and his pay was insufficient to enable him to indulge any of those expensive tastes which lure young men from the miller delights of tea and tennis. He neither hunted in winter nor played polo in summer, and he was always ready to dance half the night at the Bunborough balls. He really was a very nice man indeed, every one agreed that he would make a very nice husband for any one of the young ladies of Bunborough to whom he might finally determine to offer himself, and for two years he distributed his favors freely, but with almost absolute impartiality.

"There is safety in numbers and the coward knows it," said Miss Grayson, of the Valley cottage, to Maud Oakley, who had been unbending her soul to her. Miss Grayson was the kindest of elderly ladies where young people's love affairs were concerned, and Maud Oakley had known her since she (Maud, not Miss Grayson) was a baby. "Cowards!" said Miss Grayson again under breath, and Miss Oakley sniffed deprecatingly. She had been talking to Miss Grayson for an hour, and had told her sympathetic listener a good deal that was, in the language of the vulgar, "stale news."

Miss Grayson was quite aware (all Bunborough might have told her) that Captain Jumpson had quite recently shown a distinct preference for the Oakley family. He dined there whenever he was asked and had won General Oakley's confidence by delicately expressing unbounded belief in his stories—not always an easy task; he had been most attentive to old Mrs. Oakley during supper time at several balls, and his visits to the house for 5 o'clock tea had not been limited by invitations issued to him or confined to those occasions when General and Mrs. Oakley were at home; but there were two Miss Oakleys, and to which of them Captain Jumpson intended his attentions to be devoted was a question which Bunborough-by-the-Sea would have liked to have answered. It was not strange, however, that the public were puzzled when Maud Oakley had had to confess to Miss Grayson that she had no very distinct idea whether her sister Geraldine or herself was preferred by the man to whom she had unreservedly lost her heart, though she admitted she had her fears.

"Geraldine has Dr. Coverdale," said Maud. "She would be quite happy with him."

"Quite so," said Miss Grayson. "It never rains but it pours."

Maud wondered whether it had ever "poured" with suitors in Miss Grayson's young days and said nothing. "Can't we make Dr. Coverdale propose to her?" said Miss Grayson.

"And Geraldine accept him?" added Maud doubtfully. Miss Grayson was a determined looking old lady, but even she seemed to consider the project impracticable. "Did you ever try boohoo with any one?" said Miss Grayson.

"What?" said Maud. "Boohoo, boohoo, boohoo!" cried Miss Grayson excitedly, and the elderly lady who had selected the precise moment to be announced by Miss Grayson's pretty little parlor maid very nearly turned and fled. She came in, however, and her impression that Miss Grayson had gone demented was confirmed by the apparently imbecile laughter with which her greeting was received.

Maud rose to leave, and Miss Grayson, who had recovered her presence of mind sufficiently to inquire after her new visitor's husband (he had been dead seven years), accompanied her to the front door. "Don't you understand, you silly child!" she said, kissing her affectionately on the doorstep. "Cry, cry, cry your eyes out; not one of the wretches in a baker's dozen of them can stand tears." And the kind old lady returned to pacify a justly indignant widow, while Miss Oakley walked home with a light breaking slowly in on her as she pondered the somewhat enigmatical advice she had received.

Meanwhile Captain Jumpson was striding down the flinty road leading from the barracks to Bunborough as if he trod on air. He scarcely knew how he had transferred himself from uniform to his newest muff, but between his beating heart and the tread coat which formed its outermost covering he could feel the communication which had that afternoon altered the course of his career forever. "On her majesty's service" it had arrived, and "on her majesty's service" it informed him he was expected to proceed forthwith to a somewhat distant portion of her dominions, where, in return for a salary exceeding his wildest dreams, he was to perform duties as to which he still felt vague. But they probably included the dispensation of substantial justice with lavish hand to sundry swarthy fellow subjects, and the instruction of the male portion of the population in the use of obsolete weapons and the evolutions of an improved drill.

The climate—well, every one has its own, and Government House and his society would reconcile Geraldine Oakley to a bursting thermometer and a diet of quinine. She could have her sister to stay with her if she felt lonely. He was quite fond of Maud, though of course she did not care for him. Did she not always retire when he came to tea and leave him alone with her elder sister, and always refuse to give him more than four dances in one evening? But Geraldine was different. Dr. Coverdale would do very well for Maud when Geraldine was gone. There she was—Maud, not Geraldine—standing on the top step waiting for him as he almost ran up the garden walk.

"How do you do?" she said shyly as she ushered him into the drawing room. "I will go and tell Geraldine you are here."

He was delighted. Could anything have been more thoughtful? But, oddly enough, she did not go. She sat down, on the contrary, and began fingering a "chair back" nervously.

"It is a fine day," she said, and then stored.

"Hang it!" he thought. "I meant to tell Geraldine the news first, but there's no harm in beginning with her."

So he began, pulling out his official letter to show her.

"I have come, Miss Oakley, to tell you some news and ask you to congratulate me."

"What!" she exclaimed, "are you engaged to be married?"

"Oh, no!" he answered, "not exactly—that is, not yet—in fact I mean not exactly."

And he got very red, and so, curiously enough, did she. She looked very pretty blushing, and with her lower lip quivering a little. Geraldine was not so pretty as Maud, he admitted to himself as he looked at her; but so much the better.

Geraldine would be all the less likely to flirt, if that is, there was any one at Government House to flirt with.

"No," he said; "it's the appointment I told you (or was it your sister's) my uncle was trying to get for me—the very thing I have been wanting."

And he proceeded to paint the charms of the new career opening before him in glowing colors. He said nothing about the quinine. When he came to an end of all the details she was sitting, with an expression of deep interest, looking at him, and he felt that had she only been Geraldine the very moment would have arrived—that precise opportunity, not always easy to obtain, particularly in a small villa. "And so," he said, feeling he must bring his tale to a conclusion and give her an excuse for going to fetch her sister—"and so, Miss Oakley, I leave Bunborough very soon, and have come to say goodbye."

"Good—good—boohoo!"

She did not hit the precise note which had startled Miss Grayson's visitor, but the effect on him was even more electrifying.

"My God!" he murmured.

"Boo—hoo, boo—hoo—o!" And she buried her head in the sofa cushions.

For a minute he said nothing; his first inarticulate outcry to her died on his lips before her storm of grief, so he bit his mustache in silence. Then the front door slammed. Miss Geraldine Oakley was going out for a walk, totally unaware of his arrival. Could he stop her? He could hardly open the window and shout. He moved toward the drawing room door, but he had to pass the sofa, and as he did so the girl on it rose, as if she, too, half dazed, was seeking a way of escape, and as their hands met on the door handle she sank sobbing into his arms.

"Don't, don't!" she whispered, hardly articulating, but he was doing nothing from which he could desist, for he could scarcely let her drop on the floor.

"Good God!" said Captain Jumpson again; "will no one come?" But the house was still, and he reflected that perhaps it was as well that no one should come in at that precise juncture—at all events, not without warning—and so there was another pause, broken only by her sobs. He could see her sister through the muslin blinds; she was looking over the garden gate talking to some one. Would she change her mind and bring whoever it was in to tea? If she did Maud would surely hear them entering the house and retreat. But Geraldine stood talking at the gate.

Only the rector wore a high hat at Bunborough-by-the-Sea and Dr. Coverdale.

"Click!" went the garden gate as Geraldine passed into the sunny roadway.

"Boohoo!" It was a very gentle one this time from somewhere near his watch pocket.

"Click!" went the garden gate as it swung back on its hinges.

And Captain Jumpson surrendered at discretion.—St. James Budget.

Mr. Locke's Fortunate Find.

I. N. Locke, of Wayne county, was formerly an active trader. In May, 1872, he was in Chicago, and bought a lot for a small sum. He put the deed in an envelope and placed it in his pocket with other papers. A few days afterward, while getting into his buggy, he lost the envelope and all its contents. He advertised for it, but really cared only for the notes, thinking the lot of little value. John Ritchey, a victim of softening of the brain, was wandering aimlessly on the street the day Locke lost his papers. He found them and laid them away, and even after his death no notice was taken of the supposed worthless papers.

About ten days ago John Ritchey found the package and gave it to Mr. Locke, and through his attorneys his claim has been established. Had the deed remained concealed a few days longer the twenty years would have expired and no claim would have been allowable. It is a lot in the boulevard addition, and the parties occupying it have given Mr. Locke $20,000 for a quit claim.—Indianapolis News.

The Coming Car.

We believe that cable road practice has reached the stage where but little room is left for improvement. They have been developed, improved and operated by the best engineering skill which the country affords. Nearly all are on a good dividend paying basis, but whatever the past experience of the two systems has been, or whatever the present status of the two may be, we are only voicing the convictions of well informed engineers when we say that electric systems will continue to increase in efficiency (by which is meant earning capacity) until all rivals are distanced, and only one method of rapid transit is recognized—the electric car.—Electrical Engineer.

Recently Mr. Justice Grantham excused a man who pleaded that he was deaf in his left ear. No sooner had he done so than another sought similar relief on account of deafness in his right ear. He, too, had to be excused, but the learned judge wittily remarked that had he known beforehand that two such applications would be made he would have kept both men in the box to supply each other's deficiencies.—London Tit-Bits.

Recovered After Many Years.

The unearthing of a large quantity of stolen silverware, gold lined snuff-boxes, etc., in a cave near Jasper, Tenn., has created a sensation. The story bears fiction a long way. During the winter of 1862-4 the Federal soldiers were encamped for some time on Battle creek. Among them was an Ohio regiment. Not long since a gentleman appeared in the neighborhood and told the following story:

He was a member of the Ohio regiment referred to, and in his mess was a soldier who was a born thief, and who never let an opportunity pass to steal anything he could carry. During the time they were encamped at the mouth of Battle creek he hid his stealings in a cave, and so clever was he in his work that no suspicion ever fell upon him. A short time ago the two old comrades were together talking over their experiences, when the story of the stolen silverware was told and the request made that the gentleman referred to visit the locality, search for the cave, and, if possible, recover the hidden silverware and restore the articles to the rightful owners or their heirs.

The old soldier who had so many years ago gone wrong is getting aged and feeble, and to ease his conscience and make reparation, as far as in his power, he begged his old commander to do this for him. He was successful in finding not only the place, but the plunder. At least 200 pounds of silverware of every kind almost was found in the cave, ranging from napkin rings to solid silver water sets. Many of the articles have the owners' initials on them, and all are in a state of good preservation. The articles have been taken to a store in the village near by, and are being turned over to those entitled to them as rapidly as possible.—Cor. Houston Post.

Ex-Governor Merryweather, of Kentucky, attained the age of ninety-three recently. Besides serving the Blue Grass State as its chief magistrate, he was also United States senator, succeeding Henry Clay in that office.

A REVEREND MOTHER SPEAKS

The Reverend Mother of the Convent of the Holy Family, Baltimore, Md., writes that she can speak in only the highest terms of the Kickapoo Indian Remedies, and that she keeps a supply of each kind constantly on hand for the year round, as for several years they have stood the test in every case. "The health of two hundred children under my care is paramount to everything else, and fever, cold, and cough is seldom known, thanks to the Kickapoo Indian Oil and Cough Cure; while the Kickapoo Indian Salve and the Kickapoo Indian Worm Killer have often proved their effectiveness."

Enslavement.

All constraint Except what wisdom lays on evil men is evil; hurts the faculties, impedes their progress in the road of science, blinds the sight of discovery and begets in those that suffer it a morbid mind, bestial, a meager intellect, unfit to be the tenant of man's noble form.

Cold Nerve in a Robber.

The bold thief who a few weeks ago tried to kill Charles Wonnell when the latter refused to quietly submit to seeing his house robbed returned to Wonnell's house about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and knocking at Mr. Wonnell's window until he was aroused made a proposition to sell the watch secured upon the night of the burglary. Wonnell replied that he couldn't buy the watch then if he wanted to, as he had no money in the house, and added that he did not care to buy the watch back.

"Well," replied the man, "side the window, 'you will surely give something for it. Will you give me ten dollars for it?"

Wonnell asked how he knew it was the stolen watch, and was told that a brother knight in Wonnell's lodge, K. of H., had told him that it was, and that it had the proper initials engraved upon it. The man said he had bought the watch, but refused to give his name, saying when asked, "Oh, you wouldn't know me if I told you my name." Wonnell finally told the man that if he would leave the watch at Frank Hosbrook's grocery he (Wonnell) would leave ten dollars at the door.

The man departed, but the watch was not left at the grocery. Mr. Wonnell thinks he recognized the voice of his last visitor as that of the burglar, and believes that the proposition to sell the watch was but a ruse to induce him to open the door, when he would be overpowered and compelled to submit to another robbery.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Baby Climbs a Ladder.

Think of a baby twenty-four hours old climbing a stepladder! It was rather an undersized infant for that age too. Of course it could not climb up by itself, so the nurse carried it in her arms. It did not cry, but clapped its hands delightedly. The child was a little boy and the climbing of the stepladder took place in the very room where he was born. The mother regarded it as an important event evidently. It was by her orders that the performance took place. Her interest was none the less because it was all for the sake of gratifying an old time superstition.

Monthly nurses all agree that if a baby goes down stairs before it goes up stairs its path in life will be downward and ill luck will attend it. Accordingly precautions should be taken against such an omen. In this instance the child having been born on the top floor of the house it could not be carried up stairs, and therefore its mother had suggested the ingenious plan of having a stepladder brought into the room so that nurse could mount it with baby in her arms.

But that was not all. A small Testament was attached by a string to the child's arm and in its chubby little fist was placed a gold dollar. Thus reasonable certainty was secured that the boy would grow up both rich and pious. At the same time it seems very odd to see such superstitious observances practiced in the city of Washington in the year 1892.—Washington Star.

EXPLOSION IN LYNN.

Two Men Are Hurled Thirty Feet and Terribly Injured.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 16.—A terrible explosion occurred on Loring avenue, just over the Swampscott line, yesterday afternoon. Several Italians, in charge of Andy Tiernan and Philip Berube were at work widening the road for the new line of the Lynn and Boston railroad. When time was called Tiernan and Berube went into the boiler house to sharpen some tools. The Italians said that they had been there but a moment when a terrible explosion occurred that blew the house into fragments, and the men were thrown thirty feet away. They were frightfully mangled, although both were still alive. Both men died last night.

Sold Bogus Lottery Tickets.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—J. H. Stanger, the manager of a concern which has issued and sold at full price 30,000 bogus Louisiana lottery tickets, was arrested here.

Senator Gibson Dead.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 16.—United States Senator Gibson of Louisiana died here yesterday afternoon.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Federation of Labor Goes on Record as Favoring Sunday Opening.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—At the fourth day's session of the American Federation of Labor, a resolution from Delegate Guntner of the Furniture Workers' union, authorizing a cancellation of a $1500 loan granted by the federation to striking furniture workers, was carried upon a reconsideration. Tanners and curriers, quarry men, German typographical and electric workers were granted donations.

Resolutions were introduced favoring "the abolition of Sunday slavery for barbers," and "to secure legislation prohibiting judges from directing juries to bring in verdicts."

The report of the committee, to whom President Gompers' report had been referred, was then taken up. The committee's concurrence in most of the recommendations was approved until the clause favoring the opening of the World's fair on Sunday was reached. Miss Kenny of the Shirt Ironers opposed it on the ground that it was an encroachment on the working people's right to a day of rest and was supported by the representatives of the Barbers' International union, the Chicago Trades assembly, the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and others. The president's recommendation favoring Sunday opening was finally endorsed by a vote of 50 to 19. Four other delegates afterwards came in and voted for Sunday opening, making 54 in its favor.

On the recommendation to establish an official journal of the federation much time was developed and the project was defeated.

The question of a labor congress was brought up by the recommendation that the constitution be altered so as to hold the next meeting during the last week in August. Delegate Weissman, the radical representative of the Bakers' union, strenuously opposed the project as impracticable, owing to the wide divergence of aims and opinions between the working people of America and other countries. Others objected to the great expense involved. A motion was offered that the organization participate in an international labor congress in 1893. At the hour of adjournment the discussion was still in progress.

IN EDISON'S FAVOR.

The Westinghouse Company Restrained from Making Incandescent Lamps.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—A decision was handed down by the United States court of appeals for this circuit, Judges Wallace, Lacombe and Shipman, sitting in the case of the Edison Electric Light company against the Sawyer Mann Electric Light company, sustaining a decision of the circuit court granting a preliminary injunction against the Sawyer Mann people, restricting them from making any incandescent lamps in accordance with Edison's lamp patent No. 238,388. This virtually shuts up the Westinghouse people from making, selling or using any incandescent lamps. The point of the decision is as follows:

The injunction order appealed from should be modified so as to cover only lamps made in infringement of the second claim of the patent, the other claims not having been infringed according to the adjudication of the circuit court of this circuit. It should also contain a provision reserving the right to the defendant to make hereafter for the vacation, pending a modification of the injunction upon proof of specific instances of refusal upon the part of the complainants, or either of them, to supply the lamps of the patent upon terms reasonable under the circumstances of the particular case, to the owners of the electric light plants which were installed before the rendition of the interlocutory decree of circuit court sustaining the validity of the patent.

An Encouraging Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The annual statement of W. T. Harris, United States commissioner of education, for the year 1890-91, shows the number of pupils enrolled in the common schools of the country is 13,283,170, and the average daily attendance 8,404,228. There were 253,922 teachers, and the total expenditures for the support of the public schools was $148,173,487.

Mr. Antony's Proposition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Mr. Antony of Texas introduced in the house a bill repealing the act of June 27, 1890, granting pensions to soldiers and sailors and widows, minor children and dependent parents of soldiers and sailors. The bill also provides that all pensions granted under the act shall be discontinued.

Arizona Seeks Admission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Governor Murphy of Arizona is in Washington, strongly urging the immediate admission of the territory into the Union. He says the territory's late rapid growth is almost phenomenal. The people of the territory have already adopted a constitution for a state.

Over 2000 Steerage Passengers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The steamer Stuttgart, from Bremen, brought 1341 steerage passengers for New York, and 122 steerage passengers for Baltimore. A child died during the voyage. This is the largest number of passengers ever brought to this port by any one steamer.

The Big Gold Shipments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Treasury officials disavow any anxiety over the recent heavy shipments of gold, amounting to over $5,000,000 during the present month. They show a strong disinclination to discuss the matter, and it is evident that they are not pleased with the situation.

Doubled Up.

HALIFAX, Dec. 16.—Negotiations for the amalgamation of the Mutual Relief society of Yarmouth and the Massachusetts Benefit association of Boston, which have been going on for some time, have been successfully concluded.

Confirmed by the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The senate confirmed the nomination of James W. McMillan of Iowa, to be interstate commerce commissioner, and also the entire list of army promotions made during the recess of congress.

Killed by His Own Gun.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Dec. 16.—Abraham Hebert, aged 17 years, while hunting, fell from a stone wall. His gun was discharged, the charge entering the back of the head, killing him instantly.

JESUITS AND MASONS

Boldly Assailed at a Convention of Christians.

THE CRUSHING OF SECRET SOCIETIES

The Object Aimed at in Denunciations by Church Leaders.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—The New England Christian association has now become incorporated under the laws of the state. It is proposed to establish permanent headquarters in Boston. Members of the organization gathered at the Broadfield street church yesterday, in annual convention. John A. Conant occupied the chair. James P. Stoddard, the agent of the society, reported that the organization had been incorporated and that its treasury contained $3500, while it possessed real estate valued at $2500. This and similar reports were received with pleasure, and then the society elected these officers: President, John A. Conant; secretary, Miss E. E. Plager; treasurer, L. E. Little. Mr. Conant declined to serve another term as president, and J. M. Foster of Boston was elected to succeed him.

Mr. Foster upon assuming the chair, made a stirring address against secret societies, particularly as they affect the Christian community.

Jesuitism and Masonry.

His frequent utterances of hopes for the complete crushing of secret societies led his half a hundred or more hearers to ejaculate frequently and fervently, "May God grant it!" Here are some excerpts from this address:

"When Ignatius Loyola organized the Society of Jesus in 1540, his satanic majesty took a new departure. The Encyclopedia Britannica says: 'Jesuitism is a new sword, the hilt at Rome and the point everywhere.' Pope Clement IV abolished the Jesuits in 1773, and they poisoned him. A Jesuit assassin, Rivalta, stabbed Henry IV, May 14, 1610, because he had issued the edict of Nantes in 1598. William the Silent, Prince of Orange, was struck down by Girard, a Spanish Jesuit, July 10, 1584, because he helped the cause of the Reformation. Coligny, the Huguenot, was brutally murdered on the night of St. Bartholomew by the Jesuits, and Abraham Lincoln was shot by Booth, the agent of American Jesuits. In May, 1882, Lord Frederick Cavendish and Secretary Burke were assassinated in Dublin by Fenian Jesuits."

They Have Been Exiled

from almost every country of Europe and South America, and they have swarmed upon our ill-starred land.

"They have been exiled from our country, but they have agents in the White House, the senate and the house of representatives at Washington. They have been agents in every state legislature and municipal council from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The 100,000 confessionals are so many telephones bringing Jesuit priests into direct communication with all the homes in this land. They have agents in our Protestant churches and in all our religious assemblies. They probably have an agent here at this meeting. * * * In 1717 Jesuitry gave birth to Freemasonry. The Masonic lodge is the child of Jesuitry. * * * The Southern Confederacy was conceived brought forth in the lodge. * * * Satan has now introduced himself in the churches by the lodge system."

About Free Masons.

Agent Stoddard next made an address, in which he described the secret oath of Masonry and violently condemned that organization. When he ended one of his listeners arose and said, "I am a Christian. I am sorry to see a man of intelligence like Mr. Stoddard stand up on a platform and talk about things that he knows nothing about." Another man questioned Mr. Stoddard, and the latter replied by introducing a man named McIntyre, who claimed to have taken twenty-one degrees of Masonry and to have been a pensioner to soldiers and sailors and widows, minor children and dependent parents of soldiers and sailors. The bill also provides that all pensions granted under the act shall be discontinued.

Ex-President Conant said that he cannot sit under the preaching of a member of a secret society. Mr. Conant does not hate a Mason; he does not hate his Catholic sisters and brothers, but he believes that this awful system of secrecy is "freedom, peace, and brotherly love." He said that he thought that there might be some Christians, even among the Roman Catholics.

Another speaker defended the Grand Army and another speaker declared that the Lord makes anti-Masons, and that the Lord had made him an anti-Mason. He claimed that Old Fellowship is a religious institution.

Stricken with Apoplexy.

GORHAM, Me., Dec. 16.—As Engineer George Davis was oiling up his engine just previous to leaving on his 9 o'clock run to Westbrook, yesterday, he was stricken down with a paralytic shock. It is doubtful if he will ever be able to resume his duties as engineer again.

Charged with Conspiracy.

HAVERTHILL, Mass., Dec. 16.—John F. Howard, a druggist, was arrested here charged with conspiracy against Samuel W. Caswell, a liquor spotter. Caswell was arrested Tuesday for alleged blackmail in obtaining from Howard $250 as "hush money."

A Victim of Overwork.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—United States Commissioner Henry L. Hunt died yesterday afternoon. A few weeks ago he took to his bed. The probable cause of his illness was overwork. Mr. Hallett was born in Providence in 1820.

Close to 50,000.

ALBANY, Dec. 16.—The official vote of this state for presidential electors was: Cleveland, 654,908; Harrison, 609,459; Bidwell, 38,193; Weaver, 16,430; Wing, 17,958. Cleveland's plurality over Harrison is 47,449.

A Newboy's Fate.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 16.—Austin White, a little 11-year-old newboy, was run over by a horse-car here yesterday, and died last evening from injuries received. He was one of a family of nine children.

OUR CONSULAR SERVICE.

Movement Toward Having It Represented in the President's Cabinet.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—A big boom was given in this city last night to the suggestion that a new cabinet portfolio be established in this country. The boom was launched by the Merchant's association, which held its annual banquet at the Vendome. The portfolio demanded is to have supervision of the commerce and manufactures of the nation, and to be co-equal with the other departments now represented in the president's cabinet.

The death of Leopold Morse was not generally known in the banquet room until the speeches were nearly concluded. The sad news came with an especial shock, as Mr. Morse had come to the hotel with the intention of attending the dinner, but was too ill to remain.

The subject discussed at the banquet was "The Consular Service of the United States; What It Is, and What It Should Be."

The association summoned to its board for the discussion of this topic Hon. Joseph S. Porter of Fredericksburg, Va., who for fifteen years was the consul at Crefeld, Germany; Hon. J. L. M. Curry of Washington, ex-minister to Spain; Hon. John T. Abbott, the present minister to Colombia; General E. C. Hooper, M. C. of Mississippi, a member of the committee on foreign affairs, and Hon. Robert R. Hitt.

The subject of discussion did not lend itself readily to brilliant and eloquent speeches. The speakers were practical and, necessarily, somewhat dry. But the merchants evinced a deep interest in the information given them by men who have represented the country abroad, and who were able to point out the ways and means for improving consular service and tending to our commercial relations. The speakers were all warmly received, and their remarks liberally applauded.

A YANKEE IN A HURRY

Gives Englishmen a Practical Illustration in the Art of Hustling.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—J. S. Piza of the firm of Messrs. Piza & Nephews of New York, gave an illustration yesterday of the objects felt by Americans as a class to "getting left." Mr. Piza intended to take the mail train for Dublin and then to catch the White Star line steamer Teutonic for Queenstown. He missed the train and was for the moment nonplussed as to how he would get to Queenstown. He soon gathered his wits together, however, and at once called upon the railway officials and made arrangements to have a special train placed at his disposal.

The train, which consisted of only the engine, tender and one car, was hastily made up and Mr. Piza boarded it. The train started and was soon flying at a tremendous rate of speed. It had the right of way and 180 miles were covered in 200 minutes, the fastest long-distance time in England thus being raised.

Mr. Piza telegraphed ahead to have a special steamer awaiting him at Queenstown, and when he arrived at the quay he found a vessel lying there with steam up and her lines ready to cast off. Mr. Piza boarded the steamer with his luggage and the boat started for Roches Point, off which the Teutonic was lying.

As is to be expected, the transatlantic liner, it was seen that the latter's anchor was being catted and her screw just beginning to revolve. The tender got alongside of her before she had gained much headway, and Mr. Piza and his belongings were soon safely aboard of her and on their way home.

Hill and the Cabinet.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—President Cleveland, in answer to a dispatch announcing the selection of Senator Hill as premier of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, said there was "not a single word of truth in the stuff."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Senator Hill says he has declined to accept a cabinet position by Mr. Cleveland, and does not expect to be tendered one.

THE PUGILISTIC ARENA.

Griffin and Baxter Matched—Gibbons Looking for Meyer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Johnny Griffin of Braintree, Mass., and Bill Baxter of England have been matched to fight for the featherweight championship and $500 before the Coney Island Athletic club. The match is expected to take place some time in February.

Austin Gibbons, the lightweight pugilist, who arrived yesterday from the other side, has deposited $1000 and issued a challenge to Billy Myer, the Streator (Ill.) "Cyclone," to fight him to a finish. Gibbons wants the fight to take place under the auspices of the Coney Island Athletic club.

A dispatch was received from Paddy Slavin yesterday, from London, in which he says that he is patiently awaiting articles from the Crescent club of New Orleans, binding him in the proposed match with Goddard. He says he wants 500 pounds toward his expenses, and that he will sail the first week of January. He says he must have a definite reply at once, and his terms are that the purse shall be 2000 pounds, all to go to the winner.

The English lightweight champion arrived yesterday on the steamship City of Paris. He said that he had come to the United States to fight Jack McAuliffe, the champion of the world. He (Barge) was after the championship, which he could only obtain by whipping McAuliffe. Barge further said he would return to England if he failed to make a match with McAuliffe, as he would not fight anyone else.

REFORMERS OF TARIFF

Listen to a Speech on the Money Question.

CORRUPT PRACTICES IN ELECTIONS

And Other Topics Touched Upon by Ex-Secretary Fairchild.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Hon. Henry L. Pierce presided at the annual dinner of the New England Tariff Reform League at the American House last evening. More than 200 gentlemen were present. They were enthusiastic and attentive listeners to the speakers. Hon. Charles S. Fairchild, President Cleveland's secretary of the treasury, was the principal speaker and chief guest of the league.

When Hon. Henry L. Pierce arose to call the league to order after the dinner, he was greeted with hearty applause. Mr. Pierce congratulated the company on the result of the recent election, and said that the signs for reform were never so auspicious before. He eulogized President-elect Cleveland and said he was the best and greatest exponent of tariff reform.

CHARLES S. FAIRCHILD. He pointed out the grave duties still to be performed, and called upon the members of the league to uphold the hands of the representatives in congress. Mr. Pierce called attention to the fact that the protectionists are still active, and that they will try to sow some dissension among the reformers. This, he said, must be guarded against. He then introduced Hon. Charles S. Fairchild, who he said would speak as a business man and not as a politician.

All the members of the league arose and gave three cheers as Mr. Fairchild took the floor. He spoke in substance as follows: The telling points in his speech being heartily applauded:

Speech of Mr. Fairchild. Those in favor of tariff reform have still a duty to perform. After election it seemed to me our Republican friends would abandon the battle-ground forever. But now it seems that they have found that the only rallying point they had was around that involved in protectionism and paternalism in government. We see even now their change from the original position that the Democrats were to have the whole government and be responsible for everything, and that they are trying to hold the senate as their last citadel, hoping to prevent any amendment to the tariff. I cannot believe it will be successful, but if it is, there is still a long battle before tariff reformers and a vast deal of work for this and all other similar organizations to do in order to hold what you have already gained till your full hopes be fulfilled. Our business friends ask for stability in business. But they have built up an artificial system whereby the business of this country is held up above its natural conditions. Instead of seeking to do the one thing requisite to the maintenance of their system, the thorough education of the people as to the wisdom of such laws, they have sought to divert their minds in every possible way from the consideration of the true subject.

Another thing, they have formed a habit, begun four years ago, of contributing vast sums of money to the Democrats. It is to deny that the Democrats are equally guilty with the Republicans in Attempts to Corrupt Elections. But heretofore it has been done under the excitement of canvass. We have seen these successful men deliberately contributing of their substance to undermine the foundations of society.

We have before us a very grave question, which involves protectionism, governmentalism and paternalism, and that is our currency system. If the people of this country can be successfully educated as to the limitations of the power of government over value in money, a great point would be made. A superstition surrounds the words "legal tender."

I don't think there is any power in government to give any value to anything by adding the legal tender quality to it. In all the legal tender paper money there has not only been the legal tender quality, but there has also been the promise to pay. Other moneys in other parts of the world have had this legal tender quality, and this promise to pay, and we have found them becoming utterly valueless and yet retaining their legal tender quality.

It once seemed to me that, if that money could pay antecedent debts, as it always could, it ought always to retain some value, and yet we had seen legal tender money

Absolutely Worthless. I have reasoned it out thus: If the government could create a few instruments to enable them, limiting their number to the needs for that purpose, they would have a high price. But, when you come to create money for all the purposes of commerce, it is used in such vast larger proportions for other purposes than paying antecedent debts, and those other purposes are of such infinitely greater importance to mankind, that its advantage as a debt-destroying thing becomes so infinitely small in comparison with the values which it does not have that it itself becomes utterly worthless.

Another question very much controverted during the canvass is that of bank notes. There is no reason in the nature of things why government should forbid you from issuing your obligation payable on demand for a dollar, and why it should forbid me from passing it to my neighbor and him from passing it on; and that is a bank note.

But government has found that this bank note circulation possessed a very good use, that it was one of the means for filling the wheels of commerce, that it was a supplement to the other great system—the promissory note payable on time—that it performed an equally important function, but in order to perform that perfectly it must be

Surrounded by Safeguards so well known that, when could rightly hold these things called bank notes without too much examination and consideration.

Therefore, governments have come to interfere between you and me and take from both of us a portion of our natural rights, in order that this thing might perform its greater usefulness in the business of the world. They have not only taken away that right between you and me, but they have destroyed the whole thing. There is no more statesmanship, there is no more sense in depriving the American people of one of the most useful devices of modern times, because someone may sometimes lose by it, then there is depriving them of the other forms of commercial credit.

In the face of the vast usefulness of a good bank note circulation which will pass from hand readily, but not a legal tender, I say it is utter imbecility for this American people to lie down and say they cannot do that, and they won't do it. Something must be done before long. We cannot go on under this idea of governmental power and duty toward this question of the government issuance of money, the government bolstering of money credit, without coming to trouble which I believe will equal any that we have had in the past in a business way.

The speaker described an interview with President Cleveland just before his message of 1887, in which Mr. Fairchild had prophesied ultimate success as its result, and closed with an eloquent tribute to Mr. Cleveland, which was loudly applauded.

Other Speakers were Harvey N. Shepard, who considered reasons for the Democratic victory just won. Josiah Quincy next spoke of the tariff and its reform and then turned his attention to the United States senatorship, making keen thrusts at Mr. Lodge.

William B. Rice was the last speaker. He said he did not regard the result of the recent election as a declaration in favor of free trade, nor even for a revenue tariff such as prevails in England. "We attacked and roiled the policy as represented by the McKinley bill."

In the absence of the secretary, Hon. Harvey N. Shepard read letters of regret from Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, Hon. Oliver Ames and William Lloyd Garrison.

A BOSTON AND MAINE DEAL.

Fine Work Results in Its Getting Control of the Connecticut River Road.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 17.—The Boston and Maine railroad has bought a controlling interest in the stock of the Connecticut River railroad, getting about 4000 shares in this vicinity. The directors of the Connecticut River railroad voted Tuesday to give a ninety-year lease of the road to the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and had called a meeting of stockholders to ratify it the 23rd. The only way by which the Boston and Maine could prevent the ratification of this lease was to buy up a controlling interest in the stock. It is understood that the Boston and Maine had a large quantity of stock in Boston and vicinity, on which it had an option, and, after gathering this in, F. H. Prince of Boston was sent to buy up enough to complete the amount needed. Mr. Prince spent Thursday going among the large owners of stock and buying it secretly. The price paid was about $315 a share.

The matter became generally known yesterday, and the small owners of stock poured it in all day for sale. Mr. Prince telephoned from Boston that he secured 1500 shares, more than a controlling interest, and that the company would buy no more. The 4000 shares taken from this vicinity will cost the company over $1,200,000, and there is general satisfaction among the inhabitants of the city over the fact that the Boston and Maine has gotten control instead of the New York, New Haven and Hartford. It is believed this move will hasten the connection of the Central Massachusetts with the Connecticut Western.

BOLD DAYLIGHT BURGLARY.

A Boston Jewelry Store Visited by a Thief Who Was Soon Captured.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Maynard's jewelry store in Brattle square was again the scene of a bold daylight robbery, but this time the thief was caught almost immediately. About noon yesterday, a young man went into the store and asked to be shown a watch marked $10, which was hanging in the window. At that time the proprietor of the store was busy waiting on another customer, but he willingly produced the watch, which the stranger examined. Presently he said, "I would like to see another watch, indicating the one. This was shown, also. Then another was asked for.

The proprietor went to the window to get still another, leaving the two already produced lying on the shelves. Almost the instant that Mr. Maynard turned to get the third watch the stranger snatched the time pieces and started for the door. Mr. Maynard ran from behind the showcase and tried to head him off, but was too late and cried out "Stop thief!" Patrolman Kelley happened to be at the signal box at that moment. Hearing the cry, he turned and gave chase to the thief. He ran into Hanover street, and seeing the policeman gaining on him, dodged into a doorway and hid behind a door, where he was found.

The man showed fight, but he was soon overcome and taken to the station house. The watches were found in his possession. He gave his name as Frank Stevens, aged 21 years. Inspector Barry identified him as Eugene Dufrane, a Canadian from Montreal. He gave as his excuse for the act that he was "hard up."

Cholera's Awful Ravage.

St. PETERSBURG, Dec. 17.—Final official statistics of the cholera epidemic in Russia have just been issued. There have been 130,417 deaths from European and 135,343 deaths from Asiatic cholera since the outbreak of the disease in the empire, making a total of 265,760 deaths.

Rioters Heavily Punished.

St. PETERSBURG, Dec. 17.—Four leaders of the cholera riots have been sentenced by court martial to death. Eight rioters were sentenced to imprisonment with hard labor, thirty to detention in the house of correction, and forty to prison without hard labor.

Locomotive Upset.

FARMINGTON, Me., Dec. 17.—The engine on a night train on the Saco River railroad jumped the track and tipped over near Russell Bros. & Estes' mill. The engine was wrecked. Engineer Boston and others were badly bruised and shaken up.

HALIFAX, Dec. 17.—The Prince Edward Island schooner "Caribou" was totally wrecked at St. Barbes, N. F., and her crew were saved with difficulty. The vessel is insured.

CANADA'S SIDE OF IT.

Hon. George E. Foster Replies to Hon. John W. Foster.

STICKS TO PREVIOUS STATEMENTS

And Criticises Assertions Made by the Secretary of State.

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—George E. Foster, Dominion minister of finance, has made a rejoinder to Secretary of State Foster of the United States, who replied to the former's criticism of President Harrison's message. He said:

After reading Mr. Foster's observations, I can state that I have nothing to add to my previous assertion in regard to the reciprocity negotiations on the subject of a uniform tariff between the two countries. When the proposition for reciprocity in natural products was declined and before a wider arrangement was discussed, the Canadian delegates inquired about the question of discrimination. We asked who would have power to make the tariff and that would be its range. For example, we asked whether Canada would be free to arrange her own tariff on wools. This article is on the free list here and in the United States it is highly taxed. Secretary Blaine replied emphatically that the United States had a heavy duty on wools, and if Canada fixed separate duties, the proposed reciprocity arrangements would be simply non-effective.

"I was surprised that Secretary Foster said Canada made the settlement of the canal question dependent upon the free navigation of the Hudson river by Canadians. So far as my knowledge goes, Canadians never made free navigation a sine qua non for a Settlement of Canal Disputes. At the Washington conference in June last an informal proposition was made that the controversy might be settled by the United States allowing Canadians free navigation of the Hudson to return to their country, and their refusal to grant rebates on grain transhipped at United States lake ports. Anybody can see that this falls short of a basis of settlement of the whole controversy. Our informal offer was declined, thereupon a new proposition was discussed and promised consideration. It was formally conveyed to the United States government through the British chargé d'affaires at Washington. This proposal was submitted to the senate by President Harrison in July last, and is as follows:

That as regards navigation of the Welland and St. Lawrence canals, the imposition of tolls and granting of franchises thereon, the same treatment must be accorded to citizens of the United States as is given to subjects of her majesty, without regard to ports of transshipment on exports, and that the United States will continue to deal in like matter with subjects of her Britannic majesty in use of the existing Saint Marie canal. That the provisions of article 29 of the treaty of Washington granting carrying powers to vessels belonging to subjects of her Britannic majesty, as described in that article, be restored.

"It will therefore be seen," added Mr. Foster, "that the Hudson river was not mentioned in this proposition for settling the whole difficulty."

Cannot Recall Any Occasion

when Canada made a demand for free navigation of the Hudson as a settlement of the controversy. Let Secretary Foster prove his case if he has documents. By article 30 of the treaty of Washington, above referred to, it was agreed that British subjects might carry in British vessels without payment of duty, goods, wares or merchandise from one port or place within the territory of the United States upon the St. Lawrence, Great Lakes and rivers connecting the same, to another port or place within the aforesaid territory of the United States, provided that a portion of such transshipment should be made through Canada by land carriage and in bond; and a privilege exactly corresponding, mutatis mutandis, was by the same article granted to the citizens of the United States, with respect to goods, wares or merchandise carried from one point in Canada across territory of the United States to another point in Canada. By the same article it was agreed that the United States must suspend the right of carrying so granted to British subjects in case the Dominion of Canada should at any time deprive the citizens of the United States of the use of the canals of the Dominion on terms of equality with Canadians.

Lost Their Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Secretary Foster and Assistant Secretary Spaulding have formulated a plan for the reduction of the immigration service to correspond with the reduced revenue from immigration. It involved the dismissal of twenty-five immigrant and contract labor inspectors along the frontier, and a considerable reduction in the immigrant force employed at Ellis Island.

Sadly Afflicted.

WALTHAM, Mass., Dec. 17.—The 3-year-old child of Martin Nolan has just died of malignant scarlet fever. This makes the second child of the family that has died within three weeks of this disease, while the mother is seriously ill with diphtheria. The house has been quarantined, but there seems to be no abatement of the disease.

Both Are Dead.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Miss Delia Barry died at the Massachusetts general hospital yesterday. Both the unfortunate young ladies who were the victims of the Maverick street railroad accident in East Boston, are now dead. Miss Donohue breathed her last Thursday.

TELEPHONE, 213-3 QUINCY.

WE CAN heartily endorse the financial plan for the city proposed by the standing Committee on Finance of the City Council. It is in line with that recently recommended by the DAILY LEDGER. The law requires that the general indebtedness of a city shall be paid within ten years. If an annual payments it would be ten per cent. a year. The committee recommended that not over 12 1-2 per cent. of the debt be paid off annually. This would provide for a limited amount of one year loans but would put a stop to borrowing large sums on short loans. Twelve and one-half per cent. of the debt of 1892 was $32,708.25. Had that amount instead of $56,619.53, been raised this year, the tax rate would have been $1.50 less, or but $14.50. The $56,619.53 paid this year represented over one-fifth of the total, or 21 1-2 per cent.

Without regard, apparently of the amount falling due in 1893, the present Council has made many short loans which makes the amount due next year even larger than the amount paid this year, over $70,000 we are informed. This amount alone would require a tax rate of $4.50 in 1893, which in addition to that for current expenses would be oppressive. The suggestion of the Council committee to extend a portion of this and equalize the payment should be embodied in an order and passed.

The debt of the city Jan. 1, will be about $300,000, and 12 1-2 per cent. would be about $37,500. If the city pays off this amount, the rate in 1893 will be less than it was this year.

THAT CONTEST for the position of City Messenger is a rather singular one. The present incumbent, Mr. Tirrell, is a Democrat but supported Mayor Fairbanks for a re-election. He will have as a rival Mr. Howard Rogers, a Republican, who is said to have voted for Mr. Hodges for Mayor, and whose strength is with the Democrats. The salary of the office, $250, is much too small to quarrel over, and after all why should there be a change?

THE PRETTIEST drive from this city is acknowledged to be through Milton into Dorchester. This promises to be further enhanced in the near future by the widening to 120 feet of Blue Hill avenue from Warren street to the Milton line and a possible extension through Milton to Blue Hill. It will then be among the most attractive avenues out of Boston and the whole of Milton will feel its beneficial effects.

QUINCY will soon be renowned as the home of reformers. Mr. Henry H. Faxon has established himself as a reformer in one direction, and others are making a record as tariff reformers. At the meeting of the New England Tariff Reform League in Boston last evening, both Josiah Quincy and William B. Rice made extended speeches which were fully reported in the Boston press.

ISSUED TODAY with the Boston Daily Advertiser is a special literary edition of eight pages. It is profusely illustrated with literarians, their libraries, fac-simile hand-writing, etc. The publishers show considerable enterprise.

The new passenger steamboat now under construction for the Fall River Line will be twenty feet longer than the Puritan and will have accommodations for 1,400 passengers.

Dedication Services by the Grand Lodge.

Followed by Concert.

Wollaston Lodge, 928, Knights of Honor, with the co-operation of Woodbine Lodge, Knight and Ladies of Honor, and John Adams Council, Royal Arcanum, formally dedicated its beautiful new lodge room in the Brasee Building, last evening. Over two hundred were present to witness the ceremony as it was exemplified by the officers of the Grand Lodge and the Wollaston Lodge.

The officers of the Grand Lodge who were present were:

Grand Dictator, C. F. Pinney.

Grand Vice Dictator, F. N. Churchill.

Grand Assistant Dictator, E. W. Bailey.

Deputy Grand Dictator, S. P. Lawrence.

Grand Reporter, E. Granville Pratt.

Grand Guide, F. M. Hersey.

Grand Chaplain, E. M. Jones.

Grand Sentinel, G. G. Purdy.

Past Deputy Grand Dictator, G. E. Richardson.

Past Dictator Sherman of Wollaston Lodge, who was chairman of the committee on dedication opened the dedicatory exercises with a short address and gave way to the officers of the lodge, Dictator Gardner assuming the chair. The members sang the opening hymn. Dictator Gardner then directed the Guardian to announce to the officers of the Grand Lodge that the lodge was ready for the dedicatory exercises to begin. The Grand Officers to the sound of trumpets marched in.

The Grand Officers then formally dedicated the hall with the solemn and impressive ceremony of the Grand Lodge.

The committee of which Past Dictator Sherman was chairman, was subdivided into an Entertainment Committee, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pierce; reception committee, Mrs. W. E. Simmons and Mrs. H. T. Whitman; refreshment committee, Mr. W. H. Brasee, Mr. Chas. T. Baker and Mr. James C. Bates.

After the dedication a lunch was served and this programme was carried out:

Young Men's Christian Association.

A Crokinole tournament is being arranged to commence Monday evening Dec. 19th. Entries can be made up to 9.30 Saturday evening.

The Committee on Lyceum has completed its arrangements for a Young Men's Congress, and a meeting has been called for Tuesday evening Dec. 20th, at 7.30. It is hoped to make a complete organization at that time, electing officers, appointing Committees and introducing a number of bills. The organization will be modelled after the National House of Representatives, but its scope will cover questions of national, state and municipal questions.

Already a number of well known professional and business men have signified their determination to become members, and the organization promises to be one of the most popular societies in the city. All interested will be furnished with full information as to membership, by calling at the Association rooms.

BRAINTREE.

The annual meeting of the High School Association will be held at the Selectmen's Room, next Tuesday evening.

Hon. F. A. Hobart was heard to say the other morning, that he would not give a straw for a man that has no any enemies. The grand thing, however is to make them respect you.

The Amara Rebecca Lodge of South BRAINTREE will visit the Golden Rebecca Lodge of Randolph on Thursday evening next. They will go by special train. The latter lodge will work the degree of the order, on two applicants.

Mr. Eben Prescott, of Quincy, is having built what will be a fine looking house, when finished—intended to accommodate two families—situated on Middle street, just opposite the Scott place. The main part is 35 by 32 feet, the ell part 10 by 26 feet. It is to be two and a half stories with hip roof. Charles W. Hobart & Son are the builders. Up they go.

Mr. G. H. Arnold's new residence is making rapid and satisfactory progress towards completion. The situation is commanding, being somewhat elevated in comparison with the other residences in the neighborhood. The style of the building is of the Roman style of architecture. It's going to look fine when finished and the right time of the year comes round to look at it. George H. Holbrook is the builder.

NEWSPAPER HISTORY.

The Progress of the Quincy Patriot as Noted in Contemporary.

The current issue of the BRAINTREE OBSERVER, William M' Ewan editor, has the following bit of newspaper history:

Perhaps there is no more interesting record of passing events, than is to be found in the columns of a well conducted local newspaper. There may be more accurate records but there are none into which is imported so much of the elan; the detail of human life; the daily life of the world in its great variety and verity, as there is to be found in the news and advertising columns of a reputable old established local newspaper.

The great city daily may occupy a more extensive field of influence, a prouder position; but the local newspaper, comes closer to the people by reason of its comparatively more limited field of influence and less ambitious position, than does the larger and more ambitious paper. In the columns of the local or town paper, are to be found recorded in an unambitious and artless way the "news of the week;" the happenings, important and otherwise, that have taken place among the people, among whom it circulates, who look forward to the day of publication with a feeling of expectancy because of a desire to see, as in a glass, what kind of a figure; what kind of an appearance their town made for the week, as seen, in the news and advertising columns of their local newspaper; a certain amount of tattling record, a certain number of personal complimentary items; who has left town, and who has come into town, and all that, and more, too, but the bulk of the news such as is thought to be well for the people to know and inwardly digest, because calculated to exert a healthful influence in the promotion of the happiness of the people, and prosperity of the town. In this respect we hold that the local country newspaper is more potent in forming the character of the people of a country than is a city daily. If this is true then the position of the local newspaper, ought to be recognized as being a proud one, and ought to have all the necessary support and encouragement to maintain it.

We have been led to make these remarks in consequence of having been shown a copy of the Quincy Patriot of the date of Nov. 5th 1894, by Mr. Martin K. Pratt, the veteran news agent of Weymouth. At this time the Patriot was only a six column paper now it is nine and one of the finest looking country papers to be met with in Norfolk County or, indeed, anywhere. Comparing the copy of the Patriot shown us, with an issue of the present time, there is scarcely any resemblance; you would not take them to be individual numbers of the same paper; the resemblance being only in the name.

The Patriot was established in 1837, the editors and proprietors being John A. Green and Edward B. Osborne. According to Dr. Pattee the local historian of Quincy, the Patriot like most local newspapers, had a hard road to travel, for quite a number of years. At the time of its history we are writing about, Mr. Green having died, his widow still continued the publication of the paper and was sole proprietress. Mr. George W. Prescott at that time being ranked as printer of the paper; now joint proprietor of, and editor with Mrs. Green in the conducting of the Patriot which is one of the most prosperous and well conducted local papers in Norfolk County, having, we believe, the largest circulation of any of its class.

The reason why Mr. Pratt had been so careful in the preservation of the copy of the paper, was the sad circumstance that the death of a daughter, Miss Carrie A. Pratt, aged 20 years, was recorded among the deaths. At this time, be it remembered, the Weymouth Gazette was not established and Weymouth we suppose, was without a local paper. Two years later Mr. Charles G. Easterbrook established the Gazette and ran it up to only a year or two ago. We have always thought since then that Weymouth lost a very superior man in the management of its local paper, when Charles G. Easterbrook retired into private life.

It will be remembered that Nov. 5th, 1864, the date of the paper, the campaign involving the re-election of Abraham Lincoln was nearing its close, the election taking place the following Tuesday. Hence it is a lively "sheet," full of political news, pretty spicy and well written. The Republican and Democratic tickets are published in full; giving all the names of the candidates then running for office. Looking them over one feels surprised and saddened by the number of those whose names appear on the respective tickets, that have passed away from earth and all its concerns, to the enjoyment, it is to be hoped, of a more permanent and far more satisfying and happier condition of things.

We notice that the name of Francis A. Hobart was on the Republican Ticket as a candidate for representative to the Legislature. He was elected, too.

It is understood that the Old Colony railroad will in addition to the exhibit of the oldest and the newest of its railroad stock at the World's fair, have had made a model of steamer Puritan at a cost of several thousand dollars to be put on exhibition.

"It was reported," says the Charleston Enterprise, "that the Thomson-Houston company has obtained control of an absolutely practical storage battery system for street railways."

The largest flouring mill in Minneapolis can make 15,300 barrels of flour in a day, more than enough to make paste enough to paste this item in the hat of every male resident of the United States.

A. B. Endicott has been elected president of the Dedham National bank.

LOADED DOWN WITH JEWELRY.

Expert Thief and Jail-Breaker Once More Behind the Bars.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Peter Herbert, who escaped from the Charlestown state prison Oct. 4, 1888, was arrested last night by Officer Hensley. Herbert was sentenced in Fall River in June, 1880, for twelve years, on the charge of burglary, and had served eight years of his sentence. The day he escaped he, with others, were at work upon the extension of the state prison, and he made his escape by means of the adjoining houses.

Officer Hensley saw Herbert buying a ticket at the box office of the Howard Atheneum and recognized him as an old offender. Herbert had so many coats on that Hensley thought he had been up to some new offense, and took him into custody on suspicion of the larceny of the clothing. He held the officer, but was finally handed in the station house.

When arrested Herbert had on two black Prince Albert coats, two pairs of trousers and a black chinchilla overcoat. In the pockets of the various garments were found three bunches of keys of all kinds, aggregating fifty in number; a ladies' card case lined with red silk, two ladies' pocketbooks, one of which contained $20 in money, a screw driver, four pocket knives, a silver knife, an ivory and steel pocket rule, a silver chateleine chain and perfume bottle, a gold thimble, a gold back of a ladies' hair comb, a pair of sea bean cuff-buttons, a cameo ring, a gold breastpin, a pair of brilliant earrings, with turquoise and garnet settings, six gold collar buttons, an old-fashioned gold watch, with a very large topaz in the center, a pair of gold cuff-buttons, with intaglio cameo stones, a gold nugget scarf pin of a peculiar shape, a pair of steel-mounted eyeglasses, a rebate check on the Delaware and Hudson railroad from West Troy to Troy, N. Y., a gold teapot watch charm with small stones in the bottom, two gold plated watch chains and charms, a cameo scarf pin, two pearl shirt studs and an old-fashioned gold watch key and two gold watch chains.

The police suspect that the greater part of this property came from the vicinity of Albany, although Herbert claimed that he had been in Canada ever since his escape, and only arrived in Boston Thursday.

He will be held by the police of division 3 for a day or two before being turned over to the state prison officials.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

Female Manager of an Endowment Order in Trouble at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Sarah E. Edwards, formerly resident manager in this city of the Granite State Provident association of Manchester, N. H., is held in $800 bail on the charge of forgery. The prosecution was brought by James A. McGuckin, a plumber, who, in his affidavit, charges Mrs. Edwards with having executed and forged his name to three promissory notes aggregating $799.31.

Lawyer Adams, counsel for Mr. McGuckin, swore that Mrs. Edwards had embezzled about $1000 from the association of which he was counsel, and that that of the notes had been accepted by him in settlement of her indebtedness to the association rather than lock the woman up. Mrs. Edwards denied the charges and said that at the proper time she would show that another Joseph A. McGuckin had indorsed the notes, and that she had not committed the forgery.

Mexicans Claim That Revolutionists Have Their Headquarters in Texas.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17.—A special from Monterey, Mex., says: The Mexican government will demand of President Harrison that he take decisive steps toward breaking up and wiping out the bands of revolutionists that have their rendezvous on United States soil in the lower Rio Grande border country.

Governor Reyes of the state of Neuva Leon has forwarded to President Harrison evidence that a plot exists among a large force of Mexicans in Texas to make an armed expedition against Mexico. Governor Reyes is greatly incensed because the military authorities of the United States have not put down this proposed revolution in its incipency. The Mexican government is strengthening its already strong force of soldiers on the border by rushing 2000 additional troops to the turbulent section.

BLAINE IS "BETTER."

A Positive Denial That He Has Embraced the Roman Catholic Faith.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—There are many disquieting reports on the street in regard to Mr. Blaine's condition, but James G. Blaine, Jr., announces that his father is better. Mr. Blaine's physician refuses to answer questions as to whether Mr. Blaine is better or worse. This letter has been given to the press:

Mrs. Blaine, in answer to my letter of anxious inquiry sent her on the subject, asks me to state that there is not the slightest truth in the report that Mr. Blaine has entered the Roman Catholic church, and that nothing could be further from his thought or intention. It should be needless to state that Father Ducey has never been at the house.

DEATH BY SUICIDE.

J. Walter Bradlee Dies by His Own Hand.

WAS SELECTMAN OF MILTON.

Well Known Auctioneer, Deputy Sheriff and Prominent Republican.

Few gentlemen were better known in Norfolk County and the vicinity of the Hub than J. Walter Bradlee of Milton, an old war horse of the Republican party, deputy sheriff of Norfolk County, and a prominent office holder in the town of Milton. His death yesterday by suicide therefore startles a large number of acquaintances and friends.

Mr. Bradlee according to the Journal report was found by Minot T. Thayer of Dorchester (said to be his cousin) who had gone into the woods to hunt. He left home Thursday morning and so far as known was not seen until he was found in a vacant lot off Oakland street, in Mattapan, hanging to a tree. Dr. Draper of Boston, the Medical Examiner, was called, making his visit about 8.30 o'clock last evening. Dr. Sturtevant of Hyde Park, who would have naturally attended the case was out of town.

Dr. Draper heard that Mr. Bradlee had been out of his head for a week. The Milton Chief of Police was away yesterday afternoon when the discovery took place. In conversation with a Journal representative he said that nothing was known as to why Mr. Bradlee committed the act, but it was surmised the "grip" was responsible, as, indeed, it has been in scores of other cases. At least, Mr. Bradlee had been ill two weeks, himself attributing his sickness to the grip, from the effects of a former attack of which he might have been still suffering. For a week Mr. Bradlee was not in his right mind.

The Chief of Police saw Mr. Bradlee a week ago, when he was suffering from the effects of the disease.

A gentleman connected with this office, who was well acquainted with deceased, saw him in town about a week ago, not remarking anything strange in his appearance.

Mr. Bradlee was very well known in Boston business circles, partly from his connection with the Milton town government, as well as from his business interests in real estate and otherwise. His family consisted of a wife and six children.

Mr. Bradlee was a descendant of the old Milton family of Captain John Bradlee famous in the time of the Revolution. On his mother's side he descended from the old Bradford family. His parents were John D. and Catherine C. (Trow) Bradlee of Milton, where he was born 51 years 9 months ago to-day. He received his educational training in the Milton public schools. Before he was 21 years of age he had started in the nursery business, but the War of the Rebellion broke out and he enlisted in the Thirty-eighth Massachusetts Volunteers.

In 1866 Mr. Bradlee was married to Nellie Marion, daughter of Leonard and Lydia T. (Blaney) Morse.

There are six children in his family: J. Walter, Charles, Nellie Marion, Eva Morse, Leonard Morse and Roger Williams.

Mr. Bradlee held the Chairmanship of the Norfolk County Republican Committee for more than ten years, was active in the organization of the Norfolk Club and held the Chairmanship of its Executive Committee since its formation. He organized Huntington F. Wolcott G. A. R. Post 102 and was its first Commander and also Commander of the Norfolk County G. A. R. He was a member of Cyprus Commandery, Knights Templar, and represented the Fourth Norfolk District in the Legislature of 1884 and 1885, serving as House Chairman of the Committee on Prisons. He has been a Deputy Sheriff of Norfolk County, an auctioneer and real estate agent, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Assessors and Overseers of the Poor for more than 10 years. He was for a long time a member of the School Board and a Trustee of the cemetery.

Another Account Says.
At 4.15 Friday afternoon the body of J. Walter Bradlee of Milton was found hanging to a tree in the woods at Mattapan, 400 feet from Oakland street, by Minot T. Thayer of Dorchester Lower Mills.

Mr. Thayer who lives on Grant place, was hunting in the woods at Mattapan when he came across the body, which was taken in charge by Undertaker Gleason, and was removed to the City Hospital morgue by order of the Medical Examiner.

A letter was found in Mr. Bradlee's pocket addressed to his wife and saying, "I am out of my head. God bless you and forgive me for what I have done."

Mr. Bradlee left the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen yesterday morning with the intention of going to Dedham, and it is supposed left home with the bay horse, black mounted harness and top buggy to go there. He did not return, and until his body was found in the woods his folks were not aware of his whereabouts. The team has not yet been found, and what became of it is not known.

—Among the great men of the world, blue eyes have always predominated. Socrates, Shakespeare, Locke, Bacon, Milton, Goethe, Franklin, Napoleon and Renan all had blue eyes. The eyes of Bismarck, Gladstone, Huxley, Virchow and Buchner are also of this color, and all the presidents of the United States except Gen. Harrison enjoyed the same cerulean color as to their optics.

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following—Banquet Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 30 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rockers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Side Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaide & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston prices. Fire in Braintree.
Thursday night about seven o'clock fire was discovered in the large tenement house situated on the corner of Common and Washington streets, owned by Mr. John Cavanagh and occupied by Mr. Michael Sullivan and three or four other families.

When the alarm was given, the N. F. T. Hayden hose company, the hook and ladder and Thomas South hose companies promptly responding, and cleverly extinguished the fire before any serious damage was done. The fire originated in one of Sullivan's bed rooms, and of course was accidental. It was to the prompt and effective exertions of the firemen that the house was saved. "Boys," accept congratulations.

—The people are rapidly realizing that the immigration question is one of the vital issues affecting industries fully as much as the tariff and affecting morals vastly more. Labor is constantly being degraded and wages lowered because of these undesirable immigrants who will work cheaper than the American and who is so objectionable personally that self respecting Americans will not mingle with them.

VIM, NOT SIZE.

Size counts for naught in poet, sage or dunce. Vim makes the hero in his rank or rhyme. Old Samson brought the house down only once. What Doctor Holmes has done a thousand times.

Gauge your own caliber, O man alive—If Samson, ten feet high, or poet, five.—James R. Wiggins.

The best revenge is love: disarm Anger with smiles; heal wounds with balm; Give water to thy thirsty foe. The sandal tree, as if to prove How sweet to conquer hate by love, Performs the act that lays it low.

HOW TO CARE FOR CLOTHES.

Practical Hints to Men on the Preservation of Garments.

When the clothes are removed the coat should be slipped over a bow hanger—the vest may be put on its first.

A coat that is worn quite steadily from day to day ought always to be hung on the back of a chair, the armholes being slipped over the back posts, the vest to be hung first in like manner.

It is best to place the chair near an open window, as the exposure to air will help to soften the wrinkles.

The trousers should be well shaken, to free them from dust, and then "pulled." This means that they are to be folded down where the front and back creases are, and then, holding them by the top band, the foot is placed on the bottom on the floor and steady, gentle pressure exerted.

Lay the trousers out smoothly on the bed—still folded on the creases—and fold lengthwise at the knee line, smoothing out all possible wrinkles with the hand.

Put the trousers on the chair seat. In the morning the entire suit will look "rested," and the end will justify the means.

How to Prevent the Rusting of Screws. Before putting the screws in place dip them in a thin paste made of graphite and oil.

How to Make an "Emergency Case."

Linen "emergency cases" for traveling are made of gray linen, bound with blue, red or black braid, like a small brush and comb case. At one end is a wide pocket divided into three compartments, which hold respectively an envelope of court plaster, a package of antiseptic cotton and a flat card wound with fine linen twine. Above the pocket is a band of inch wide silk elastic the color of the binding, stretched down at intervals to form five foldings for five half ounce flat bottles, with contents labeled below each bottle on the linen—ammonia, witch hazel, camphor, glycerin, cologne. A loop of elastic cord on one flap attaches itself to a button on the opposite one, when they are folded over the bottles, while the other ends are also folded and tied as in the usual traveling dressing case.

How to Cure Sweating Feet.

One part of maize meal added to twenty-one parts of powdered alum is said to be an unfailing remedy.

How to Remove Moles.

Moles are a kind of tumor and may be removed, when not too large, if not located on a vein. This is sometimes done by electricity, but when the mole is round and like a bead on the flesh, a horsehair tied tightly around its base will soon remove it. Tie it at first as tight as you can stand it, and every day draw the hair tighter. On the third or fourth day the mole will fall off, the hair having gradually cut it through. Some use thread, but there is always a chance of this breaking when tightened.

How to Renovate Oilcloth.

Dissolve 2½ pounds paraffine and one gallon of oil of turpentine and apply while warm with a sponge or flannel. Let it alone for a day, then polish with a flannel. This completely renews old oilcloth, and is also good for painted floors.

How to Keep Musical Instruments Moist. Rub the wood with pure glycerin occasionally and wipe with a soft cloth.

How to Render Canned Fruit Airtight. After the usual methods and tests have been resorted to tie a square of cotton wadding over the top of the jar around the rubber, securing it very tightly with twine or white cord. This renders it absolutely airtight.

How to Cure a Felon. Mix equal parts of strong ammonia and water and hold the finger in it for fifteen minutes. Then tie a cloth wet with the mixture about it and keep it on till dry. A remedy to be used at the beginning of a felon is composed of one ounce Venice turpentine in one-half teaspoonful of water spread on a cloth and tied on the finger.

Christmas Gift

HAT shall I give my loved one For a Christmas gift to-night? How can I tell the story—My pen refuses to write?

I would give her gems of light From the caverns deep of night; Opals, rubies, emeralds green, Diamonds bright with fiery sheen; All the spices, rich and strong, From the eastern lands of song; Perfumes heavy, musk and sand, Ambergris, opaque and hard; And the tissues soft and rare, That Circean beauties wear, That with clinging, tender fold, All her charms should closely hold.

I would give her castles fair Far in Spain's ambrosial air, Tall and stately, sheened with gold, Ivy grown and gray and old.

Since I cannot give her these—For I lack the needful pelf—I will give her, if she please, All I have—my life, my self.

DAVID A. CURTIS.

An Ishmaelite's Christmas

GOODBY, Henry," said the warden, holding out his hand.

"Goodbye," said the man as he grasped his late jailer's hand; "goodbye," a bit huskily. "I thank you—sir—for all your kindness."

"Oh, that's all right," said the warden cheerily. "I try to do what's right; that's all. Just you do that in the future, Henry, and I shall never see you here again. Good luck to you."

The great doors clanged behind Henry Johnson as he stepped out of the prison, where he had served six years, four months and twenty-five days—not the full sentence he had received, for the benefit of the allowance for good behavior had been his. But six years is a long time, long enough to change a man for better or worse.

With a new suit of clothes, a ticket to New York and twenty-three dollars Johnson walked away, once more a free man.

He had looked forward to this day for years. He had dreamed of it on his hard bed in his lonely cell—the day on which he would be liberated, on which his revenge would begin.

It was here at last. Johnson was surprised at his sensations. Instead of shouting, leaping or crying for joy, he was walking along as quietly as though setting out on a visit to friends.

Ah, friends! The word brought him to a realizing sense of what was before him. Friends indeed! In all the wide world had he a single friend?

With lightning rapidity the events of the last eight years swept before him. He saw himself honored and respected, holding a position of trust in a banking house, laying by a tidy little sum for the home which was to be his—and hers—in the near future.

Then came the scandal, the embezzlement, the mystery, the plot which wrecked his life and sent him to prison for a crime of which he was innocent. Then, through that inexplicable channel by which news drifts from the outer world to those in prison, he had learned of the prosperity of the man who in his soul he was convinced had ruined him, and of his marriage to the woman Johnson had loved.

The train for New York swept around the curve, and the smoothly shaven man in the ill fitting clothes, with despair on his face and hell in his heart, crept on and slunk into a corner by the door. He peered out the window to catch a last glimpse of the high stone wall and the sentry stalking solemnly up and down.

"How soon will I be back?" he asked himself.

Then as the gloom deepened on his haggard face he muttered, "When I come back it will not be for embezzlement, but for murder."

For Johnson had in those six dreary years of captivity calmly and coolly formulated his plan of revenge. He had decided to kill John Raymond, his former friend and business associate, just as he would kill a viper that had stung him.

How—when—where? were the words which jangled ceaselessly through his brain, keeping time to the clattering of the wheels over the rails.

ONE OR TWO PASSENGERS TURNED AND LOOKED AT HIM.

How? Suddenly, without warning and mercy. Even as ruin had darted upon him should the blow descend upon Raymond.

When? At night. Night, with its awful silence and mystery, should surround and envelop the deed.

Where? In his own house—the house Raymond had stolen from him. In its fancied security, in its seclusion and elegance, within calling distance of—his wife—if possible, would the murderer find him.

The man in the corner of the car laughed aloud. One or two passengers near turned and looked at him, but quickly withdrew their eyes. There was no contagious mirth in that laugh, and the smile on the cruel face was the smile of a fiend.

That night he crawled into a slovenly bed in a cheap lodging house on the east side. He missed the lonely cell to which he had become accustomed, and found himself wondering if they would give him his old quarters when he went back.

Next day he prowled about the muddy streets seeking work. It was Christmas week, and everybody was too busy to listen to him. He ate sparingly and hoarded his little roll of bills, counting them over and over. A strange attraction lured him to the neighborhood of the bank where he used to work. At the close of the sabbath day he stood and watched the well dressed, well groomed men emerge from the building. "That is the way I used to look," he said to himself, and then glanced down at his plain clothes and coarse shoes.

At night the Bowers glittered with rows of lights that twinkled like evil eyes. Johnson tramped for many blocks, pausing now and then to gaze in the windows at the Christmas decorations. There was one display which fascinated him. In a cutler's window were stars, crosses and other emblems formed of smooth, shining, sharp edged knives. Johnson looked steadily at them for a long time. Then he went in, and selecting one particularly wicked blade paid for it from the little roll of bills, thrust it in the breast pocket of his coat and resumed his tramp.

"Christmas, Christmas," he muttered as he plodded on. "What is Christmas to me? I'd like to give John Raymond a Christmas present, curse him," and then suddenly he thought what a fine thing it would be to drive that knife home in Raymond's heart and attach a piece of paper to the handle bearing the inscription, "A Christmas present from a loving friend."

"I'll do it!" he exclaimed. "Yes, I'll do it on the night before Christmas. What a merry Christmas it will be for me!"

People brushed against him in the throng. Children shrank at sight of his scowling face. On, on he went, unmindful of his surroundings.

SOMETHING ROLLED DOWN THE CHEEK OF THE EX-CONVICT.

Suddenly he paused before a great building into which crowds were pouring. He joined the throng and drifted in. There were lights and music. Somebody—a man with a clear baritone voice—was singing something. To the ears of the Ishmaelite stole these words:

I've found a friend in Jesus; He's the fairest of ten thousand to my soul, The Lily of the Valley. In him alone I see All I need to cleanse and make me fully whole.

Then suddenly the great audience rose to its feet and responded: He's the Lily of the Valley, The Bright and Morning Star; He's the fairest of ten thousand to my soul.

Johnson looked stupidly about. He saw faces lined with sin and suffering—the faces of thieves and outcasts. But everybody was singing. He looked at the platform. It was filled with men and women dressed in curious fashion, in dark blue costumes, with big scarlet letters on their breasts. During Johnson's prison life the Salvation Army had sprung into existence.

He all my griefs has taken, And all my sorrows borne; In temptation he's my strong and mighty tower—rang out the voice like a clarion call. And once more the poor, sodden wayfarers to whom he sang answered:

He's the Lily of the Valley, The Bright and Morning Star; He's the fairest of ten thousand to my soul.

Something rolled down the cheek of the ex-convict.

He put up his hand impatiently to brush it away.

And then, half stumbling, he hurried out into the night.

But as he fled through the fast falling snowflakes he heard again the refrain well up like a battlement:

He's the Lily of the Valley.

Next day as he aimlessly walked about he came face to face with a man he had known in his old life. The man started as if he had seen a ghost, and then shamefacedly and hesitatingly extended his hand.

"Howdy do, Johnson?" he said timidly.

"Oh, I'm well enough," said Johnson with a short, harsh laugh. "I'm trying to get something to do. Perhaps you could help me."

"I—oh, no—well, you see, just now everybody's taken up with Christmas."

"Yes, so I see."

"Of course you understand it's not an easy thing to recommend a—"

"A jailbird."

"Well, er—yes, you understand."

"Yes, I understand. I won't bother you. I'll get along in some fashion. I've a little money. But tell me, can you give me any news of Raymond?"

"Well, yes. You heard about his failure?"

"His failure? No."

"Yes, lost every cent a year ago. Poor as a church mouse. Sick, too, I heard a few days ago. Rheumatism, I believe. His wife—"

"Yes, yes, his wife."

"She's supporting him, I understand—sewing. They live somewhere on the east side in a tenement. Horrible come down! Well, I can't stand here all day. Goodbye. If I hear of anything"—and he was gone.

Johnson stood looking after him in a dazed fashion until a gentle hint from a policeman reminded him he had better move on.

So Raymond was poor and sick—his revenge, then, was partly begun—and that Christmas present—some way the thought of killing a poor invalid did not appeal so strongly to the Ishmaelite—somewhere on the east side—as well try to hunt the traditional needle—poor, sick, and Nelly sewing to support him—well, there was some justice in heaven, if not on earth.

It was the night before Christmas when Johnson strolled again into the great rink where the Salvation Army was holding its meetings. He listened to the burning words which fell from the lips of a sweet faced woman. She talked of God's best gift to man and spoke of peace and good will. Then again the singer came forward, and again the strains which had rung in Johnson's ears for two days rolled to the roof. While listening eagerly his eyes suddenly fell upon the face of a woman who was sitting three seats from him. A pale, thin, shabbily dressed woman.

It was Nelly!

When she rose to go he followed her. As she hurried away he stealthily crept behind her, his hand involuntarily clutching the knife over his heart.

Up a rickety flight of stairs she went, and close behind came her pursuer. She opened the door on the third landing and went in. He crouched outside, holding his breath.

The door remained ajar.

He looked in and marked the poor room, with its wretched belongings. He saw the bed and the sick man bolstered up by flabby pillows.

"Is that you, Nelly," he heard Raymond say. "I thought you would never come."

"Well, John, dear, I just ran into the rink a moment to hear the singing. It sounded so sweet as I came along. Here is your medicine now."

"He was innocent, Nelly."

Then Johnson, listening, straining every nerve there in the darkness, heard an awful groan.

"What is it, John? the pain again?"

"Yes, yes. Oh, this is terrible! Nelly, I am dying."

"No, no, dear, you will be better presently. Here, drink this."

The sufferer obeyed and sank back exhausted on the pillows. "Now," thought Johnson, "now is my time. I can rush in and stab him before his wife. Why do I not do it?"

"Poor Nelly!" said Raymond again, "to what have I brought you? Ah, sin finds its reward."

"Sin, John."

"Yes, sin. Nelly, I am dying. I must speak—I must tell you all!"

"Hush, dear, you are excited. Listen now. I'll sing you to sleep, and tomorrow, Christmas morning, you will be better."

And then to the Ishmaelite, his hand against every man, outside there in the darkness, floated in Nelly's sweet voice: He's the Lily of the Valley, The Bright and Morning Star.

But she was interrupted.

"I must speak," moaned the sick man. "I will tell you."

Then the door was softly pushed open, and the startled couple saw him. His face was pale, his features working, and tears were raining down his cheeks.

"No, John," said the Ishmaelite, "do not speak."

But not to be outdone in generosity, Raymond raised himself, and with one supreme effort pointed to Johnson, crying:

"He was innocent, Nelly."

And the bright morning star of Christmas shone through the window on three people, two of whom knelt by the bed holding the icy hands of the other. Both on the white face of the dead and the living face of the Ishmaelite had retted the peace which passeth all understanding.

Christmas Hoity.

The practice of decking churches with the evergreen is very ancient, says Chat-terbox. On this account our pilgrim fathers gave it the name of "holly tree," of which our word holly is a corruption.

Duppa tells us "that branches of this tree were sent by the Romans to their friends with their New Year's gifts as emblematical of good wishes, and the custom is said to be nearly as old as the building of Rome itself." The holly sometimes attains the height of forty feet, and when of this large size the wood is very valuable and is much used by cabinet makers. It is white, hard, close grained and takes a very fine polish.

When stained black it is an excellent imitation of ebony. The long and straight tough branches are often used for whip handles and walking sticks.

The leaves of the holly near the ground are frequently much more prickly than those toward the top of the tree. This circumstance forms the subject of a poem by Southey, in which he says that though in youth buffeting with the world may call forth harshness, yet a man ought to pray that unkind feelings may daily wear away—

Thy smooth temper of his age shall be Like the holly leaves upon the holly tree.

Knew it was a Big Tooth.

A man prominent in these two cities has a history. Some years ago he suffered with the toothache. He suffered so much that at last he determined to have the tooth pulled and he did. But the pain of it was so great that it caused him to resolve that never again would he have a tooth pulled. He kept this resolve for four years. The other day he had the toothache, and suffered so much that some of his friends got him to have the tooth pulled.

He went to a dentist whom he well knew, who had joked him some about his resolve to steer clear of dentists. He took gases and woke up with the tooth gone. He had paid the dentist and got on his wraps, and was going through the door, when he happened to think of the tooth.

"Say, I'd like to look at that tooth," he said.

"Well, now, I'd been thinking of that, and I washed the blood off it. Here it is."

The dentist had preserved for years an ancient horstooth as a curiosity, and it was this that he took from the drawer and showed the Lewiston man.

"I knew it was as large as that," said the sufferer, with a satisfied look. The tooth was an inch across on top and very long.—Lewiston Journal.

CLEVELAND'S CABINET

Has Claimants from All Sections of the Country.

MIXED POLITICS IN THE EMPIRE STATE

May Shut Her Out Unless Whitney Accepts a Portfolio.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—While it is well known to those of Mr. Cleveland's friends who have access to his confidential purposes, like Carlisle, Whitney and Dickinson, that he has not yet given the subject of his cabinet even serious consideration, the friends of the aspirants for cabinet honors in the various sections of the country are none the less active in their efforts here and elsewhere to make a strong showing when the time of selecting these officers arrives. From the conversation of the three thoroughly advised gentlemen above named, it can be stated that it is not the purpose of the president-elect to determine upon the persons to be elected until a short time before he reaches Washington. The president-elect has come to this decision in order to avoid any complications which might arise if his choice of persons was known.

The president-elect has not disclosed his purpose to make a fair distribution of these cabinet places among the great sections of the country. As a consequence,

There is Much Rivalry among the friends of the aspirants for these places. In Illinois, that state having done so nobly for the Democracy in the late campaign, there is already a lively contention under way between the supporters of the three factions represented by Senator Palmer, Colonel Morrison and Representative Cable, who, it is claimed by some, contributed largely to produce the result at that state.

The different factions there will be able to parcel out harmoniously the federal patronage in the state, as their recent meeting demonstrated, but on the cabinet question there was great friction. Colonel Morrison and friends claimed that with united action he might secure a cabinet portfolio. The other leaders, however, are not disposed to yield in behalf of this gentleman. There are other names, they think, which will give more satisfaction and strength to the Democracy of Illinois than Colonel Morrison. The leaders are well aware that without perfect harmony, Illinois will be left out. The attempts to adjust these differences will therefore

Be Carried to a Conclusion.

It is well understood among the Indians here that the name of Governor Gray will have the unanimous support of the Democrats of the delegation in both houses of congress.

There will also be a sharp contest in California. The Pacific slope people assert that their section has never been represented in the cabinet. They now claim that they are entitled to recognition by Mr. Cleveland by reason of the vast and growing interests of their section and the favorable results of the late campaign. It is believed among the leaders here that the west extending to California will have at least three places.

It should be decided to place Senator Carlisle in the treasury, the plans of the western politicians will be somewhat disturbed, as that is the place for which Illinois is making an effort.

In New England,

where one of the cabinet places will be located, there will be a struggle. Connecticut has already indicated a determination to present her claims. So has New Hampshire. The probabilities are, however, that Massachusetts will secure the prize, but who will be remains for Mr. Cleveland to determine. It is understood that General Collins is not anxious for the attorney generalship, as his practice is large and remunerative. It is thought, however, among his friends in the delegation that he might defer to their wishes in order to secure this recognition.

From what is learned here among New Yorkers the president-elect will have much trouble in that state. The mugwumps and anti-snapper sentiment are determined to present their claims. They have several candidates whom they propose to press, either of whom would be satisfactory to them. The regular Democracy, including Tammany, has also its candidates. This state of affairs will be very Embarrassing to Mr. Cleveland.

Unless some compromise selection can be made outside of these factions, he may find it wiser to leave the state entirely to Mr. Whitney will be forced to take the portfolio of state, in order to harmonize these powerful conflicting interests.

New Jersey and Pennsylvania are both in the field, and but one can be accommodated. If Mr. Harris's friends should decide to present his name, he would be very apt to receive recognition, as Mr. Cleveland has a very high appreciation of his services in the campaign.

The indications that a southern man will be selected has brought out candidates in Virginia, Georgia, Louisiana, Alabama and Tennessee. Their friends are assiduously at work in the south and here, concentrating all the influence they can bring to bear in their support.

AT DEATH'S PORTAL.

James G. Blaine Has but a Short Time to Live.

ALL HOPE HAS BEEN ABANDONED.

Physicians Admit That a Sinking Spell Will Terminate Fatally.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—All day yesterday the life of James G. Blaine hung trembling in the balance. For more than an hour in the afternoon hope was abandoned, and the end was momentarily expected by physicians, family and friends. All simulation was thrown aside in the apparent imminent presence of death, and the suppressed facts of his sickness—the long-denied Bright's disease, the occasional intervals of delirium, the long hours when he has lain incapable of speech or motion, and the other distressing features of his sickness, all incidental to the one overpowering organic trouble, aggravated as this has been of late by a cold contracted while out driving and by malarial fever, and confronted by a constitution impaired by nearly two years of continual sickness—all these facts are now tacitly admitted.

The first crisis was reached between 11 o'clock in the morning, when a sinking spell set in, from which the worst was feared. Mr. Blaine's family were called to his bedside, and his physicians sent messengers to the nearest drug store with prescriptions requiring hasty attention. The distinguished patient lay unconscious, and to all appearances dying, until shortly before 1 o'clock, when

A Slight Rally Set In. His pulse, which had almost ceased to beat, became again perceptible, and partial consciousness was restored.

At 2:30 o'clock a reporter saw James G. Blaine, Jr., at the family residence. He said that his father's attack in the morning was very bad and created the gravest apprehension. The patient became so weak that it was feared a recurrence of the attack must involve the gravest consequences.

Drs. Hyatt and Johnson, who were to meet at the house for a consultation between 7 and 8, were before 5 o'clock. Both soon reached the house. Their arrival gave rise to a rumor that he was suffering from another attack of exhaustion. This, however, proved to be an error, and the statement was authoritatively made at 7 p. m. that nothing in the nature of a relapse had occurred.

Dr. Hyatt said that he thought there was no doubt that Mr. Blaine would live through the night, but the patient was critically sick and any complication that might arise would cause a fatal termination to his sickness.

The Excitement Throughout the City was intense as the news of Mr. Blaine's condition spread, and the newspapers issued extras which found a rapid sale.

All day representatives of the press patrolled Madison place and carefully watched the old red mansion, which has been celebrated for its historical associations and the fatality with which misfortune has followed its occupants.

From the Sickles-Key tragedy, which occurred a third of a century ago, following by the attempted assassination of Secretary Seward during the last year of the civil war, down to the present time, the pall of ill-fate has hung over the mansion.

During the less than four years occupancy of this house by the Blaine family, Mrs. Coppinger, Walker Blaine and Edmunds Blaine, the secretary's children, have died.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

A business block at Springfield, Mass., was burned; loss $50,000.

Woodchoppers quarrelled at Ledyard, Conn., and one was probably fatally injured.

George Westlake of Long Island City died of joy on hearing of his insane wife's recovery.

Five members of the Fitchburg (Mass.) board of trade subscribed $25,000 for new machine works there.

John Massey, 33, of Sheffield, Mass., a brakeman, was killed at Great Barrington by the cars.

Superintendent Parker of the Pacific mills, Lawrence, Mass., denies that there is any trouble in the mills.

Robert Beatty, charged with furnishing poison with which to poison non-union men at Homestead, Pa., was held in $5000 bail.

W. H. Cole of Worcester, Mass., a brakeman on a freight train on the Fitchburg railroad, was killed near Marlboro, N. H.

John Powers, a Waterbury (Conn.) saloon keeper who left town a month ago, taking $400, has been arrested in Pittsburgh.

At Taunton, Mass., while hurrying to catch a train for Boston, Orris Clarke, aged 70, was taken with hemorrhage and died in half an hour.

The body of John Fleming, who, with another man, was carried over Rumford Falls, Me., was found near one of the new bridge abutments at Livermore Falls.

The loss to the Telford Manufacturing company of one of its mills and a portion of another in Worcester, Mass., on Dec. 9, by fire, has been adjusted for $108,000.

The jury on the case at Newport, R. I., of Catherine Southwick against Caroline Southwick, her mother-in-law, for alienating her husband's affections, for which she placed damages at $20,000, failed to agree.

Attorney Coogan of Hartford denies having any knowledge of Mrs. Florence Sinclair of Astoria, L. I., or her uncle, John J. Cummings of Creede, Colo., by whose death she becomes entitled to $5,500,000.

BOGUS CHECK SWINDLER.

Captured in Maine After Successfully Working New Hampshire Towns.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 19.—The forger who has been passing worthless checks in Exeter, Portsmouth and Great Falls, N. H., has been landed behind the bars in Saco. He came to Biddeford Saturday and looked about the two towns. Late in the afternoon he began operations, and offered in payment for a $12 garment at Rosenbaum Bros.' dry goods store a check for $13, purporting to be issued by Dennett Bros., the Saco stable keepers, to the order of Mr. Kimball. The stranger stated that he was the Kimball named. Mr. Rosenbaum declined to accept the check, and invited the stranger to call again.

Jerre Quinn, who was in the store at the time, volunteered to go over to Saco and find out from the Dennett Bros. if the check was all right. On the way over he notified an officer to be on the lookout for the suspicious fellow. Dennett Bros. denied that the check was theirs, and they, with a local policeman and the Biddeford city marshal, began a hunt for the rogue.

About 8 o'clock Mr. Quinn met the forger on the street, and the latter wheeled and ran, but was captured and turned over to an officer. On the way to the jail he gave his name as James Henderson and said he belonged in Boston, where he had a wife and two children. He admitted that he has been working the bogus check swindle in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

Former New Hampshire Woman Figures in a Washington Divorce Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Mrs. Frances L. Bernhardt has begun proceedings for divorce from Wilhelm Bernhardt, Ph. D., professor of German in the high school of this city, and the editor of many text books and classics, which have won him a reputation in educational circles. He is also a member of the faculty of Sauveur Summer College of Languages, and it was at its last session in Exeter, N. H., that he first met his wife. Her family, the Lawrence, is one of considerable influence in Exeter. The marriage of Dr. Bernhardt and Miss Lawrence took place at Exeter, N. H., Oct. 1. The cause of the suit is said to be Dr. Bernhardt's ungovernable temper when under excitement. He is a man of very strong emotions.

Eight Men Killed.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 19.—An accident occurred on the Great Northern railroad yesterday at Nelson station, in which eight men were killed and five seriously injured.

Maine's Valuation.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 19.—The returns of town assessors have increased the state valuation about $5,000,000 since the report of 1891, and now reaches $255,000,000. This is an increase of $10,000,000 from 1890.

Borden Trial Delayed.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 19.—Chief Justice Mason is authority for the statement that the Borden trial will not take place before February, and, perhaps, not for a month or two later.

Aerial Torpedoes.

The Marine Francaise publishes an article by Admiral Reveillere, in which he assures his readers that a revolution in naval affairs is approaching not less important than that caused by the introduction of armored ships. The gun will cease its contest with the armor plate in the sense of seeking to penetrate by its shock, and will henceforth scatter destruction by launching explosive shells of large capacity at comparatively low velocities. A shell containing 100 kilograms of paraffin would, he says, be a veritable torpedo, and would infallibly destroy whatever it fell upon. The gun for this service would be a mortar, such as is used for military purposes, and in the admiral's view a mortar of 22 cm. (8.6 inches) would replace a gun of 14 cm. (5.5 inches), and one of 27 cm. (10.6 inches) a gun of 16 cm. (6.3 inches), wherever these are found.

Guns of high velocity, he says, must be reserved for action against the personnel; they have henceforth no place against the ship itself. This proposal is but an extension of Admiral Reveillere's project of swift mortar vessels, analogous to torpedo boats, but constructed for the launching of aerial torpedoes.

THE GRAND WIND-UP.

Labor Federation Acts on Many Important Measures.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS IS RE-ELECTED.

Chicago Wins the Fight for the Convention in 1893.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—At the final session of the twelfth annual Federation of Labor convention, resolutions were adopted calling on all local unions affiliated with the federation to join central labor bodies holding charters from the federation; condemning the Rock Island railroad system for requiring its telegraph operators to withdraw from their organization; asking that sailors be included under the provisions of the alien contract law; condemning the system of advance wages to sailors; favoring changes in the patent laws so that inventors will receive a direct reward; condemning the Baron Hirsch fund and its charitable assisted recipients; and demanding restriction of immigration; condemning the system compelling waiters to shave off their mustaches and favoring the eight-hour system for them.

PRESIDENT SAMUEL GOMPERS.

A resolution was unanimously adopted asking clemency for the imprisoned Chicago anarchists, Neebe, Fielden and Schwab.

A resolution favoring government control of telegraph and telephone lines was passed, with an amendment asking government control of railroads.

Arbitration When Practicable.

Differences between the Socialists and autonomists were aired when a resolution was reported asking congress either to pass legislation compelling the adjustment of labor disputes by arbitration, or the submission of a constitutional amendment permitting such legislation. The socialist representatives favored the measure as a step toward government control of all production, but President Gompers and others argued that compulsory arbitration might prove a dangerous weapon against labor interests should it fall into the hands of the capital. The question was finally settled by the addition of a substitute which emphatically approved the principle of arbitration, but recognized its inapplicability where the workers involved are not fully organized.

Resolutions were adopted recommending that chiefs and superintendents of government bureaus be selected from the ranks of the skilled workmen employed in the bureau are engaged; favoring municipal, state and national civil service reform; favoring free and compulsory education, and instructing the executive council to prepare a bill to that effect.

President Gompers' salary was increased from $1500 to $1800, and that of the secretary from $1200 to $1500 per annum.

Election of Officers.

Both President Gompers and Secretary Christopher Evans were the unanimous choice of the convention and were re-elected. After a contest for the treasurer's office John Lennon, the present incumbent, was re-elected. P. J. Maguire was re-elected first vice president and William A. Carney of Pittsburgh was chosen second vice president.

Numerous boycotts were endorsed by the committee to whom they had been referred, together with a recommendation that, as the boycott was being made ineffective by indiscriminate use, none be approved hereafter unless requested under seal of an affiliated body.

Chicago secured the convention for 1893 after a close fight against the claims of Denver.

A resolution favoring direct elections by the people was passed unanimously. Under the guise of $100 for expenses that amount was added to the treasurer's salary.

Among other resolutions concurred in was one to prohibit Japanese federation.

After the usual complimentary communications and resolutions, Vice President Maguire delivered the peroration preceding final adjournment, which was then announced.

Hunger Forced Him to Steal.

New York, Dec. 19.—A young man who gave his name as Frank Hutchinson and his residence as Westford, Mass., walked into the Thirtieth street police station and accused himself of having stolen a pocket-book containing $4 and some foreign coins from a young lady. He said he spent the $4 and he gave the police the pocketbook and coins. The prisoner said he was 24 years old and was an engraver, and was starving when he stole.

Brakeman Fatally Injured. BOSTON, Dec. 19.—Raymond T. Meekin, aged 23, a brakeman on the New York and New England railroad, fell from a freight train yesterday afternoon, sustaining injuries to his head and breaking both arms. He will die.

THE VERDICT of the voters of the country at the Presidential election was against protection as outlined in the McKinley bill, and it is the duty of Mr. Cleveland's administration to revise it and eliminate the objectionable features. Our townsman, Mr. William B. Rice, took a very sensible view of the situation in his speech before the Tariff Reform League, which is given in full in another column. He does not understand it as a victory for free trade, or that tariff reformers are tariff smashers, and intimates that tariff will be increased in some cases and lowered in others. The Democrats have a large job on their hands to please everybody and may not be any more successful than McKinley and the Republicans.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. Nevelle, who figured so prominently in New York a few weeks ago, is to be debarred from "society," as the rules of the "four hundred" require that any man who figures as a defendant in a police court shall be ousted from the aristocratic ring. Were this rule in vogue in London, it would do away with "society."

Someone has said that Fannie Davenport should be placed in charge of the weather bureau. If the noted actress could command the elements as she does in "Cleopatra," General Drydenford wouldn't be "in it."

A Biddeford newspaper man, succeeded, after a hard struggle, in capturing a notorious swindler. It is a case where the power of the press, and the press of the power figured predominantly.

"The cabbage crop in the West has failed, and as a consequence, Chicago is threatened with a 'sauerkraut famine,' says an exchange. Now who gave this away?"

One thing is certain; there is no muzzle on the Monitor.

W. B. RICE'S SPEECH.

At the New England Tariff Reform League Meeting.

THE ISSUE WHICH WON ELECTION

Not A Victory for Free Trade or Anything Approaching It.

Hon. William B. Rice, of this city, was one of the four speakers at the banquet of the New England Tariff Reform League in Boston, last Friday, and the LEDGER takes pleasure in reproducing his speech in full. It was as follows:

The tariff is a purely business question, and if it is to be settled rightly it must be discussed from a business standpoint, without regard to the interests of any political party whatever. To take its control out of politics should be the aim of the tariff reformer.

I do not regard the result of the recent election as a declaration in favor of free trade, nor even for a revenue tariff such as prevails in England.

The battle was fought by attacking the claim that a protective tariff was a good thing in itself, and that (in the language of Thomas B. Reed) "the more of it we had the better." We attacked and routed the protective policy as represented by the McKinley bill.

We opposed the doctrine advanced by a distinguished Massachusetts manufacturer, who has just been elected to Congress, when he stated that the wool schedule ought to be entirely satisfactory, because it was the result of an agreement between the wool growers and the woolen manufacturers.

We declared that there was Another Party to be Considered, the man who paid the tax. On that issue the victory was won.

And now, having won the victory, the very serious question confronts us, "What are we going to do with it?"

The proper settlement of this requires the most careful, most able, and most deliberate consideration. Now, I do not understand that a tariff reformer is necessarily a tariff smasher. In view of the fact that we must raise an enormous revenue, the tariff may, in some instances, need reforming up as well as down.

Whether the protective principle is right or wrong, we are a mighty nation that has grown up with it, or, if you prefer, in spite of it. Industries have been established under an implied contract, and the withdrawal of privileges under that contract should not be so abrupt as to destroy them. They must be given ample time to adapt themselves to new conditions.

A Class of Manufacturers have been taught to rely on the interference of the government, through the protective tariff in their favor, and to believe that they cannot exist without it.

As tariff reformers, we believe this is wrong in principle, and vicious in practice; but, as conservative business men, we realize that the work of reformation will be best, and soonest brought about, by avoiding destructive measures.

President Harrison, and lesser lights in his party, declare that, to be consistent, the next administration must adopt a free trade policy. Yet, all well know that, had the issue been presented to the voters in the form of accepting a revenue tariff, such as now prevails in Great Britain, not a state would have chosen electors for that ticket.

It is nonsense to talk about free trade, or anything approaching it, for many years to come. We can, however, gradually return to the lower tariff which prevailed prior to the civil war, when the foundation of all our manufacturing industries was so firmly laid.

This Work Requires Time.

I do not believe the party coming into power will permit itself to be prodded into reckless, hurried legislation.

Large numbers of thinking men, who have acted with the Republican party, are convinced that recent protective tariff legislation has gone much too far; and such men can be relied upon to support honest, careful, business like effort toward a lower tariff and free raw materials.

It must be expected that those professional politicians and the representatives of great protected interests, who combined to draft and enact the McKinley bill, will oppose any change. But the masses, having repudiated that act at the polls, demand that the new Congress shall repeal its most objectionable features.

While ample time should be taken to arrive at safe and correct conclusions in the general tariff schedule, there are many reforms that are demanded with substantial unanimity, and no time should be lost in adopting them.

We are 65,000,000 of Unqualified Free Traders

so far as the United States is concerned, and to the unfettered flow of trade between the Atlantic and the Pacific, the lake and the Gulf, a territory larger than all the rest of the civilized world, we may correctly ascribe much of our great prosperity.

We are now ready to extend this policy to cover all the continent directly to the north of us. The business men of New England are practically unanimous in demanding that all tariff barriers shall be thrown down between the United States and Canada and the British provinces.

At the earliest possible moment our government should declare our willingness to enter into complete commercial union, and open negotiations looking to that end.

In this country we need not legislate to create business. Give us free play for our ability, enterprise and natural advantages, and also permit the corrective and steady influence of the law of supply and demand to work without hindrance, and all our business interests will take care of themselves.

J. W. BRADLEE'S SUICIDE.

Seems to Have Been Carefully Premeditated—His Accounts in Order.

The suicide of J. Walter Bradley seems to have been carefully premeditated, so far as it is possible to judge from appearances, says the reporter of the Boston Advertiser.

When the safe was opened by the family Friday night it was found that he had left everything in order, with full and accurate instructions as to the amounts due to, or on, the several estates with which he was connected. The documents were all in their proper places, in envelopes, carefully arranged, and showing that even after he had contemplated taking his own life he had bestowed considerable thought on his business.

His accounts are all in proper order, and everything which might be considered as a motive for the taking of his own life is absent in this case. The only incentive which his friends believe could have impelled him to commit suicide was the fact that his mind was evidently unbalanced by an attack of the grip, from which he suffered last winter.

An intimate friend of Mr. Bradley says that he has never been in the same spirits since he was defeated for sheriff of Norfolk County three years ago by the present sheriff, A. B. Endicott. The district was strongly republican, and Mr. Bradley felt the sting of defeat very keenly, and often so expressed himself to his intimate friends.

Nothing strange had been noticed in his actions which would have led his family to believe that he contemplated his own destruction, although there were things which they now recall which would tend to show that he was not in his right mind for some time past. The horse and buggy with which Mr. Bradley took his last ride, have been found in a friend's stable near Mattapan, where he placed them a few hours before committing suicide. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1 o'clock. There will be services at the Unitarian church of Milton.

Looking for Engagements.

Just at this period of the year, when the pantomime season is rapidly approaching, actors and actresses, particularly those of the lighter schools, fly to the papers to secure engagements. The current number of the principal journal devoted to theatrical and music hall requirements contains vast numbers of advertisements, not only of this kind, but of every possible requisite for the stage, and some particulars of them may prove interesting.

There are 404 ladies, including both actresses proper and music hall stars, major and minor, who have vacant dates that require filling. In addition to these, thirty-three combinations of "sisters," eleven troops of lady gymnasts and trick bicyclists, three fat women, two lady champion rifle shots and a strong lady seek engagements. Even this does not complete the list. Twenty-four competent lady pianists want something to do, nine leading chorists ladies have nowhere to sing, and four female instructors will be happy to teach dancing to aspiring disciples of Terpsichore.

The male portion of the community is represented by 419 advertisements, including exponents of the legitimate drama and representatives of the music hall stage. To these must be added nine jugglers, fourteen tight rope walkers and aerial trapeze specialists, four strong men, a dozen circus clowns, six conjurers and a man monkey—whatever the latter may be. There are fifty-eight instrumentalists who desire positions in orchestras, and seven amateurs wish to go on the stage. Trios, families and troops are found in twenty-five instances.—London Tit-Bits.

The March of Mind.

The two boys, eleven and thirteen years old, who snatched a woman's pocketbook at the postoffice, where she was writing a money order, and then led the policeman a merry chase by hallways and roofs, illustrate the march of mind. When the novelist of "Oliver Twist" sketched the youthful London criminal, with whom he was well acquainted, he makes him an expert pickpocket. He appears as versatile and ready of wit in doubling and covering his trail, but nothing will be found in his performance that suggests the New World audacity. In its minor field it is of a piece with the dash that robs western banks and holds up railway trains. It is the revelation of a mental quality, and as such is worthy the meditation of the philosopher.—New York Evening Sun.

A Box Constrictor Among the Bananas.

As a merchant on Louisiana avenue was unloading a wagon load of bananas a small box constrictor dropped from one of the bunches. There was a general stampede, during which the native of Central America calmly coiled itself and waited developments. In a few moments a large crowd had assembled at a safe distance and his snakeship was discussed at long range. The cold pavement, however, and the chilling atmosphere were not conducive to a great amount of hilarity on the part of the snake, and after a little while he tied his head out of sight and went to sleep. It was a fatal mistake, for a moment later he was a prisoner, and now poises in coils as the chief attraction in a museum in Twelfth street.—Washington Star.

IN OTHER LANDS.

How the Children in Europe Observe Christmas Day.

In Belgium the children fill their shoes with beans and carrots on Christmas eve, and set them in the chimney place for the good saint's horse. In the morning they expect to find them filled with sweetmeats and fruit in return for their good behavior.

In Holland the children hang up their woolen stockings by the tiled chimney piece, and then go sobbing to bed quite sure that good St. Nicholas will visit them, provided they do not disturb him in his visit.

Bohemian children listen anxiously on Christmas eve for the chariot and white horses of the "Christ child" as he comes flying through the air with his krippe full of presents; but the Italian children go gravely with their parents to churches and cathedral to see the bambino, or saint, who presents them with their Christmas gifts.

The Spanish children hide their shoes or slippers in the bushes on Christmas eve, and find them filled with fruit and sugar plums on Christmas morning.

In France the young people stand their shoes in a convenient place for the gifts to be dropped into. Sometimes if the shoe of a bad boy is among them he finds a whip in it in the morning, and he must be a stupid fellow who cannot take so sharp a hint. Very different are the feelings of a German child. He waits with feelings of mingled awe and pleasure for the coming of two important personages—the "Christ child" and the "Knecht Ruppert." The latter person questions naughty children and threatens them with punishment till the "Christ child's" intercession saves the culprit and wins his pardon. Then these two Christmas apparitions lay down their burdens of gifts and depart.

In some parts of Germany the good saint will have a Christmas tree brilliantly illuminated with wax candles to hang his gifts on. He is not satisfied simply with the stocking in the chimney, and it is from this whim of his saintship that the custom has spread into other countries and come over to our own. The Christmas tree of today, however, is only a successor to its prototype, the ancient legendary yggdrasil, or eternal tree, that had its roots in earth and its top in heaven.

In Germany the schoolboys and choristers make the midnight air ring with their merry carols. The "Three Kings of the East," the Angel Gabriel and the Star Singers" parade the streets, and similar processions go about in Italy, France and Spain. In former years, and perhaps even now in some localities in England, the Christmas waits—young lads—make the air vocal with lovely Christmas carols, but in our country these are reserved to be heard in church and Sunday school, and sometimes they ring out in chimes from the church steeple.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

At Christ's Birthplace.

In Bethlehem of Judea there is great gladness today—just such gladness as is felt in every great city and in every quiet hamlet of civilized Europe and America.

This is for Bethlehem the one great season of the year, for was not Christ born in this picturesque Old World eastern town, and will not the thoughts of all believers in Christ be turned thither during the anniversary of his birth? Being honored thus above all other places of the earth, Bethlehem never forgets to do honor to the Christ who has made her famous.

On Christmas eve they will begin. During the evening of that day the believers of Jerusalem will gather together and flock out of the city, with their faces set for the famous Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem.

Down through the valley of Gihon, the old boundary between Benjamin and Judah, the people of Jerusalem will march. They will see, as they pass, the tree on which the traitor Judas is said to have hanged himself, and the well aerial trapeze specialists, four strong men, a dozen circus clowns, six conjurers and a man monkey—whatever the latter may be. There are fifty-eight instrumentalists who desire positions in orchestras, and seven amateurs wish to go on the stage. Trios, families and troops are found in twenty-five instances.—London Tit-Bits.

An Old Christmas Hymn.

The following, by Geoffrey Williston Christmas, is probably the oldest of these quaint hymns that has been preserved, and dates back to "early English" times:

In a stable Crystle was borne,

Al ye cast beside the kenne.

On ye cross his lynde were borne,

That heaven may be reached with ease.

Shoute and syng and hayle ye morne,

Cryste, our Lorde, ys borne, ys borne.

Peace, good will to all on erthe,

Wise men from every ye teare.

Bye that wandrus, roial byrthe

Mankynde are freed from every fear.

Shoute and syng and hayle ye morne,

Cryste, our Lorde, ys borne, ys borne.

The Olden Song.

Come, sing the olden song once more!

The Christmas carol sing;

With solemn joy, from shore to shore,

Let earth her tribute bring.

And she fulfilled those prophet dreams;

That Hebrew vision old;

From Bethlehem's stable a glory streams;

That makes the future gold.

A golden future—health and peace

To all beneath the sun;

A time when wars and wrongs shall cease,

And heaven and earth be one.

But this our trust, through long delay,

With no weak doubts doled;

And be in all our hearts today,

Newborn, the Eternal Child.

THE ORIGIN OF MAN.

The Study of a Local Physician on the Subject. Believer in Evolution.

A fairly good proportion of the members of the Quincy Literary and Debating society, turned out last Saturday evening to hear Dr. McLennan's "Essay on the Origin of Man." Of late the attendance of members has been somewhat lax, but a consuming desire to know whether their pre-historic fathers were descended from Adam, or from the Anthropomorphous ape, had the effect of bringing them up to time. This subject, on account of its speculative character, is beset with difficulties; but the doctor handled it in such a manner as to gain the appreciation of all, although some took exception to his logic and conclusions.

At the outset the essayist said: "On the question of the origin of man the world is divided into two great schools. One holds that he was developed in infinite time from lower orders of animal life, the other that he appeared at a certain epoch by divine creation." He then went on at length to present the claims of both schools. "The oldest first, namely, those who believe in revelation, who hold that God having created man revealed to him his will through certain individuals whom he chose to inspire.

It seems to me all we have to consider under the old school—

The Special act of Divine Creation, is the book of Genesis alone. Who wrote it? I cannot tell you, the author never signed his name. When was it written? I cannot tell you, there is no date to it. The purpose of it would be to trace the origin of a people called Hebrews, and incidentally to give an account of a flood which came over the earth many hundred years before the writer's time. All the events described in the four following books ascribed to Moses, seem to centre around one particular hero—Moses. Something like the Enkid of Virgil, with Enkid as the hero, but not at all so poetical.

Referring to the fact that revelation comes with geology the doctor said: According to the Mosaic account, the earth at present would be about 6,000 years old, but geologists have shown that it would take millions of years for the successive development of animal existence, or structure on the earth's surface." One of the most important defects in the Mosaic narrative is where the writer tells of the marriage of Cain to a daughter of a neighboring tribe. Here the whole argument falls to the ground, for he virtually admits that Adam was not the first man, or else a great many were created immediately after Adam was.

After further criticising the narrative of Moses and showing its confusion and absurdities the essayist says: "I am forced to confess that I have no argument to offer for the creation of man as given in the book of Genesis, and even if I did accept the special act of divine creation I could not accept it as given by Genesis." Passing on to speak of

The Theory of Evolution in which the essayist is a believer, he says: "That our progenitors have been the wild men of the forest, seems to me as conclusive as anything history tells us. Indeed one seems to believe it instinctively, for let one speak disparagingly of any custom that prevails at the present day and we will surely end by calling it, 'A relic of barbarity.'"

He then goes on to trace back many of the customs of the present day to barbarous times, and remarks that what is true of customs is equally true of science, art, literature and religion. "I think we have a right to investigate as far back as our knowledge goes, even to answer where matter first came from, if there was any possibility of answering that question, but I do not think there is. How much more rational it is to fathom back as far as we can and base our conclusions upon actual facts, than to make the assertion that God created out of nothing, God being self-existent without beginning and without end.

Now I ask frankly who can comprehend what that means, if it means anything at all I think it is this: that we at once admit our total ignorance, and further that we have no wish to be informed. Today the leading investigators in every line of truth believe in the descent of man from lower orders of animal life. Who are their Leading Opponents? The deductors of consequences from pre-conceived principles, whose opinions cannot be worth anything. In tracing man down through the stages of evolution, the hardest stage to find is that between the lowest form of man and the highest form of the lower animal. This stage is often in decision called the missing link.

Naturalists tell us that the highest species of the monkey, as also of the ape, and many others are endowed with a degree of reason. Now take the lowest type of a savage, who cannot count four, is he so very intelligent? The writer then proceeded to admit that there is a missing link, but explains its absence on the hypothesis that it may have been a sub-species which has now become extinct."

Prof. Huxley is quoted as holding that man in all parts of his organization differs less from the highest apes, than those do from the lower members of the same group, consequently there is no reason for placing man in a distinct order. Man's pedigree as outlined by Charles Darwin, was also quoted, of which the essayist truly says: "It is of prodigious length and not of very noble blood either." In concluding his essay, Dr. McLennan said: "If the world should accept the evolutionary origin of man, it will be one of

Man's Greatest Triumphs to know himself, but I believe the world as a whole will not accept it until there is hardly enough left uninvestigated to hang a doubt upon."

This essay had the effect of bringing out a very animated and intelligent discussion. Probably something over one half of those present endorsed the doctor's views and argued that evolution was the most reasonable theory of the origin of man. There were a few, however, who clung tenaciously to the old belief of the divine creation of all things, and supported their belief with much energy. But from the general tenor of the discussion I could not help being impressed with the fact that the evolution theory of Darwin is rapidly gaining ground among the younger portion of our members, and even among those who rejected its teachings, opposition was not particularly strong.

It looks to me to be only a matter of time when the Mosaic account of the creation will be entirely thrown overboard unrelieved, and the evolution theory substituted. Yet I would not like to see the superstructure of religion shattered. There is so much in regard to first causes which is entirely unknown, that one should be very diffident about expressing dogmatically their opinions either against theological beliefs or in favor of the doctrine of evolution. Rather would I say with Tennyson:—

"Behold we know not anything,
I can but trust that good will fall—
At last—far off—at last to all;
And every winter change to spring."

ANOTHER SETTLEMENT.

One by One the Granite Centres are Ending Their Labor Troubles.

A committee representing the stonecutters of Hurricane were in Rockland, Maine, last week, in consultation at the Booth Brothers and Hurricane Granite Company's headquarters.

The result was apparent when the bill of prices ending March 1, 1895, was signed, thus effecting a declaration of peace.

The settlement differs but little with the other treaties that have been made throughout New England. Between 150 and 200 men will return to work at once.

This practically ends the great struggle in this section; about the only place where the men are not now working is Long Cove.

The Booth Brothers and Hurricane Granite Company have not settled with the men there, though this will be done speedily, it is thought, when work is secured.

CONTRACT VS. DAY LABOR

A Majority of the Irish National League Inclines to the Latter.

Resolved, That it would be for the best interests of Quincy to complete all public buildings and other public works by day labor and abolish the contract system.

Such was the interesting subject again debated Sunday night by the members and guests of the Irish National League.

Mr. Garden thought that it might be a saving to a city to employ the contract system, but in the end a rich man would be able to grind his workmen. He thought that in time, the contract system would die out.

Dr. Measy said that in general principles, day labor was best. When the city took charge of the Willard School it was well done and cheaper and the sooner the contract system is done away with the better.

Mr. Michael Burns thought that it would be a saving to the city to contract. "The city should watch and see that the specifications are carried out. A contractor will not hire a man who is not competent."

Other speakers were; Dennis Ford, George Cahill, Thomas Carroll, Peter McCarthy, George D. Cahill, Patrick Fay, Enos Costa and William Faircloth.

A vote was then taken, and the members expressed their belief that it would be for the best interest of Quincy to abolish the contract system. The vote was 25 to 4.

WEYMOUTH.

A union temperance meeting was held in the Baptist church Sunday evening. Addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Noon, secretary of the Massachusetts Total Abstinence society, and Revs. B. F. Eaton, Oliver Huckel and Wesley L. Smith.

—The 75th anniversary of Dr. Miner's church, the Second Universalist, on Columbus avenue, Boston, was observed Sunday. The venerable pastor renewed the interesting history of the church and Tufts college.

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following.—Banquet Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 36 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rokers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Side Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaid & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from 5 to 25 per cent, on lowest Boston prices.

The new store, Tirrell's Block, Hancock street, Quincy.

At this instant three startling raps on the knocker sounded through the old house. "It's that good for nothing Jake Mellen waiting till this time of night to fetch them groceries. Don't leave the slaps-jacks, Katrina; I'll open the door."

'TIS CHRISTMAS IN DE CABIN.

'Tis Christmas in de cabin,
'Tho' I am far away;
'Tis Christmas in de cabin,
I know de blessed day!

An dar de mock'birds singin'
Mak' glad de happy spot,
An all be flow'rs am bloomin'
Around my little cot.

De flow'rs my Liza plant—
De golden pansies,
De pink azalea blossoms
An honeysuckle vine.

Her po' old han's am folded,
Her weary wo'k all done,
But yet de blossoms lifting
Smile up to greet de sun.

'Tis Christmas in de cabin,
De chimas sweep thro' de do—
Whar used to be de footsteps,
My children cum no more!

De fireplace hol no embers,
De do's is open wide;
De winter's dim an dusky
Whar moonlight po'd its tided

'Tis Christmas in de cabin,
An de ribber murmurs deep,
De banjo strings am broken,
'Tis time to go to sleep!

De pleasant ribber singin'
By de bend so fay away,
Whar I used to add de money,
De liveleins Christmas day

Is singin now—jus' listen!
Wyl Liza wyl my side,
I clim' de starry stairwade,
Ob blessed Christmas tide.

ONE HAPPY REUNION.

Christmas eve, 1793, and bitterly cold. It had snowed all the day before and all the night, and had only held up about noon on the day which was now nearing its close.

In those days the distance from New York in the direction of what is now the town of Fordham was traversed by stage-coaches, drawn by spanking four horse teams, traveling by the old Boston post road. On this Christmas eve the leaders plunged and plowed their way through the snow, snorting and emitting clouds of steam from their nostrils.

After awhile the vehicle paused before a wayside tavern in Winchester county, bearing a swinging and anti-revolutionary sign, the presentment of a scarlet cloud and handsome cavalier, and the inscription, "Marquis of Claremont Arms." There were two passengers in the coach that night—a tall traveler in a slouched hat and shaggy overcoat, and a little girl whom he carried in his arms.

As the horses were baited and the coachman and groom went in for a "drop of something hot," the traveler alighting turned quickly up a road leading northward from the inn. The man was good looking, though foreign and unburdened of aspect. Yet he did not seem a stranger to the place.

On through the snow clad lanes and by the white fences he went his way, finally turning up a private walk through the piled up drifts toward old Deacon Marshall's homestead.

"'Tis sweet to hear the honest watchdog's bark, bay deep mouthed welcome as we draw near home"—but this man fervently prayed that no watchdog be aroused by his noiseless approach to the old home.

He saw the old farmhouse as he had so often seen it in boyhood, with its red walls and white capped roof, with the candle light faintly shining through the rime of the window panes.

Occasionally a sigh so deep as to be almost a sob burst from the man's bosom. The child was hushed and content in its father's arms.

As he passed through the trim yard gate, past the old family nutcracker tree, he said to himself, "They will be glad to see her and love her; but oh, God! it's hard to part with her."

When he reached the farmhouse door he set the little one down on her feet in the square, old fashioned porch.

"Now, baby, remember never to be afraid to do what papa tells you to do. You are going to see grandpa and grandma, and when your visit is out papa will come and bring you lots of sweeties and toys. Now you must go right in when they open the door, and papa will go away for a little while."

The child clung to him for a moment—a terrible moment to him—and then stood bravely quiet as he gave three rousing blows to the old brass knocker and then swiftly retreated into the shadow of the trees.

He saw the door open and an old white haired man with a candle in the hand look out. He saw the gleam of the fire in the old home for the first time in many years. He saw the child, fearless and confident of welcome enter, and then—he still, brave heart—he saw his mother, a tall, gentle faced old matron with snow white hair, advance, stoop and lift the child in her arms and kiss it, as one who drinks after long thirsting.

The door closed, and a few moments later the man outside was in the return coach for New York, on his way to be lost among the unknown thousands of the great city.

Ten minutes before this scene Deacon Marshall and his good wife sat before the blazing fire in the clean, snug old fashioned kitchen, while the busy housemaid, a stout, rosy Dutch lass of eighteen, plied her evening tasks. The appetizing smell of browning griddle cakes and fragrant tea filled the room. The bitter winds howled outside, enhancing the blessed sense of home warmth and comfort.

"It's mighty bad weather. I hope all the children will get here tomorrow, foot," said the deacon.

"All the children, Ezra?" answered the old lady in a tone of reproach. "You know one will not be here. I always think of him in the holidays away out yonder in Mexico or Texas among them outlandish people."

"Oh, Ezra, he was a wild boy and a headstrong, but there's more sorts of sin than one, and you were worse than he when you drove the boy out into the wide world twenty years ago—twenty years ago come New Year's eve."

Had the deacon lived in this age he would have rung the "chestnut bell," for he had heard sermons from his wife on his sorely repented sin full many a time and oft.

The best of women will preach.

"I have such a strange feeling about me this minute. I feel as if my boy was right here by me," she went on, forgetting that her "boy" was now a man of thirty-five or more.

At this instant three startling raps on the knocker sounded through the old house.

"It's that good for nothing Jake Mellen waiting till this time of night to fetch them groceries. Don't leave the slaps-jacks, Katrina; I'll open the door."

And the deacon took up a candle and stalked through the passage to the front door. He opened it. What a strange sight to see!

Against the dark background of night and storm the figure of a cherub child, a wee maid of five years, fair as a pearl, with bright eager eyes of heavenly blue, and a soft fleecy mass of pale gold curls, came from her blue satin hood and falling over her white fur coat.

She advanced fearlessly and piped out: "I'm Baby Marshall, and papa's brought me to mamma. My mamma's dead long time ago, and has summer my brack mammy, Osey, die, too, and baby want see mamma."

Another moment and she grand-mother, with the thrilling cry of a woman's soul to an answered prayer, lifted her grandchild to her breast.

Oh, the dear contact! Was it real—the firm, warm, little hand clasped, the pressure of the smiling lips?

"Where is papa? Oh, my dear, where is papa?" she cried, while the deacon looked on as one raised from the dead, and Katrina gazed on the new found treasure and thought of the stories she had read in Dutch folklores of the angel of the Christmistletoe.

"Papa don't," cooed the little one. "He tums for baby after while. Take dis," and searching the recesses of her little pockets she produced a letter.

The grandfather with shaking hands and faltering tones read:

MOTHER, DEAR MOTHER—I have brought you my motherless and only child. I know that you will love and care for her as your own, and I don't think even father will be so hard on her. When I want her I will come for her, but it may be long years first, if ever. I lead an honest but a wild life, and a Texan ranch or a Rio Grande camp is not the place for her. For my child's sake I part from her. Be good to her, mother. Your loving son, WILLIAM E. MARSHALL.

A moment later an old man was struggling through the snowdrifts toward the village as fast as his rheumatic legs could carry him. Too late! He only heard the echo of the coachman's horn as the horses tore down the turnpike to New York.

Baby Marshall was in her grandmother's lap and smiling brightly in her face. Katrina pried the table with hot griddle cakes, fragrant tea, sweet butter and golden honey.

Farther and farther the stage carried the wanderer from the old home.

Christmas bells ringing over the land! Christmas emshine glinting the far-reaching carpet of snow, and picturesque tree boughs hung with icy diamonds. In the churches music and song swelling out on the clear, frosty air.

Unto us a son is born,
Unto us a king is given,
Christ, the Lord!

Old Mrs. Marshall always walked to church Christmas morning, and as she listened to the sweet tide of song her head bent lowly down and a prayer welled up from the poor old mother's soul: "Lord, I have waited so long. Let me see my boy's face again before I die."

In that moment the church clock chimed 12 meridian.

In that moment, as she recalled afterward, peace spread its white wings above her, and an angel voice seemed to whisper, "All is well." When she returned the family had assembled for the Christmas dinner.

There was Rube, who had a good farm in the highlands—Rube, the steady going—a broad shouldered, sturdy Saxon, with his pretty, dark eyed wife, dressed in a new black silk with a real lace collar and cuffs; Marianne, the belle of the family, and the youngest, a lass of eighteen, blond, debonaire and roguish, with her good looking fiance hovering beside her, the son of a well to do farmer in the vicinity, whose daughter Marianne had just been visiting for a few days.

There, too, was Alfred, the doctor, a portly, well meaning man, and a little of a dandy in his dress, and became a physician and bachelor popular among the invalid ladies of Westchester.

The deacon trudged in from his own meeting house, where minister and deacon had been holding a private session of two hours over the backsliding of some poor soul preoccupied according to their belief to damnation. There was a general handshaking of father and kissing of mother. The deacon did not believe in kissing or indulging in the profane luxury of a smile on the Sabbath day, but Christmas, even according to his creed, was made for rejoicing.

Among all the family that day a queen had been enthroned—the wife who had arrived the night before. A big box had come for her by Sam Dolan, the carrier, and its contents showed that the wild Texan rover had not spared expense on his little daughter. Gay in blue silk and lace and ribbons, the girl tossed her curls and beamed delightedly, first on one, then on another, conscious of being the object of everybody's admiration.

At last she cuddled up in her grandmother's arms and fell softly asleep. Poor grandma! She felt repaid for those years of waiting and weariness as she cradled the little one's head on her breast and brushed her pale face against the fluffy, silken hair. Just as everybody grew keenly hungry Katrina rang forth a welcome peal from the dinner bell.

After the deacon's grace what a chorus of praises went up! Was there ever such a delicious, fat, brown turkey as mother's? Whoever made such clear jelly? And the tiny pig—roasted whole—with the apple in its mouth! And the mince pies, and whole pitchers of russet cider, ice cold!

The perfumes of Araby the blest arose from the banquet.

But every feast must have its end.

The day lowered as evening came on; gusty clouds chased each other across the sky, and Rube, full to repletion, pushed back his chair and said he must be "gettin up his team pretty soon, as he'd promised his wife they'd stay at her mother's, seven miles farther up, for the night." Just at this moment Katrina, who had gone to the well for a pitcher of fresh water, looked in at the door and beckoned mysteriously to old Mrs. Marshall, which caused her to make excuse, and leaving the room to seek the spot to which the girl pointed.

In the gloaming, beside the old "moss covered bucket that hung in the well," stood a tall, stalwart man, who, as his mother advanced, trembling and uncertain, held out his arms.

"Mother! oh, mother!" he said with a hoarse sob in his voice.

With such a cry as only a mother could understand, the poor, fragile creature threw herself upon the broad, sturdy bosom of the man before her—her lost child of so many years. What prayers, what silent tears, what longings of heart had drained his mother's life of strength for his sake!

"Mother, I told you I had lived an honest life."

"Willie, do you think I did not feel that to be so?"

"Well, I mean to say that I am ashamed to face no one; but when I went away that day I expected never to return until my baby was a young woman. I wandered down to the city and felt lonelier amid all those strange faces than I would on leagues of prairie with not a living thing in sight. I heard the bells of old Trinity chiming and pealing, and just because I was so lonesome I turned into the church. I had not been in such a place for years. The music lifted me right out of myself, mother, and as I thought of the old home I bowed my head and said a prayer, the first for many a year, that I might return there and find a welcome. I will always remember that just then the clock tolled out 12. It marked the hour when I made up my mind to go home again."

She led him along as when he was a little child up the olden path into the well remembered room.

"My son—baby's father—has come back home!" she said with a quiver in her voice, and burst into passionate tears.

Baby screamed joyously. "Papa! papa!" Every one rose to their feet with startled cries of welcome except the deacon, who turned ashen pale, and with a groan fell back in his chair. His son sprang to his side. "Why, father," he said cheerily, "is this your welcome?"

His lips touched the white scarred hairs; a tear glistened on the old man's face.

"My son that was dead and is alive," the deacon murmured. "Thank God! thank God!"—Lizzie P. Cutler in Home Journal.

Customs of Iceland and Lapland.

In a country not far from where "the two spirits of the globe, the magnetic and the electric," according to Michelet, do nightly hold carnival in the polar circle, the poor Icelanders are allowed as a rare treat to have bread to eat with their Christmas mutton and milk porridge.

In southern Lapland, should the horseholder neglect to provide an ample store of fuel for the season's needs, in popular belief, the disgruntled yule swains or Christmas goblins will so bedevil the woodpile that there shall be no getting at its contents.

There also it is that the girl who wishes, nuptially speaking, to learn her place places a table in the center of a vacant chamber, and on it two glasses—the one of water, the other of brandy. Then, taking a broom, she must sweep the room three times carefully, against the sun, and if she is to enter the married state her future husband will appear before she completes the third round, and drink from the water glass if a sober man, or from the brandy tumbler if he be a drunkard.

Again, if a Laplander at Christmas, before retiring, pulls off his boots and flings them over his left shoulder, he shall know, from the shoes pointing toward the door, whether a long journey or death shall be his portion during the new year, but if on the other hand the boot toes turn inward he can feel assured of another twelve months' lease of his present existence.—Selected.

Love's Softening Influence. It is remarkable how far little evidences of love and confidence in the home circle go toward perfecting the moral character and habits of men. Many a man whose wife presents him with a box of cigars on Christmas will swear off smoking on New Year's.—Milwaukee News.

An Unexpected Demand. Santa Claus—Hello; what's this? Ten stockings instead of eight?

Assistant—Yes, sir. I forgot to tell you. There was a pair of twins born here last night.—Selected.

The Mistletoe. Oh, dainty odor of the mistletoe, sending my fancy off to long ago! All this small room with faint perfume beset, a modest mystery of violet.

Those ancient days when linen robes of priest Gaius the green bough to deck some furious feast. Breaking the brittle stems with knives of gold—Those days were not so fine as some less old.

As jovial days, when Jolly Christmistletoe Flitted all the earth with mirth, dear love beside. Sweet was it then, beneath the mistletoe, To catch a pretty maid and kiss her—so!

Oh, dear was yesterday beneath the bough, And dear the kisses given there, I trow; Full sweet the days we never can forget. But, ah, tomorrow will be sweeter yet!

The Coming Poem.

All motion is rhythm, says wise Herbert Spencer.

A sage so immense that no sage is his peer.

All the worlds wabble on with a rhythmic teeter.

And the universe whips on its mystical meter.

The sage sees the stars, and their rhythmic orbits show him

That the world is a verse and the Cosmos a poem.

The torn sea that surges with wreck scattered trophies

Beats out its great theme in tumultuous strokes;

The blind winds that blow from the caverns of chaos,

Or the ephors of twilight that sooth and allay us.

The rivers that leap from the high precipices

Whose foam banners wave o'er the startled abysses.

Or the gay brook that makes the long lilies grow sweeter—

All these, one and all, are a part of the meter.

And all lives are a poem; some wild and cyclonic

With verses of cynical bluster byronic;

And some still flow in perpetual benison,

As perfect and smooth as a stanza from Tennyson;

And some find huge boulders their current to hinder,

And are broken and bent like the poems of Pindar;

And some a deep base of proud music are built on—

The calm ocean swell of the epic of Milton;

And some roll on with a freedom completer

In Whitman's classic, tumultuous meter.

But most lives are mixed like Shakespearean dramas,

Where the king speaks heroics, the idiot stammers;

Where the old man gives counsel, the young man loves hotly;

Where the king wears his crown and the fool wears his motley;

Where the lord treats his hall and the peasant his hearth—

And in the fifth act they all exit together—

And the drama goes out with its pomp and its thunder.

And we weep, and we laugh, and we listen and wonder!

—S. W. Foss.

A Kangaroo Boxer.

An exhibition of boxing of an unusual character has been secured by the management of the Royal Aquarium. Professor Landerman, an Australian pugilist, will box a Kangaroo seven feet high.

It is said that the kangaroo boxes scientifically and hits harder than the ordinary pugilist. The exhibition appears to have been given in Melbourne and Sydney—the combatants being so severely mauled that some were hospitalized for months afterward. Professor Landerman and the kangaroo came over from Australia in the Ormuz.

John L. Sullivan, although challenged, refused to fight, and Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt was so amused and taken with the exhibition at the Criterion, Sydney, as to offer £1,000 for the animal.—London News.

Advice to the Office Seekers.

We see no propriety in making applications for office on the part of all who desire it, but we believe there is a possibility of the thing being overdone. None of these petitions will be considered until after March 4. Therefore there is plenty of time in which to make applications.

During Mr. Cleveland's last administration he dispensed the public patronage through the members of the senate and the house.

If he pursues his former policy he will, as a general thing, appoint to office from this state such men as are recommended by the delegation to congress, and we do not think that he will ever see or read a letter of application for public office.—Atlanta Constitution.

A Growsome Relic.

The scaffold upon which John Brown was hanged, in Harper's Ferry has arrived at Washington for shipment to the World's fair. The timbers are in a good state of preservation, though they have served the purposes of a porch to the residence of a son of the man who built the scaffold. The gallows itself is a plain, substantial affair, which would attract little attention apart from its history. The timbers are evidently pine, although they have been painted over at some later period to preserve them. The two uprights are big beams six inches square, and the crossbar is in proportion. Even the screws with which it was put together have been preserved. John Brown was hanged on Dec. 2, 1859.—Boston Journal.

Wanted to See His Wife.

Alliterative Rufus Reed is in the Cumberland county jail, and how he happened to be there is funny enough. Rufus' wife, Lizzie Reed, was arrested and sent to jail on Tuesday for drunkenness. Rufus endured the cruel separation for a few days, then filled up and went down to the jail to see Lizzie. He created a great scene at the jail and after a mighty struggle was jammed into a cell. He was brought before the police court the next day in a battered condition, and will get out of jail at about the time that Lizzie comes forth.—Lewiston Journal.

ROYAL KRIS KRINGLE

THE KING WHOSE SCEPTER IS A HOLLY BRANCH.

How St. Nicholas Became the Santa Claus of Today—Christmas as it is Celebrated North and South—An Old Plantation Scene.

[Copyright, 1892.]

HEREVER it occurs, Christmas is king of the holidays. In the northern hemisphere, on the southern plantation, among those who go down to "the sea in ships," and among the people of all civilized lands, it is the one season of the year marked by a reign of hospitality, merriment and open heartedness. It recalls to the old the pleasures of youth, and transports many an absent one back to his own fireside and quiet home.

In the early annals of New York city, when it was Nieu Amsterdam, and the sturdy Stuyvesant was commander in chief; when our now crowded Broadway was below Wall street and known only as plain Heere street; when our business thronged Maiden lane was T'maagde pootje—"The Maiden's Path"—where the red cheeked Dutch girls went to hang their clothes; when the meat market was on Bowling Green, and the present City Hall park a public pasture outside the city wall, the 24th and 25th of December were dedicated to St. Nicholas, the patron saint of the colony. It was his image that constituted the figurehead of the ship that brought the first Dutch emigrants to this shore. It was he who gave his name to the first church within the walls, and whose benisons were most solemnly invoked in the hour of trouble by all Dutchmen on land and sea.

To the Dutch boys and girls St. Nicholas was a jolly, white bearded, little, old man, smoking his long stemmed pipe, and in their fancies driving through the air over town and country, oceans and deserts, sending through space the sharpest of whistles to the wonderful reindeer team that carried the wonderful sleigh. These little Knickerbockers have passed away forever, but the children of today still keep up the devotion of the children of 1659 for St. Nicholas, only they now call him Santa Claus. He is the same friend, the same little, low built, chubby, merry, mysterious ancient who loves children of all ages and all countries.

The manner in which his coming is celebrated differs according to the habits and associations of the people. In the great cities and the country towns, for days and weeks beforehand, the markets and stores, the streets and avenues proclaim the approach of the fete. The whole community abandons itself to foraging expeditions. Bunches and baskets are everywhere—on men's shoulders and in their hands, in wagons and coaches, filling the aisles of street cars and trams, through the highways in wheelbarrows. Women and children, husbands, bachelors and sweethearts struggle beneath their weight. There are gifts for boys and girls, presents for men and women, and heaps of presents for grandfathers and grandmothers. "Old Scrooge" is there, crowding passengers in his endeavor to buy the biggest turkey and make amends for his meanness to his bookkeeper during the year, while motherfamilies declares to herself that her Christmas shall be the handsomest among all the neighbors.

Now comes Christmas eve—the fairy time of the little ones. And who shall describe it? The old mantel, with its row of stockings, large and small; the expectant looks of the youngsters as they linger around their beds to see what Santa Claus will bring; the creeping into bed and listening, while the grown folks are making merry over their eggnog and mulled cider, for any sign of the coming of the old gentleman down the chimney; then, when the house is still, the mysterious movements of the happy parents as they produce the Christmas gifts from their hiding places and tie them up in the most provoking knots; the commotion in the house long before dawn when the children, driven from their beds to see what the King has sent them; the chorus of chuckles and gables of delight as they gather around the bedside of the sleepy father and mother and arouse every one in the house to display the liberality of the God of gifts—who shall, who can tell the story of such a happy time?

By and by the bells in the steeples call the good people all to church and chapel, and away they go, flocking through the streets in their best clothes and with their gayest faces. Closed stores and a general cessation from labor give a Sabbath sanctity and reserve to the day outside, very different from the Christmas echoes of the night before. A little later we are seated at the Christmas dinner, each one nervously impatient to attack the heaped up viands. The turkeys and geese and chickens that caused such a stuffing of baskets on Christmas eve are set out stuffed in turn upon the tables, and soon after lots of little boys and girls are in the same condition.

The feast ended, other pleasures follow. The old folks gather around the big fireplace to enjoy the outpouring of good feeling and honest interchange of affectionate attachment which abound at this season. The young people betake themselves to the frolics of a sleigh ride, while the children repair perhaps to the neighboring hills and ponds to try the new sleds and skates. This is the Christmas of the average home circle throughout the north and west.

The Christmas of the rich is also a fairland in which for one day at least nothing save the spirit of Kris Kringle enters the voluptuous heaven with its firmament of gas jets, its carpeted floor, softer than clover, its perfumed air, embroidered curtains and gorgeous Christmas tree, all aflame with light and color, where are gathered a fashionable throng of old and young awaiting the bestowal of costly gifts.

But in the background of even this pleasant picture is another—the families of the poor, the labyrinths of wretched homes and teeming tenement houses, the prisons and hospitals. They are not forgotten. The rich man has spared from his abundance that the hard pressure of poverty may for the moment be lightened, and charitable hands deal out the stores of good things that make one and all feel as if the spirit of Christmas was indeed the angel of the day bringing the old time message, "Peace on earth and good will to men."

F. G. DE FONTAINE.

Wife—Is there anything else, dear, that you would like to hang on the Christmas tree?

Husband—Yes. Those triplets.

Christmas in the Land of the Czar. Throughout the Ukraine, or little Russia, Christmas is observed as a great sacred day. Weeks before Christmas preparations for welcoming the so-called "Christmas kutia" (barley grits) are going on in a peasant's hut.

The hut is whitewashed, the floor and points (bed of boards) are scrubbed, the holy images, or ikons, on the walls are adorned with coarse linen towels embroidered, and a few crosses, neatly made of straw or hay, are nailed upon the ceiling and wall.

A bench covered with hay is placed at the corner under St. Nicholas' image, upon which rests the pot with the sacred kutia.

The head of the family, after offering prayer and expressing a few wishes before the kutia—such as that the next summer's crop may be abundant, or that general prosperity may crown his home—takes his seat at the head of the table. His example is followed by the rest of the members.

The pot with the kutia is soon placed before them, and after a few more little formalities is devoured with great appetite. After this is done all dress themselves in their best clothes and start out to church.

Oh, happy hearts, list to the chiming bells! Oh, yearning souls, list to their sweet refrain! It is the echo which forever tells Of "peace on earth" amidst its joys and pain. Wear the holly berries and pale mistletoe In garlands for the joyous Christmas tide! The year is hurried, and the chattering snow Falls like a benediction far and wide. —Clara Lee Puckette in New Orleans Picayune

Quail Is Cheap This Season.

One of the most astonishing things just now is the cheapness of quail in all the restaurants around the city. I believe the birds are remarkably plenty this year, for the market is certainly drugged with them.

It is amusing to see men who have all their lives looked upon quail as rather an expensive luxury pick up a bill of fare from a restaurant table and read, "Roast quail, thirty-five cents." They can scarcely believe their eyes. The majority of them "just know for a certainty" that the dish is not what it pretends to be. It can't be possible they tell you. The birds must be robins or something like that. All the same they eat them and enjoy the meal, for the birds are quail, and good ones too.—New York Herald.

Why He Failed.

A queer story is told of a Clermont county merchant a few weeks ago. While in this city he was attracted by the watches displayed in a pawnshop window and stepped inside to examine them. Two or three persons from his village happened to pass and saw him. They went home and gossiped about the matter. A report was spread that he was hard up and had been seen pawing his watch in Cincinnati. The report injured his business and his creditors also began to press him. In a short time he was compelled to make an assignment.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

A Coroner's Expenses.

The statement of the expenses of Dr. Thomas Masson, candidate for coroner on the Democratic ticket, as filed with the county clerk under the statute, is as follows:

My whole election expenses consist of this sheet of paper and envelope and two cent stamp and the time taken to write you and go before the proper person to be sworn.—Watertown (N. Y.) Times.

Fighting a Shark.

A Roche Harbor (Wash.) young woman recently had quite an experience with a large shark, which undertook to get a salmon from her hook while she was hauling her line in. By persistent efforts with an oar she succeeded in getting the best of him, but in diving he slashed the boat with his tail, nearly upsetting it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mexican Telegraphs and Railroads.

In the republic of Mexico there are now about 22,000 miles of telegraph lines in operation, including the new lines constructed since last April. There are now over 6,000 miles of railroad in Mexico, about 124 miles having been constructed since last April.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE

Against J. G. McLean, Held at Biddeford for Forgery.

IS BADLY WANTED IN MANY PLACES.

He Carried on Operations in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 20.—J. Gene McLean of Boston, arrested at Saco Saturday, in the police court yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge of uttering forged paper, waived examination and was bound over in $1000 bonds for the January term of the supreme court.

The prisoner, being unable to secure bail, was taken to the county jail at Alfred this morning.

The city marshals of Biddeford and Saco have received messages from parties in Great Falls, Dover, Portsmouth, Rochester and Exeter, N. H., and Lowell, Newburyport and Melrose, Mass., requesting that McLean be held for offenses committed in those places.

City Marshal Rowe of Portsmouth came here in company with a Portsmouth merchant who was recently victimized by an utterer of forged papers. The Portsmouth man recognized in McLean the man who passed the bogus checks in Portsmouth.

A letter from the city marshal of Melrose, Mass., received here, says a man, whose appearance tallied with the description of McLean, recently victimized Melrose merchants to the extent of $193. The Traders' National bank of Melrose telegraphed for a photograph of McLean.

The bogus check McLean tried to pass at Rosenbaum Bros.' store he has destroyed, but there is plenty of other evidence against him.

Mark S. Maxey, a Biddeford shoe dealer, has a forged check for $8 purporting to have been issued by W. A. Greenough & Co., publishers, of Boston, in favor of L. C. Hammond. This check

McLean introduced and gave in exchange for a pair of shoes, receiving from Mr. Maxey a balance of $3.75. McLean, alias Hammond, represented himself to be a directory canvasser in the employ of Greenough & Co.

Among the articles found on McLean's person was a roster of John A. Andrew post, Grand Army, of Boston. There were also found Dover street railway tickets, a wholesale price list of A. E. Burton & Co. of Boston, brush dealers, and several blank checks of national banks in Dover, Rochester, Portsmouth, Portland, Biddeford and Saco.

A Biddeford man, who came here from the provinces, remembers McLean as a very bright and promising college student in Ontario a dozen years ago.

Swindled Massachusetts Folks.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—J. Gene McLean, held for trial at Biddeford, Me., for uttering forged paper, is believed by Chief of Police McLaughlin of Melrose and the Melrose National bank officers to be the man who cashed forged checks in Melrose a few days ago. A man answering McLean's description purchased an $11 stove of W. A. Jeffs of Melrose, and gave a check on the Traders' bank of Boston for $13, and received $2 in change.

At a novelty store on Main street, Melrose, a similar trick was tried by means of ordering a lamp, and at that place $2 was secured. Both checks were forgeries. A similar game was also tried about the same time in Everett, Arlington and other nearby towns, and it is believed that the same man is implicated in all.

FOR ILLEGAL SHOOTING.

Massachusetts Will Not Interfere in the Cases of the Passamaquoddy Indians.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—The Passamaquoddy Indians will get no redress from the governor and council of Massachusetts. Their cases in the courts of Maine for illegal shooting will not be interfered with by our executive, owing to the fact that the attorney general has just said, in a report to the council, that the Indians are not subject to any injustice for which Massachusetts is responsible in any degree. The opinion was sent to the executive chamber, and in it Attorney General Pillsbury says:

It is clear that the commonwealth of Massachusetts is under no legal obligation to the Passamaquoddy Indians. If it is under any moral obligation to them, it can hardly extend any further than to see that they are not subject to any injustice for which Massachusetts is in any degree responsible. They cannot be said to be unjustly dealt with under the judgment of the supreme court of Maine, if that judgment is right; and I see no occasion to doubt that it is, and no reason to suppose that it can be or would be reversed if carried to the supreme court of the United States, as the petitioners desire. Nor, so far as I can see, is Massachusetts in the least degree responsible for the position, however unfortunate, in which the Indians now find themselves. At all events, the question whether Massachusetts should interfere in the case is a question for the legislature rather than for the executive branch, which, in my opinion, is not called to act unless it chooses to bring the subject to the attention of the legislature. The expediency of doing even this is, to say the least, open to question.

As Governor Russell said at the hearing on the petition that the council would act on the advice, it can be said that the petition will receive an unfavorable decision at the next meeting of the council.

A VERITABLE FIEND.

Horrible Torture Inflicted Upon a New Haven Woman by Her Husband.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 20.—Richard Martin of this city quarrelled with his wife last evening, and pouring kerosene oil over her head and shoulders, set fire to it. Mrs. Martin attempted to extinguish the flames by wrapping a blanket about her, but the brutal husband tore it away and slashed her savagely about the arms with a razor. A neighbor rescued the woman, but the husband escaped. Mrs. Martin is in a critical condition.

HE WANTED BIG INTEREST.

A Connecticut Constable Becomes an Easy Victim of Slick Swindlers. MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Dec. 20.—A well-dressed stranger called upon Constable W. N. Robbins at Essex and desired to purchase the Bevin's farm, in the town, which was under the constable's care. Robbins went with the stranger, and soon a second stranger appeared. Stranger No. 2 was on his way to Tyngsboro to buy some property, and casually remarked that he was $500 short, and offered $100 for the use of it for a short time. Robbins bit and got the money from the bank. While in a secluded spot the men grabbed the money from Robbins' hand, then jumped into a wagon and drove off. Nothing has since been seen of them. Robbins was formerly a member of the Norwich police force, and it is a little strange that he was so easily taken in.

LABORERS ARE FIRM.

Bitter War to Be Waged Against Two Brockton Contractors.

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 21.—The Laborers' union of this city is about to wage a bitter fight against two contractors who are, it is alleged, employing non-union help at a reduced rate of wages. The Central Labor union adopted resolutions assuring the Laborers' union of support. The two contractors are Charles L. McDermott and William H. Pease.

The union voted that no member should work on or after today for less than $2 a day and on others' labor and weekly payments. Accordingly yesterday the union men employed by these contractors quit work, but their places were taken immediately by non-union men. The men claim that the contractors hire laborers at from $1.25 to $1.75 a day. They are particularly bitter against Pease, who, they say, works his men very long hours and pays them off only at long intervals.

The men base demands upon the city order which declares that city laborers shall be paid $2 a day for nine hours' work. They claim that most of the contracts taken by Pease and McDermott are city contracts, and that they, therefore, become city laborers.

The union held an important meeting last night, and the matter was discussed, and the new men who quit work were told to stand firm. The union initiated twenty-five new members.

WILLIMANTIC'S SENSATION.

A Letter Introduced as Evidence Against Police Captain Newell.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 20.—The town hall was crowded with people to witness the trial of Police Captain Newell, charged with assault on John Sullivan and with frequenting disreputable houses. Owing to the settling of the hall floor an adjournment was taken to Washburn hall. Later a recess was taken for the purpose of taking Sullivan's testimony at his own house, his condition being such that he cannot yet leave his apartment.

He testified that he saw Newell, rushed out of the door and was struck and kicked in the head, after which he became unconscious; that on account of the darkness he could only identify Newell by his form, but he was positive in his identification.

At 2:30 the court reassembled, when the prosecution introduced the following letter, alleged to have been written by Newell:

WILLIMANTIC, Dec. 11, 1892. DEAR DA—Will be down Tuesday evening with Friend L. Will meet C. same place about 9 o'clock. B. EYES.

It was postmarked at Willimantic at 8:30 a. m., Dec. 12. Captain Newell pronounced the letter a forgery, and counsel for the defense had it photographed. The court then adjourned until Jan. 2, in order to give time to have the writing examined by experts.

BATTLE WITH A BURGLAR.

Ministerial Looking Chap Badly Hurt by a Portland Policeman.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 20.—Patrolman Frith shot and perhaps fatally wounded an unknown young man while the latter was about to enter the residence of A. W. Coombs on Mellen street. The officer had a narrow escape from being killed, a bullet from the burglar's pistol penetrating the heavy uniform and grazing the skin on the patrolman's breast.

Frith saw the fellow acting strangely in the neighborhood and shadowed him until he discovered him using his tools. The burglar upon being cornered ordered the officer to hold up his hands. The officer rushed forward and the burglar ran. He suddenly stopped and pointed his revolver at Frith's breast. The pistol snapped.

Before Frith could draw his revolver the burglar fired again, and Frith felt a stinging sensation in his breast. He fired at his man, and sent a bullet crashing through the arm that held the gun. The officer fired again, bringing down the burglar with a bullet in his lung.

The victim was sent to the station and the officer went to a drug store. The man would give no name, but said he was from Washington. He is about 30 years of age, well dressed and of ministerial appearance. He wore rubber-soled boots and was heavily armed.

IMPORTANT MEASURES

To Be Presented to the Maine Legislature by Labor Men.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 21.—Samuel Tillotson of this city, president of the Maine state branch of the Federation of Labor, has issued the call for the third annual state convention to be held at Augusta, Jan. 23.

At the last annual meeting held in Lewiston the following measures were presented and referred to the executive council: An employee's liability act; shortening of the hours of labor of mill and factory employees to fifty-four hours a week; raising the age limit of employing children from 12 to 14; a law which will protect the labels and trade marks of labor organization from counterfeiting; repeal of the so-called conspiracy act, and the bill to increase appropriation for the labor bureau.

President Tillotson says: "The executive council have taken these measures into hands ready to present to the next legislature, and the coming convention will sanction the work. My report will show that our membership has more than trebled during the present year."

Another Execution by Electricity.

SING SING, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Frederick McGuire was executed here by means of an electric shock. Barely twelve seconds elapsed from the time the current was turned on the first time until the man was pronounced dead.

CENTRAL CITY, Ky., Dec. 20.—A passenger train on the Newport News and Mississippi Valley road was wrecked near Edenville. Three or four passengers were killed and several injured.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

Ex-Secretary Blaine May Live a Few Days Longer.

FAMILY PREPARED FOR THE WORST.

Liquid Nourishment Used to Delay the Statesman's Death.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—"Mr. Blaine retains the hold he secured yesterday morning, when his condition showed a slight improvement," says Dr. Johnston. Dr. Hyatt, the consulting physician, concurred in the statement. They had just come from the sick room, where they had held a fifteen minutes' consultation.

"Mr. Blaine is still in full possession of his faculties," continued Dr. Johnston, "and while very weak, he is nevertheless as cheerful after the trying ordeal of Sunday as could be expected. He converses as freely as he is permitted to do by his family and partakes regularly of nourishment. It is impossible to say how long Mr. Blaine is likely to survive. I do not think Mr. Blaine is in any danger of dying before night. Further than that I do not care to state."

A friend of the family stated that Mr. Blaine is liable to a Reattack of Heart Failure

at any moment, and that the family have been warned to prepare for the worst when it comes.

"When," said the gentleman, "the physicians state that Mr. Blaine is better, they simply mean that he is alive, and that is about the true statement of his condition. Cordials of a stimulative nature and other liquid nourishment are given him at frequent intervals, and these alone keep him alive. He lies helpless on his bed, and cannot change his posture without the aid of his attendants. Mr. Blaine may not live twelve hours, and he may live three or four days, but I doubt it."

"Mr. Blaine is resting easily," said Dr. Johnston at midnight. "I found him awake and apparently cheerful. He had partaken of nourishment throughout the evening and the family were also more cheerful. Dr. Louis, a speedy return to New York is evidence that we do not consider Mr. Blaine in any immediate danger."

The reassuring reports of Mr. Blaine's physicians have reduced the number of callers at the house in a remarkable degree.

WITH $8,000,000 CAPITAL.

Big Steel Company Said to Contemplate Locating in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 20.—A local paper says a company with $8,000,000 has had an agent in this city for some days past, looking over the ground with a view to establishing a steel manufacturing plant. The company will use a new process which, it is expected, will revolutionize certain lines of steel manufacture. Among the gentlemen said to be interested are General Joseph R. Hawley of Hartford, Colonel Litchfield, U. S. A., H. H. Hunt of Reading, Pa., Theodore Allyn of Brooklyn, and a few others. The concern will employ, when running full, from 3000 to 4000 men.

Moneyed Man Found Starving.

WALHAM, Mass., Dec. 20.—Henry Taylor, an old man, was found in a starving condition in the little shop on Main street, where he has made his home for the past seven years. The policeman who called at the shop and ascertained the condition of the man also found that he had quite a sum of money. Taylor was taken to the almshouse and placed under the care of the city physician. It is thought he is insane, for he says he wants to die.

What Poet Whittier Was Worth.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 20.—Among the inventories filed at the probate court yesterday was that of the estate of John G. Whittier. The amount is $133,729, of which $5000 is real estate at Amesbury. The balance is personal property, being largely in stocks and bonds; the household furniture is appraised at $1000; portraits and pictures, $945; copyright of Child Life and Froese-Songs of Three Centuries and Child Life, $500; all other copyrights, $5000.

Vaccination Not Compulsory.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 20.—Joseph M. Belden was up in the city court for refusing to send his children to school. Belden is opposed to vaccination and would not comply with the requirements of the board of education. The board decided to make this a test case. The judge rendered a verdict of "not guilty" and dismissed the case.

Three Boilers Went Together.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 20.—Three boilers in the large manufacturing of the Perkins Shoe company at Valley Falls blew up last night, and Nelson Judson was instantly killed and another man slightly injured. One of the boilers was blown 200 feet into the Blackstone river. The building was badly wrecked.

Emin Pasha Not Dead.

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—A private letter dated at Dar-es-Salaam, Nov. 30, says that the rumors of Dr. Emin's death are erroneous. Dr. Emin, the letter says, is now following Stanley's route through the Congo State, and but for an affection of the eyes, is in exceptionally good health.

Uncle Sam Must Pay the Bill.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The court of claims has given judgment for $90,835 in favor of Stout, Hall & Bangs in their suit to recover a balance alleged to be due from the government on account of granite used in the construction of the congressional library at Washington city.

Young Men's Congress.

The Committee on Lyceum, of the Young Men's Christian Association, has called a meeting for this evening, for the purpose of organizing a Young Men's Congress. The committee has prepared a constitution and rules, which it will submit, and if these are satisfactory, officers will be elected, committees appointed and probably some bills introduced. The Congress will be modeled after the National House of Representatives, but will be so constituted that it will be able to consider not only questions of national importance, but also matters pertaining to state and municipal affairs. A large number of prominent, professional and business men are interested in the plan. The meeting tonight will be open to all.

Norfolk County Crime.

In the Norfolk Superior Criminal Court yesterday, Frank R. Williamson of Braintree, was found guilty of larceny, but sentence was deferred in his case.

In the case of John H. Newbold of Stoughton, charged with keeping intoxicating liquors for sale illegally, the jury disagreed, standing 9 to 3 for conviction. This is the second disagreement in this case. At the preceding term of court the jury disagreed, standing 7 to 5 for conviction. It is very doubtful if the case is ever tried again.

On trial, the case of Mrs. Ellen Birchenough of Braintree, charged with keeping a liquor nuisance. In this case at a former trial the jury disagreed.

Holiday Number.

The Delineator for January is the holiday number, and has an abundance of unusually interesting matter. A finely illustrated article on dinner and evening gowns is a conspicuous feature, and a most attractive series on the ornamental uses of crepe and tissue papers is begun. In the shops tells of the display of articles suitable for presentation, a January dinner and a shadow party offer novel and agreeable modes of entertainment, the Christmas dinner tells how to prepare the good cheer usually provided for that day, and goodies for little folks will be very helpful to mothers at this time when children's parties are frequent.

WATER ORDINANCE.

The Principal Theme for Discussion
Last Evening at

THE CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The Mayor Recommends Some Increases in Salaries of Department Officials.

The last regular meeting of the City Council of 1892 was held Monday evening, but an adjournment was made and at least one and perhaps two meetings will be held next week. The new city government will come in a week from next Monday. The absentees from the meeting were Councilmen Cunningham, Duffield, Holt Morton.

Increase of Salaries.

A communication from Mayor Fairbanks recommended the following increase of salaries for 1893: City Treasurer, from $700 to $900; City Clerk, $1,100 to $1,200; Chief Engineer of Fire Department from $400 to $500; Assistant Assessors, $250 to $300 each.

Referred to Committee on Salaries.

Location Wanted.

A communication from T. R. Tibbets said he was seeking for a new location for a large industry, and wished to know if the city could offer any inducements. Referred to Committee on Industries.

Financial Report.

The Committee on Finance recommended that the order for a transfer of $500 from the Lincoln school to Cross street ought to pass. Passed by unanimous vote, 17 yeas.

A like report for the transfer of $600 from interest to election account was passed by a unanimous vote of 17 yeas upon roll call.

The treasurer's statement for November was reported correct and was placed on file.

Authorized to Sell.

The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds reported an order authorizing the Mayor to sell the present fire station on School street and also the dwelling house on the new location. Adopted.

Other Reports.

A report of the Committee on State Aid granting Charles L. Holbrook $4 per month was accepted.

Also a report of the Committee on Licenses granting a junk license to John Kellier.

The Committee on Ordinances reported reference to the next City Council of the communication of the Mayor relative to plumbing. Accepted.

Water Ordinance.

Councilman Gray had the report of the Finance Committee relative to Water ordinance taken up, and then wished to hear from the Committee on Finance, why it had recommended a substitute.

Councilman Moxon explained by saying that it was easier than to make the changes. He thought income should pass directly into the city treasury, and doubted if appropriation could be made by ordinance.

Councilman Gray asked about each of the other charges, item by item, and was answered by Councilman Moxon.

Councilman Gray then criticized the action of the Committee on Finance in throwing over the ordinance which the Committee on Ordinance had carefully drawn. He claimed the committee should merely have considered the financial parts, and had not the authority to report a substitute. He opposed each charge, item by item.

Councilman Bryant maintained that Section 4 of the original report was not legal. That all moneys should be paid directly into the city treasury. Ordinances should not conflict with City Charter.

Councilman Moxon claimed the ordinance was entirely a financial one, and supported the substitute.

Councilman Federhen hoped the same course would be pursued as during the year. The matter had originally been referred to a joint committee of Ordinances and Finance, but the former refusing to serve, it had been taken from the joint committee and referred to the Committee on Ordinances. Now when its draft had been referred to the Committee on Finance it had reported a substitute. Courtesy to the Committee on Ordinance demanded that its draft should be considered. Would favor amendment to Section 4. The substitute ordinance was lost.

Councilman Bryant moved an amendment to Section 4 of the original ordinance, making water rates payable to the City Treasurer.

Councilman Moxon favored.

Councilman Gray moved further amendment, calling for annual rather than semi-annual payment of water rates.

This was opposed by Councilmen Sherman and Bryant.

Councilman Gray's amendment was lost, and Councilman Bryant's carried.

A substitute for Section 8 was also adopted.

Councilman Moxon moved to strike out Section 10, stating how funds should be applied.

Councilmen Gray and Federhen opposed, and Councilmen Bryant, Moxon and Federhen, Jr., favored.

Section 10 was stricken out.

Councilman Moxon moved an amendment to Section 3, which was opposed by Councilmen Federhen and Gray, and lost.

Councilman Holden raised a point on Section 9, and a slight amendment was made.

Adjournment Fixed.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant, and after considerable talk as to date, it was voted that when an adjournment was made that it be to Tuesday, Dec. 27.

Financial Policy.

The report of the Committee on Finance was taken from the table upon motion of Councilman Federhen, who inquired what disposition the committee would recommend.

Councilman Moxon moved that it be approved and referred to next Council.

Councilman Federhen spoke of the lateness of the report. There were some good things in the report which should have gone into effect this year. The question of time loans had been fought in the Council and Committee overruled, and now the Council was asked to approve a system it had discountenanced.

He opposed approving but moved instead to receive.

Councilman Moxon said the Finance Committee ask the gentleman from Ward Two who offered the order, to meet them, but he refused. He was only sorry that the committee could not have had a conference.

The committee is not to blame for the delay. He was not ashamed to stand up and give it as his opinion that the only safe way was to make the loans payable upon different times than they now are. He moved to lay on the table until the next meeting.

Councilman Federhen did not see the necessity of laying on the table. He was willing to have it received but not approved.

The motion to lay on the table was lost. Councilman Moxon hoped the Council would put itself on record as approving this policy.

The amendment of Councilman Federhen was then voted.

The report was then received and referred to the next city government.

The order laying out Park street took its second reading, and upon motion of Councilman Federhen was laid upon the table. Adjourned at 12.27.

A WORD TO THE WISE.
CERTAIN ADVERTISEMENTS FROM TRADE RIVALS,
who fear the phenomenal success of
Van Houten's Cocoa
in America, contain innuendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of
Dr. SYDNEY RINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London,
Author of the Standard "Handbook of Therapeutics."
This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:
"From the careful analyses of Professor ATTFIELD and others, I am satisfied that Messrs. VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other COCOAS.—It is certainly "Pure" and highly digestible.
The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA."
The false reflection on VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is thus effectually repelled and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been prompted to give it a very handsome testimonial.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT!

VEHICLE BREAKS DOWN

Driver Barely Escapes With His Life.

The Load Too Heavy

Quite a serious accident occurred on Copeland street the other night. A very stout, merry-faced old gentleman, with flowing white locks, was driving a heavily loaded vehicle through West Quincy, at a very late hour, when the bottom of his vehicle dropped out, stilling the entire contents, and frightening the four animals, causing them to break into a run. The old gentleman rolled out on to the ground, and after groping around in the dark for some time, discovered a light in a corner store. He aroused the proprietor, who helped him gather up his goods, and provided a place to store them. The old gentleman was taken to the nearest doctor and got his wounds dressed, and by morning he was feeling pretty comfortable.

His horses and wagon had disappeared, and no tidings have been received from them since.

IN A DILEMMA.

The old gentleman was engaged in the express business, and had goods for thousands of people in Quincy, but his horses and wagon being gone, he was in a great dilemma, not knowing how to deliver his goods.

Now it happened that the merchant into whose care he had fallen was one of those men who improved every opportunity, and he quickly saw a way out of the trouble, besides getting a good percentage for himself. So he proposed acting as the old gentleman's agent, advertising the goods in the DAILY LEDGER, and asking the people to come and select their articles.

Our readers are by this time curious to know the names of the parties who figure so prominently in this little story. Well, the old gentleman's name is

Mr. Santa Claus,

and the merchant who relieved him of his load, and now acts as his agent, is

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

The Funeral of J. Walter Bradley of Milton Largely Attended.

The high esteem in which the late J. Walter Bradley was held by those among whom he had lived was well attested yesterday afternoon says the Globe, by the vast concourse of people who attended his funeral obsequies at the First Unitarian church, Milton. Every rank and station in life, rich and poor, gentle and simple, public officials and private citizens, showed by their presence their regret for his untimely demise. The organizations, too, with which he was connected were very largely represented, both at the church and on the way to the grave.

Brief services were held at the residence of Mr. Bradley on Blue Hill avenue at 1 o'clock, being conducted by the pastor of the First Unitarian church, Rev. Roderick Stebbins. The musical selections were rendered by Cook's quartette, who sang subsequently during the services in the church. The quartette sang "I Cannot Always Trace the Way" and "Still, Still With Thee," and Rev. Mr. Stebbins offered prayer.

The remains were borne to the church in Milton Centre, a long line of carriages following the hearse. The services at the church were brief and consisted of a prayer and the reading of scriptural selections by the pastor, and the singing by the quartet. Rev. Mr. Stebbins spoke briefly on the life of the deceased. He sketched his early life from the time he joined the army at the outbreak of the war, and his subsequent connection with public affairs in Milton. "For twenty years," the speaker said, "he had been a conspicuous figure in our town affairs. He bore himself honorably in our great national conflict and carried the marks of his suffering at that period until the end of his life."

Then he spoke of his political career, which the speaker said possessed a peculiar fascination for him, and which if he had devoted as much attention to other matters, would have made him a most successful business man. "In his public capacity he was exposed to extravagant praise and to severe criticism, though it is difficult to say which did him the greater harm. His controlling motive was kindness of heart, which made him take pleasure in doing good. This is why since his death the expression has been so often heard, 'How the poor will miss him.'"

"Though associated with this church by tradition, like many men of his position in life, he had little interest in the form of religion. I have no quarrel with him, only I regret that he did not have what I feel might have been a consolation, a solace and a rest to him. Of his personal faith I know little, but he probably had more than he thought he had, or than he gave expression to. If God made provision for the human child, he will do so in the hereafter."

After the benediction the remains were taken to the Milton cemetery, where the interment took place.

A large number of floral tributes from the various organizations with which he was connected, and also from friends, were sent and displayed at the funeral. Among them were a beautiful wreath from Huntingdon F. Wolcott Post 102, G. A. R., a pillow from the Massachusetts Regimental Association, a pillow from the 38th Regiment, and a lot of beautiful flowers from the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. There were also floral tributes from each of the four Masonic organizations with which Mr. Bradley was connected, and from the Neponset Council of the Royal Arcanum; a pillow of ivory from the Blue Hill Associates, and tributes from the Milton police department, the Milton fire department, the Milton High School Association, class of '76, and several others from personal friends of the deceased.

The active pallbearers were: Samuel A. Morse, J. Albert Simpson, associates of Mr. Bradley on the board of selectmen of Milton; George Fletcher of the G. A. R., and County Commissioner Melville P. Morrill, representing the Masons. There were also honorary pallbearers from 15 or 20 other organizations with which Mr. Bradley had been connected.

The ushers at the church were George Barnard, Theodore Whitney and Robert Pond.

Man, from Whence Art Thou?

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

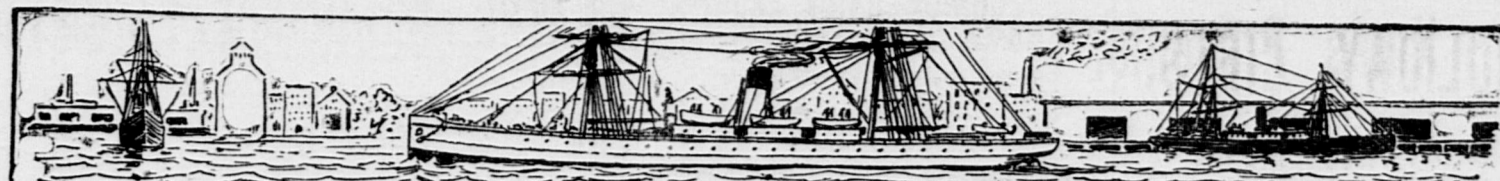

While perusing "The Origin of Man," in last night's LEDGER, I notice that Dr. McLennan used the seemingly paradoxical statement of Cain's marriage, as an argument. I have often been puzzled myself over this paragraph from Genesis, and not until very recently have I heard anyone attempt to explain it. Within a few weeks, however, I have heard the explanation—I do not vouch for its veracity, though—and for the benefit of the LEDGER readers, I will relate what I heard.

It was in a railway car that I heard the argument brought up. One gentleman with atheistic tendencies, was endeavoring to make a fellow passenger believe that the Bible was not an authentic book, and cited the argument resorted to by Dr. McLennan, to prove its inconsistency. The atheist seemed to have the best of the argument, when another gentleman, a Southerner evidently, came to the rescue, and explained the passage thus.

Said he, "The book of Genesis says that God made Adam after his own image and likeness. When Cain left his paternal roof he went and married the daughter of a neighboring tribe. This tribe was composed of negroes, who were created shortly after Adam, but who were not made to the image and likeness of God." Such was the explanation; my readers may have it for all it is worth.

HOW TO MAKE A WILL.

Make It Brief and Pointed, Then Trust to Luck and the Lawyers.

No particular form is necessary in executing a will. It is valid whether written in formal language or a foreign tongue. A will duly executed, with knowledge of its contents, is valid, though never read by the testator, provided it discloses the intention of the testator respecting the postmortem disposition of his property. It may operate as a will although drawn in the form of a deed of gift—it may be in part a deed or other contract, or in part a will. It may be written or printed, or partly written and printed, engraved or lithographed. Blank spaces left in it do not necessarily invalidate it, but it is best to avoid them, as they facilitate fraudulent interlineations. The writing may be in ink or pencil. A paper written and endorsed by a testator with the intention of making it his will, has been held to be his will. The signature may be an "X," or it may be written by another party under direction of the testator and the will is valid.

The briefest of the will is the safest. It is not necessary to make any provision for paying "all just debts and funeral expenses," although it is a common phrase in testamentary documents. There is also an erroneous impression in regard to bequests where the residue is left to the wife that some specified sum should be left to each child to make the document valid. All that is necessary is to mention the names of the children. The law requires two attesting witnesses, who must sign the document in the presence of the testator and at his request. It is not necessary that they shall sign it in the presence of each other. An attesting witness, to be competent, must not be a beneficiary in the will. An individual suffering from partial insanity or monomania can make a valid will during his lucid moments, and the courts will sustain it. Intoxication or drunkenness, if it exists to the extent of producing mental oblivion or to disorder the faculties to pervert the judgment, deprives a person of testamentary capacity while it continues, but no longer. A will made by force, fraud or intimidation will not stand.

How to Make Paste for False Nose.

Mix an ounce of wheat flour with one dram of pulverized tragacanth. The real nose should first be painted with spirit gum, and the false one modeled over it with a stiff paste made by mixing the above composition with water. Tint with carmine.

How to Tell a Perfect Figure.

The height should be exactly equal to the distance between the tips of the middle fingers of either hand when the arms are fully extended. Another guide for height is five times the diameter of the chest from one armpit to the other. The distance from the junction of the thigh to the ground should exactly equal that from same point to the crown of the head. The knee should be exactly midway between the same point and the ground at the heel. The elbow should be equally far from the tip of the middle finger and the middle of the line of the breast. The chin should be as far from the top of the head as from the armpits. The measurement around the knuckle of the closed fist should be the length of the foot.

How to Remove Mustiness from Casks.

Burn a little sulphur in them, put the bungs in, and let them remain so for a day.

How to Care for Toilet Sponges.

In the first place they must not only be thoroughly washed, but in order to prevent their becoming foul each part of the sponge should be exposed to the air. Fastidious women see to it that this toilet article is each week cleansed by dropping it into water in which a large lump of soda has been dissolved, afterward boiling it for sixty minutes, when it is rinsed in cold water and given a sun bath until entirely dry. Always rinse all soapy suds from your sponge and then throw it into your basket, which should be hung just outside the bathroom window. A sponge cared for in this fashion will never be slimy, sour or musty.

How to Take Creases Out of Drawings.

Put the drawings or paper wrong side up on a sheet of white paper; lay another sheet, dampened, over it, and press with a moderately warm iron.

How to Select Good Flour.

If it is white with a slight yellow tinge, and when wet will knead dry and elastic, it is good. Squeeze some with the hand to see if it retains the shape given by the pressure—a good sign. Very white flour with a bluish tinge and black specks is not good—nor is the kind that will knead soft and sticky.

How to Crystallize Fruit.

Make a sirup of one pound sugar and one-half pint water, boiling quickly three or four minutes. Drop some in cold water and roll between the fingers. If it forms into a ball it is ready for use. Wash the fruit and throw into the sirup for a minute. Lift it out with a skimmer to drain and lay on a board that is sprinkled thickly with sugar, putting in the oven or sun to dry. Then put it in more sirup, stirring until the sirup sticks to the fruit. Put out again to dry. Lastly, place in layers in boxes between sheets of waxed paper and keep in a dry cool place.

A DOUBLE MURDERER.

Detectives at New Haven Think They Have Struck the Right Trail.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 20.—Two detectives of the Elizabeth (N. J.) police department, Decker and Welch, have been in this city for two or three days looking up evidence against a man named Dominick Durborow, who is under indictment in that place for a double murder, which was committed on Sept. 25 last. The evidence furnished by the police of New Haven, which was in the shape of a letter said to have been written by Durborow, in which he acknowledged that he had committed two murders and begged for sufficient money to carry him back to Italy out of the reach of American law. The letter was written from Toronto, whether the man had fled after the murders. The letter in question was found in the possession of a cousin of the accused man, who resides on Wallace street, this city, and its contents the police authorities here say are of a very damaging nature.

Head Struck a Rock.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 20.—A. W. Palmer, a Manchester market gardener, tipped from his sleigh and his head struck a rock, killing him instantly.

Verdict in a Free Pass Case.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 17.—The jury in the case of Marie E. Rogers of Brunswick vs. the Kennebec Steamship company, to recover $15,000 for injuries received by the slipping of a steamer's gang plank at Bath, returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $3950.

Burglars Strike It Rich.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Burglars stole jewels valued at $17,000 from Leigh Court, near Bristol, the seat of Sir Cecil Miles, baronet. Lady Miles had left the jewels in a safe in her bedroom, unlocked. While the family was dining robbers entered and ransacked the safe.

The Inaugural Ball.

An interesting feature has arisen with respect to the inauguration of President Cleveland. March 4 next year occurs on Saturday. The discovery of this fact has led to some discussion regarding the propriety of holding the inaugural ball on Saturday night, when Sunday morning must necessarily be ushered in with the first stroke of 12. Inquiry of those who have been prominently identified with the inauguration ceremonies of previous years shows that this question need not occasion concern.

In the first place, the event known as the inaugural "ball" is in reality a reception merely. The throng in attendance is always so great as to prevent dancing. In the second place, it has, with rare exceptions, been brought to a conclusion by midnight, even when no considerations of respect for Sunday entered into the case. A ball on Friday night would be inappropriate, and a postponement to Monday night would be an injustice to the thousands of visitors who would be compelled to leave the city before that time. There is no likelihood, therefore, that the time honored precedent of an inaugural ball on the evening of inauguration day will be departed from when Mr. Cleveland is inducted into office.—Washington Post.

Caught Two Whales and a Wife.

One of the whalemen on the schooner La Nina has a little romance. His name is William Stevens, and he has been a sailor on coasting vessels for several years. Ten months ago he fell in love with a pretty and estimable young lady at Aquina bay. Stevens wanted to get married, but his funds were low, so it was arranged between the two lovers that William should go on a whaling cruise and on his return the nuptial knot should be tied.

William came down on the next steamer, but found that sailors who have never been on a whaling voyage were regarded as green hands, and that when old timers were clamoring for a chance to ship a new man had very little show. However, Stevens persevered, and persuaded Captain Worth to take him on Whitealaw's whaler, the schooner La Nina. The green hand proved the mascot of the trip, and he killed the only two whales taken on the voyage. They were big fellows and produced 3,500 pounds of bone.

Stevens has consequently come into funds, and more funds than usually fall to the lot of a whaleman.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following.—Bancroft Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 36 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rockers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Side Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaid & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from the offer of assistance on lowest Boston prices. The new store, Tirrell's Block, Hancock street, Quincy. d 14—4t

Looking for More Money.

The national Republican committee, through Chairman Thomas H. Carter, is sending out most urgent letters to the leaders of the party for funds to pay the deficiency in the national campaign fund. One of these letters to a southern member of the national committee was shown your correspondent. This letter was signed by Chairman Carter and stated that the national committee had a deficiency after the election of nearly $225,000.

It stated that at the eleventh hour Republicans discovered that defeat was inevitable, and though the campaign committee had kept campaign expenses well within the limits of subscriptions hereto, it was found that subscribers who had pledged a half million dollars to the party refused to fulfill their obligations, and the result is that the committee is urgently pressed to meet debts with an empty treasury. He states that after carefully considering where to get the amount the committee has made an assessment on good party men of an amount sufficient to pay the deficit.

The assessment of the man who received the letter was fixed at $1,000. He was asked to collect the money or forward it in five days by check or draft made payable to Duane, treasurer of the committee, at his address in New York.—Mobile Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Popularity of Astrology.

It will surprise a large majority of readers to be told that astrology as a science is not only holding its own in England today, but has during the past ten years made such strides that it is felt by many that the "Rogues and Vagabonds" act, which prevents the casting of horoscopes for gain, will by this next parliament stand a chance of being repealed.

A large number of regular professional astrologers live in London, and they one and all agree that the science has distinctly become more popular since 1886. Previous to that date they carried on their horoscopic practice in fear and trembling, but there has been no prosecution of an astrologer, qua astrologer, in England for four years now, the last being at Bow street, when "Neptune," an intuitive seer, was mulcted in five pounds for casting a horoscope; a barrister in court, who had never seen or heard of him before, springing up to defend him gratuitously on the sole ground that he himself was a believer and a practitioner of astrology. Six years ago there were no periodicals in England devoted to astrology. There are now three.—Edgar Lee in Arena.

Lord Rosebery's Ambitions Success.

As a young man Lord Rosebery set out with a determination of making a mark in the history of his country, and hitherto everything that he has attempted has been attended by success. He has won the Derby, he has married the richest heiress in the United Kingdom, he has become a cabinet minister, he has just been created a Knight of the Garter, and if he avoids the royal union projected he will eventually blossom forth into prime minister of the empire. On the continent his talents are held in even still greater estimation than in England, especially at Paris and at Berlin, and he is a particular favorite of Prince Bismarck.—Chicago News-Record.

The Khan of Khiva in Europe.

The Khan of Khiva, Lyed Mohammed Rahim, is now paying a visit to the courts of Europe. He has visited St. Petersburg and will visit Berlin, Vienna, London and Paris. The Khan is in his fifty-third year. He speaks several languages, including the Persian, Arabic and Russian, and his dress is that of a European, although his connections are those of an orthodox Mussulman. He travels in company of his mollah or priest and his own cook, as he eats no food but that prepared according to the rites of his religion. The Khan's annual income is about $200,000. His court is quite modern in its rules and observances.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Serenaded by 20,000 Swallows.

The swallow nuisance continues with unabated vigor at the Naval academy, Annapolis. From 8,000 to 20,000 swallows gather every evening in the five or six maple trees in front of the superintendent's residence and make evening and morning hideous with their cries. All efforts to drive them away have failed, and a bell and gong are kept going at intervals to drive the pests from the two trees next the superintendent's house. Every year this disagreeable rendezvous is maintained by the swallows.—Baltimore Sun.

Transferring a Pension by Marriage.

A peculiar marriage was celebrated at San Antonio Wednesday. C. J. Ennis, aged eighty-six years, and a Mexican war veteran, who was in a dying condition, was married to Elizabeth Buccus, aged seventy-seven years. Ennis is in receipt of a monthly stipend of eight dollars from the government. In gratitude to the woman who is now his wife and nursed him for the past two or three years he desired that the marriage take place, so that his dutiful nurse will receive his pension after his death.—Cor. STAGESTRUCK WOMEN

Unceremoniously Skip Away from Their Husbands.

ALL ARE WELL KNOWN IN HAVERHILL.

But One of the Deserted Men Appears to Worry About It.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 21.—Three wives are missing from Haverhill, and their deserted husbands suppose that the attraction of the stage has been too much for them, and that they are at present with the "Country Circus" company at Lowell, it being known that their trunks were there. The three women are young and popular, all work in one of the leading dry goods stores in the city, and their husbands are all well known young men here.

One of the two, Mrs. Herbert W. Tennant, has had a stage experience, having been a member of a summer opera company at Providence for several months, but the other two, Mrs. Herbert G. Cole and Mrs. Nellie Monette, have had no experience at all, although they are good singers.

Of the Husbands
Herbert W. Tennant is a photographer, has made a specialty of theatrical work, conducting two studios in this city, and also in Lawrence and Lowell. Herbert G. Cole is an official in the postoffice, and Mrs. Monette's spouse is a clerk in a local store.

The first two do not seem very much saddened by the departure of their wives, Mr. Tennant having been separated from Mrs. Tennant for the past eight weeks, but the event is much regretted by Mr. Monette.

The trio left absolutely no word.

BAY STATE GRANGERS.

Master Howe Explains What Has Been Done and What is Left to Do.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 21.—The Massachusetts State Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry began its twentieth annual session at Graves Hall in this city with a large attendance from all parts of the state. The grange opened in the fifth degree, and, after the presentation of credentials, Herbert Myrick of the Springfield Homestead gave an address of welcome, to which the overseer, A. C. Stoddard, responded. The roll call of grangers was followed by the appointment of committees.

The afternoon session began with an address by Elmer D. Howe, master of the state grange. When the grange last met in Springfield five years before, he said, the membership was less than 5000 and number of granges 67. Today there are 10,000 patrons and 119 granges. Four district granges have become full-fledged pomonas, and two new grange halls have been dedicated. The grange has done much service, and among the reforms still to be accomplished are the prevention of food adulteration, the passage of an anti-option bill, the free delivery of mail in the country, more equitable relations of capital and labor, the prevention of government irrigation of western deserts, a revision of the tax laws, better education in country towns, the prevention of adulteration in concentrated food stuffs, better roads and the prevention of retail cider selling by farmers. The speaker heartily recommended a course in the agricultural college for young farmers. His address was hopeful and gave a bright picture of the work of the grange.

J. W. Stockwell, state lecturer, followed with an address on the duties of lecturers and on the work of the grange. In the evening there was a free parliament for informal discussion, conducted by J. W. Stockwell, state lecturer.

WIMAN ON ANNEXATION.

He Outlines a Few Points Which Agitators Should Consider.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Dec. 21.—The Business Men's club tendered a banquet to Hon. Erastus Wiman last evening. In the course of his address Mr. Wiman said that the people of the United States should not be beguiled into the belief that the annexation of Canada was possible within a quarter of a century, even if then. The recent agitation, with this end in view, was entirely inconsequential, so far as practical politics was concerned. So great an event as to lessen, by 40 per cent., the area of the British empire would only be brought about by revolution or by constitutional means.

A revolution was impossible in the presence of the ballot box and a responsible government, especially when Great Britain was ready to yield everything to Canada short of separation. As for constitutional means, resulting from an appeal to the people, not in a single Canadian constituency could a member of parliament or an alderman be elected on this platform.

That England would consent to continental free trade no one doubts who realizes the enormous advantages that flow to her from the development of the United States, compared with the meagre results that have followed the arrested development in her own possessions on the same continent.

There are 16,000 Canadians in Woonsocket.

END OF A CHURCH ROW.

Clergyman Watkins Has Left Norwalk, Conn., for Parts Unknown.

NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 21.—Rev. Wilbur F. Watkins of Philadelphia, father of Rev. Samuel H. Watkins, rector of Grace church in this city, has disappeared. The last known of him was when he left for New York on his way home. Mr. Watkins is 50 years of age, and his disappearance is attributed to melancholy, caused by trouble in the Church of the Ascension, Philadelphia, of which he was, until recently, pastor. The difficulty originated in a dispute he had with the organist, and a church row followed. He took the matter much to heart and resigned. Mr. Watkins was formerly pastor of the Holy Trinity church, New York city.

AN APPRECIABLE DEFICIENCY.

Under the New Law Many Bostonians Fail to Pay Their Poll Tax.

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—Under the new law not requiring a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting, there has been an appreciable falling off in the payments, as compared with last year. The beginning of this month the receipts were about 11 per cent. behind. Now they are 51-2 per cent. behind. The poll tax money is flowing into Collector Ricker's till very well. The receipts Monday were $917, as against $131.50 last year and $311 in 1890 upon that day. It was predicted that not over 25 per cent. of the usual payments would be collected under the old law, but 23 per cent. has already been paid in. A larger number of summonses were sent out this year than ever before to delinquent taxpayers. A little over 40,000 polls have been paid thus far this year. If they continue to be paid as they have been during the past few days, it will not be long before 50,000 or 60,000 will be reached. There has been collected of other taxes $9,633,000, about 33 per cent. of the tax levied.

MANY SUFFER FOR A FEW.

Decision of Yale's Faculty in the Case of the Disorderly Students.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 21.—At a concurrent meeting of the academic and scientific faculties of Yale university it was voted to prohibit the freshmen class of the university, numbering over 400 men, from taking part in any baseball intercollegiate games during the coming season. This action is as a punishment for the disturbance created by a large portion of the class at a celebration of the successful football season, Dec. 3, at the New Haven Opera house. This is the first time such a vote has been announced by the faculty, though classes have been forbidden from playing a single game before for similar reasons. The action of the faculty will deprive the "varsity" nine of some of its best promising material the coming season. This action is not, however, to be regarded as final in the affair. The faculty is still considering the cases of the individuals concerned in the disorder, and their cases will be tried soon.

WANTS TO GO WEST.

Asa P. Potter is Trying to Get Away from the Trial in January.

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—Efforts are being made by representatives of Asa P. Potter, who is in Washington, to induce the present administration of the department of justice to instruct the attorney general to drop the case against Mr. Potter, or at least to have the trial, which is put down for January, postponed. Mr. Potter wishes to go west and engage in business there, and would do so were his January trial not hanging over him. It is understood that his plan is to go into a street railway scheme there. His counsel, Mr. Hyde, is now at the capital, and considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon the department to have the trial postponed. If this postponement is granted it will be a long step toward having the government drop the case altogether. The present efforts will probably not succeed, but it will not be the fault of Potter's friends if there is a failure.

BULLIED AND OVERWORKED.

Haverhill Man Anxious to Ascertain the Whereabouts of His Son.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 21.—Charles E. Dillingham of Haverhill, Mass., was in this city looking for his son, Charles A., who has been missing from Littlefield Crossing since a year ago last October, and whom no one has seen since.

Mr. Dillingham's story was: About five years ago he placed his oldest son, then about 10 years old, in the keeping of a man named Richard Abbott, a farmer at Littlefield Crossing, a station just above Newmarket Junction on the Concord and Portsmouth railroad, thinking that he could do chores enough to pay his board. From the story of neighbors it is quite evident that the boy was overworked and not treated well, and one year ago last October he disappeared suddenly without money or visible means of gaining a living.

BLACKSTONE MILLS IDLE.

Trouble Over the Fines System Causes a Suspension of Work.

BLACKSTONE, Mass., Dec. 21.—Woolen weavers, comprising men and women, in the employ of the Blackstone Woolen company, went out in a body yesterday, the cause being alleged excessive fines. The mill is shut down and will remain so until the strike is settled. The strike will affect 25 hands, whose weekly payroll is $13,000. Alexander Ballou, the agent, states that the fines are no worse than usual and are not excessive. A meeting of the strikers was held, at which they decided to demand an abatement of the excessive fine list and restoration of John Gillen, who was discharged a couple of days ago for refusing to enforce the fine list. The trouble is laid to a man named Wilson, who is overseer of the sewing room.

Cahill's Defense.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 21.—Daniel Cahill on trial for the murder of his aunt, Ann Larkin, at Hatfield, June 16 last, testified that as he was hanging his hat on a peg back of the door he was also taking his pistol out of his pocket with his right hand. The hammer caught on the pocket, the pistol went off and the ball struck his aunt in the head, she falling to the floor apparently dead. The court adjourned at the end of defendant's direct testimony.

Comb Factory Wrecked.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 21.—A large steam pipe in the pressing department of S. C. Noyes & Co.'s comb manufactory at West Newbury exploded, wrecking the building, which is located a little distance from the main factory. The machinery was also ruined. The explosion was caused by too much pressure from the boiler. No one was injured.

KEENE, N. H., Dec. 21.—A staging gale way at a barn on Emerald street and four men were precipitated twenty feet. All were severely bruised, Henry Hathaway of Nashua and Artemus Baker being dangerously injured.

Brakeman Mangled.

MERIDEN, Conn., Dec. 21.—Antonio Laporte, brakeman, was killed here last night while coupling cars. The unfortunate man was terribly cut and mangled. He leaves a widow and three children.

THE FAMOUS TORREY BILL.

Democrats Will Try and Pass It Through the Present Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Torrey bankruptcy bill, that has been before congress the last two years, has again been brought to the front. It passed the house in the Fifty-first congress, and Senator Hoar made frequent efforts to get it through the senate; but the forces bill and the McKinley tariff bill crowded it out and congress finally adjourned leaving it as part of the unfinished business of that session. It has been taken in charge by the Democrats now, under the lead of Colonel Oats of Alabama, and he is determined if possible to secure its early consideration at the present session. He has asked the committee on rules to fix an early day for its consideration. The committee has not yet passed upon the request, but has promised to do so. It is admitted by the leaders on both sides of the chamber that this bill ought to pass. In view of general interest in the subject a number of prominent members of the house have expressed themselves in favor of the bill.

Representative Andrew of Massachusetts, in alluding to the subject, says he thinks the Massachusetts delegation will be a unit in favor of the proposed bill. "Our people want their rights—nothing more, nothing less," he continued. "That is, if they were unfortunate they would wish to retain their exemption, and be discharged; if they were unfortunate creditors, they would wish to retain their pro rata of their debtors' estate at a small cost, and would be willing, if their debtor was honest, that he should try again. I believe that the passage of the Torrey bill will result in these ends being accomplished, and will consequently promote honesty and fair dealing and result in the enlargement of commerce all over the country."

DAYS OF '49 RECALLED.

Big Rush of Gold Hunters to New Diggings in Southern Utah.

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 21.—The city has gone crazy over the reported discovery of rich placer diggings, 150 miles from this point in southern Utah, where the San Juan river empties into the Colorado. The excitement is unparalleled since the days of '49. Along the line of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, from Gallup to the Needles, the towns are almost depopulated, and 1000 men are already at the scene. The placers were discovered less than a year ago by a Navajo trader named Williams. He interested eastern capital, and hydraulic machinery was secretly shipped to the placers under the pretense that it was to be used in developing coal fields.

An old prospector, who followed the outfit, returned to Winslow, Ariz., and reported that sixty miles of rich, yellow placer grounds lay 240 miles to the north of Winslow, which run from a $1 to $5 a pan. This started the rush to the new diggings. The exodus from Durango commenced yesterday. In Albuquerque, N. M., nuggets are on exhibition ranging from one to five ounces of coarse gold, and all classes of people are leaving their business and hurrying to Utah.

GENERAL BOOTH'S GOOD WORK.

Recognized by Those Who Investigated Salvation Army Finances.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The report of the committee of which the Earl of Onslow is chairman, and which was appointed to investigate the financial affairs of the Salvation Army, as conducted by General Booth, is made public. The report speaks favorably of General Booth's enterprise for the redemption of "darkest England," although it says that too much cash was spent in building operations at the beginning of the enterprise. The report is a great victory for General Booth. It is expected that the report will result in large contributions to the Salvation Army's work. The Salvation Army is giving food and shelter to thousands of poor, and encouraging them to be self-supporting.

Dynamite Explosion in Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 21.—By an explosion of dynamite at a sewer excavation on Adams street, three men were injured, one fatally. The men were Alexander Demers, who died before reaching the hospital; Alexander Beauregard and Frank Kelley, a blacksmith. The men were in a gang employed by C. E. Jordan, blasting out a ledge for a sewer. Beauregard's left arm was blown off.

The Price of a Lost Leg.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 21.—The jury in the case of Albert E. Foth against the Springfield Street Railway company reported a verdict of $8500.40 for the plaintiff. Foth sued for the loss of a leg, and at the first trial was awarded $11,000, and the verdict was set aside as excessive.

Bought by Electric Syndicate.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 21.—The People's Railway company and the Consolidated Railway company of this city have been bought out by a syndicate, which is supposed to represent the Thomson-Houston electric company. The two properties are valued at about $4,500,000.

Burned to Death.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 21.—Sarah J. Campbell, a widow, 53 years of age, living on Mt. Vernon street, died from the effects of a burning accident. A kerosene lamp exploded in her hand, her clothing caught fire and she was badly burned. She had seven children.

A Desperate Battle.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 21.—The news comes from Hyattsville that James Huff and William H. Nucher, deputy United States marshals, attempted to arrest Ira Walker, Ace Achmick and another horse thief, and during a fight that followed, all five were killed.

Quarter of a Million Stolen.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 21.—The defalcation in the Puebla state treasury turns out to be larger than was at first reported. It is said that persons high in authority are implicated in the affair. The money exceeds $250,000. An investigation is now proceeding.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Ward Six will have the distinction of having the oldest Councilman in the body of 1892, Mr. Holbrook, upon whom will devolve the duty of calling the Council to order in the absence of the President.
Ward Six may also have the honor of being the home of the President. Certainly if hard work amounts to anything Councilman Moxon is entitled to it, particularly as he has the qualifications.

The Panama Canal investigation has brought to light such a series of swindling operations, as has never been known in the history of France. Had this state of affairs existed under a monarchical government in France, it is safe to presume that long ere this, the bloody scenes of the Commune would have been repeated in the streets of Paris.

The mayor of Salem, who was said to have been seen in an intoxicated condition on the streets of that city one evening recently, has ordered an official investigation into the matter. His Honor has certainly shown great strength of character in ordering such an investigation, and it is to be hoped that he will be able to deliver a stinging rebuke to idle gossips.

Councilman Bass has dropped in the roll call of the City Council. For three years he has headed the list, but next year, strange to say, four will be ahead of him.
But Councilman Bass was always ready to vote, never hesitating. The name of C.
F. Adams, 2d, will appear first on the roll call of 1893.

It seems to be an established precedent,
that in order to become famous nowadays,
one must get very mad and say "big words." The governor of South Carolina is the latest individual who seeks to perpetuate his name by the aid of "cuss words."

And now it is to the Court of St. James that the New York Herald would have Mr.
Dana sent as minister plenipotentiary.
This would hardly do, as our famous journalist would be likely to tell the "sovereigns of notoriety," what he thought of them.

The New Haven man who poured kerosene over his wife and then set fire to her would not look amiss in a suit of tar and feathers.

Once again from the heart of the "Dark Continent" comes the gratifying assurance that Emin Pasha is not dead. Amen!

The Chilian idemity has at last been paid. Let's shake.

Now is the winter of "our last red cent."

A RIVAL OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

Constitution Adopted, Officers Elected,
Drawing for State Representatives.

That Quincy will furnish her share of statesmen in the future as she has in the past, is settled beyond a doubt. The announcement that a Young Men's Congress would be organized at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms Tuesday evening, was sufficient to attract about fifty representative young men, a number of prominent professional men being among the number.

A temporary organization was effected by the appointment of Mr. Stephen A.
Foster as chairman, and J. F. Emery for secretary. Mr. Foster stated the object of the congress, and it was voted to organize at once.

The constitution and by laws which had been prepared by the Lyceum Committee were read by the chairman and after a few alterations were adopted.

The following officers were elected to serve for the first term.

Speaker.—Stephen A. Foster.

Vice Speaker.—Everett S. Litchfield.

Clerk.—J. F. Emery.

Asst. Clerk.—W. B. Holden.

Sergeant-at-arms.—John H. Ball.

Chaplain.—O. C. Colton.

To serve on Executive Committee.—F.

B. Rice, W. W. Jenness, and Reuben S.

Elliott.

Considerable interest was manifested in drawing of the States which each member was to represent.

The results were as follows.

1 Maryland, Wm. P. Tanner,

2 Kentucky, Joseph R. Fuller,

3 Indiana, James M. Nowland,

4 North Carolina, Geo. H. Brown,

5 Kansas, E. H. Brock,

6 Louisiana, Chas. E. Goodspeed,

7 Nebraska, L. S. Anderson,

8 Montana, W. T. Isaac,

9 Missouri, B. D. Mann,

10 Rhode Island, E. W. Branch,

11 Oregon, J. F. Suckling,

12 Pennsylvania, W. W. Jenness,

13 Wisconsin, R. A. Sears,

14 West Virginia, F. E. Tupper,

15 Washington, B. T. Emery,

16 Wyoming, Ward H. Ballard,

17 Texas, De Witt G. Ray,

18 Vermont, R. B. Graham,

23 Illinois, W. P. Bailey,

24 California, Fred B. Rice,

25 Alabama, H. L. Rice,

26 Colorado, J. F. Harlow,

27 Arkansas, H. R. Holden,

28 Delaware, R. S. Elliot,

29 Nevada, E. S. Litchfield,

30 Mississippi, W. S. Pinkham,

31 Michigan, A. R. Baxter,

32 Minnesota, E. A. McFarland,

33 Massachusetts, W. B. Holden,

34 Florida, Wm. Fenton, Jr.

35 Connecticut, Wm. H. Mitchell,

36 North Dakota, B. F. Weeks,

37 South Dakota, Stephen A. Foster,

38 Maine, J. F. Emery,

39 Iowa, O. C. Colton,

40 New Hampshire, A. E. Brownville.

The speaker appointed a partial list of the committees, which are similar to those of the House of Representatives with such modifications as were necessary for a body considering state and municipal question.

Nine bills were introduced and referred to the proper committees. This will enable the Congress to commence active business at the next session, Jan. 3d.

Characteristic of Quincy the first bill introduce was an act to submit to the people a prohibitory amendment to the constitution.

Among the other bills introduced were

An act to incorporate the Cape Cod Canal.

An act to prevent any officer of the federal government from interfering with any election in the states.

An act to reduce the duty on tin plate.

An act to suspend immigration into the United States for one year from March 1, 1893.

An act to exempt the personal property and shares of foreign corporations when the corporations are legally taxed where situated, from taxation in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

A resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing that the President may veto single items in an appropriation bill without rejecting the whole bill.

The meetings of the Congress will be held twice a month, will be fully reported in the DAILY LEDGER.

ANOTHER SUICIDE.

David W. Tucker of Milton Jumped from a Portland Boat Monday Night.

Again Tuesday, close upon the untimely death of J. Walter Bradlee, Milton was shocked to learn of the suicide of Hon. David W. Tucker. The gentleman left home Monday to be gone a few days, and is known to have gone to Boston on a train.

Tuesday morning a dispatch from Portland, Me., announced that when the steamer Tremont arrived from Boston this morning an overcoat and sealed packet were found in a stateroom. The packet was addressed to Mrs. Susan Bowen, Milton, Mass. A slip of paper was pinned upon the envelope bearing these words:

"Captain of steamer, please send word to my home. I left boat at 9 o'clock. David W. Tucker, Milton, Mass."

In the packet was a wallet containing a $1 bill, a promissory note for a small amount and a receipt for $200. The man is well remembered by the Tremont's captain, who describes him as being about 60 years of age, with white beard, and weighing about 100 pounds. He appeared very cheerful during the early evening.

The property found has not yet been identified as that of Mr. Tucker, but of this there is little doubt. Some believe that it is a case of disappearance rather than suicide, and that Mr. Tucker had an opportunity to leave the boat at Portland early in the morning.

Mr. Tucker was a native of Milton, having been born there Aug. 22, 1820. In 1871 and '72 he was a member of the house of representatives and served on the committees on agriculture and on redistricting the state for representatives in congress. In 1881 he was elected to the state senate. He was unmarried and lived with his housekeeper, Mrs. Susan Bowen, on the estate which he inherited and upon which he had always lived, situated on the crest of a fine hill, about three miles from Milton station, on Randolph avenue, in the direction of the Blue Hills. He had been a farmer by occupation, and at one time raised produce on an extensive scale for the Boston market, but had long since given up active work and the management of agricultural enterprises. His fine fields were mainly rented out during the summer for pasturage, and the old gentleman had no serious cares to disturb his equanimity.

Every one in Milton considered him wealthy, although the estimates of the approximate amount of his earthly possessions varied widely. No one thought him worth less than $25,000, and many placed the amount at from $50,000 upwards; but there has never been any doubt that he knew how to retain what he had. Some even declare that the old man was parsimonious; but others maintain that he had streaks of generosity. He was one of the best known men in Milton, if not one of the most popular.

Mrs. Susan Bowen has been Mr. Tucker's housekeeper for many years. The neighbors intimate that he was anything but considerate towards her, but from her words and an occasional evidence of emotion, it appeared that she had nothing but the kindest regards for her dead master. Mrs. Bowen is very sure the tragic death of Mr. J. Walter Bradlee a few days previous had a great effect upon Mr. Tucker, because they were very intimate friends. She did not think, however, that Mr. Bradlee's death had anything to do with Mr. Tucker financially.

J. Walter Bradlee, Jr., when interviewed said that Mr. Tucker was a bondsman for his father for a small amount on two estates at the time of his death, but he could not tell what estates, nor how much the amount was. Mr. Tucker was not in any danger of losing anything through his father, and did not seem to have any such fear when talking to young Mr. Bradlee last Saturday. He thought it strange that Mr. Tucker did not attend his father's funeral.

Investigation shows that there was insanity in the Tucker family as his brother Lung himself at the old homestead some thirty years ago.

Mr. Rogers Candidacy. Friends of Howard Rogers, the rival candidate for City Messenger, claim that it is not known who was his choice for Mayor, and that the statement, that he is said to have voted for Mr. Hodges, does him much injustice. He entered the race at the solicitation of an official at City Hall, who believed a change would be beneficial. Few know what the income of the present incumbent really is, and may be surprised to learn that it is about as large as that of the Mayor. As City Messenger alone, it is but $250 per year, but going with it is the position as janitor of City Hall, at a salary of $450, about $200 for the care of the fountain, etc. Mr. Rogers is favorably known as a business man, is a real estate owner, and should be interested in the city.

Weymouth. Mrs. Bela French had a shock of paralysis this morning.

The Norfolk Cycle club of South Weymouth gave a minstrel show in Fogg's Opera House Tuesday evening. It was a very successful affair and netted the club a handsome sum.

Confirmation by Bishop Brooks.

Bishop Philip Brooks paid a visit to Christ's church Tuesday. In the afternoon at 5 o'clock he performed the rite of confirmation upon seventeen candidates. This ceremony was very beautiful and impressive. At the hour mentioned the organ pealed forth in the processional and in the distance was heard the voices of the choir, gradually the voices came nearer and soon Bishop Brooks preceded by the choir boys and Rev. H. Evan Cotton appeared and took their positions in the chancel. This was followed by reading in unison from the ritual and prayer, after which the candidates for confirmation took their positions in front of the chancel rail and were confirmed. Bishop Brooks spoke briefly to the candidates. The service over the choir boys marched out.

In the evening at 7.30 o'clock Bishop Brooks delivered an eloquent extemporaneous sermon which was listened to with marked attention by a large audience.

Bishop Brooks is a powerful speaker and although he talks with great rapidity he has the faculty of holding his hearers which is equalled by few. He is not a loud speaker yet his words are clear and as his voice rises and falls it produces a marked impression upon his hearers.

Duties of City Messengers. The office of City Messenger in this city is not as important as in most cities. For instance in Lynn where a new ordinance has just been adopted, which reads:

The messenger shall be elected on the first Monday in January, and serve until his successor is appointed; be subject to removal by the city council; see to the opening and closing of all rooms in the City Hall; attend all meetings of the aldermen and common council; be at the call of the mayor and members of the city council; purchase all supplies for the City Hall; have charge of all printed matter, and furnish all departments with supplies on order of the heads of those departments; make monthly and yearly reports to the city government, and shall have charge of all reference books; the salary shall be $1000 per annum.

Monumental Work.

The Gettysburg Memorial Association of Harrisburg, Pa., has awarded the contract for the monument to be erected to Hancock on the battlefield to Sculptor Elwell, of New York, for $22,000, without the pedestal. Contracts for the Meade and Reynolds statues will be awarded before the close of this month.—Pottsville Journal.

At a meeting of the Suburban Society, of Covington, Ky., last week, the project of securing a monument to commemorate Schiller, the great German poet, received further impetus. Statues of Texas revered patriots will be exhibited at the Columbian exposition, and afterward placed in the capitol building.

Julien Dubuque, who was the founder of the town on the Upper Mississippi that bears his name is to have a monument.

A Bad Neighborhood.

Dashaway—Well, Uncle Ebony, what are you going to have for your Christmas dinner?

Uncle Ebony—I've gwine to have a fat and sassy turkey, sah.

Dashaway—Why, I thought you told me not long ago you didn't expect to have one.

Uncle Ebony—No, sah, I didn't; but I done moved out ob dat neighborhood since den.

Cruel Workmen.

An iron bridge was being erected for a railroad in the outskirts of the city of Paris when one of the workmen dropped a piece of iron heated to white heat. At the moment a boy of fourteen passed the place and the workman called out to him that he had accidentally dropped the piece and that the boy should hand it back to him. The poor boy, not perceiving the danger, grasped the iron with both hands and immediately dropped it again, uttering a fearful cry of pain. He was answered by loud laughter from the workmen, as cruel as they were stupid. The perpetrator of the feat, mistaking a joke, has been arrested, the poor victim of his cruel folly having his right hand burned so severely that he will never recover the full use of it.—Chicago Journal.

The Great Horse Show.

Recall the horse show. Fairly now, as between man and man, which was really on exhibition, the Venerable family of horses? What did the boys about town pay a dollar to see, women and dandies or horses and ponies? Why were $600, $700 paid for the use of a box in the horse show six consecutive nights? Was it for love of horses, was it for interest in breeding, was it because of any knowledge of thoroughbreds? It would be nonsense to say so. Everybody, including the Veneers themselves, knows very well that the people in the boxes went to show themselves, and the people on the promenade went to look at the social exhibits.—Howard in New York Recorder.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

FAST SUMS SPENT ON THE CAROLING PROCESSIONS LONG AGO.

In Italy the Calabrian Shepherds Come Down from the Mountains to Greet the Child Jesus with Soft, Sweet Notes. Queer Music of the Puritans.

To review even briefly the wonderful Christmas singing and playing in the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth centuries is beyond our limits; yet what scenes, splendid, romantic and glowing with life, form and color, mention of those old pageants can summon up! Account books of the day, preserved in the British museum, show what vast sums were spent upon them. Cheshire, Tower Hill, Southwark, even forlorn and fallen Whitechapel, were scenes of such festivities. They wake to life as we read of the caroling processions of the olden time; yet, as may well be imagined, such redundant doings led to excesses, and then authority had to step in. Ministers and priests forbade much that had been customary, while with the Puritans came an absolute law against even the singing of carols.

Queer droning music, tuneless and depressing, was that of Cromwell's choice; yet here and there, in the homes of the better classes, voices were not to be silenced. Had they not the precedent of the angels? As Jeremy Taylor says of that first Christmas music, "As soon as those blessed choristers had sung their Christmas carol, and taught the church a hymn to put into her offices forever on the anniversary of this festivity, the angels returned to heaven," their earthly message sung for all a waking Christian world. Meantime in other lands the people had caught up the song of the nativity.

In Italy the music of Christmas day for centuries was famous, the Sistine chapel being historic for its work of praise that great day, and from the sweep of the "Benedictus" and "Magnificat" we reach the sweet soft voices of those Calabrian shepherds, called Pifferari, who come down from the mountains to sing Christmas hymns from place to place, visiting chiefly stables, where they have a tradition the Child Jesus has passed by.

To dictate precisely what should and what should not constitute good Christmas music is not possible, but of course there are, as in every branch of the divine art, certain guiding rules, the first one being that all music appropriate for the day should be joyous and expressive of thanks to God, while there are solemn parts of every service of such thanksgiving, of course, as with every deep joy is the "stillness" in heart and voice and utterance. No home but should have its own festival of rejoicing, and let those who seek for home harmonies search only the novels or carols of France, or the hymns of those English writers who had vast cathedral aisles to fill, yet contrived to preserve an exquisite simplicity in all their work.

We need to preserve every Christian tradition dearly. If the rule log cannot be lighted, yet from year to year we can surely keep a fire of good will and cheer, and rekindle the old flame, as they who have the rule are wont to do. In the old times, after the Christmas dinner had been enjoyed, the loving cup was passed around, doors at one end of the long hall were thrown open, and there entered a company of perhaps fifty persons—guests of the host, humble men and women and children invited from far and wide. After a word of welcome all arose, and as with one voice sang that most perfect of old Christmas hymns, "With Hearts Truly Grateful."

Centuries ago other carols were sung there, and, as now, a feast provided for one and all, while the question of rank was for that day forgotten. Later, in the orchards, the songs of the season were sung—a tradition prevailing that this insures a good crop for all during the coming year.

Our theme is endless, yet it is embodied in one dominant idea. Whether the notes of a great organ fill a cathedral, whether the humblest little band of "waifs" go from door to door, there should be one thought uppermost—we sing the message of the angels, we praise God, and our hearts should remember that peace on earth is the glory of the day.—Lucy C. Lillie in Harper's Bazar.

Boiled Turkey and Oyster Sauce.

Boiled turkey should be fixed exactly like roast turkey, except that after being trussed it is bound in a white cloth and boiled continuously for from one hour and a quarter to one and a half, according as its weight varies from six to ten pounds. It is usually dished with oyster sauce. To make oyster sauce, save all the juice in opening the oysters; cut off the beards and put them to boil in the liquor, with a bit of mace and lemon peel; put the oysters into cold water and drain them; strain the liquor; add to it the oysters just drained from the cold water, with a lump of butter rubbed in a little flour and enough milk to make the amount of sauce required. Put on the fire and let it boil a few moments, stirring constantly. Serve at once. A little squeeze of lemon is an improvement.—Philadelphia Record.

Seasonable Selections. At Christmas be merry and thankful withal. And feast thy poor neighbors, the great with the small.

If thou wouldst walk in light, Make other spirits bright.

Thou who wast born and cradled in a manger Hast gladdened our poor earth with hope and rest; Oh, best beloved, come not as a stranger, But tarry, Lord, our friend and Christmas guest.

Christmas is here; Waile whistle shrill, Joy and cheer, Little care we; Little we fear Weather without, Sheltered about The mahogany tree.

Alt from Reading a Novel.

There are two men in this city who are thoroughly convinced that much good may come out of the perusal of flashy novels. They have been sojourning in state prison for the last five years—one in Sing Sing and the other in Auburn. A day or two before Thanksgiving they returned to their respective homes free men. The governor had become satisfied that they were innocent men, wrongfully convicted, and had pardoned them.

The reading of a flashy novel by one of the convicts while lounging in the corridors of the prison led to an investigation which convinced a great many influential persons in this city that two men had been railroaded to prison—one for fifteen years and the other for eighteen years—simply because of lack of proper legal defense. The reader of the novel was so impressed by the exuberant sentiment that trickled through the narrative that he made up his mind that the authoress, for it was a woman's story, must be very soft hearted.

He therefore lost no time in sending her a written statement of his case, with an appeal to aid him in securing his liberty. The story touched the heart of the novel writer, and she supplied the necessary money to have a complete investigation of the case made by an eminent New York lawyer. The active interest of a New York newspaper man was also enlisted, and a good deal of hard work was done within a few months. The producer of lurid novels forgot her calling in her enthusiastic fight for justice, and it is safe to say that the two liberated men will never be found in the ranks of those who treat her stories with contumely.—New York Times.

For the Greater United States.

At a meeting of the South Norfolk Liberal association on Saturday there was an almost unanimous expression of opinion in favor of the political union of Canada with the United States. Following upon the resolution passed by the Liberals of the town of Simcoe on the previous day this event indicates a drift of public sentiment which it would be useless to ignore or belittle. Politicians of the small sort may try to make capital out of the fact that these declarations were made by Liberal conventions. It would be easy to point out, on the other hand, that two of the leaders in the annexationist movement, Mr. Solomon White, M. P. P., and Mr. T. M. White, secretary of the Political Union association, are Conservatives, and that a majority of the signers of an annexationist document published in this city are of the same political faith.—Toronto Globe.

Elevated Electric Railway.

A syndicate of engineers has applied for the privilege of constructing an elevated railroad in Paris to be operated by electricity. The project divides the city into two parts by a line running north and south.

A new street, 165 feet in width, will be built, which will open into the principal quarters, the Bourse, the Halles Centrales, the Palais du Senat and the Jardin des Plantes.

The central part of this route will be reserved for the elevated line, which will have two tracks resting on four rows of iron columns twenty-three feet in height. The projected line will connect with the Metropolitan railway and with the important lines which already exist.—Electrical World.

Sailors' Trousers in Science.

A sailor's trousers are the foundation on which the learned Professor Heilprin, of the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences, rests his theory that the north pole can be discovered, and that within a few years. This garment was the property of a seaman whose ship entered the arctic regions by Behring sea. Somehow the apparel got into the ocean current, was swept away up toward the pole and finally came down along the shore of Greenland, where it was discovered. A ship, argues Professor Heilprin, can go where these trousers have been. And it is a fact that an expedition is going to start from Norway in the spring of 1893 to try it.—Boston Journal.

Would Like Tennyson's Place.

Since Miss Monroe, of Chicago, appeared already laurel crowned and with an ode that she had written herself the bee of poetic ambition has flitted away and now buzzes in the plug hat of the Marquis of Lorne. He wants to garb himself in the mantle of Tennyson. With this laudable end in view he is building some verses to his distinguished mother-in-law, and it is feared no one will dare to tell her how bad they are. Somebody who really respects the late laureate's mantle should swear out an injunction.—San Francisco Examiner.

Philadelphia's Monument to McClellan.

William Waldorf Astor has sent to the McClellan association, payable to Governor Pattison's order, a certified check for $1,000. Sculptor Ellicott gets $5,000 for his completed model. The state pays $5,000 for the pedestal, and the entire work is expected to cost $20,000. Bids will be opened in a few days, and the present intention is to unveil the statue in May.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

General Longstreet an Author.

General Longstreet will soon have the manuscript for his book in the hands of the publishers. It will be remembered that it was nearly finished when destroyed by fire a few years ago. His handsomely furnished residence, with library, war records and manuscripts, was entirely consumed, and he had to rewrite the book.—Exchange.

Charitable Distributions. The Duke of Portland, in accordance with a custom which he began last year, has distributed among the various charitable institutions in Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire, Yorkshire and Lancashire the amount received during the summer as entrance fees to Welbeck abbey. The receipts this year amounted to £1,033.—London Tit-Bits.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT!

VEHICLE BREAKS DOWN

Driver Barely Escapes With His Life.

The Load Too Heavy

Quite a serious accident occurred on Copeland street the other night. A very stout, merry-faced old gentleman, with flowing white locks, was driving a heavily loaded vehicle through West Quincy, at a very late hour, when the bottom of his vehicle dropped out, spilling the entire contents, and frightening the four animals, causing them to break into a run. The old gentleman rolled out on to the ground, and after groping around in the dark for some time, discovered a light in a corner store. He aroused the proprietor, who helped him gather up his goods, and provided a place to store them. The old gentleman was taken to the nearest doctor and got his wounds dressed, and by morning he was feeling pretty comfortable. His horses and wagon had disappeared, and no tidings have been received from them since.

IN A DILEMMA.

The old gentleman was engaged in the express business, and had goods for thousands of people in Quincy, but his horses and wagon being gone, he was in a great dilemma, not knowing how to deliver his goods. Now it happened that the merchant into whose care he had fallen was one of those men who improved every opportunity, and he quickly saw a way out of the trouble, besides getting a good percentage for himself. So he proposed acting as the old gentleman's agent, advertising the goods in the DAILY LEDGER, and asking the people to come and select their articles. Our readers are by this time curious to know the names of the parties who figure so prominently in this little story. Well, the old gentleman's name is

Mr. Santa Claus, and the merchant who relieved him of his load, and now acts as his agent, is

Williams, the Jeweller,

and here goes for advertising Mr. Santa Claus' wares. Look over this list and see if there is an express package for you:

BALDUR AND THE MISTLETOE.

How the God of Oratory and Poetry Died—A Legend of the North.

The mythology of the north unfolds to us the fatal power of the mistletoe in the charming myth of Baldur, the young god of oratory and of poetry.

Baldur the Good was the favorite son of Odin, and beloved of all the gods especially for his marvelous beauty and courage. From a succession of terrible dreams he believed himself doomed to death and related the hideous vision to the assembled gods, who with one accord determined to avert from him all danger and to this end conjured all things. Frigga, his mother, exacted from the elements and from all things in nature, animate and inanimate, a vow under no circumstances to do him harm.

Thus protected Baldur, as of yore, led the chase and courted danger in protean form, giving himself as a target for the other gods' arrows, battleaxes and other weapons, who, believing that, do what they would, they could do him no hurt, thus sported with his valor, deeming it an honor paid to Baldur.

Loki, the detractor of the gods and the author of all their misfortunes, angered that no harm could befall Baldur, and filled with envy and jealousy at the tribute thus paid to him by the other gods, resorted to strategy to find some way to work him evil. Assuming the disguise of a woman, he sought the abode of Frigga, and asked her if she knew how the gods were employed. She replied to the question, and to the passionate love and pride of the mother for her darling, gifted son, that they were testing their skill and the merits of their weapons upon Baldur, who was unscathed by them.

"Aye, aye," Frigga made answer; "naught can hurt Baldur. I have expected an oath from all things to do him no harm."

"What!" exclaimed the deceiver; "have all things really sworn to spare Baldur?"

"All things," returned Frigga, "except an insignificant plant that grows near Wallula, called 'mistletoe'; any thing so weak could do him no harm."

Hastily Loki left the presence of Frigga, and resuming his own shape searched for and found the frail plant. Appearing amid the gods with a branch of mistletoe, he directed it with aim so sure that Baldur was pierced through the heart and expired instantly.—New York Ledger.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE.

It is the Most Cherished and Popular of Holiday Institutions.

The Christmas tree is cherished with the same loving affection as ever. It may not be fashionable in the parlors of the aristocratic, to whom few seasons bring any of the deeper feelings which fill the minds of men and women whose lives are not made up of cold formality. But among the great majority of the people the joys of Christmas day will not be complete without the Christmas tree, with its numerous tiny tapers, its oranges, apples, bounties, gilded crackers and the present which is to surprise the fond papa, who has been aware of its existence for three or four weeks. Nor will the day have so firm a hold on the mind of the young were it not for those rosy cheeked dolls peeping from behind the green leaves, those watches which are striking (ticking might be a better word) proofs of perpetual motion, and those bright little men who show such an amount of good temper that they repay the child who beheads them with a supply of sweetmeats which their little heads carefully preserved from view.

A thousand more things there are to keep the Christmas tree ever green in the mind of the young and even the old. According to the dealers, the middle classes are the largest buyers of this happy emblem of the day, and in the matter of nationality the Irish and the German lead the way. The trees are pine and cedar, the former coming from Wisconsin and the latter from Missouri. Yesterday the hospital matron, the Sunday school miss and a great many more were to be seen making their bargains for the best trees they could select, and some of them reach as high as twenty-eight feet.

Green holly, contrasting pleasantly with red berries, is also in the market, and there is ivy woven into tempting wreaths by knowing traders. Most of the holly and ivy come from the south. For the rest the merchants and bankers say that money is easier than it has been for a long time, and therefore it is freely spent. With the sight of snow and a little frost on his window pane, as one glanced from his room in the morning, the city would present a truly Christmas aspect.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE PANAMA SCANDAL.

Leads to Uproarious Scenes in the French Chamber.

SWEEPING STATEMENT BY M. ROUVIER.

Says He Did No More Than All Public Men Have Done.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—A Paris special says: The air breathes scandal in the French Chamber. There are all the outward aspects of a revolutionary era.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—M. Floquet, president of the chamber of deputies, announced to the house that he had received an application for authority to prosecute M. Rouvier, ex-minister of finance; Jules Roche, ex-minister of commerce; Emmanuel Arone, member for Corsica; Antonin Proust, member for Dordogne; Baron Jean de Soubeyran, member for London; and Joseph Dugue de la Fauconnerie, member for Orne, all of whom are charged with having been compromised in the Panama canal scandal.

The application could not be granted without the consent of the house, as the deputies under the law are exempt from certain legal proceedings. The chamber decided that the different bureaux should meet and consider the application.

In the senate M. Le Royer, the president, stated that he had received a demand for the prosecution of Senators Roumieu, Albert Grevy, Beral, Thevenet and Deves for the part they have taken in the affairs of the canal company.

The matter was referred, as in the lower chamber, to the standing committees. In the senate and lower chamber special committees were elected to consider applications of the procurer general for the prosecution of compromised members, and both were understood to favor the prosecution of ex-Minister Rouvier.

M. Rouvier appeared before the standing committee, of which he is a member, in His Own Defense.

He said that there was nothing in the documents seized to prove that he had ever received a check from anybody in the interest of the Panama Canal company. He had always deemed it his duty to preserve silence as regards certain facts. The accusations made against his character and integrity had relieved him of such obligation, and he would now speak out in the chamber without reserve. Before the chamber resumed business the statement had gone abroad and caused intense excitement in the lobbies. The galleries were packed. Not a dozen seats in the whole auditorium were vacant. The report of the special committee was read by Chairman Alexandre Millerand. It favored the granting of the application for the authority to prosecute Deputy Arone, charged by M. Andrieux, late prefect of police, with corruption in connection with the loan of 1888. M. Arone arose and protested his innocence. He made merely a general denial.

Rouvier then ascended the tribune. The first words of his defense were delivered amid oppressive silence. After reminding the chamber of his hitherto unexceptionable good record, and the obligations which he owed to his country, he proceeded to close his mouth, he made an emphatic general denial that he had accepted checks from the Panama Canal company or their agents, or had had any discreditable connection of any sort with the company's enterprise.

He then proceeded to tell the whole truth. When he came into power he found that the secret service fund was entirely inadequate for the defense of the Republic, and he had recourse to his personal friends for sufficient money to tide over the temporary difficulty. The confusion grew steadily in the chamber as the deputies became convinced that M. Rouvier

Was Evading the Issue.

Loud murmurs of protest greeted his first statement, as to the secret service fund, and when he suggested that the suspicious checks were contributions of his personal friends to the support of the government, there was an outbreak of indignation and derisive laughter. Raising his voice, so as to be heard over the uproar, M. Rouvier shouted: "What I did, all public men have done. Had I not adopted that course, the men now interrupting me would not be seated on these benches."

Bellarm broke loose the moment the words were uttered. Deputies rose and shouted back to the speaker, and others shouted for the names of the friends. M. Rouvier made three attempts to be heard, but his voice was inaudible. After the demonstration had spent itself, he continued: "I am perfectly ready to go before any tribunal. I have nothing to fear. I never received the slightest benefit from the Panama Canal company. I never defended its interests. I challenge investigation."

This peroration provoked Another Hostile Demonstration. When order had been restored the report of the special committee in favor of the prosecution was adopted.

M. Deroulede then asked what action the disciplinary council of the Legion of Honor had decided to take against Dr. Cornelius Herz.

"This man," M. Deroulede said, "is not to be left with the insignia of the legion in his possession, although I grant he is a most important man to the state, for he truly holds the reins of government."

M. Deroulede paused for several minutes while the Right cheered and the Left tried to drown the cheers with shouted protests. Then he proceeded to make a virulent personal attack upon M. Clemenceau, "whose relations to M. Herz," he said, "are too well known to need detailed description."

Amid renewed cheers from the Right and jeers from the Left, he declared that M. Herz

Tried to Buy the Bonapartists with Panama Canal money, but they had refused to touch it. Despite M. Floquet's repeated protests, cries of "Dissolution!" and a general tumult, which extended to the topmost gallery, M. Deroulede again addressed himself to M. Clemenceau. "Why did this Herz give 200,000 francs to La Justice?" he shouted. M. Clemenceau, white with rage, shaking both fists toward M. Deroulede, burst back his answer, which nobody could hear in the general confusion. M. Deroulede closed with an attack on the "Mutual Benefit association, not of socialists and revolutionaries, but of rich men and rich men's pampers."

defied M. Deroulede to substantiate the charges just made. He would not answer these brazen slanders in the chamber, but would demand personal satisfaction after adjournment. The attacks of the last speaker upon M. Herz were based on falsehood and imagination. M. Clemenceau praised Herz, and said he was Boulanger's devoted friend. In conclusion M. Clemenceau cried out: "Deroulede has accused me of betraying my country by introducing foreign influence; Deroulede lies."

After another scene of wild disorder Lucien Millevoye, Boulangerist deputy for Somme, rose to defend, as he said, the memory of General Boulanger against the aspersions cast on it by M. Clemenceau's statement concerning the friendship between Herz and this great man. He then let loose

A Torrent of Abuse on M. Clemenceau, accusing him of accepting millions in bribes and of advising the abandonment of Egypt by the French government. In the consequent tumult M. Millevoye turned upon M. Floquet, who was trying to restore order, and shouted at him an insulting name. Millevoye closed with the assertion that Herz was the paid emissary of a foreign power.

M. Bourgeois, minister of justice, announced, amid applause, that he would arraign Dr. Herz before the disciplinary council of the Legion of Honor. M. Deroulede declared himself satisfied, and withdrew his interpellation. The chamber then adjourned.

After the sitting there were many wrangles and tumultuous scenes in the lobbies, as it is believed a number of duels will be the result. Deputies Deroulede and Millevoye have already sent seconds to Deputy Clemenceau to demand satisfaction for insults heaped upon them. The greatest excitement prevailed in the streets until a late hour last night. Some journals published as many as seven extra editions. Groups gathered around lamp posts reading and discussing the latest news. The scene presented has not been equalled since the fall of President Thiers in 1872.

THE GOLD DRAINAGE.

Old Method to Be Renewed by the Treasury to Make Up for the Shortage.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Secretary Charles Foster, in order to repair the inroads on government gold holdings, resulting from heavy shipments of that metal to Europe, has renewed the policy of disbursing currency of any character and denomination desired, at any point in the United States where it may be needed, in exchange for gold deposited at any sub-treasury, except that at San Francisco. When it is necessary to ship money to make payment, the dealer is given the benefit of government rates of transportation. The dealer desiring money at Chicago, New Orleans or elsewhere, deposits his gold at New York and receives its equivalent, less transportation charges, at the sub-treasury nearest its point of use. As it seldom happens that any large amount of money is suddenly required at non sub-treasury points, actual transportation of the moneys is rarely necessary.

It is learned at the treasury that several bankers have already added $800,000 to the government gold balance in exchange for currency, and every indication that this policy will speedily recoup nearly the entire amount of gold recently surrendered for foreign dealers.

Not His First Offense.

New York, Dec. 21.—Frank Hutchinson, who stole a pocket book from Anna Fay, and who surrendered himself, has spent two years in the Concord (N. H.) reform school for the larceny of $100, and is wanted in Boston for stealing $50 and a silver watch. Hutchinson was discharged on the charge of stealing the pocket book, as Miss Fay refused to prosecute him, but was rearrested and taken to police headquarters until the Boston authorities can be communicated with.

Balfour is Missing.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—A meeting of the creditors of the Liberator Building society, which failed a short time ago, was held yesterday. One of the principal men in the society was James Spencer Balfour, member of the house of commons for Burnley. It was charged that Mr. Balfour had sold all his property in Great Britain and had fled to Spain. This statement caused the greatest excitement to prevail. No action was taken by the society.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—In the senate Senator Palmer defended his objections to the anti-option bill. Mr. Bates argued for the repeal of statutes relating to the carrying of oleum. No quorum was present for the transaction of business in the house.

Pastor Squires Will Leave New Haven. NEW HAVEN, Dec. 21.—Rev. L. H. Squires of this city has accepted a call to become pastor of the Independent Congregational church at Jamestown, N. Y. Mr. Squires was a candidate for congress on the Prohibition ticket at the last election.

LEFT BILLS BEHIND.

Haverhill Women Went Away with New Dresses.

ONE WAS PROBABLY A BIGAMIST.

Mr. Cole Will Not Have to Bother
About a Divorce.

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Alice Cole, one of the three young women who deserted their husbands, came to this city three years ago. She then posed as the divorced wife of Herbert Turner of Providence, and became a popular belle here. She became acquainted with Herbert G. Cole, and this ripened into love, and marriage was hastened by a letter purporting to come from her divorced husband, asking for a reunion in matrimony.
Since Mrs. Cole's sudden departure Mr.
Cole has consulted B. F. Brickett, to whom he related the circumstances of the letter referred to above. Mr. Brickett concluded that the epistle had been used simply to urge Mr. Cole.

To Propose Marriage.
Mr. Brickett wrote a letter to the clerk of the court at Providence to ascertain if a decree of divorce had been granted to Herbert Turner from Alice Turner about three years ago. In reply the clerk said:
"I can't find any decree granted in this court."

As Mrs. Turner claims that she formerly lived in Providence, where she was married, and, from any information to the contrary, Mr. Turner is still a resident of Providence, it is the only logical conclusion that Mr. Cole was innocently enticed into an illegal marriage, and, therefore, is released from the trouble and necessity of procuring a divorce.

No Word Has Been Heard from the three missing women, although Providence, Boston and Lowell have been searched. That they have gone on the stage is thought to be beyond doubt, as since their departure bills for dresses, etc., to the amount of over $100, have come in to the husbands.

This is about the only thing in the case that Messrs. Cole and Tennant regret, although Mr. Monette mourns the loss of his wife.

The stories of an elopement with Exeter
(N. H.) academy students are barefaced fakes, as no students are missing.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE

Toward the Purification of the Social Atmosphere at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 22.—The second meeting of the clergy and laity identified with the movement for the suppression of vice in this city was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening. The principal object of the gathering was to receive the report of the nominating committee appointed here a week ago to select a committee of 100 citizens to co-operate in the crusade. The committee, however, reported to the submit the list, and asked for further time. It was explained, however, that they had met with unexpected success in obtaining the consent of the representative citizens to identify themselves with the movement, either by service on the committee or by subscriptions of funds.

As an evidence of their activity it was stated that they had been promised lists of the dives in the city and the owners of the property, that the prize fight advertised for last evening had been prohibited by the chief of police, and that the bill boards about the city had been denuded of obscene pictorials. Bishop Clark made an able and conservative address, and cautioned the committee against the publication of details calculated to exert a demoralizing influence upon the young, and to exercise prudence and intelligence in prosecuting their work.

Rev. Dr. Babcock of Grace church opposed any movement which sought to unduly force the city officials to the performance of their duties under the law, but emphasized the paramount duty of action along the line of Christianizing
the immoral and lawless elements, which was the antidote for evil of every sort. In response to the offer of a clergyman to invest a dollar for the expenses of the movement, provided fifty were realized, $35 was collected, which augmented the balance of $15 contributed in the previous meeting. A resolution inviting the ministers to discourse upon the subject in such manner as they saw fit was passed, and the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the nominating committee.

GRANGERS ADJOURN.

Day Devoted to Committee Reports.

Next Meeting at Worcester.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 22.—At the state grange meeting yesterday the report of the committee on co-operation was read by J. H. Dyer. Two telegrams of greeting were read, one from the Manchester (N. H.) grange and the other from the Maine state grange, now in session.
Responses were sent by Master Howe. An invitation was received from the Worcester grange to meet in that city next year, and the invitation was accepted. It was also voted to hold the annual meeting in the second instead of the third week in December so as to avoid the pressure of holiday attractions. The committee on fire insurance reported through its chairman, George R. Chase, and George L.
Clemence read that of the committee on agriculture. Mrs. Minnie Chase reported as flora, giving the results of her correspondence on the subject of horticulture
during the year.

In the evening the fifth and sixth degrees were worked by Master Howe, over 130 candidates being admitted to the sixth.
The meeting closed with a singing of songs, and the presentation of reports and other unfinished business.

Allen Is Not Out of a Job.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 22.—At an investigation of the accident on the Consolidated road at the Tin Bridge junction of the Air Line and Hartford division, in which two locomotives were wrecked, it was proved that Engineer George H. Allen of the Air Line passenger train had disregarded the danger signal. He was discharged.

FOUR LIVES LOST

By the Burning of the West End Railroad Stables at Everett, Mass.

EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 22.—A disastrous fire visited the new city of Everett last evening, when the carbouse of the West End street railroad on Ferry street was totally destroyed. Four men, employees of the road, were burned to death in the building, not having time to make their escape. Twelve box cars and twenty open cars were destroyed with the buildings.
The loss is placed at $125,000.

The carbouse was built by the West End railroad in 1890 and was a story and half wooden structure with a French roof, and cost in the neighborhood of $85, 000, with all its fittings. The close cars were valued at $6000 each and the open ones at $900 each, and old stables, where horses were formerly kept, was damaged about $500. At the time of the fire there were ten horses in the building, which were removed to a place of safety.

The names of the men who were killed were Joseph McGinnis, night watchman at the stables, aged 30 years, married;
George Wallace, a motor man, aged 33 years, married; Luke Glennan, another motor man, aged 22 years, single; John Clark, motor man, 45 years of age, married. Another man named Horace Gray, boss inspector of the cars, had his face and hands severely burned.

The loss by fire on the building is estimated at $85,000. In the buildings were twelve box cars valued in the aggregate at $72,000, and twenty open cars valued at $18,000. An old stable adjoining the car-bouse, which was burned, was valued at $500, making the total money loss $125, 000, which is said to be fully covered by insurance.

PAST AND PRESENT.

Logical Statements at a Forefathers'
Day Banquet in Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—It was Forefathers' night at the Congregational club, and over 800 people sat round the table in Music hall last evening. Rev. Dr. Edwin W. Webb, invoking the blessing, pathetically referred to the precarious condition of Mr. Blaine.

President Samuel Carter Darling welcomed the guests, and closed on the immigration question with this statement:
"An ignorant foreign class is fast holding the balance of power in this country, led by unscrupulous leaders."
Lieutenant Governor Haile was warmly applauded. He said: "Pilgrims are often called narrow-minded on account of some of their customs, but it would be well for the people of the day to emulate their example of virtue. Our nation owes much today for its grandeur, to the men of 1630.
Trinity's new pastor, Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D. D., had this to say:
"More women and more men are needed who will leave off demonstrations and go to work showing the better way to overcome the confessed wickedness of the large cities."

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge was last on the program, and in abstract said:
"There has never been a time, I think, when there was more to be done and where more was demanded of each citizen than here
today."

The future of the United States rests in the hands of its people. They make and unmake their own rulers, and if things go wrong they can only blame themselves. On each of us, therefore, rests a part of the responsibility for the welfare of our country; great in proportion to the opportunities of each individual man.
There is no quick-curing panacea for human ills; there is no short cut to an earthly millennium. We have traveled far from the darkness of the early days of the race; we have made great advances, but the process have been slow—how slow we do not always stop to realize.

Metinks I see in my mind a noble and pulsant nation, rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks; methinks I see her as an eagle mewing her wings, and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam.

MISSING FROM HOME.

A Pretty Maine Girl Has Mysteriously Disappeared with Her Brother.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 22.—Miss Hill, a pretty 19-year-old Norway girl, is missing.
The father of the young woman, an aged farmer, has managed to gather a goodly amount of this world's goods. A short distance from the Hill homestead lives a well-to-do young farmer. Some time ago Miss Hill, anxious to earn her own livelihood, accepted a position as housekeeper for the neighbor.

One day last week Miss Hill left town without notifying her folks, with the exception of a brother who, it is said, disappeared at the same time. A story came to the ears of the gray-haired father. In substance it was that his daughter was in a delicate condition, and that the young farmer for whom she worked was the cause. It was also rumored that the girl's brother was in league with the girl's alleged seducer.

State detective Bassett is at work on the case. It was learned that last Friday four tickets were sold at the Norway railway station two to Lewiston and two to Haverhill. Sunday Mr. Hill and Detective Bassett reached Lewiston, and, assisted by the police department of this city and Auburn, secretly pursued their investigation.

Two persons answering the description of the brother and sister were traced to a place in Auburn which has an unsavory reputation, but they could not be found, and yesterday the detective devoted his time to the suburban towns, in one of which Miss Hill has friends living.

WANTED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Two Bad Men Captured in New Hampshire Logging Camp.

HAMPTON VILLAGE, N. H., Dec. 22.—Considerable excitement was caused in the town of Hampton by the arrest of two men on warrants issued in Massachusetts and served by a Boston and Maine railroad detective, assisted by local Officer
James McCoy. The men, William W.
Craig and Bertie Mears, are wanted at Andover, Tewksbury, Ballinville, Billerica and that section of Massachusetts, where up to several months ago, law breaking was rife and the vicinity was terrorized by the frequency of the crimes.

Houses and barns were broken into and valuable articles stolen; barns and other property were burned, and depredations upon farmers were frequent. Several Boston and Maine freight cars having been broken into and other railroad property unlawfully disturbed, the corporation placed the case in the hands of the detective. The men were found in a logging camp in the mountains.

HIS CASE IS HOPELESS

But Mr. Blaine's Condition is Reported Much Better.

HIS LIFE IN NO IMMEDIATE DANGER.

Chances Are Against Removing Him from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—"Mr. Blaine is much better," says Dr. Johnston. "His voice is much firmer and his eyes brighter."

"Does Mr. Blaine sit up during any portion of the day?" was asked.

"Oh, yes," replied the doctor. "Mr.
Blaine is much stronger than the outside world has been led to believe. In fact his condition at no time has been as critical as has been painted in the newspapers.
It is true that Mr. Blaine was for a few minutes a very sick man at one time on Sunday last, but he was not as near to death as believed by some. Mr. Blaine is still very ill, but there is no immediate danger of death."

"Do you think that Mr. Blaine's present show of improvement will warrant his removal to a more congenial climate in the near future?"

After meditating a few seconds the doctor said: "I cannot say as to that; it is useless to look that far into the future."

While Mr. Blaine's physicians are as Discreet in Their Utterances as men can well be, their tone and manner of expression impress those who converse with them daily that, while he is in no immediate danger, Mr. Blaine's case is hopeless.

The freedom from a recurrence of the dreadful attack of depressed vitality to which Mr. Blaine was subject Sunday has tended very much to cheer the members of Mr. Blaine's household.

Representative Bingham of Pennsylv-vania was one of yesterday's callers. The news he received at the door was good so far as it went, but Mr. Bingham found no more than temporary relief at it.

"I am afraid there is no hope," he said.
"It is the end that unfortunately must come to all of us, and Mr. Blaine is comparatively young. His loss will take a great man out of the government."

BIG PURSE FOR SLUGGERS.

Coney Island Club Offers $45,000 for a "Go" Between Burge and McAuliffe.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—At a conference held here Judge Newton offered a purse of $45,000 for a fight between Jack McAuliffe and Dick Burge before the Coney Island Athletic club, this or completely overtopped the $30,000 purse which Captain Williams of the Crescent City Athletic club of New Orleans made for the fight.
Captain Williams stated that he could not bid until he received further instructions from his club. McAuliffe then said he would sign articles of agreement to fight Burge before the Coney Island Athletic club for the $45,000 purse with the stipulation that Dick Roache, his backer, shall approve of the match. That being satisfactory to Newton, articles of agreement were immediately drawn up and signed by McAuliffe. The agreement provides that both men shall meet at 133 pounds for the championship of the world. Nothing is mentioned about the loser's end. Burge has already signed for a fight.

Hornbacker Backs Out.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 22.—Eugene Hornbacker of New York, ex-featherweight champion of the United States, and Daniel Russell of Bridgeport, were on the card for a ten-round "go" at the Park City Athletic club last night, for $500 a side. The Bridgeport man entered the ring at 140 pounds, in opposition to Hornbacker's 117. Hornbacker had the small end of the mill from the start and was very badly punished. At the close of the second inning Hornbacker announced that he considered his opponent as under-classified, and refused to continue fighting at such odds.

About the America's Cup.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 22.—Colonel W.
F. M. McCarthy, naval designer and contractor of this city, it is rumored, has been requested by some rich Baltimoreans to design a cutter to assist in defending the America cup in the international yacht race next summer. Should the Bal-timoreans decide to go into the race, work upon the yacht will soon begin.

American Interests in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 22.—James S.
Clarkson, ex-assistant postmaster general of the United States, President Meek of the Colorado Iron company and others, have been negotiating here for the purchase of the city and district railways, about 212 kilometers long. The price is said to be $9,000,000.

In Need of More Money.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Attorney General Miller told the house sub-committee on appropriations that the rapid growth and heavy increase in the number and length of terms of United States courts necessitated an increase of $1,700,000 in the appropriation for their support for the next fiscal year.

Two Little Girls Drowned.

HARTFORD, Dec. 22.—Julia and Flossie Hays, aged 8 and 4 years, respectively, were found drowned in Walker's pond, Burnside, yesterday afternoon. The children lived near the mill pond, which is on the Hockanum river, and had left their home half an hour before with their sleds.

"Have you seen my last song, George?"
asked the would-be distinguished composer.

"I hope so, Billy," was the reply.

CANDIDATES for the presidency of the next City Council are looming up, and from appearance there will be more of a contest for the position than in any previous year.
The latest name suggested is that of Sylvester Brown of Ward Five, an ex-chairman of the School Committee. While Mr. Brown would make an exceptionally good president, we believe there are reasons why his candidacy should not be pressed. First, he will be a new member, little acquainted with the routine of the past. Second, it is not just the thing for Wollaston which already has an extra Councilman, to have both the Mayor and President of the Council. Again, one Councilman from Wollaston has already filled the president's chair, while Wards One, Four and Six, two at least with worthy candidates this year, have never been honored. The LEDGER has no choice for the position, but believes one of the re-elected Councilmen should be elected.
In view of the closeness, politically, of the City Council it would seem expedient for the Republicans, who are in the majority, to hold a caucus and select a President and other officers in sympathy with Mayor Fairbanks.

THE YOUNG Men's Congress, organized this week by the Young Men's Christian Association, cannot be otherwise than an educational institution of great benefit to the young men participating, and to the city at large, and the LEDGER will take pleasure in reporting its meetings and awakening such interest as it can in the work. The new Congress is composed of many wide awake young men, including one of our Councilmen-elect. If the organization continues to prosper, many of its members may later be found in the City Council of Quincy. The training is just what the young men need, and like the physical work under the direction of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be appreciated sooner or later by its members. The next meeting will be held Jan.
3, and the first debate will be watched with interest.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The majority for license in the recent municipal election of Boston has been reduced by the official canvass from 1148 to reported, to 1032. A close vote where over 61,000 voted on the question.

The contract for carrying the mails tri-daily between Quincy and Quincy Point, has been awarded to C. G. Steele of Washington, D. C., for $90 and will be sublet.
Ninety dollars is less than five cents per mail, or ten cents for a round trip. This is getting the work done very cheaply.

As it is a serious matter we hasten to correct a statement in the LEDGER of Tuesday, under the heading, "How to make a Will." The law requires three witnesses to a will not two as printed.

—Among the slippers which invite holiday purchasers into a New York store are the "Juliet," a superb and very dainty bit of feminine footwear; the "Romeo," of fur to keep unmanly draughts from my lady's ankles when she rides in state to the ball."

MILTON AGAIN.

The Third Sensation in the Town Within a Week.

At Dedham Wednesday there was pro-bated the will of the late Asaph Churchill of Milton, who was a well-known lawyer.
It includes a peculiar section which restricts his heirs from aiding the Catholic church, which reads:

"Greatly fearing the influence and management, especially in matters of property, of the church and clergy of that sect to which my youngest daughter, Harriet B. Churchill, has become attached, I make some restriction and special provisions in my will."

These restrictions are:
"The remaining sixth part I give, devise and bequeath to my sons, Joseph R. and John M. B. Churchill, in trust, however, for the use and benefit of my daughter, Harriet B. Churchill, during her life; and with the express understanding that neither said trustees nor she shall expend any part of such income or earnings to or for the use or benefit, directly or indirectly, of the so-called Roman Catholic or Catholic church, its priests or clergy, its books or orders or sects, its institutions or charities, its nuns or saints or rites, its ceremonies or exhibitions, its images or masses, its lectures or preachings, its cemeteries or possessions, or in aid or encouragement or support of anything connected with or pertaining to that church or sect."

If at any time this condition shall be violated, he directs that this gift of one-sixth shall become void and the property at once be conveyed by said trustees to be applied to the benefit of his other children.
The will was executed July 3, 1891.

Sullivan Arrested.

Officers Farnald, Kelley and Plunkett arrested Thomas J. Sullivan of Braintree, Wednesday, at Canton for breaking and entering and larceny from the shoe manufacture of John Long at Braintree, Aug.
15. Several months ago the officers attempted to arrest Sullivan while he was unwiring a game of ball at South Braintree, but when he saw the officers he ran and escaped into the woods and has kept out of the way since. He was recently located at Canton where he was working for the American Knitting Twine Co.
Sullivan was brought to Quincy and locked up.

Christmas Mummies.

Among other quaint customs still extant are those of the "mummies" and nummings at Christmas, all common in Oxfordshire, England. Some wear masks, some black their faces and others dress fantastically. They go about singing:

A merry Christmas and a happy New Year,
Your pockets full of money and your cellars full of beer.

But this is the convivial side. At this time the following apparently senseless lines are sung by the yeoman of Somers-setshire:

Here comes I, little man Jan,
With my sword in my hand;
If you don't all do
As you be told by I,
I'll send you all to York
Vor to make apple pie.

Mum.

Dashaway—I hear, Bobbie, that you got a train of cars for Christmas and they had an accident. Tell me all about it.

Bobbie—I can't say a word. You see
I am one of the officers of the road.

A PERPLEXED HOST.

A TURKEY DINNER AT WHICH THE BIG TURKEY WAS ABSENT.

How a Crowd of Country Lads Spoiled a Nicely Planned Feast—Mysterious Disappearance of a Roast Turkey—The Flight of a Tender Morsel.

A gentleman noted for his originality made the following improvement to the old saying, "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the saucer," the other day in speaking of a disappointment a friend of his had experienced in losing his dinner through missing a train—a dinner to which he had been invited and at which he had been selected to respond to one of the toasts.

The simple missing of the dinner was more than set off at the old General
Shields hotel, on the West Chester pike.
A company of twelve Philadelphians interested in real estate developments had gone out in the country for the purpose of looking about for profitable investments, and had sent word to the propie-tor of the old hostelry of their coming and ordered an old fashioned turkey dinner to be ready at 6 o'clock.

The order put the proprietor in his best humor and the entire establishment into an unusual flurry of exciting preparation. The hostler hurried to the nearest farmhouse, where he purchased the finest turkey to be had, and carried it back to the hotel in triumph. Taking it into the stable he dispatched and plucked it in great haste. Everything was excitement in the large kitchen from the time the order was announced until late in the afternoon, when the last dish was ready to be carried to the dining room.

The news of the gentlemen coming spread through the village, and every one felt duty bound to go to the hotel and see them, and none took a greater interest in the affair than the boys.
They had finished their chores unusually early and were promptly on hand long before the hour of serving the supper.
Of the entire community none felt his personal importance more than Dave Peters, the colored waiter.

Dave was of portly build and prided himself in his appearance, and if he had a hatred for one thing more than any other, that thing was a claw hammer coat, which he said belonged to society gentlemen and not to a waiter, consequently he held to the old fashioned roundabout jacket. Just before the time for announcing that dinner was ready a number of the village boys stood peering through one of the dining room windows, watching Dave arrange the different dishes on the table and admiring the display made by the twelve napkins in as many cut glass goblets.

After viewing the effects of the table with a countenance beaming with satisfaction, Dave strutted toward the door and disappeared by descending the stairs leading to the kitchen, and a few moments later reappeared, carrying on a large dish the turkey, done to a lovely brown and beautifully garnished with carved roses, sprays of parsley and celery tops. Walking toward the table he found that no room had been left for the central and chief adornment of the table. Taking the situation in at a glance, Dave saw his mistake, and hurriedly set the dish down upon the broad sill of the window through which the boys were peering, and began rearrang-ing the table to make room for the turkey.

No sooner had he turned his back to the window than one of the boys softly and quietly raised the sash, while another grabbed the turkey from the dish and fled across the hotel yard toward the old stable, followed by his companions. After making room for the large dish Dave turned around, stepped to the window, raised the dish and placed it in its position in the center of the table, never noticing that the bird had flown.
Going to the sideboard he picked up the supper bell and gave it a violent ring, thus notifying the host that dinner was ready.

"This way, gentlemen; this way, please," spoke the proprietor to his guests; "step this way, gentlemen," leading them through a narrow passage from the bar to the dining room. No sooner had he reached the dining room than his gaze fell upon the empty plate, when he exclaimed, "David, where in the name of General Jackson is that turkey?"

Poor Dave! Never was a man taken more by surprise. When for the first time he noticed the broken platter his broad smile vanished. In an instant his jaw fell and his large eyeballs stared most frightfully, while his whole frame shook with a terrible tremor. All he could say in reply to the abrupt and emphatic question was, "Don't know, sir;
it was dar, it was dar," and hurrying to the kitchen stairs he shouted down,
"Yon, Pheby, whar in de bl's dat turkey?"

"Go erlong now, you's got it up dar long ergo." The disappearance was not only a mystery to the waiter and cook, but to the proprietor as well, who in an apologetic manner asked the guests to repair again to the barroom while a thorough investigation could be made.
Every one in the house, including the hostler, was questioned and cross questioned, yet no light could be thrown on the mystery. After wasting an hour in trying to find the missing bird, and after a consultation with the guests, fried ham and eggs were substituted for the turkey.

It was not till two hours later, when the guests were about to depart, that the proprietor learned what had become of the turkey. One of the boys, more bold than his companions, came back to the hotel to see how the joke worked, and thinking the story of the bird's disappearance too good to keep, told it to one of the men that were loitering about the outside of the hotel.

The next morning the picked bones of the turkey were found scattered about on the ground back of the stable, where the boys had, after carving it with their pocketknives, greedily devoured the well cooked bird.—Philadelphia Times.

Norfolk County Probate Court.

The following wills were allowed by Judge White, at Dedham, on Wednesday: T. P. Fihely, late of Quincy; W. P. Stone, Hyde Park; F. S. Dyer, Dedham; Michael Savage, Norwood; Johanna Healey, Weymouth; Royal Woodward, Brookline; Emeline R. Carpenter, Foxboro. This testatrix left $7,000 to erect a memorial chapel in the Foxboro Rock Hill Cemetery, to be known as the Carpenter Memorial chapel.

Administrations were granted on the estates of J. W. Bradley, Milton; Mary Edel, Norwood; Lewis N. Holmes, Sharon; Caroline E. Stone, Hyde Park; Nelson Hawes, Wrentham.

Inventories were filed on the estates of Loring Johnson, Walpole; L. F. E. C. and Carrie L. Hewitson, Quincy, minors; Charles Mellen, Brookline; Charles Copeland, Roxbury; Martha T. Pike, Franklin. Accounts allowed: In estate of Thomas Smith, Cohasset; will of A. W. Austin, Brookline; estate of W. G. Currier, Brookline; estate of Betsey Tirrell, Weymouth; will of J. P. Thorndike, Braintree; guardian of Lucetta Holbrook, Bellingham; will of Charles Ellis, Brookline; will of Dexter Bradford, New York; will of George Griggs, Brookline, for $9,173.49.

Mr. Tucker's Disappearance.

The suicide theory is generally accepted by the people of Milton, in the case of mysterious disappearance of Hon. David W. Tucker. An officer of the Steamer Tremont when interviewed Wednesday said:

The last seen of him was at 8.30, two hours and a half after the boat had sailed. At this time the second steward saw him descending the forward companion stairs and starting aft. The night was cold and not very light, although the stars were shining dimly, and few people were outside the shelter of the cabin quarters. It would have been perfectly easy for any one to jump overboard at almost any time after dark without being observed. Again it would have been perfectly possible for him to go down below and sleep in the cabin, and then slip ashore in the morning without being observed and recognized by any officer of the boat.

The Herald says, it is rumored in Milton among people who knew David W. Tucker that he had during the past year made unfortunate speculations. One of these, it is claimed, was the purchase of some real estate for improvement on Cape Cod, and that a relative of his was connected with the deal. The same authority states that Mr. Tucker lost several thousand dollars in this single transaction. His home farm has been allowed to retrograde for several years.

A Plea.

Dear Santa Claus, I've got to go to bed—it's late, you see—So listen, please, for you must know Just what to bring to me.

I want a pair of skates, a knife,
A pony that can trot;
I want a nice big drum and fife,
And all the books you've got.
I want a kite, with miles of string,
And several Christmas trees;
But when you come this year don't bring
Another baby, please.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas J. Sullivan of Braintree, for breaking and entering, and larceny from the factory of John Long, was arraigned and held in $500 for trial Friday.

The four neglected children of Jennie Beyette of Randolph, who is in jail serving time, were placed in the hands of the State Board of Charities and will be sent to the State primary school at Palmer. There are two boys and two girls whose ages range from 3 to 9 years.

Alex. McLellan and Miles Burke, two youths from Brewer's corner, were arraigned for the larceny of candy from the wagon of one Faulkner. McLellan was fined $10, and Burke was placed on probation for two months.

BOUND AND ROBBED.

A Salem Woman Receives Outrageous Treatment from Two Burglars.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 22.—A bold robbery was committed at a house on High street last evening. Two unknown men entered the house of Albert Grossman and seized Mrs. Grossman, who was in the house alone, tied her with a rope, nearly strangling her, and robbed her of $25. When she was discovered by her son she was unconscious and black in the face. A physician was called and revived her, but she was unable to give any account of her assailants beyond stating that one was a tall and the other a short man.

Stirring Up the Texas Snakes.

General Dyrenforth's big wooden hydrogen gas tank sprung a leak last night, and the circumambient air was loaded with something which affected all animal nature in San Antonio. The small lizard on Alamo heights climbed into the mesquite brush to get a breath of fresh air, and the jackrabbit ran for the tall timber. The rattlesnakes relaxed their grip about the tree trunks, and were observed today in a state of coma. Humanity could do little more than hold its nose and hold on tight. General Dyrenforth is above all such trifles, and with a clothespin on his nose he rode about just as he did years ago in the Chickahominy swamps.

The general wanted to honor a lady who was present, and brought forth a 10-pound bag of rosebuds. It was hung to the limb of a tree about 1,000 yards from camp. It was discharged with an electric battery. A few moments later the men in charge of the explosion brought in a dead rattlesnake four feet long, two jackrabbits, and a wild turkey from General Breckinridge's preserve. The rattlesnake looked like a pin cushion. He was killed by the shock, but his hide was punctured millions of times by splinters from the shattered tree. The snake was as thick as a gas main. His head was donated to the University of Dallas. The incident has made the Dyrenforth party wary of snakes.—Texas Cor. Chicago Herald.

Never Too Late for Romance.

A marriage was celebrated near Jefferson, in Jackson county, Sunday, in which hope deferred made an old heart glad. Saturday an old man registered at the Howard House in Jefferson. He wrote his name, "John McCabe, Ohio," in a trembling hand, and began inquiring about some of the older families of that section. Among the persons for whom he had asked were the Niblocks and Daniels.

He had left Jackson county in 1835, being then eighteen years of age, and was never heard of after. The cause of his departure was the preference shown by his fiancée, Miss Jessie Carmichael, for a young neighbor, Edward Toomer. He went into the then new country of Ohio, married, reared a large family and became one of the patriarchs of his section. Later his wife died, and a great desire came over him to see the people whom he had known in his youth. The old man's glee was great when he discovered that the girl whom he had loved, now the widow of Toomer, was still alive. He went to see her, and the result was a wedding.—Cor. New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Scientific Study of Religion.

Science exercises and develops functions which are not essentially antagonistic to religion, but they are not the functions of religion, and if they are given first place in our interest, religious growth must deteriorate in proportion to its neglect. The functions of religion must be exercised or they will become incapable of action; they must be educated or they will become weak and useless. Scientific study, though extremely fascinating, though it fills us with exalted notions of the complexity of the universe, and of the wonderful harmony of its correlations, leads us to no hope. We find in it only stern, relentless law; it has no feeling and its end is certain death.

And what does it profit unless we keep alive those religious functions which conduct us to the other world of religious belief?—Professor H. S. Williams in Century.

He Annoyed the Police.

Herr Grasser is the name of a Vienna crank who has given the police of that city a great deal of annoyance and will shortly have to answer for it in court. He has repeatedly pretended to commit suicide by drowning himself. He is a good swimmer, and he always swam to the shore after amusing himself for awhile at the consternation of the spectators. A few days ago he quarreled with his wife and jumped into the river to alarm her. A brave policeman jumped in after him and pulled him ashore. The man heard the policeman with insults, ran to the bridge and jumped into the river again. The frightened wife prayed the policeman to save him again. He did so, but only to be again cursed.—Vienna Tageblatt.

From the Sandwich Islands.

A lizard hatchery started in Dr. Miller's drug store last Friday. About two weeks ago a fruit man gave Frank Elledge a small egg found in a bunch of bananas from the Sandwich Islands. Frank put the egg in a show case as a curiosity, and nothing more was thought of it until Friday, when Charley Miller opened the case to get something. Imagine his surprise when he found the egg had hatched and a beautiful little blue lizard was enjoying himself among the soap boxes and perfume bottles. His lizardship is quite an acquisition to Elledge's amphibian menagerie, museum of natural curiosities, etc.—Shasta County Republican.

CAUTION!

LOOK out for the man who at this season of the year advertises his goods AT WHOLESALE PRICES. KEEP YOUR EYE ON HIM!

He'll bear watching! He'll rob you if he gets a chance. He is not in business for the sake of being a philanthropist; he is there for what money he can make. Advertising goods at Wholesale Prices is a trick often indulged in by some small, unprincipled dealers, who try to ape larger concerns.

BEWARE OF THEM.

Ours is a Retail Store, where we sell goods at a fair profit, and if you can prove that you have paid too much for anything you have purchased of us, we will gladly refund the money.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT!
VEHICLE BREAKS DOWN

Driver Barely Escapes With His Life.

The Load Too Heavy

Quite a serious accident occurred on Copeland street the other night. A very stout, merry-faced old gentleman, with flowing white locks, was driving a heavily loaded vehicle through West Quincy, at a very late hour, when the bottom of his vehicle dropped out, spilling the entire contents, and frightening the four animals, causing them to break into a run. The old gentleman rolled out on to the ground, and after groping around in the dark for some time, discovered a light in a corner store. He aroused the proprietor, who helped him gather up his goods, and provided a place to store them. The old gentleman was taken to the nearest doctor and got his wounds dressed, and by morning he was feeling pretty comfortable.

IN A DILEMMA.

The old gentleman was engaged in the express business, and had goods for thousands of people in Quincy, but his horses and wagon being gone, he was in a great dilemma, not knowing how to deliver his goods.

Now it happened that the merchant into whose care he had fallen was one of those men who improved every opportunity, and he quickly saw a way out of the trouble, besides getting a good percentage for himself. So he proposed acting as the old gentleman's agent, advertising the goods in the Daily Ledger, and asking the people to come and select their articles.

Our readers are by this time curious to know the names of the parties who figure so prominently in this little story. Well, the old gentleman's name is

Mr. Santa Claus,

and the merchant who relieved him of his load, and now acts as his agent, is

Williams, the Jeweller,

and here goes for advertising Mr. Santa Claus' wares.

Look over this list and see if there is an express package for you:

150 Clocks of every variety and grade, from the common kitchen clock to the fine French clock in Marble case.

200 Watches, Gold, Silver and Nickel, all sizes—Ladies', Gents' and Boys'—Hunting and Open face—plain and fancy dials. Old Santa just laid himself out in the selection of these.

350 Diamond and other Rings—for Ladies, Gents, Boys and Infants.

175 Solid Gold and Rolled Plated Bosom Pins for Ladies and Misses.

60 Solid Gold Scarf Pins, for Gentlemen, or can be used as Stick Pins for Ladies

CARLISLE IS SLATED.

Belief That He Will Accept the Treasury Portfolio.

CLEVELAND WILL TAKE HIS TIME

In Making Selections for His Official Household.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Ex-Postmaster General Dickinson, who, with Senator Vilas, had a long conference with President-elect Cleveland on Saturday and Sunday, is in the city and has been in conference here with Senators Carlisle, Gorman and Brier, in furtherance of the views of the president-elect on the organization of the incoming administration and also in regard to the policy to be pursued in legislation on the leading issues of the late campaign. The president-elect, these gentlemen say, will not reach any conclusion on the personnel of his cabinet for some weeks. It can also be stated on the authority of these gentlemen that Mr. Cleveland intends to appoint a cabinet to suit himself. At the same time he will endeavor to make his selections satisfactory to his personal friends and the leaders.

In regard to Factional Troubles in New York he does not propose to associate the interests of his administration with Tammany, the mugwumps or any other faction of their distinctive character. If he can select a cabinet member from the city or Empire state he will do so, as he wishes to have some one from his own state and who is personally agreeable. Therefore the probability is that the choice will not fall to any of those factions. This is not only the president-elect's own idea but also of Mr. Whitney and others upon whose judgment he places great reliance.

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

The fact that Messrs. Dickinson and Vilas were associated with him in his former official household, and contributed largely to his nomination and election, gives their advice concerning the situation in the west great weight. Their advice on cabinet selections from that section will therefore be paramount. It can be stated that either or both of these gentlemen could again

Enter the Official Household if they desired to do so, but both have declined a repetition of cabinet honors. Ex-Postmaster General Dickinson said: "We have had all the distinction of cabinet service, and neither of us can afford to sacrifice four more years of our time for the meager compensation for such services. I am just now getting back my practice, which I was compelled to abandon to go into the cabinet. I shall, however, do all in my power to make Mr. Cleveland's administration a success, which I have no doubt it will be. He has the greatest opportunity which any president has ever had to place himself and the party behind him in an impregnable position before the people."

Mr. Dickinson added: "While Mr. Cleveland has not taken any decided stand against an extra session, he does not believe it would be a wise step on the threshold of a new administration. If, however, the president should recommend it on account of the condition of the treasury and other public interests which could not be delayed until December, he would very likely yield, provided the objects were specifically understood to be for organization and preparation for legislative business, followed by a recess until autumn. Unless this condition is plain, the president-elect will not consent under any circumstances to a call for an extra session of congress immediately after March 4 to embark in general business."

Mr. Dickinson is here to look after an important case before the supreme court. It has been learned through reliable sources that the president-elect will make it convenient to accept the Secretaryship of the Treasury. This, it is understood, is the only place respecting which Mr. Cleveland, in his conversations with his confidential advisers, has shown a preference as to individuals. In no instance has there been the least opposition manifested to Mr. Carlisle's selection. On the contrary, the sentiment of the party leaders is unanimous in favor of this choice. Senator Carlisle is conceded to be the best qualified man in the Democratic party for this place.

Both the radical and conservative wings of the tariff reform promoters have unlimited confidence in him, as have also the two extremes on the silver question. Both are willing to trust him. There could not be found another man in the whole country who so completely has the confidence of the party and the business interests of the people, besides the unanimous support of his party in congress on these vital questions. The indications, therefore, point very conclusively to Mr. Carlisle as secretary of the treasury, if he can be persuaded to take the place.

A Duel on the Tapis.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—The report that Clemenceau and Deroulede have serious intentions to a duel is fully confirmed. They are to fight with pistols and are to be stationed twenty-five yards apart, but with the privilege of advancing to five paces apart. As both men are considered good shots it is generally believed that one or the other will be killed.

Capill Defense Ended.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 22.—The evidence is completed in the Capill murder trial, and the plea for the defense is ended. No important facts were brought out at the trial which did not appear in the papers at the time of the shooting.

Fears of a Coal famine.

SPRING HILL MINES, N. S., Dec. 22.—There is a coal famine in the strike situation. A coal famine is imminent.

BOSTON TAKES THE LEAD

Toward Enforcing the Laws for the Abatement of Sweat Shops.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The sub-committee of the house manufactures committee, which is investigating the sweating system, gave a hearing to several witnesses from Brooklyn and New York, who were requested by the committee to tell what they knew of the evils of the sweating system and what should be done to modify or correct them.

The committee at the last session and during the recess investigated the matter exhaustively, and gave innumerable hearings to interested persons. Consequently it already has on hand a large amount of testimony, and yesterday another chapter was added to the volume. It was shown conclusively by the witnesses that the evil was diminishing in any of the large clothing centers, with the exception of Boston, where the state laws have been so effectively enforced as to lessen it to a great extent.

Philadelphia and Cincinnati were stated to be the great centers of the country where the system was most prevalent and where the conditions were most unfavorable from a sanitary standpoint.

It was also shown by witnesses that the state laws of Massachusetts were very effective in their operations, and had resulted in abating the system throughout the state and in Boston, particularly, to a minimum.

Charles F. Reichers said one-half the clothing made in New York was made under the sweating system, and the highest wages averaged $15 a week for men and $8 for women. The children seldom made over 50 cents or $1 a week. The accommodations of the tenement house workers are described as appalling. He recommends a system of registry, license and inspection, and also legalization of trade labels attached to the goods.

FOR ANNEXATION.

New Toronto Daily Wants Canada to Get Under the Eagle's Wing.

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—The first issue of an evening paper called The Sun appeared here last night, its avowed objection to advocate the annexation of Canada to the United States. It is a salacious paper.

We have no hesitation in saying our lack of like progress has been and is entirely due to our unhappy separation from the Republic of the United States. It is the only one of the states of that union which would be more prosperous than we can be as British colonies alongside the overshadowing great Republic, we shall devote ourselves to the furtherance of this great mission.

With England we have no quarrel, nor are we unmindful of her grievances on behalf of human freedom, but our hearts and energies should be devoted to improving the condition of this our own land, and our people, and consider what we can do for ourselves rather than what is best for the country with which we cannot long be practically connected and whose people care little, if anything, for us. The advent of this paper is not due to financial aid of Americans nor to the contributions of favored classes in return for government patronage.

We come honestly before the country, to secure as far as in us lies, the bright and better day for our people, who, while blessed by nature with an abundance of her choicest gifts, have failed to reap any harvest but one of disappointment and humiliation. Of course none of us would be so foolish as to resort to or be contented by The Sun. We advocate the political union of Canada and the United States upon fair and honorable terms and as the act of the free self-governing people, but we do not advocate such union, nor would we consent to it, without the consent of her masterless and parliament of Great Britain.

No Hamburg Immigrants Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The dispatch from Hamburg intimating that the United States consul at Hamburg was about to resume the issue of clean bills of health to vessels clearing from that port for the United States, notwithstanding the fresh cases of cholera are reported, is discredited here. Secretary Charles Foster, however, has communicated the information to the secretary of state, with the suggestion that the United States consul at Hamburg be instructed to refuse to issue such action until there is no longer any danger of introducing the contagion from that source into the United States.

Famous College Athlete Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Herbert Tufts Allen, Harvard '96, died at St. Luke's hospital of peritonitis. He was sick only a few days. Allen was a famous Harvard baseball player. "Allie" was the name by which he was known all over the country in 1893-94. Allen was considered the best backstop ever at the Cambridge college. Up to the time of his death he was engaged in the real estate business in this city.

He Bet on the Wrong Man.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 22.—A consultation of the bondsmen for the missing postmaster, Allender, was held last evening. Allender is 45 years old, and has a wife and one daughter. He bet very heavily on Harrison, and in order to pay his obligations, he appropriated the funds of the government.

Sent to the Reform School.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 22.—Daniel Kiley, the 14-year-old boy who ran away from this city to Cambridgeport and Chelsea and stole watches and jewelry from the houses of relatives in both places, was sentenced to serve in the Western reform school during his minority.

Cleveland's Plurality is 391,379.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The Evening Post prints a table of the total vote this year for president, having secured the figures yesterday from all the states. The result is as follows: Cleveland, 5,367,966; Harrison, 5,176,611; Weaver, 1,625,000; and Bidwell, 358,347. Cleveland's plurality, 391,379.

Tugboat Destroyed by Fire.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 22.—The tugboat Matt Rowe was burned completely this morning. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but is supposed to have started near the boiler. The boat was owned by Beardsley Bros., and the damage is estimated at $5000.

Alleged Poisoners Indicted.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22.—The bills were returned by the grand jury against Hugh P. Dempsey, Robert Beatty and J. M. Davidson for felonious assault and battery, in administering poison to the non-union men at the Homestead steel works.

Boston's License Vote.

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—City Clerk Galvin has made up the official vote on license from the reports of the ward officers, and the majority for license is 1093, instead of 1148, as was given by the press returns.

Fears of a Coal famine.

SPRING HILL MINES, N. S., Dec. 22.—There is a coal famine in the strike situation. A coal famine is imminent.

THE FRENCH MUDDLE.

Ex-Minister Roche and Others Deny That They Are Implicated.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Immediately after the opening of the chamber of deputies yesterday Jules Roche, ex-minister of commerce, whom the procurer general was authorized to prosecute for sustaining corrupt relations with the Panama Canal company, ascended the speaker's tribune to make his defense. He was laboring under intense excitement, and swung his arms violently as he walked up the aisle. He passed the ministers' bench he faced about suddenly and exclaimed: "Oh, you hypocrites and scoundrels!"

Several ministers retorted hotly. In the confusion of the house the incident was noticed only by deputies on the front benches. As he began his defense M. Roche's voice was sharp and unsteady, and from beginning to end his manner was nervous and strained. He said he did not know what criminal he had to face nor did he care, for his conscience was clear. He had nothing with which to reproach himself. His most venomous enemy could not connect him with the lottery bond affair as he did not even vote on the bill. He denounced the procurer general for proceeding against deputies on insufficient evidence, and declared that in his case, at least, this gentleman would be found to be sadly in error.

While passing back to his seat M. Roche received many congratulations from fellow members.

In the senate the special committee chosen by the standing committee, reported in favor of authorizing the procurer general to proceed against Senators Renault, Albert Grey, Beral, Thevenet and Deves on account of their connection with the Panama canal frauds. M. Thevenet, who is ex-minister of justice, solemnly affirmed that he had never received a centime from the Panama Canal company, either directly or indirectly.

The parliamentary commission of inquiry has learned that a bond of 500,000 francs, payable to the bearer, was given to Dr. Cornet by Roche as compensation for his services in "advertising." The examining magistrate has impounded all of Baron de Reinach's letters relating to the Panama canal affairs in 1890 and 1891, and a document written by M. Barbe, acknowledging the receipt of 500,000 francs from the Panama canal people.

It is stated that 100 checks, bearing the names of senators and deputies, have been secured by the examining magistrate.

REFORMS IN TAXATION

Demand in a Report Adopted by Pine Tree State Farmers.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 22.—At the meeting of the state grange in this city, the report of the committee on taxation in substance said:

The taxation question is one that has always given much trouble. The state grange claims for the farmers no exemption. We base our claims on that article of the constitution which provides that all property shall be assessed and taxed equally, according to the just value thereof. Maine is the only one of the New England states without a listing bill. A listing bill would tend to bring out the hidden personal property or estate.

We believe that railroads could well afford to pay a tax on their earnings as follows: On the first $100 per mile gross earnings, a tax of 5%; for the second $100, 10%; third, 20%; fourth, 30%; fifth, 40%; sixth, 50%; seventh, 60%; which should be the limit.

As regards savings banks and trust companies the present tax of 14 per cent on deposits should be extended to their surplus funds, and that national bank stock owned by them should be subject to local taxation.

The common school should be wholly supported by state and not municipal taxation.

The report did not provoke the discussion that was expected. It was unanimously adopted. Work in the sixth degree was exemplified last evening.

Restrictions on Property.

DEDHAM, Mass., Dec. 22.—The will of Asaph Child, of Dedham, is a peculiar document in one particular. He bequeaths property to his daughter, Harriet, in trust, with the express understanding that neither the trustees nor she shall expend any part of the income or earnings for the use or benefit of the Roman Catholic church or its various institutions or charities. If at any time this condition is violated, he directs that this gift shall become void.

California a Low Bidder.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Bids were opened at the navy department for the construction of an iron and steel pier at the harbor of Pago Pago, Samoa. The lowest bid was that of the Coronado Foundry company of San Diego, Cal., which was $84,697. The bath iron works of Bath, Me., bid $149,500. The award will not be made for several days yet.

To Encourage Athletic Sports.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 22.—Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, '74, of Philadelphia, has offered three cups for inter-class contests in football, boxing and track athletics. When the cups have been won three times by any class they will become the property of the class. The cups are given in memory of Theodore DeWitt Cuyler, '82.

PATRIOTIC SONS OF NEW ENGLAND

Join in Expressing Their Love for Their Native Soil.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The eighty-seventh annual dinner of the New England Society was held here last night. Three hundred and seventy New Englanders sat in the banquet hall of Sherry's and discussed choice viands and wines to an orchestral accompaniment of popular and merry melodies. Hon. Daniel G. Rollins presided, and at the same table with him sat Chauncey M. Depew, Rev. E. E. Hale, Hon. Seth Low, Rev. H. L. Wayland, D. D., Major General Howard and other distinguished men. At right angles to the president's table were seven others. These tables were presided over by C. E. Brooks, J. J. Dudley, J. P. Townsend, Alfred W. Bates, J. J. Goodman, Henry N. Briggs, and D. Rufus P. Lincoln. The toast list was as follows:

"Forefathers' Day." Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale: "New England and Higher Education." Hon. Seth Low: "Their Selfishness." Rev. Dr. H. L. Wayland: "The New Englander's All Round Capacity for Good Citizenship." George A. Marden, Treasurer of Massachusetts: "The Old New England Home." Grosvenor P. Lowrey: "Our Adopted Son," Chauncey M. Depew: "The Pilgrim from New England." David C. Robinson.

A few minutes after 9 o'clock ex-Surrogate Rollins called the present to order and introduced Rev. Dr. Hale, who was greeted with applause.

Dr. Hale's Speech.

In the course of his speech Dr. Hale said:

On these shortest days of the year we gather to testify our love for the home and women, who, in the very day of the beginning of winter, planted the foundations of an empire. Why is it that the states lying side by side are not quarrelling together as they always do in feudal institutions, or in European history? The feudal system perishes as soon as every man understands he is his brother's keeper, and in the company of men who know that they live together for the greater glory of God. It is really because from the day those men landed at Plymouth—from the day when Winthrop sighted the Beverly shore—they and their companions were trying to advance this work and make it a better one, or, as they said themselves, to live in God's glory. It is because of this that Massachusetts and New England can claim any success which they have achieved in four or five centuries on the ocean. It is because of this that America is the first nation in the world.

And it is to the destiny which awaits such a race that we are willing to submit the future. What that future will be we do not know, and we do not ask to know; but we are firm in the faith that as long as the children will hold to the fundamental principles of the fathers, the same success will crown their endeavors which crowned those of the fathers, if we live to the greater glory of God, if each man of us every day resolves to set this with one star forward, we are sure of infinite alliance, and he who has infinite alliance is not apt to fail.

Dr. Hale's speech was undoubtedly the oratorical effort of the evening. So impressive had it been that it was some seconds after the last words had been uttered before the applause broke out.

Hon. Seth Low

was the next speaker. He said, among other things:

Whatever ground there may be for a controversy as to the origin of our common school system, as to the high education, there can be no dispute. Who is not glad to know about our colleges that "Yale Harvard" is the mother of us all? At the last Yale dinner one of Yale's most eloquent sons claimed that parentage for Yale herself. And Yale, also, is of New England. The first president of Princeton and Columbia were graduates of Yale. Yale has been turning out college presidents with almost as much regularity as judges and statesmen. The colleges are constantly at work making good citizens, men who are at once instructed as to what good government is, and they are ready and anxious to do their part to secure it for their locality and their country.

Rev. Dr. Wayland, who followed, made a witty speech. He said that perhaps his topic would answer as well as any other as a hook on which to depend a few moral remarks. "And I don't hesitate to affirm," continued he, "that the founders of New England were the most grasping set of men of whom history has any record. They wanted the best of everything and all there was of it. The New England founders really believed something. They were not of that class who do not know what they really do believe, except that they believe what they don't believe a great deal stronger than what they do believe."

Dr. Wayland said they were no less less avaricious in regard to their descendants. They insisted on only the best, whether in the halls of learning, in the field of battle, in art or literature everywhere. In England they had a long series of descendants which began before Milton and which will not end with Gladstone. In America the list is short and easily recited of those who are not their descendants who have achieved greatness. Dr. Wayland's speech was loudly applauded.

A Massachusetts Speaker.

Hon. George A. Marden spoke next. His remarks were an unusual feature, because they were in rhyme. He said: "Nobody, not even the Hebrew, is more inquisitive than the New Englander. He certainly is 'all around' and he has been ever since 1620. His finger is in the pie, and generally to the improvement of the pie. He not only centers round the Hub, but he radiates through the spokes and pervades the spokes of creation's wheel. The Hub is never superseded, however, in his affection."

The Fifth Speaker.

Grosvenor P. Lowrey, described the home of the average New England farmer to the latter part of the first half of this century, and said:

Manifestly, we do not all derive from our Puritan stock an absolute spirit of Christian charity. We took our human nature with its customary admixture of heavenly virtues and infernal wickedness like other men. I never knew content to exist among the youths with whom I lived. Discontent was in every New England home which I knew. It was something more than the ordinary life for youth for adventure. A fate seemed to sit on each young man's shoulder that whispered things never communicated. And now the old home is chiefly known not by what it is or what it retains, but by what it has sent forth into this involuntary, voluntary banishment.

Mr. Depew's Address.

Hon. Chauncey M. Depew was next introduced. He said:

For more than a quarter of a century I have been the skeleton at the annual dinner of the New England Society. But my twenty-five years' service as mentor has brought to me the rare and distinguished honor of becoming an adopted son. In that capacity I am here. As forefathers, the Puritans have surpassed the record of the people of the ages. Their methods have improved with time. They tried to assimilate the Indians, and when that was found impossible they massacred them. If accordance with the fashion among all sects of the middle ages and the succeeding centuries, when the newcomers differed with them in faith or creed, they hung them. Though they left comfortable homes and braved the hardships and perils of the inhospitable wilderness to enjoy liberty of conscience and freedom of religion for themselves, it took them a hundred years to discover the great truth that progress is possible in the clash of opposing opinions, and the unfettered practice and expression of beliefs.

The pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower were mainly equipped with ideas and household furniture, but the 20,000 emigrants who came after, brought with them 500,000 pounds. There were no idlers, nor paupers, nor lepers, nor anarchists among them. They were one and all workers. To enjoy the benefit of the liberties which they established there have come to us in the century now closing 30,000,000 immigrants. They were of every race and of all creeds. They have been cordially welcomed and adopted into the equal rights and inheritance of American freedom and opportunity. Now in the plenitude of our prosperity, lower and repress, with the duty of protecting the purity and health of 60,000,000 of people and of preserving order, and sacred liberty.

We Must Guard Our Ports

against undesirable immigration. We have room and opportunity for intelligence, integrity, thrift, for ardent and worthy apprentices, for the peaceful privileges of American citizenship. But the time has come to protect emphatically all the governments and municipalities of Europe that the refuse of their population cannot have refuge here. Education was the Puritan's solvent for problems. The characteristic of the Yankee in his intercourse with the world is known of all men. It is stern vigilance by day and animation. It probes corruption and exposes fraud. If a party comes into power through promises, it wants to know if that party intends to keep its promises. If a candidate predicts a millennial period, and is elected upon his prediction, it demands that the time shall be set when the lid will be lifted from the horn of plenty. It is the slave of many a lie. If a law compelling the buying and hoarding of silver by the government, having fulfilled a temporary purpose, comes now to credit, menace to sound currency and derange exchanges at home and abroad, it asks why congress does not repeal that law at once.

Modern investigation and merciless criticism have murdered our heroes and exploded our myths, but the closer we study their lives and the better we know their deeds, the more profound is our admiration and the greater our reverence for the Pilgrim Fathers. To be able to claim descent from them, either by birth or adoption, is to glory in kinship with God's milky.

Mr. Depew was frequently interrupted by applause and laughter. When he sat down he was cheered lustily.

The last toast was responded to by the mayor of Quincy, Hon. David C. Robinson, who said: "All that nations can owe to founders, all that truth can owe to their special champions, is laid upon the altar of their memory tonight. Peace to their sacred ashes, those Pilgrim Fathers 'of our life.'"

The Day at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Four hundred natives of the Old Bay State celebrated "Forefathers' Day" by a banquet last night at the Grand Pacific hotel. The banquet was preceded by a reception. President E. O. Brown presided. Massachusetts, he said, is a mother of whom her sons may well be proud. There is no son of hers who overtook her world who did not do so with pride to her name and history. She has scattered over the world the influence of her institutions, of her conscience and of her culture. The speaker of the evening, W. J. Hynes, took for his theme "Massachusetts at Home and Abroad." Mark Bass spoke on "The Radicals of Massachusetts," and E. G. Mason on "The Eldest Daughter of Massachusetts." Several others made speeches.

Vice President Morton Was There.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—The New England society of Pennsylvania held its 125th annual dinner last evening, at which 250 persons were present. Charles Emory Smith presided and proposed as the first toast the health of James G. Blaine, whom he called "the beloved of American citizenship." The principal guest of the society was Vice President Morton, who responded to the toast "Our Country." The vice president's speech was principally in eulogy of New England manhood and the achievements of the descendants of the Puritans. Among the speakers was Joseph H. Choate of New York, who made a witty and amusing speech on "The Puritan away from Home."

Celebrated in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Dec. 23.—Pilgrim Fathers' Day was celebrated here last night by a banquet. Covers were laid for 200. Among the guests were all the leading citizens of the city. Rev. Dr. G. S. Vedder, president of the New England society, presided. The speech of the evening was delivered by Hon. George Fred Williams, member of congress from Massachusetts, who responded to the toast "Forefathers' Day." Professor Basil L. Gildersleeve of John Hopkins university, Congressman Brewster of this state, Mayor Flickner and others also spoke.

REVOLUTION RUMORS

Are Officially Denied by the French Government.

PLOTS ARE ALL CONFINED TO PARIS.

Bonapartist Leaders Said to Have Prepared a Manifesto.

PARIS, Dec. 23.—Many rumors have been current here as to the attitude of the provinces toward the government because of the Panama scandal, some of the reports going so far as to say that the country districts were upon the verge of revolution. Yesterday the government issued a denial of these disquieting rumors, declaring that the prefects in all the provinces report their districts tranquil, with not the slightest indication of an outbreak.

Of course, feeling is deeply stirred by the revelations, but there is little to fear from country districts. Paris is the center of the scandal, and it would be of any attempt to strangle the Republic. The man to shape events in the direction of the monarchy is wanting, and without a leader the monarchists, strive as they may,

Have No Hope of Success.

M. Floquet, president of the chamber of deputies, appeared for examination before the Panama investigating committee yesterday. He declared emphatically that he had never received from the Panama company money for the secret service or for any other purpose.

It will be recalled that M. Rouvier, lately minister of finance, stated in his speech in the chamber of deputies on Tuesday that when he assumed office he found the secret service fund depleted, and had received personal loans from friends to enable him to carry on the business of the secret service bureau.

Floquet further told the committee that when he was a member of the ministry he had ordered that certain advertisements be printed in Parisian newspapers. These advertisements, he added, had been inserted not from a business, but from

A Political Point of View.

This admission is much commented upon as being tantamount to an acknowledgment that the advertisements were but a cover under which the newspapers were bribed to support the ministerial schemes.

M. Yves-Guyot, formerly minister of public works, has been summoned to appear before the committee to explain statements made by him, that a full list of the names of the men compromised in the scandal had been seen by President Carnot.

The committee desired to hear M. Yves-Guyot yesterday, but he refused to appear before the investigators, basing his refusal on the ground that the statement attributed to him had been distorted by a spy. He did not wish, he added, to countenance proceedings that mingled President Carnot's name with the prosecution of those implicated in the affair.

Waiting for the Victor.

It is the Bonapartists that are stepping to the front to take advantage of the difficulties of the Republic. The activity of the royalists arouses the jealousies of the imperialist leaders, and at a secret conference they decided to draft a manifesto to the people of France, urging them to recall the house of Bonapartists to the throne.

The manifesto has not yet been issued, but awaits the approval of Prince Victor, the present recognized head of the imperialist party. Prince Victor is now in Brussels, and the Bonapartist leaders in Paris have sent agents to that city to induce him to sign the manifesto and authorize its publication.

Kind-Hearted "Cops."

HALIFAX, Dec. 23.—The American fishermen who were sentenced to the city prison for assaulting police officers some time ago, were released yesterday, ten days being taken off their sentences for good conduct. The police at the station subscribed toward paying the fares of the men to their homes.

An Unknown Teamster Dies at the City Hospital, Boston.

An unknown man fell from a team
loaded with paving stones on Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, at 1.15 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and was taken to the City Hospital. It was found that he had sustained a dislocation of one shoulder and internal injuries.
He died several hours later without recovering consciousness. The dead man was about 28 years of age. He had no papers about him that would lead to his identification.

Mashers Not Wanted.

The Loiterer of the News writes as follows:

Norfolk Downs is a pretty spot, but if stories which have come to me are true
it would be to the interests of the Old Colony to look into the question of some one who is employed in the station there, as to his politeness. The other day two lady friends of mine went out to the Downs for the purpose of looking about with the view to purchasing some land.
They were walking by the station when on the window they heard a tap, and looking about, saw two or three gentlemen in the ticket office gesticulating, waving their hands and smiling—in fact acting as mashers are known to do.

The ladies paid no attention to them,
of course, but were very much annoyed,
and hurried away as fast as they could.
They think the men must have been employes at the station, for they were in the ticket office; and spoke to me about it.
If their surmises are correct, I hope a word to the wise will be sufficient in this case.

MILTON.

The Christmas festival will be on Saturday in the vestry. At 5 p. m. for the children and in the evening for the older ones.

On Sunday the pastor, Rev. H. A. Philbrook, will preach a Christmas sermon and the service and music will be appropriate to the day. A concert exercise will be given in the evening entitled "Christmas Bells."

First Church.

The Sunday school of the First church will celebrate Christmas Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock by a gathering at the chapel. There will be a festival, supper and tree for the members of the school and a general good time. The committee will receive contributions of refreshments at the chapel from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Presbyterian Church.

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian church will celebrate Christmas Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the church on Water street, with a festival at which there will be speaking and singing, after which the presents on the tree will be distributed.

Catholic Churches.

At St. John's church on Christmas day, the choir will render one of Gounod's masses.

At St. Mary's church at West Quincy C.
A. Dorrington's mass will be sung by the choir.

At Sacred Heart church Atlantic the choir will sing Wuerth's mass.

The Christmas festival of the Sacred Heart church will be on Tuesday afternoon in the evening, members of the Sunday School will present the drama, "Handy Andy." The programme will include several solos and choruses.

Quincy, there will be a festival and tree for the Sunday School children Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Sunday there will be no special music but the pastor will preach a sermon appropriate to Christmas.

At Quincy Point.

The Sunday School connected with the Washington street Congregational church will celebrate Christmas eve in the usual joyful manner. Promptly at 7 o'clock, Saturday evening an entertainment will be given. Santa Claus in spite of the fact that he is needed everywhere at once, has promised to drop down the chimney by 7.45 o'clock; and trees laden with presents for the members of the school are sure to be forth coming. Supt. Sherburne extends a cordial invitation to all to be present on this occasion.

festival will be held Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

The Congregational Sunday School will hold its Christmas festival Saturday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock.

More extended programmes of the Wollaston churches will appear in Saturday's LEDGER.

Sumptuous Palace.

Cornelius Vanderbilt is going to have what his friends assert will be the finest private residence in New York, and before it is completed it is believed that the building with the grounds will cost Mr. Vadder-bilt $2,000,000.

No one will doubt that the time will come when shops of one kind and another will spread along the thoroughfare from Fourteenth to Central Park, and Mr. Vadder-bilt made it a point to buy the whole block on Fifth avenue, from Fifty-seventh to Fifty-eighth streets. Mr. Vanderbilt bought six large mansions north of his house.
These are Nos. 746 to 756 inclusive.

An essential feature of the new plan is extensive gardens. These will intervene between the street and the house, but the public will be excluded by an iron fence of rigidity and at least 12 feet high, with sharp points on top. A driveway is to be another feature of the rearrangement. This will permit carriages to deposit their occupants inside the grounds. The ballroom is to be one of the features of the building and it is said that it will be the largest private ballroom in New York.

An Irish Legend.

Among the legends of Ireland is this beautiful and suggestive myth—the islands of life and death. In a certain lake in Munster there were two islands. Into the first death could never enter, but age and sickness and the weariness of life and the paroxysms of fearful sufferings all were there known, and they did their work till the inhabitants, tired of their immortality, learned to look upon the opposite island as upon a haven of repose. They launched their barks upon the gloomy waters; they touched its shores and they were at rest.
This legend represents with pathetic fidelity the sad Erin of today, looking over the Atlantic across the sea—America, the haven of repose, the shores of rest. Of the four and one-half millions of Irish people now left in Ireland it is safe to say fifty per cent. have an ambition some day to see the land of the free and the home of Yankee Doodle.—Cor. Lewiston Journal.

A young mother travelling with her infant child, writes the following letter to her husband at home: "We are all doing well and enjoying ourselves very much.
We are in fine health. The boy can crawl about on all fours. Hoping that the same may be said of you, I remain," etc.

A chimney piece carved from wood over 600 years old, has recently been erected in a house in Edinburgh. The wood, an oak tree, was found in a sand pit at Musselburgh, 13 feet below the surface.
Professor Geikie of the geology chair of the University of Edinburgh, after personally examining the strata in which the oak was found, said the tree—which was five feet nine inches in diameter, must be at least 6,000 years old, and describes it as a relic of neolithic man. It was in a fine state of preservation, due to the sand, and was easily workable.

An Excellent Joke.

Years ago a naval chaplain with a tall hat was passing through the dock-yard gates at Davenport, when one of the policemen on duty noticed that he had a piece of tobacco sticking out underneath his hat.
The chaplain was requested to remove his head-covering for examination; but he refused. "I am an officer in the navy," he said, "and I consider your request an insult."

The officers were polite but firm. They were very sorry to put so distinguished a gentleman to inconvenience; but their orders were explicit to search every person whom they suspected of carrying out articles liable to duty.

"I have no contraband," said the chaplain, in a rage; "but as you doubt my word I will take off my hat." He did so and there was nothing inside. On the day following the chaplain passed out again.

"Well," he said with a grin, "would you like to have me take off my hat
today?"

"Oh, no, thank you, sir," said the police, with effusion—"not today! Ha, ha, ha!"—and they laughed at what they considered an excellent joke.

But the joke the police did not see in its entirety; for the chaplain this time had several hundreds of cigarettes within his hat.

THE MAKEPEACE CASE.

The Opening Plea for the Defence by John W. McAnarney, the Junior Council.
City Solicitor McAnarney of this city, is junior counsel for Mrs. Anna Makepeace of Avon, in her trial at Dedham. The government rested Thursday, and Lawyer McAnarney opened for the prisoner as follows:

He desired the jury to ever bear in mind that Mrs. Makepeace is on trial for the slaying of a human being, the husband she respected and loved, and he urged them to form no opinion of her guilt until they had heard both sides and all of the evidence in the case. He spoke of Mrs. Makepeace's ancestry and inherited high spirit. She was a woman of quick and impulsive temperament, and husband and wife, he would admit, had their family spats. The defence would show that the husband was equally as impulsive as the wife, and fully as eager to start family rows as she, and they would show that the husband had thrown stones at his wife, chased her with a razor, had threatened her with a large knife, had thrown her down the cellar stairs and had kicked and otherwise abused her.

The defence would also show that the wife had often made the first advances for reconciliation, and that on the day of the shooting she fled to the bedroom to escape his wrath; that on the same morning he dragged her from the bedroom by the hair of her head, and holding her by that means had deliberately spat in her face; that he called her vile and evil names, and that on the morning of the shooting he threw a lamp at her while she lay in bed; that she told him if he came near her again she would defend herself with whatever means she could; that she pointed the gun at him to save herself from further assault; that he left the room, and she, supposing he had left the house, swung the gun around to put it away; it struck against something in the room. It was discharged; that a few moments after, on opening the bedroom door, she was horrified to find that the charge, accidentally fired, had struck her husband, and that she did all she could to aid him and have others to aid him.

The defence would also show that the door shutting, made as she supposed by her husband in leaving the house, was actually made by their milkman in leaving the daily supply. The contention of the defence is that Mrs. Makepeace was at least six feet from the door when the gun was fired, and that she was not in the bed at the time; that she held the gun in her left hand, and that, as the firing was at an acute angle, it was not aimed at or toward her husband.

Mr. McAnarney also made an elaborate argument to the jury as to their duties. During Mr. McAnarney's opening the prisoner showed the first evidence of emotion she has displayed since the trial, tears filling her eyes.

A Sunday Christmas Mail.

Quincy already enjoys a Sunday mail from Boston, but Superintendent of Mails Thomas of the Boston office, who is always looking out for the interest of the public, especially about Christmas time, has been instrumental in securing for residents of all the towns near Boston a boon that will hold him long in remembrance.

Thursday afternoon the postmasters in the principal cities and towns in Massachusetts were notified that a special mail would be sent from the Boston post office next Sunday morning if they desired it. This is for the accommodation of the people who are unable to secure presents for their friends before Saturday night, and it is also to accommodate the people living outside of Boston.

The list includes the following offices: Wollaston, Atlantic, East Milton, Milton, Braintree, South Braintree, Weymouth, North Weymouth, South Weymouth, Holbrook, Randolph, and many more.

The Journal Consolated.

The Journal finds consolation even at this late day over the Presidential election. It is embodied in the following editorial paragraphs:

The returns of the popular vote show that Mr. Cleveland polled last month 31,496 votes more than in 1888. This does not suggest a landslide. The fusions with the Populists told on Mr. Cleveland's vote. Counting out "the solid South" the remaining States gave President Harrison a plurality of 421,410 over Mr. Cleveland. This does not look as if the North and West had become suddenly Democratic.

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following:—Banquet Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 38 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rockers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Side Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaide & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston prices.

IN TENEBRIS.

I heard her song
Low in the night
From out her casement steal away.
Not for the night
To steal a sight
Of her—and lo! she knelt to pray.
I heard her say:
"Forgive him, Lord!
Such as he seems he cannot be."
I turned away.
Myself absorbed—
She prayed—and lo! she prayed for me.

NERVE.

While Murat was in Madrid he was anxious to communicate with Junot in Portugal, but all the roads to Lisbon swarmed with guerrillas and with the troops composing Castanos' army.

He asked Krasinski, the commandant of the lancers, to find him a brave and intelligent young man. Two days afterward the commandant brought the prince a young man of his corps, for whom he pledged his life. His name was Leckinski, and he was but eighteen years old.

Murat was moved at seeing so young a man court so imminent a danger, for if he were detected his doom was sealed. Murat could not help remarking to the Pole the risk he was about to run. The youth smiled.

"Let your imperial highness give me my instructions," answered he respectfully, "and I will give a good account of the mission I have been honored with."

The young prince augured favorably from the young man's modest resolution. The Russian ambassador gave him his dispatches; he put on a Russian uniform and set out for Portugal.

The first two days passed over quietly, but on the afternoon of the third Leckinski was surrounded by a body of Spaniards, who disarmed him and dragged him before their commanding officer. Luckily for the gallant youth it was Castanos himself.

Leckinski was aware that he was lost if he were discovered to be a Frenchman; consequently he determined on the instant not to let a single word of French escape him, and to speak but Russian and German, which he spoke with equal fluency. The cries of rage of his captors announced the fate which awaited him, and the horrible murder of General Rene, who had perished in the most dreadful tortures but a few weeks before as he was going to join Junot, was sufficient to freeze the very blood.

"Who are you?" said Castanos in French, which language he spoke perfectly well, having been educated in France.

Leckinski looked at the questioner, made a sign and answered in German, "I do not understand you."

Castanos spoke German, but he did not wish to appear personally in the matter and summoned one of the officers of his staff, who went on with the examination. The young Pole answered in Russian or German, but never let a single syllable of French escape him. He might, however, easily have forgotten himself, surrounded as he was by a crowd eager for his blood, and who waited with savage impatience to have him declared guilty—that is, a Frenchman—to fall upon him and murder him.

But their fury was raised to a height which the general himself could not control, by an incident which seemed to cut off the unhappy prisoner from every hope of escape. One of Castanos' aids de camp, one of the fanatically patriotic who were so numerous in this war, and who from the first had denounced Leckinski as a French spy, burst in the room, dragging with him a man wearing the brown jacket, tall hat and red plume of a Spanish peasant.

The officer confronted him with the Pole and said:

"Look at this man, and then say if it is true that he is a German or a Russian. He is a spy, I swear by my soul!"

The peasant meanwhile was eying the prisoner closely. Presently his dark eye lighted up with the fire of hatred. "Es Frances, he is a Frenchman!" exclaimed he, clapping his hands. And he stated that having been in Madrid a few weeks before he had been put in requisition to carry forage to the French barracks, and, said he, "I recollect that this is the man who took my load of forage and gave me a receipt. I was near him an hour and recollect him. When we caught him I told my comrade this is the French officer I delivered my forage to."

This was correct. Castanos probably discovered the true state of the case, but he was a generous foe. He proposed to let him pursue his journey, for Leckinski still insisted he was a Russian, and could not be made to understand a word of French. But the moment he ventured a hint of the kind, a thousand threatening voices were raised against him and he saw that clemency was impossible.

"But," said he, "will you then risk a quarrel with Russia, whose neutrality we are so anxiously asking for?"

"No," said the officer, "but let us try this man."

Leckinski understood all, for he was acquainted with Spanish. He was removed and thrown into a room worthy to have been one of the dungeons of the inquisition in its best days.

When the Spaniards took him prisoner he had eaten nothing since the previous evening, and when his dungeon door was closed on him he had fasted for eighteen hours. No wonder then what, with exhaustion, fatigue, anxiety, and the agony of his dreadful situation, that the unhappy prisoner fell almost senseless on his hard couch. Night soon closed in and left him to realize in its gloom the full horror of his hopeless situation. He was brave, of course, but to die at eighteen—this sudden. But youth and fatigue finally yielded to the approach of sleep and he was soon buried in profound slumber.

He had slept perhaps two hours when the door of his dungeon opened slowly and some one entered with cautious steps, hiding with his hand the light of a lamp. The visitor bent over the prisoner's couch, the hand that shaded the lamp touched him on the shoulder, and a sweet and silvery voice—a woman's voice—asked him, "Do you want eat?"

The young Pole, awakened suddenly by the glare of the lamp, by the touch and words of the female, rose upon his couch and with eyes only half opened said in German, "What do you want?"

"Give the man something to eat at once," said Castanos, when he heard the result of the first experiment, "and let him go. He is not a Frenchman. How could he have been so far master of himself? The thing is impossible."

But though Leckinski was supplied with food he was detained a prisoner. The next morning he was taken to a spot where he could see the mutilated corpse of the Frenchman, who had been cruelly massacred by the peasantry of Truxillo, and he was threatened with the same death. But the noble youth had promised not to fail, and not a word, not an accent, not a gesture or look betrayed him.

Leckinski, when taken back to his prison, hailed it with a sort of joy. For twelve hours he had had nothing but gibbets and death in his most horrid forms before his eyes—exhibited to him by men with the looks and the passions of demons. He slept, however, after the harassing excitement of the day, and soundly, too, when in the midst of his deep and deathlike slumbers the door opened gently, some one drew near his couch, and the same voice whispered in his ear:

"Arise and come with me. We wish to save your life. Your horse is ready."

And the brave young man, hastily awakened by the words, "We wish to save your life; come," answered still in German, "What do you want?"

Castanos, when he heard of this experiment and its result, said the Russian was a noble young man; he saw the true state of the case.

The next morning early four men came to take him before a sort of court martial, composed of officers of Castanos' staff. During the walk they uttered the most horrible threats against him, but true to his determination he pretended not to understand them.

When he came before his judges he seemed to gather what was going on from the arrangements of the tribunal and not from what he heard said around him, and he asked in German where his interpreter was? He was sent for, and the examination commenced.

It turned at first upon the motive of his journey from Madrid to Lisbon. He answered by showing his dispatches to Admiral Sinavin and his passport. Spite of the presence and the vehement assertions of the peasant, he persisted in the same story and did not contradict himself once.

"Ask him," said the presiding officer at last, "if he loves the Spaniards, as he is not a Frenchman?"

"Certainly," said Leckinski, "I like the Spanish nation, and I esteem it for its noble character. I wish our two nations were friends."

"Colonel," said the interpreter to the president, "the prisoner says that he hates us because we make war like banditti; that he despises us, and that his only regret is that he cannot unite the whole nation in one man, to end this odious war at a single blow."

While he was saying this, the eyes of the whole tribunal were attentively watching the slightest movement of the prisoner's countenance, in order to see what effect the interpreter's treachery would have upon him. But Leckinski had expected to be put to the test in some way, and was determined to baffle all their attempts.

"Gentlemen," said Castanos, "it seems to me that this young man cannot be suspected; the peasant must be deceived. The prisoner may pursue his journey, and when he reflects on the hazard of our position he will find the severity we have been obliged to use excusable."

Leckinski's arms and dispatches were returned, he received a free pass, and thus this noble youth came victorious out of the severest trial that the human spirit can be put to.—H. K. in New York News.

Peculiarities of Nervous Women.

Says a physician who is a specialist in nervous diseases: "The vagaries of nervous women would fill a volume. I have, however, a profound respect for their sincerity and a deep sympathy with their victims. One of my patients, a fine looking woman, with a splendid physique, is reduced to a condition bordering on insanity by a high wind. If she is out in it her misery is heightened. She says she has a dazed, confused feeling that amounts to bewilderment, and she feels as if any moment she would lose her hold on reason and sense."

"Another of my patients cannot endure to hear toast crunched between the teeth of another person. She can eat it herself, but has to leave the table if another does, so great is her distress. In other respects she is a woman of strong character. It would be interesting to trace the origin of such apparently causeless conditions."—New York Times.

The Zither.

The zither is a stringed instrument which has not as yet a very great following in New York. It has the sweetness of the guitar and mandolin, with the depth and richness of the harp. In the hands of an expert performer, who thoroughly understands the scope of the instrument, no music can be more delicious. It is somewhat difficult to learn, played with both hands, a shield being worn on the thumb of the right hand, and has from thirty-one to forty-four strings.—New York Press.

Fine Clothes.

"The soil of California is so fruitful," said a native of the Golden State, "that a man who accidentally dropped a box of matches in his field discovered the next year a fine forest of telegraph poles." "That's nothing to my state," said a native of Illinois. "A cousin of mine who lives there lost a button off his jacket and in less than a month he found a brand new suit of clothes hanging on a fence near the spot."—Texas Siftings.

ON A TANDEM.

The hillside blazed in red and gold
The fields had burned to ember;
The air was crisp, nor yet too cold;
As down a winding way I bowed
With Jennie on a Humber.

Sweet Jennie, with her chestnut hair,
Her roguish eyes and laughter;
How proud was I that she was fair;
How glad was I to see her there;
And know that none came after!

Oh, dream of happy days gone by!
We spoke of autumn sadly;
And when I seemed to hear her sigh
I sped her name, I know not why—
Somehow she pedaled badly.

I lisped her name, and growing bold—
No wonder she grew sober,
Or that the wheels so slowly rolled Along the snail, lead stream mold
This rare day in October.

I lisped her name and bending low—
While pedals turned at random—
Till cheek touched cheek—I—but you know—
Of course 'twas wrong to treat her so,
Sweet Jennie on a tandem. —Wheel.

From an Old Book.

In one of the older manuals of the common council of New York there appears an interesting directory of this city for the year 1665. Then there were exactly twenty streets and a population of 351. Broadway at that time was De Heere straat (the principal street). The Battery was Aen de Strandt van de N. Reveir. Wall street was De Waal, Pearl street was De Perel straat, Whitehall street was De Winckel straat, William street was In de Smits valley (in the smith's valley), and Broadway above Wall street was Buyten de Lant Poort (outside the land gate). All of the residents were of Dutch extraction, with the exception of one whose name appears in the list as Jacob, the Frenchman.

There were Roosevelts, Beekmans, De Peysters, De Puy, Van Cortlandts and Verplancks in those days. Clams, oysters and fish formed the principal food of the settlers at that period. Occasionally in the spring New York was visited by "such amazing flights of wild pigeons that the sun was hid by their flocks from shining on the earth for a considerable time; then it was that the natives laid in a great store of them against a day of need."—New York Times.

The Love of Domestic Animals.

The man who has not music in his soul is justly exposed to the disparagement of the poet, but what shall be said of him who cannot find one dumb animal at least on which to bestow care and kindness? Sailors and soldiers have their pets; the feathered, the feline, and the canine creation are universal favorites.

Carriers and draymen are rarely indifferent to the companionship of the four footed friends, and the navy's dog, while his master is at work in the cutting or on the embarkment, sits on his peajacket and guards the bundle containing that midday meal of which, when the toiler returns, the dog and faithful servant will have his share. It would be a very dreary and perhaps a wicked world than it is if we had not animal pets, domestic as well as regimental.—London Telegraph.

True Marriage.

A happy wedlock is a long falling in love. I know young persons think love belongs only to the brown hair and plump, round, crimson cheek. So it does for its beginning, just as Mount Washington begins at Boston bay. But the golden marriage is a part of love which the bridal day knows nothing of. Youth is the tassel and stilet flower of love; age is the full corn, ripe and solid in the ear. Beautiful is the morning of love, with its prophetic crimson, violet, saffron, purple and gold, with its hopes of days that are to come. Beautiful also is the evening of love, with its glad remembrance and its rainbow side turned toward heaven as well as earth.—Theodore Parker.

In the Czar's Country.

On the way back from Izora the czar wanted a cup of tea, but owing to a sudden jerk of the railway carriage the tea was upset. The next morning (as goes the story) the whole line between St. Petersburg and Izora was carefully searched by numbers of men ordered to find out what had jerked the czar's teacup! Every time the czar goes up and down to Peterhof the steamers have to be decorated, traffic is suspended on the river, and occasionally even the loading of steamers is stopped.—London News.

English Youth and the Army.

Walter Besant, in his very entertaining and valuable book on "London," notes an important change in the early part of this century in the feelings of the English gentry about trade. Mercantile life ceased to attract the younger sons of the gentry, who found employment in the army or navy, and the city was thus severed from the counties.

A Remarkable Watch.

There is a man in this city who is exhibiting a watch to his friends which he claims "as a 'crommalaker balance, is congested to heat and cold, and has a criminal confinement."—Newburyport Herald.

Cape Colony is the natural habitat of the largest known species of earthworm. It is a soft, sleekless thing between six and seven feet long, and much resembles our common angle worm.

Some people say that it is very bad luck indeed for a baby to see itself in a mirror before it is a year old, though why this should be so considered it would be difficult to tell.

Good mullage may be made of dextrin two parts, acetic acid one part and water five parts. Dissolve all by heating and then add one part of alcohol.

A remedy of great value for cats and dogs is sweet oil. Put two tablespoonfuls in their milk and they will rarely refuse to take it.

Some people prefer to line their stoves with potters' clay instead of brick, and it is said to answer the purpose very well.

TALKING OF CHOLERA.

Fears That It Will Visit Our Shores in the Spring.

THE RESTRICTION OF IMMIGRATION

And Strict Quarantine Measures Endorsed by Physicians.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service, in answer to questions as to the danger of a reappearance of the cholera in the coming spring and summer, said: "There are at the present time two factors which render the situation with regard to cholera serious. One is the appearance of fresh cases of that disease in Hamburg, and the other is the continued prevalence of the disease in Russia. The cholera is by no means wiped out abroad, and the greatest care will have to be exercised to prevent its gaining a foothold on this side of the Atlantic. The speedy passage of the law which shall give clearly defined powers to make precautionary regulations, with sufficient appropriations to make them effective, is extremely desirable.

"Immigration has been received that in spite of all that has been done to discourage immigration from infected countries, particularly Russia, there are large numbers of immigrants from that country who are persistent in their efforts to reach the United States. The order for the expulsion of the Jews from Russia, heretofore enforced in certain limited districts, is now being enforced all over the empire. This means that a large number of immigrants from badly infected districts will try to reach the United States and no one can view these matters without serious concern. It is inadvisable to create any unnecessary alarm in regard to the danger from cholera. I have great faith in the sanitary intelligence and ability to meet emergencies possessed by the people of the United States, but the facts have simply got to be faced, and it is part of ordinary wisdom to take precautions.

"There is danger," Dr. Wyman continued, in response to further questions, "of cholera reaching the United States from the island of Cuba, because of the close commercial intercourse between Cuba and Spain and other European ports. There have been sundry intimations from time to time that it was the purpose of the treasury department to modify the stringent provisions of the circular of Aug. 13, regarding the importation of rags. By the terms of the circular consular certificates of disinfection are required with all importations of rags from foreign ports and an absolute prohibition of the importation of rags from districts known to be infected with cholera is enjoined."

Dr. Wyman says that there has been no intention at any time of modifying this circular.

Doctors' Opinions.
The joint committee of the two houses of congress, charged with the investigation of immigration, recently addressed to physicians of prominence in New York and elsewhere questions regarding the possibility of a visitation of cholera in the spring or summer of 1893, and also regarding the measures connected with immigration that should be adopted to prevent the introduction of the plague. The committee has received replies from nine leading medical practitioners of New York city and one from Chicago.

Dr. Joseph E. Winters of New York says there is a decided apprehension in the minds of physicians that there will be a visitation of cholera in the spring, unless means are taken to prevent it. He believes that immigration should be suspended for a year or even longer.

Charles G. Wilson, president of the board of health of the city of New York, fears a visitation during the coming spring and summer unless stringent measures are adopted. He recommends inspection at foreign ports by medical officers representing the United States government and subsequent inspection on arrival at American ports. The suspension of immigration for one year would, he thinks, lessen, but not entirely remove, the danger to this country.

Dr. W. A. Fving of New York suggests that the popular apprehension of danger may arise from the dormant germs already here as well as from fresh importations. The chief danger, however, he believes, lies in the immigrant and his luggage. He is opposed to general suspension of immigration.

Dr. George F. Shady of New York asserts that our greatest safety lies in establishing a national quarantine and in suspending all immigration for a reasonable period—say one year.

Dr. A. Loannis of the same city believes the suspension of immigration would avert immediate danger.

Dr. Lewis A. Saxe of New York says there will be no danger if the whole continent is properly quarantined. He thinks it advisable to suspend immigration from infected ports for a limited period.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, medical commissioner of the health board of New York city, apprehends a visitation of Cholera next year. The danger can be met by competent surveillance of immigrants and their effects, or by exclusion for a proper time of the immigrants themselves.

Dr. Cyrus Edison, sanitary superintendent of New York, believes, should reports from northern Europe prove reliable, that we must expect a severe epidemic next spring.

Dr. Stephen Smith, connected with the New York board of health during the cholera epidemic of 1890, thinks the pestilence will spread from Europe and be more disastrous in 1893 than it was last year, if traffic and travel from Europe continues unrestricted. He urges an effective scientific quarantine.

Dr. Janeway of the medical advisory board of the New York chamber of commerce favors suspension for one year of immigration, but points to danger from Canada, South America or the West Indies. He recommends quarantine stations at the point of departure of immigrants under control of the United States government.

Dr. Elmer Lee of Chicago, who studied the disease in Russia, thinks the danger of a great epidemic in America is remote, and recalls the fact that cleansing of the bowels with a solution of soap and water practiced at the beginning of the disease proved successful in 57 per cent. of the cholera cases treated in St. Petersburg.

HIS POWERS RESTORED.

Dr. McGlynn is Forgiven and Can Again Official as a Priest.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The famous case of Father McGlynn of St. Stephen's church, New York city, has finally been decided by the restoration to him of authority to perform priestly functions. The settlement of the case came within the scope of the general power vested in Mgr. Satolli, the papal legate, and having been promulgated by him last night at the Catholic university, where he is stopping.

REV. EDWARD M'GLYNN, D. D.

The case first formally presented to Mgr. Satolli Wednesday night by Father Burtzell, Dr. McGlynn's friend and adviser throughout his controversy with the archbishop, which resulted in the suspension of the priest, and then his practical excommunication.

The following statement was furnished by a representative of Mgr. Satolli: "To end the many contradictory telegrams sent out it is thought expedient to state that at 9 o'clock last night Dr. McGlynn was free from ecclesiastical censures and restored to the exercise of his priestly functions, after having satisfied the pope's legate on all the points in his case."

This decision by Mgr. Satolli enables Father McGlynn to serve as priest in any parish to which he may be assigned. The question of his return to St. Stephen's must be settled by the authorities here, says Archbishop Corrigan of New York last night.

IRELAND'S EVICTED TENANTS

Likely to Receive but Little Satisfaction from the Government.

DUBLIN, Dec. 24.—The evicted tenants' commission has closed its sessions. Justice Matthew presiding at the commission, announced that he was willing to receive further statements from landlords and others bearing upon the matters that the commission was appointed to report upon, provided that notice of such statements was given before Dec. 31. It is the general opinion, even among Liberals, that the labors of the commission will result in little, if any, benefit to the tenants who have been evicted from their holdings and that its reports will be a mere formality. It is thought that the government will not ask the houses of commons to vote a grant for the relief of evicted tenants, which the commission will probably propose, but will evade a decision of the house by drawing funds enough from the land purchase commission to compulsory purchase of estates from obstinate landlords, with enough to make loans to evicted tenants to enable them to start farms anew.

THE CHURCH AS MEDIATOR.

How the Pope Would Heal the Differences Now Existing in Europe.

ROME, Dec. 24.—All the cardinals at present in Rome waited upon the pope yesterday and tendered him Christmas congratulations. In reply his holiness said that the signs of a gathering storm were visible to all observers of moral and religious conditions. The European situation was pregnant with ruin and disaster, and this condition could only be brought to an end by the healing virtues of the church, which herself was being violently assailed. In the course of his remarks the pope referred to the Free Masons, whom he condemned as a malignant sect who were never true to the people, but who, unfortunately, were supported by the governments. His holiness concluded by bestowing the apostolic blessing upon the whole world.

BAD APACHE KID.

A Combination Which May Result in the Capture of His Band.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The secretary of war has issued a general order announcing a renewal of the agreement entered into by the United States and Mexico, whereby the federal troops of the two countries may cross over the territory of the other in pursuit of savage hostile Indians. The agreement is renewed because of the recent raids of Apaches under "Kid" along the dividing line between Arizona and New Mexico and the fear that these tribes will seek to evade the pursuit of United States troops by crossing the frontier into Mexico. The agreement runs for one year from Nov. 25, 1892.

In True Texan Style.

DALLAS, Dec. 24.—A battle with pistols and rifles took place at Arlington between William Smith and a man named Spears on one side, and George Hargrove, Sr., George Hargrove, Jr., and a brother on the other side. Over twenty-five shots were fired. Spears, Smith and George Hargrove, Jr., were killed and Hargrove, Sr., mortally wounded. The shooting was the culmination of an old feud.

Long in His Country's Service.

MOBILE, Dec. 24.—John Barker of the United States revenue marine service, commanding the cutter Seaward on the gulf station, died at Pass Christian, Miss., of peritonitis, aged 62 years. He was a native of Salem, Mass., and had been in the service of the government since 1861. His remains will be sent to Salem.

Miners Came Out Ahead.

HAILE, Dec. 24.—The strike at Spring Hill collieries has ended, mutual concessions being made by the miners and the corporation. The miners, however, gained most of the points for which they contended.

GALLAGHER'S GHOST

Is Causing Worryment to a Chicago Officer Who Patrols a Certain Beat.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—Patrolman Mike Ryan is haunted by the ghost of Hugh Gallagher, an unfortunate toper who was sent to the bridewell a week ago, and who died because he could get no whiskey. Ryan made the arrest. Gallagher died Tuesday night at 1 o'clock. The next morning Ryan saw him standing in a doorway and approached with the intention of inquiring how he got out of the bridewell, but the form faded away. That day he heard of the death of Gallagher, and that night, while patrolling his beat, Ryan met the specter several times, and was followed by it continually. As he passed through the barn attached to Warren avenue station that night, the horses plunged and snorted with terror, and another officer found them trembling violently. Ryan thinks they, too, saw the ghost of Gallagher.

Thursday morning Officer Buggie thought he saw a man sitting beside Ryan in the station. The man went out and Buggie asked Ryan who the man was. Ryan had not seen him and believes it was Gallagher's specter. The story has created no end of talk among the officers in the precinct. Many of them believe in the ghost of Gallagher, and several declared they have seen the shade of the departed following Ryan. There are not four men in the command who would trade posts and travel the haunted beat patrolled by him.

PLANNING FOR A TRIP SOUTH.

Blaine's Family Believe That Death Has Been Successfully Warded Off.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—It is most natural that the hopes of the family and the friends of Mr. Blaine should have risen still higher on the favorable statements of the physicians. Mr. Blaine has certainly astonished every one with his remarkable vitality, and while he has done little but live from day to day, this of itself is as unexpected as it is gratifying. He is still very weak, in spite of the sleep, the nourishment and the opiates he takes, but so far the heart failure, which was expected to end his life, has been fended off, and he has even shown signs of returning strength.

The change in the feelings of the members of his family is shown by the greater freedom which they permit themselves. Mrs. Emmons Blaine having gone to New York for a day or two.

Mrs. Blaine, who has almost worn herself out by her constant attendance at her husband's bedside, felt free yesterday for the first time to take real solid rest, and all the rest of the family showed plainly their feeling of relief.

They are planning now for the removal of Mr. Blaine to the south, but that cannot take place even if Mr. Blaine continues to improve at the present rate for a long time to come.

IN DEACON'S FAVOR.

French Court Renders a Decision Which He Will Refuse to Accept.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—Edward Parker Deacon has scored another victory in the series of law suits that have sprung up between himself and his wife. Gladys, the eldest daughter of the estranged couple, was placed a few days ago in the Dominican convent. Mr. Deacon applied to the court of appeal for an order appointing him to the guardianship of his daughter during the holidays. The application was opposed by Mrs. Deacon. After listening to argument yesterday the court decided that, while it would be inexpedient to appoint Mr. Deacon guardian of the child, he should have the right to have her every two days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mr. Deacon subsequently declared that, while the decision was practically a victory for him, he would refuse to accept it, and would have nothing to do with the child under the French law. He added that he would appeal to the American courts for his rights and for justice.

A Disease Not to Be Trifled With.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Michael Smith died here yesterday of black smallpox. The efficiency of the majority of the men placed in charge of "quarantined" houses, and their allowing persons to pass freely in and out of the houses, has resulted in the disease spreading to a alarming extent in the most thickly populated sections of the city.

A genuine revolution is now feared in Mexico.
General Crespo, the Venezuelan revolutionary leader, is sick.
A large grain elevator was destroyed by fire at Fairfield, Wash.
Reports of deeds of violence in the south seas are becoming frequent.
Mrs. Doughty of Charlton, Mass., died at the age of 103 years, 9 months.
The proposed sale of the Leyland line steamers is unfavorably commented on by a London paper.
The proposed lease of the Connecticut River road was defeated at the stockholders' meeting in Springfield, Mass.
The president of the American committee of the Panama company says he handled none of the company's money.
General Frederick T. Dent, brother-in-law of Ulysses S. Grant, died at Denver of dropsy, aged 72. He served through the civil war on the staff of General Grant, with the rank of lieutenant colonel. In 1868 he was made brevet brigadier general.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The German newspapers are hopping mad because the United States will not relax its quarantine laws. The present regulations, the German papers assert, are injuring German commerce, and they further assert that now there is no cholera in Germany and as a consequence the quarantine laws are useless. Our German contemporaries are a little excited, and if they trouble themselves to ascertain the facts of the case they will find that Hamburg is still afflicted with the cholera, and that Uncle Sam does right in enforcing health regulations which are the safe-guard of our country.

Seldom, if ever, has greater devotion been shown for the interests of employers by employees than that exhibited at Everett on Wednesday evening, when four men were burned to death while endeavoring to save the West End company's building.
These poor fellows could have easily saved their lives, but they remained at their posts and faced the fiery demon in their frantic endeavors to save the company's property, till at last, overcome by the flames and smoke, they fell like martyrs at their post of duty. Here indeed was a specimen of American workmen's fidelity. Red eyed Anarchists, who advocate the demolition of corporations property would do well to muse over this pathetic incident.

Reports come from Homestead stating that the majority of families in that little hamlet are in destitute circumstances; the result of the bitter struggle between capital and labor. Come Philanthropist Carnegie, if you can afford to spend millions on foreign libraries, you ought at least to supply a little of your wealth in relieving the now prevalent distress at Homestead. Make it a merry Christmas for that little village!

The Clemenceau case is attracting considerable attention in Paris. If the people of Paris are anything like the Boston board of aldermen, the Clemenceau case will be consigned to oblivion.

If the "fleur de lis" is not soon sprinkled with the waters of peace, its roots may again be bathed in human blood.

By the way, does it not seem rather strange to know that M. Clemenceau is editor of "La Justice"?

It will hardly be a merry Christmas for the Blaine family.

The safe of the Canadian express company was not so.

If Mrs. Makepeace had only did so!

Merry Christmas!

Coming Wedding at Weymouth.

A brilliant and notable wedding will take place in North Weymouth, Dec. 28, at the Old North First Congregational church. The bride-elect is Miss Lillian E.
Dow, the talented and accomplished daughter of Howard Dow. The bridegroom is a resident of Chicago, Albert Woodbury Dow. The young sister of the bride will be the maid of honor, and her eldest brother will be the best man. There will be six bridesmaids and six ushers. The quartet from the Second church, Boston, (Dr. Thorton's), of which Mr. Dow is organist, will give selections. A reception will be held at the bride's home on Church street, immediately after the ceremony.
The bridal couple will take a short wedding trip, after which they will reside in Quincy, being at home at 91 Park avenue, Thursdays, Jan. 10 and 26.—News.

WHERE TO SKATE.

There Are Several Places in This City to Enjoy the Sport.

Where do the Quincy boys and girls skate?

Why there are lots of places dear to every lover of the favorite winter sport, says the Globe.

Butler's pond, off Hancock street but a few minutes' walk from the depot, is perhaps the best patronized, and during the past week there has been a jolly crowd there both afternoon and evening.

It was here that Gov. John Hancock first put on the steel runners, and President John Adams when a boy played many a game of hockey on its glassy surface.

Here Charlie Adams of football fame and brother George used to make many phenomenal rushes with the ball, and even now they take an evening off to witness the game, and sometimes participate in the sport.

The old Quincy mansion, formerly the home of Seymour Butler, is situated nearly on the edge of the pond, and during the past year many other handsome residences have been built up about it.

The reservoir of the Quincy Water Company just over the Braintree line attracts many skaters on account of its vast area, and Spear's and Eaton's ice ponds, both situated within the city limits, are two other places where the young folks congregate after Jack Frost gets in his work.

RETURN PARTY.

The Young Gentlemen Do Not Intend to

in Lynn.

Many who purchased Christmas gifts in Boston have found that they could have obtained the same thing in this city as cheap if not cheaper.

The annual meeting of the Hospital Aid
Association will be held at the Probate Court Room, on Thursday, Dec. 29th at 3 o'clock. Directors meeting at 2.30.

The primary department of the Congregational church was probably the first to begin its Christmas celebration. The little ones gathered this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Cortell has now received pledges of thirty-five pictures and busts towards the forty-two needed to fully decorate the Wollaston school house. With what he has put in at his own expense there will be over fifty fine works of art in addition to some twenty smaller pictures now in the school rooms.

The Newburyport Daily News of Dec.
21, says "Superintendent Dickens at the electric light works has increased the business so much at the station that the company has been obliged to purchase a large dynamo for commercial service. Superintendent Dickens is a hustler." Mr. Dickens is well known in this city where he was for some time connected with the Quincy plant.

It was so cold last night that many water pipes were frozen. One of Wollastons well known citizens had this experience. Early in the morning he started in to thaw out the pipes with hot water. After he had worked nearly two hours he wearily climbed up the cellar stairs to the kitchen and said to the maid "Katy, has the water come?"
"And sure it has," replied Katy. "How long has it been running?" asked tired Mr.
B. "Over an hour" was the reply.
Mr. B.—collapsed. He did not take his regular train to Boston that morning.

THREE BREAKS.

Stores and House on Liberty Street Entered Last Night.

Some one was evidently determined to have some Christmas presents, and fearing that he might get left by Santa Claus, started in last night to help himself.

At the fancy good store of Miss Eliza Bonner on Liberty street a lot of goods were taken.

At O. D. Chick's store on the same street some goods were taken.

At William Porter's house, also on Liberty street, $20 in money was secured.

WEYMOUTH EXTENSION.

The Difficulty of Crossing the Weymouth
Fore River Overcome.

The problem of allowing the Quincy &
Boston street railway to extend its tracks over the Quincy Point bridge to their new extension in Weymouth has been practically settled by the trustees of the bridge, who have decided upon a plan which is acceptable to the railway officials. The present structure is too narrow to accommodate the cars and other traffic and the trustees have decided that the only feasible scheme is for the company to build an independent structure after crossing the draw from the Quincy side. The distance which the tracks will run over the main bridge is short and will not be a serious detrimnt to travel. The company will begin work early in the spring and are confident of having a continuous line to East Weymouth by June 1st.

S. of V. Surprise Party.

The brothers of F. L. Souther, S. of V., are always prompt to recognize those who work for its interests, and a large portion of the camp participated last evening in tendering a surprise to brother George M. Chubbuck at his residence on Baxter street. S. Allen presented the brother with a handsome gold chain from the members of the camp. Selections on the piano by Miss Emma Field were enjoyed, and dancing and games were indulged in, after which a bountiful collation was served. At a late hour the members bade Brother Chubbuck good night with their best wishes.

The Wollaston Club House.

Messrs. Metcalf & Hoyt of Boston, the architects of the new Calumet club-house at Winchester and the Belfry club-house at Lexington, are at work on plans for the new Wollaston club-house. The house is of the colonial style and has a frontage of ninety-six feet. The proposed interior arrangements are unusually pleasing. The front door opens into a large vestibule which has on its right the office of the secretary, and directly opposite a large, well arranged cloak room. The reception or main hall of the house, which opens from the vestibule, is twenty-six feet long and fourteen feet wide. This hall is fully colonial in style, and is finished in ivory with deep wainscoting and large pillars on each side of the hall with a heavy carved frieze.

On the right of this hall and opposite the large oak staircase, which leads up to the assembly hall, there is a large old-fashioned fireplace. This hall is so situated that a visitor can look from it into the smoking, reading, card, and billiard room. These rooms will be finished in selected cypress and the heavy timbers in the ceilings will be exposed and finished in hard oil.

In the basement there will be two of Reiskey and Wolf's patent adjustable alleys of the regulation length.

The second story will contain the large assembly hall, fifty-nine by twenty-five feet.
This hall will be finished in natural wood.
The club house will cost about $10,000.

It will probably be located near the Unitarian church.

WEYMOUTH.

The annual convention of the Norfolk County W. C. T. U. will be held at the Methodist church East Weymouth, Thursday, Dec. 29.

The morning session will open with prayer followed by the address of welcome;
reading of the records; reports of County Superintendents; address by Mrs. Abby F. Rolfe of Concord, state superintendent of mothers' meetings; reading by Miss Nella R. Hayden; report of Miss Augusta Creshore, treasurer; roll call and adjournment.

The afternoon service will consist of report of committees; election of secretary and treasurer; address by Mrs. E. S.
Twichell on "The Industrial Revolution of the Past Century;" offering; notes from the National convention by Mrs. E.
M. Everett.

Rev. Allan B. Hudson will be ordained as pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, North Weymouth, next Wednesday; services afternoon and evening.

There will be special services in all the churches Sunday.

BRAINTREE.

The public schools closed yesterday for the holidays, and will not open again until Jan. 2, 1893.

Joseph E. Holbrook and John R. Carmichael have both been granted pensions. We wish both much luck and a merry Christmas.

Business is driving at the paper mill of Hollingsworth, Whitney & Co. The machinery runs night and day with the exception of Sunday. And still the orders accumulate.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Universalist Sunday school will give its annual Christmas concert. The choir has procured some new Christmas music and will assist in the singing. All are cordially invited.

The Universalist Sunday school will have its Christmas entertainment and tree at the Town Hall on Saturday evening at 6.45 o'clock. All children not otherwise provided for are especially invited to be present.

The organization and establishment of a library for the exclusive use of the teachers in our public schools was one of the questions that engaged the attention and consideration of the School Board, at its last meeting.

Last night the ladies connected with the South Congregational church, treated the Sunday School to an excellent turkey supper. The chief feature of the occasion apart from the feast itself was the presentation of a splendid sleigh robe to Dr. Noah Torrey, by Mr. Joshua Dyer of New York, as an acknowledgment of the great care and kindness the doctor showed Mr. Dyer's mother, Mrs. Asa Dyer, in her late sickness. The doctor feels proud of the unexpected Christmas gift.

The first of a series of assemblies under the auspices of the popular janitor, Mr. J. R. Carmichael, was given in the Town hall, on Tuesday evening and was a great success; all those attending had a most enjoyable time. About forty couples tripped the light fantastic toe until twelve o'clock. Thirteen dances were on the order with three extras. Bates' Orchestra furnished music and received great applause, after every dance, especially the "Boxing," a waltz. Edwin F. Porter had charge of the floor with F. G. Pennock, E. F. Watkins, F. R. Carmichael as aids.

Mr. Warren B. Keith, eldest son of Mr. A. B. Keith, of Braintree, arrived Thursday evening from Tacoma, in the new state of Washington, where he has been living and prospering for the past five years, never having been east during that space of time.

The members of the High School Association met in the School Committee room on Tuesday evening, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, A. J. Shaw. Vice President, W. F. Woodsum. Secretary, Miss Daisy Dyer. Treasurer, Alonzo Minchin. Committee on Reunion, John Scollard, W. W. Mayhew, Miss Nellie Dyer, J. L. Delano, W. A. Torrey, C. W. Hollis.

The Universalists held their annual Christmas sale and entertainment in the Town hall Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance and the sales tables, ice cream and cake were well patronized. The laughable drama "Woman's Spear" was well acted and heartily enjoyed by the audience. The cast of characters were: Josiah Allen's Wife Helen W. Arnold. Betsey Bobbet Sadie Reviere. Wildder Tubbs Mrs. Bailey. Mrs. Deacon Dobbins Mrs. Currier. Squire Edwards' Wife Mrs. Anderson. Maggie Snow Alice M. Cain. Dagget Girls Lillian Anderson. Miss Johnes Mrs. Whitney. Mary Ann Johnes Francis R. Harvey. Alzina Johnes Edith Cain. The Minister Zora Dustin. O. W. Hollis.

At the close of the entertainment dancing was indulged in by the young people.

Epworth League.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church Wollaston, gave an "At Home," to the leagues of Milton, Neponset, Parkman street Dorchester and West Quincy. About one hundred accepted the invitation. A pleasing entertainment consisting of vocal and instrumental music was furnished throughout the evening. Plans were perfected and a District Union formed of the leagues represented. The following officers were elected: President, John Ramsdell. Vice President, Miss Nellie Frost. Secretary, Miss R. M. Chamberlin. Treasurer, Miss Addie Miller. Cor. Secretary, Miss Carrie Steele. Executive Committee, C. E. Hildreth, Parkman street; W. Campbell, Wollaston; James Piper, Dorchester.

The selecting of a suitable name brought forth many original ideas. The Pilgrim Union of the Epworth League was decided upon, the Union being formed on Founder's day, Dec. 21st. The most pleasing feature of the evening was the serving of coffee and chocolate in the vestry. The vestry being made very cozy and homelike by banquet lamps, fur rugs and Oriental mats. Miss Ross and Miss Nesbitt poured chocolate, Mrs. Hurtle and Miss Stiles coffee. Mrs. C. A. Durgin and Mrs. H. M. West were matrons of the evening.

A Beautiful Picture Indeed.

We have received a copy of the December number of Food, "The Busy Housewife's Magazine," with the beautiful floral piece, "A Yard of Sweet Clover," that accompanies each copy of this issue. We desire to testify to the truthfulness of the publishers' claim with reference to the merits of this exquisite picture. Food is worth many times its cost, but in connection with this floral piece it forms an attractive holiday number indeed.

A Wise Economy

May readily be displayed in the selection of Christmas Gifts. It is a pleasure to suggest presents within the reach of all our citizens, presents that are singularly suggestive, for they not only adorn but add a constant air of welcome to every dwelling.

If you want to hear how wonderfully far a little money will go you should bring both your eyes to bear on the following:—Bannock Lamps in brass, nickel or silver, $1.98 to $10.00; they are beauties. Pictures 32 x 36 with ivory, silver, or white and gold frames, rich and handsome, at $1.50, never sold less than $2.25. Oak Writing Desks of newest designs; a complete line at prices that seem almost incredible. They range from $4.98 to $15.00. Rugs and Mats at 25 cts. to $5.00. Fifty patterns of ladies' and children's Willow, Rattan, Plush and Fancy Rockers and Chairs, $1.00 to $15.00. Oak and Cherry Tables and Stands, $1.00 to $12.00. Hall Racks, Mirrors, Foot Rests, Easels, Book Cases, Side Boards, and in fact everything that is useful. If charity begins at home, let Economy be your motto, and Henry L. Kincaide & Co. offer their assistance by saving you from 5 to 25 per cent. on lowest Boston prices.

GRANITE LABOR TROUBLES.

Many Places in Which a Settlement Has Not Been Reached.

Quincy can congratulate itself that a settlement of the granite troubles was reached here as soon as it was, for the Granite Cutters' Journal, edited by J. B. Dyer, secretary of the Granite Cutters' National Union, says that the places in which the granite troubles remain unsettled are Fitzwilliam, N. H., Hurricane, Me., Long Cove, Me., Red Beach, Me., Monson, Mass., Milford, Mass., Southville, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Whitinsville, Mass., West Dummerston, Vt., St. Johnsbury, Vt., small firms in Concord, N. H., Roxbury, Ct., Oneco, Ct., three yards in New York city, Stony Creek, Ct., San Francisco, Cal., Raymond, Cal., Rocklin, Cal.

In some of the places there seems to be a disposition on the part of the bosses to carry the fight through the winter. As some of the smaller ones are not overburdened with work, and never employing many men, they can probably push themselves through the cold weather by cutting just enough to pay their household expenses.

BRAINTREE PROGRAMMES.

How Christmas will be Observed by the Churches of the Town.

The churches of Braintree will celebrate Christmas as follows:

The First Parish.

Tonight there will be a Christmas tree entertainment given by the Sunday school in the chapel. Which will draw a large gathering of the friends and patrons of the institution. Tomorrow the services in the morning and indeed throughout the day will be of a Christmas character. The pastor, Rev. A. A. Ellsworth, will preach a special sermon in the morning, dealing with the great theme embodied and emphasized in the wonderful life and death of Jesus Christ. As has been the case at this church for years past, on Christmas Sunday, the music will be the chief feature, next to the sermon; being selected with good judgment and taste, and rendered with fine ability; the organist being Mr. R. Elmer Morrison, one of the best of accompanists. In the evening there will be a Christmas Sunday school concert, given in the church. The exercises will be conducted under the management of the superintendent, Dea. T. W. Sampson. All are invited.

South Congregational Church.

Instead of the usual Christmas tree the members of the Sunday school connected with this church, were treated last night to an excellent supper in the chapel of the church.

The services, morning and evening, will be of a special character, all having reference to the due celebration of the great event symbolized in the observance of Christmas. In the morning Rev. E. O. Dyer, pastor of the church, will discourse on the theme "The adoration of the Child Jesus," and in the evening "Fitting thoughts and reflections growing out of and surrounding the occasion. To these services all are invited.

M. E. Church E. Braintree.

Rev. Mr. Reece the pastor will preach special discourses morning and evening. Monday night the Sunday School will have a Christmas tree. The entertainment and exercises will be under the direction of Mr. J. Sampson superintendent of the Sunday School. To all these services the public is cordially invited.

M. E. Church, So. Braintree.

Tonight the Sunday school Christmas tree entertainment and exercises connected with this church takes place at 7 o'clock in the church. There will be a small admission fee charged to meet the expense of providing Christmas gifts hung on the tree intended for the children.

Tomorrow the services throughout the day will be appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Mr. Sisson, the pastor, will preach, improving the opportunity in leading the thoughts of his people to the contemplation of the great theme; the miraculous birth of the Saviour of the world. All are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

Universalist Society.

This religious society will hold a Sunday school concert at the Town hall tomorrow afternoon instead of the usual preaching service. The programme will doubtless be an entertaining and an appropriate one. The exercises will be under the able direction of Mr. Daniel E. Cain, the zealous and indefatigable superintendent of the school, a man finely equipped in respect to both suavity of manner and varied information who is fully fitted for the position; a man moreover that labors without the prospect of reward here, only because he likes to so labor for the benefit of others. All good people "lovers of their kind," ought to be found holding up such a man's hands in carrying on the work to which he has devoted himself in this sphere. It is expected that there will be a good attendance.

St. Francis Catholic Church.

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock low mass will be celebrated at this church and at 10 o'clock in the forenoon high mass will be celebrated. Wednesday evening next week, Dec. 23, the Sunday school will hold their annual Christmas festival and entertainment at the Town Hall. An operetta entitled "New Year's Eve" will be presented by the children. The programme will include also vocal and instrumental music and select recitations.

As the Sunday school of St. Francis church never fails in producing a first-class entertainment, the Town Hall ought to be crowded. Doors open at 7 o'clock, and the entertainment at 7.30 o'clock.

The Union Church.

Tomorrow the services at the Union church of Braintree and Weymouth, Rev. Oliver Huckel pastor, will have a distinct Christmas character both in regard to the preaching and music. The Sunday School will have a Christmas tree in the lecture room at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. It promises to be a great treat to the young folks. The parents of the children are cordially invited.

—Philadelphia, Penn., has a population of 1,142,653, according to a recent census taken by order of the city council.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT!

VEHICLE BREAKS DOWN

Driver Barely Escapes With His Life.

The Load Too Heavy

Quite a serious accident occurred on Copeland street the other night. A very stout, merry-faced old gentleman, with flowing white locks, was driving a heavily loaded vehicle through West Quincy, at a very late hour, when the bottom of his vehicle dropped out, spilling the entire contents, and frightening the four animals, causing them to break into a run. The old gentleman rolled out on to the ground, and after groping around in the dark for some time, discovered a light in a corner store. He approached the proprietor, who helped him gather up his goods, and provided a place to store them. The old gentleman was taken to the nearest doctor and got his wounds dressed, and by morning he was feeling pretty comfortable.

IN A DILEMMA.

The old gentleman was engaged in the express business, and had goods for thousands of people in Quincy, but his horses and wagon being gone, he was in a great dilemma, not knowing how to deliver his goods. Now it happened that the merchant into whose care he had fallen was one of those men who improved every opportunity, and he quickly saw a way out of the trouble, besides getting a good percentage for himself. So he proposed acting as the old gentleman's agent, advertising the goods in the DAILY LEDGER, and asking the people to come and select their articles.

Our readers are by this time curious to know the names of the parties who figure so prominently in this little story. Well, the old gentleman's name is

Mr. Santa Claus,

and the merchant who relieved him of his load, and now acts as his agent, is

Williams, the Jeweller,

AUSTRALIAN BALLOTS.

Important Decision in a Case Connected Therewith.

MODERATOR MAY ASSIST A VOTER

If He Proves That He is Unable to Mark His Ballot.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 24.—The most important question that has arisen for judicial determination under the Australian ballot system was that involved in the Concord ward 4 election case, decided by the supreme court at the recent term.

In this case a vote was disfranchised because the time for closing the polls arrived while he was in a controversy with the moderator over his right to vote, or the need of assistance to mark his ballot for which he had asked.

Chief Justice Deane, in his opinion, held that under the law which provides that upon request

Assistance Shall Be Given any voter who declares to the moderator, under oath, that for certain reasons he is unable to mark his ballot, the statute does not authorize the moderator to comply with the request upon any other evidence than the prescribed oath, or to deny the request for any other reason than the neglect of the applicant to take oath.

If the oath when taken is manifestly perjury and felony, it, nevertheless, entitles the applicant to assistance in marking his ballot. The legislature did not intend that the business of the meeting should be interrupted by an inquiry into the truth of his sworn declaration of disability.

In this case, the chief justice said, it was not claimed that

The Oath Was Taken, and it cannot be presumed that the moderator had refused to administer the oath if the applicant had offered to take it, or that assistance would have been refused if the oath had been taken.

But whatever was done or omitted, and whatever effect it may have in a contested election case, it does not affect the duty of a canvassing board to ascertain the apparent result of the election from the town clerk's copies of their records or the moderator's declarations of the votes that were cast.

TOOK BIG RISKS.

Frank Reardon Has an Indiscriminate Shooting Match at Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 24.—It was only the unskillful marksmanship of Frank Conley, or Frank Reardon, as he calls himself, that prevented a tragedy here last night. A few days ago Reardon was arrested, brought to the station, and there compelled to marry a 16-year-old Portland girl, much against his will.

His short honeymoon was suddenly brought to a close. Yesterday afternoon he married a man named Barry on Center street. Barry was carrying a pitcher of milk, and Reardon amused himself by shooting at the pitcher. Barry made his escape, and Reardon went to the apartment of Mrs. Mary Deloy on Commercial street. He endeavored to take improper liberties with a waitress, who struggled in his grasp.

Carl de Roy, an elderly invalid, remonstrated, and Reardon pressed the barrel of the revolver to his head and threatened to blow his brains out. The two women ran, and Reardon sent a couple of bullets after them. Attracted by the noise, Herbert Decelle, a one-legged flagman at the Boston and Maine, remonstrated with Reardon, who promptly smashed the cripple on the head, making two ugly wounds. Decelle started to run and Reardon followed, firing two shots. One bullet grazed Decelle's leg.

By the time the patrol wagon arrived, and the officers pursued Reardon through alleys and barns, until Officer Trasher cornered him in the cellar of a house on Maple street.

Reardon is a "pocket" liquor pedler, and is well known in police circles. Three counts of assault with intent to kill may be pressed against him.

LIKE MERICAN MAN.

Wing Lee Got Into Debt and Will Eat His Christmas Dinner in Jail.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—Wing Lee has been eight-three days locked up in Charles street jail for debt. He has made three applications to take the oath for relief of poor debtors. Twice he has been successful. The fate of his third application will be known next Tuesday, when Judge Burke of the municipal court will decide it.

This controversy between Wing and his judgment creditor, Oscar R. Wheeler, a furniture dealer, has become quite remarkable. The debt, as appears from the execution, amounts to $108.41. Wing in his attempts to be set free has been the client of three lawyers whom it is said he has successively hired. To these he is said to have paid more in fees than would pay the amount of the execution.

He was arrested on Oct. 2 and lodged in jail. Since then he has appeared at the poor debtor's session, and yesterday his examination was closed. It has cost his creditor 25 cents a day for his board and keep at the jail, and in all the creditor has paid out more than $29 for this one item.

Wing when arrested was the owner of a small laundry at 31 Union street, Lynn, and on January 1st at that time he was at 10 Harrison avenue in this city. It was while at the latter place that he incurred the debt which has proved such a burden to him. He bought a counter and show case and did not pay for it. Suit was returned against him. After his case was closed yesterday afternoon he was taken again to jail where he will remain over Christmas and will be treated by Sheriff O'Brien to a turkey dinner.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Police Officials Are Suspicious as to the Cause of a Springfield Woman's Death.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 24.—Medical Examiner Breck held autopsies yesterday afternoon on the bodies of Sarah Allen and Mrs. Susan Degan, who were found dead yesterday morning. The verdict was death from alcoholism in each case. Mrs. Allen was about 48 years of age, and a widow. She was found dead in her room at 87 Worthington street.

The police officials are inclined to look upon the death of Mrs. Degan as somewhat suspicious. Her husband noticed Undertaker Cline yesterday that his wife was dead, and then disappeared, and the police have not yet been able to find him. This, together with the fact that a small quantity of dark colored fluid was found in the woman's stomach at the autopsy, lead the police to think the woman may have been poisoned, although it is not at all certain that the fluid found was of a poisonous nature.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY.

Wealth of New Hampshire Folks Runs High Into the Millions.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 24.—The annual report by the state board of equalization on the valuation and taxation of New Hampshire for 1892 says that the total inventories for the current year aggregate $101,980,404 against $118,091,586 for 1891, an increase of $16,111,182. Savings bank deposits, $78,068,476, against $63,834,014 for 1891, an increase of $14,234,462. Insurance capital, $1,525,000, against $1,325,000 for 1891, an increase of $200,000. Total $290,427,500 against $259,191,770 for 1891, an increase of $31,235,730.

The average rate per cent. of taxation was, including taxes on deposits in savings banks and insurance capital, $1.48 on $100, the same as in 1891. The number of horses returned was 75,154, increase, 3878; oxen, 18,072, decrease 1329; cows 109,144, decrease 3502; other cattle 39,502, decrease 7325; sheep 117,563, decrease 2496.

HINTS OF PROSECUTIONS

In Connection with the Sale of Stock of the Elm City Brewing Company.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 24.—The Elm City Brewing company, a majority of the stock of which is controlled by New York and Brooklyn parties, is again before the public in a somewhat peculiar form. The allegation is made by some of the company's creditors that the stockholders, when the company was reorganized, made an illegal issue of stock. The disgruntled ones believe that the matter should be fully investigated, and, if found as represented, prosecutions are likely to follow. A circular has been sent to all creditors stating the facts. The affairs of the company have been in a very complicated condition for several months.

A GLOOMY CHRISTMAS

Confronts the Family of John Butler, a Liquor Spiller of Haverhill.

HAVERTHILL, Mass., Dec. 24.—A Mrs. Butler was taken yesterday from her home on Myrtle street to the city hospital and her children were taken to the city farm by order of the overseers of the poor. The woman's husband is John Butler, who was made himself famous as a liquor spotter during the past few weeks, and who, the neighbors and the officials allege, has neglected and abused his wife and family. Butler is said, claimed that he had important work to do for the city which obliged him to be at city hall all the time, so that he could not look out for his home.

Substantial Sympathy.

EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 24.—The funerals of Luke Gleman, Hugh McGuinness, John Clark and George Wallis, the four West End employees who were burned to death, took place yesterday at St. Mary's church. The Rev. Mr. Whitney, president of the West End, has sent a letter to the widows of the victims, expressing his sympathy for their loss. In addition it informs them that the directors have voted to set apart $1000 for each of them.

Skipped with Tim Murphy.

ATLANTIC, N. H., Dec. 24.—An Orange an elopement is creating the local gossip. Mrs. Williams kept a lodging house on East River street, and among those who lodged there was Timothy Murphy. Mrs. Williams and Tim went to Gardner and bought tickets for the Golden Gate of the Pacific coast. To meet expenses Mrs. Williams carried about $1000 in cash.

Tried to Save His Ozen.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 24.—Lorenzo P. Knight of Westbrook was killed by the "Flying Yankee" at a crossing in Deering. He was going down a sharp pitch to the Maine Central crossing with two yoke of oxen, when he heard the coming train. He jumped in front of the oxen, tried to stop them, and it cost him his life. The forward oxen was also killed.

The Old, Old Story.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—Douglass Forsythe of Parsboro, N. S., a lad of not over 20 years of age, came to Boston Thursday night and took a room at the United States Hotel. He left the room unlocked, and was found dead yesterday. He was on his way home to spend Christmas.

Four Years for Killing His Mother.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—Morris Powers will spend four years at state prison for matricide. Powers was sentenced yesterday afternoon in the superior criminal court. He killed his mother, Bridget Powers, who was 55 years old. Powers is about 32 years old.

Wanted for Forgery.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—David Davidson, a cigar maker of Jamaica Plain, was arrested, charged with being a fugitive from justice. He is wanted for forgery in New York city, and will be taken there on request papers.

Wharton Will Take Foster's Place.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Secretary of State Foster will resign his portfolio before leaving for Paris. As only three weeks will elapse before the secretary's departure and the end of the present administration, the vacancy will not be filled. Assistant Secretary Wharton will act during the interim.

Wanted for Embezzlement.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Dec. 24.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of C. H. Blake, now at Greeley, charged with the embezzlement of $9000 from the Continental Oil company at this place, where he was acting as agent. A woman got most of the money.

AGAINST DISSOLUTION.

Ribot's Calmness Bridges Over a Crisis in France.

MILLEVOYE'S SCHEME IS FRUSTRATED.

More Exciting Scenes in the Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—The scene in the chamber of deputies yesterday when M. Millevoye interpellated the ministry regarding advances of money by the Panama Canal company was the most stormy chamber scene since the 18th of July. The question of the government as to the facts in its possession relating to the use, by a former premier, of contributions from the Panama Canal company, whose corrupt and criminal operations were now being investigated.

M. Ribot, in behalf of the government, said he accepted immediate discussion of the subject.

President Floquet thereupon vacated the chair. M. Peytral took his place, and M. Millevoye said that he desired to question the government as to the facts in its possession relating to the use, by a former premier, of contributions from the Panama Canal company, whose corrupt and criminal operations were now being investigated.

M. Ribot, in behalf of the government, said he accepted immediate discussion of the subject. President Floquet thereupon vacated the chair. M. Peytral took his place, and M. Millevoye said that he desired to question the government as to the facts in its possession relating to the use, by a former premier, of contributions from the Panama Canal company, whose corrupt and criminal operations were now being investigated.

Count Jules de Borne, an ardent royalist, indulged in a violent attack on M. Floquet and denounced his conduct in the alleged bribing of newspapers under cover of political advertising. The count exclaimed: "You not only allowed the people to be robbed of their savings, but you were an accomplice in the nefarious crime."

At this there was the wildest excitement. Deputies stood and waved their arms and shouted, some in denunciation, others in approval of the language used by Count de Borne.

When order had been restored in some degree M. Millevoye arose and indulged in a violent attack on M. Rouvier.

Millevoye was repeatedly applauded by the Boulangists, royalists and imperialists, but it was evident that fewer Republicans were inclined to join in adding to the excitement. M. Rouvier then arose to make an explanation and defense of his conduct. He said that at the time of the Boulangist agitation, certain people had lent to the government 50,000 to 100,000 francs to supply a pressing want of service funds to keep up the fight against Boulangism, and prevent him and his followers from carrying out their schemes against the Republic. "I never," added M. Rouvier, "shall anything to do with the Panama Canal company, and never attempted to control the press, and when Baron Reuchou offered to help the government, I refused to accept his assistance."

M. Rouvier exclaimed warmly: "I always upheld the flag of parliamentaryism, and of the Republic, and I always will." When M. Rouvier had concluded, M. Millevoye stepped into the speaker's tribune. The first words of the Boulangist deputy were his purpose to precipitate a crisis immediately. He spoke briefly, but violently. The present cabinet, he said, was trusted neither by the people nor their representatives. Both its members and adherents were in the shadow of a fatal suspicion. Men chosen to serve the high interests of France were falling daily under charges of misrepresentation those interests. The time had come for an appeal to the preferences of the electors. On behalf of those who had the honor of France at heart, he Demanded a Dissolution.

At this point the uproar on the floor interrupted M. Millevoye and he stood silent until the cheers and shouts of protest subsided. Then he moved a vote of "no confidence." As he left the tribune there was little demonstration, and Premier Ribot rose to defend the government, amid profound silence. The purpose of M. Millevoye, he said, was apparent to all. He intended to unload scandal afterwards upon the government until he wrecked it. Chief of "No, no" from the Boulangists greeted this statement and M. Millevoye shouted: "The facts will suffice to wreck it when all is known."

"M. Millevoye," continued M. Ribot, "was attempting to bring to trial, not individuals, but the Republican institutions of France. The plotters against the Republic should not delude themselves with the idea that a dissolution would accomplish their ends, for the people knew their enemies and the monks of their enemies, honesty in politics above all, I say," M. Ribot called out, as he turned to face the Right, "but no toleration of men who conspire to ruin our Republic. The whole machinery of the law has been set in motion. Can you not wait for the verdict? The present government will not allow low itself to be disturbed or intimidated by their demonstrations." The applause with which this statement was received was still, suddenly by M. Deputies, who sprang to his feet, and, waving his right arm above his head, shouted: "Down with the parliamentary system!"

After the president had restored order by repeated appeals to the deputies M. Ribot concluded his defense with the words: "Those who flatter themselves that there is no government in France are deluded, and, if the occasion comes, the present cabinet will not hesitate to prove it. This government is prepared to defend the Republic."

The firmness and calmness of M. Ribot's address evidently had won for him the sympathy of the Chamber, for, as he left the tribune, he was cheered with exceptional enthusiasm. Even M. Deputies seemed to realize this, and his subsequent speech was mild to the point of tameness.

He explained his plan for revising the constitution at some length, and in his peroration, astounded his hearers by declaring that he felt full confidence in the probity and intelligence of the ministry. M. Millevoye's motion of "no confidence" was then put and was lost by a vote of 333 to 91. Tremendous cheering and applause from the Left followed the announcement of the result.

In the senate the special committee's report in favor of authorizing the procureur general to proceed against Senators Renault, Beral, Thevenet, Deves and Albert Greys was adopted, and the requisite permission was granted.

JUSTICE LAMAR'S SICKNESS.

A Report That He Will Not Recover from Present Afflictions.

HARTFORD, Dec. 24.—A special to The Times from Washington says: A gentleman who has just come from Atlanta says that the condition of Justice Lamar of the United States supreme court is far more serious than is generally known. The justice, who is the guest of Mr. Smith of the Atlanta Journal, is so feeble as to greatly alarm his host, and fears are entertained that he will never be able to leave his present quarters.

ATLANTA, Dec. 24.—Justice Lamar left Atlanta yesterday afternoon for Macon, where he will spend the holidays with his wife's family. He is somewhat improved in health, but is still far from being well.

A scientific writer says that if people on the star Sirius have telescopes powerful enough to distinguish objects on this planet, and are looking at it now, they are witnessing the destruction of Jerusalem, which took place over 1,800 years ago. Of course, the reason of this is that the light which the world reflects, travelling, as it does, at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, would take over eighteen centuries to reach the nearest fixed star.

It is estimated that the cemeteries of London cover an aggregate area of 2,000 acres, the value of which is not less than, $10,000,000.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27.—Henry C. Varnum came to this city from Sharon, Vt., in September, and sought employment as a machinist, which he found in the shop of L. T. Pollard. He then hired a tenement on Tainter street, and sent for his family, which consisted of his wife, an adopted daughter, Florence, and his wife's mother, Mrs. Wright. The family lived quietly and, to all appearances, happily. Mrs. Varnum was a regular attendant at Hope Congregational church, where she sang in the choir. Her husband and little daughter often accompanied her. Mrs. Varnum was not present at any of the church services Sunday, and the pastor, Rev. E. W. Phillips, remarked their absence and expressed some surprise, saying that Mrs. Varnum was not the sort of a woman to stay at home because it was cold.

Mr. Phillips had occasion to make a call on Christy street, near Tainter, yesterday, and in passing thought he would find out if anything was the matter. He rang the Varnum bell, but received no answer and called up the lower tenement, and later the occupant of the middle dwelling, Mrs. F. E. Hall, who said she hadn't heard anything from the Varnums and that she felt nervous about them. She also said that the door upstairs was open.

Mr. Phillips went upstairs immediately and entered the apartment through the parlor door. The rooms were very cold and the furniture undisturbed. He passed through the parlor into the back parlor and then into the kitchen. He then pushed open the door of the bedroom leading off from the kitchen and a terrible sight met his eyes.

Lying on the bed, covered with blood, were Mr. Varnum and his wife. The man was quite dead, but the woman was breathing heavily. In a cot in the corner of the room lay the child, turned over on her face, also dead. Mr. Phillips waited to see no more, but rushed down stairs to the office of the Knowles loom works, where he telephoned for the police. When the police arrived the mother, Mrs. Wright, was discovered in an adjoining room. She was conscious but not able to speak, though she understood what was said to her and made several ineffectual attempts to articulate. The bodies of the man and child were removed by the undertaker, and the two women were carried to the hospital. The young woman died as the ambulance stopped at the hospital door. Mrs. Wright is still unable to speak, but she may live. She is about 80 years of age.

The weapon with which the awful deed was committed was an iron door hanger, an iron strap about fifteen inches long, headed by a cylindrical knob. The instrument weighed fully four pounds. Varnum himself was killed by a stab from a knife, identified as his own. He was cut in the region of the heart. There were no other marks upon his body. Medical Examiner Keefe, who examined the bodies, says that the deed was done early Sunday morning. The bodies of the man and child when found were stiff, and water in the kitchen was frozen. There was no sign of violence in the house outside of the bedrooms.

Mrs. F. E. Hall, who lives in the tenement below, says that she heard a slight sound from the child at about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, and a moment later the sounds of footsteps. The noises ceased immediately and she thought nothing of them.

Varnum had kept a blacksmith shop in Sharon, Vt., where, besides doing all sorts of odd jobs, he had manufactured kitchen utensils. He had an attack of the grip last winter, and since then had been subject to fits of despondency and melancholy. His relations in this city, fearing that he would commit suicide and thinking that change of scene and employment would benefit him in mind and body, induced him to come here. As soon as he found work he became more cheerful and sent for his wife and family. About five weeks ago he left his employment, owing to some dissatisfaction on the part of both his employer and himself. He has since that time been more and more despondent, and his brooding over his troubles resulted in the tragedy.

The aged mother, who is the only one who could possibly give details of the madman's work, is still unable to speak on account of the injuries to her face and jaw. She is resting comfortably at the hospital, but is not expected to recover.

BOY SHOT AND KILLED
By the Discharge of a Gun in the Hands of a Drunken Man.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 27.—William J. Leary and George Jennings started with a horse and buggy yesterday to go on a gunning expedition near Long Pond, Freetown, some ten miles away. On the way they stopped at several saloons, and Leary got badly intoxicated. When about a mile north of the center of the city they stopped to get another drink, but did not succeed, and Jennings got into an altercation with a man named Murphy. Leary took the gun from the wagon, but for what purpose is not known, and when a saloon keeper, Patrick O'Leary, made a grab for the gun it was discharged, probably by accident.

Amel Fildes, 14 years old, residing in Fall River, who, with his parents, were visiting in this city, was standing near and received the charge of shot on the inside of his right thigh, severing an artery, and he bled to death in a few minutes.

FLOATING ICEBERGS.

Vessels Arriving at New York Report Intensely Cold Weather at Sea.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Incoming steamships report fierce storms and bitter cold weather at sea. Every vessel that came into port yesterday was a mass of ice from waterline to masthead. Several steamships had deckwork smashed, and members of the crew were frostbitten. The steamship Laurestina, from Bremen, had her deck and sides covered with ice two feet thick in places, while huge icicles hung from her yards. All three of the ship's compasses froze, and their alcohol baths, and the captain was obliged to make his course by the stars.

The Prins Mauritz, from Venezuelan ports, met a hurricane on Dec. 24. A high cross sea broke over the vessel and masses of water were frozen by the intense cold, until the ship was a floating mass of ice. The deck railings were broken and the rigging damaged.

The steamship Archimedes, from St. Lucia, was covered with icicles. Several of the crew had hands and feet frozen. The City of Berlin also met a hurricane. She was over eleven days making the passage. The steamship Croft came in six days late from Leith.

The Strathleven, which started from this port Sunday for China, put back to readjust her cargo of coal oil.

SUNK TO RISE NO MORE.

A Brave Officer Loses His Own Life Trying to Save Others.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 27.—A skating party broke through the ice on Loch Annellan, near Inverness, yesterday. Several young women and three officers of the Cameron Highlanders were plunged into the water. The women were rescued by their escorts. General Rice jumped in to help a young man who was trying to swim for solid ice with a young woman held at arm's length. Although an expert swimmer, the general seemed to be helpless from the moment he got in the water.

He sank beneath the surface almost immediately, and did not rise. He is supposed to have been paralyzed by the cold and to have been seized with cramps. No body else was drowned.

THE CŒUR D'ALENE RIOTS.

A Decision Which Practically Relieves the Miners from All Blame.

RATHFRUM, Ida., Dec. 27.—The jury in the case of D. W. Leasure, tried for the murder of Ivory Bean, and conspiracy in the Cœur d'Alene mining riots last July, has returned a verdict of not guilty. The result of the trial is very important, as it virtually decides there was no conspiracy in the Cœur d'Alene trouble and that the acts of the union miners were defensive and not rebellious. Leasure was jointly indicted with forty-two others upon other charges as follows: Conspiracy, murder of Ivory Bean, blowing up of Idaho mill, and violating the injunction of the district court. It is believed the other cases will be dismissed.

Had No Fire Department.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 27.—The village of Wyoming was visited by the most severe fire in its history yesterday. The fire broke out in a bakery, and burned the Methodist Episcopal church, six stores, seven dwellings and three barns. The village was entirely without fire protection, and finally a building was blown up with powder and the fire was stopped. Nine families are homeless. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Carelessness Causes Heavy Loss.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 27.—The Empire and New England Transportation company barge No. 3 sank at Bell dock with 500 tons of coal on board. The two barges which sunk off Woodmont on Friday, each containing 250 tons of coal, have gone to pieces and will prove a total loss. The company attributes the sinking of the barges to employees' carelessness.

Overtaken by a Train.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Dec. 27.—Mary Backman, 13 years old, was instantly killed by cars at Melrose station yesterday. With two other girls she walked down the track toward Broad Brook, and when on an eighteen-foot trestle, the train from Hartford struck them. Mr. Backman, the other girls jumped and escaped without serious injuries.

Dr. McGlynn's Future Field.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Rev. Dr. McGlynn will, in all probability, be under the jurisdiction of either Cardinal Gibbons in the Baltimore diocese or Archbishop Ireland of the St. Paul diocese. According to a prominent ecclesiastical friend of Dr. McGlynn, he has the choice of the above two dioceses under consideration.

A Costly Oil Stove.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 27.—Officer Hyde noticed the show window of Arruzen's jewelry store covered with soot yesterday. On entering he found the whole stock coated the same as the window. An oil stove had been left burning too high, which resulted in a damage of several hundred dollars.

Crowded Tenement House Burned.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—A tenement house, located on the Hempfield branch railroad, occupied by about seventy-five persons, was burned. James Aggieco, an old man, was burned to death and several small children were perhaps fatally injured. Many had narrow escapes.

Norwegian Wins the Second Race.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 27.—Harold Hagen of Norway defeated Hugh McCormack of New Brunswick in the second race for the world's skating championship and a purse of $100,000. The race was for a single mile. The third race will occur Monday. This will be a five mile race.

Lizzie Borden's Christmas.

TAUNTON, Mass., Dec. 27.—Miss Lizzie Borden's Christmas appears to have been a cheerful one. She was visited by none of her friends, received no remembrances indicative of the time, and her Christmas dinner was just the ordinary affair.

Norborne, Mo., Dec. 27.—Burr's bakery.

Kenton Bros' meat market and livery stables, the Bank of Norborne and several other buildings were burned here. Total loss $40,000.

Lynn Church Desecrated.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 27.—St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in South Common street was broken into last evening by burglars. A secured several gold and silver vessels.

A SCARE IN LONDON.

Fears That Dynamiters May Renew Operations.

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS ARE BEING TAKEN

To Prevent Any Attempts to Destroy Public Buildings.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The suggestion has been made here that the Dublin explosion was the work of anarchists, and that it was part of the plot discovered by the police here a short time ago to carry on a dynamite propaganda in Great Britain, in behalf of the anarchist cause. The officials of Scotland Yard, however, condemn this suggestion, as they do the rumors that it was directed at officers engaged in the recent arrests of anarchists.

The news of an explosion caused uneasiness in London. The scenes about the houses of parliament, the Tower of London, Charing Cross and Paddington railway stations and other public buildings remind one forcibly of the days of the dynamite outrages in this city. All the precautions taken in those troublesome times have been renewed. The government buildings are most closely watched. Those who visit the building are compelled to run the gauntlet of a number of questioners.

The members of the cabinet were officially notified of the explosion, as was also Mr. Gladstone, who is at Biarritz, France. What action they will take is unknown, but there is no doubt that orders have been given to leave no stone unturned in the endeavor to discover the culprits.

The London police recently received vague intimations of a possible renewal of dynamite outrages, and extra precautions were taken to guard against injury being done to public buildings. It is supposed by some that the dynamiters, thus thwarted, decided to make Dublin the scene of their outrages.

Secretary Asquith was busy at the home office yesterday, and unusual activity was displayed at Scotland yard.

DUBLIN PEOPLE EXCITED.

General Opinion That It Was Done Out of Pure Spite.

DUBLIN, Dec. 27.—Thousands of people yesterday went and stared at the locality where Detective Synnot lost his life by the explosion at the Dublin detective office. To prevent intrusion the police put up a chain across the entrance to Exchange court, and a strong force of police stood outside the chain. Chief Secretary Morley, accompanied by other officials, visited the spot and made a careful investigation. Pending the arrival of Colonel Majendie, chief inspector of explosives, the scene of the wreck is left untouched.

Though there is scarcely a doubt, save in the minds of the Tories, that the whole affair was due to personal spite or perhaps to a desire to bring discredit on Mr. Morley's administration, the excitement among the officials and residents continues. Extra police and military patrols have been detailed to guard most of the public buildings in the city, and no one is allowed to loiter in that vicinity for any length of time.

A coroner's inquest was held on the body of Detective Synnot. Detective Green testified that he traversed Exchange court five minutes before the explosion occurred. He saw a broken parcel, in shape resembling a book, lying in the footpath opposite the detective office. He paid no attention to it.

Sergeant Dawson testified that he passed through the passageway a few minutes before the explosion occurred, but saw no parcel on the walk. Caretaker Clancy of the city hall testified that he left a tavern, opposite the entrance of the court with Synnot, whom he bade good night at a side door of the city hall, a short distance down the court. He had hardly entered the city hall when he was stunned by the concussion from the explosion. Clancy said he had been about the court all the evening but saw no strangers, nor anything unusual. Policeman Blake said he observed nothing suspicious in the court, though his patrol took him through it every four minutes.

Police Inspector Flower stated that he noticed a bluish smoke arising from the spot where the explosion occurred immediately afterward. The police had not as yet found a clue to the perpetrators of the outrage.

The expert on explosives, Mr. Tichborne, expressed the opinion that the explosion was one of either dynamite or nitro-glycerine. Small pieces of metal casing, evidently part of an infernal machine, were found near by.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the explosion was due to the explosion of a high class explosive substance placed in the court by a person whose identity was unknown to the jury. It was recommended that the authorities provide for the family of Detective Synnot.

Hungarian Crookedness.

BUDA-PESTH, Dec. 27.—The fact has just been made public that the Trefort ministry 4,000,000 florins were embezzled in the department of education and public instruction. No information is ascertainable as to the mode of fraud or the identity of the dishonest official.

An Old Man's Sad Fate.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27.—Thomas Carey, aged 65, lost his way in a coal yard Sunday night, and fell in a hole, breaking his leg. He was unable to get out and remained all night. His feet and his hands were frozen. He died at the city hospital yesterday afternoon.

Maine Schooner Ashore.

CAPE CHARLES CITY, Va., Dec. 27.—The four-masted schooner Mary E. H. G. Dow of Bath, Me., went ashore at the mouth of Chesapeake bay, near Cape Charles. She is loaded with coal, bound for Portsmouth, N. H., and is leaking badly.

Out of His Head.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Dec. 27.—Willard F. Brown of Hanson was found hanging by the neck, dead, in his stable by burglars. He lived alone, was about 40 years old and was considered not just right mentally.

DOES YOUR
EVER BOOTHER
YOU?

Will it go right along for days at a time, and then fall behind several minutes in a day? Or does it go sometimes too fast and at other times slow?

Do you sometimes find it stopping?

Have you taken it again and again to your watchmaker and have it returned to you no better, or possibly worse than before?

A great many who read this will quickly and emphatically answer in the affirmative. We know this from the way a great many talk when bringing their watches for repairs.

Now, there must be a cause for the trouble, but not everyone, even though he may have worked twenty years at the business, can find it out. It requires a man who not only has a knowledge of the business, but who has patience enough to use his reason and ferret out the cause of the trouble.

We take pride in this branch of our business, and do not trust it to a hired man, but sit at the bench and do the job.

When it is done we guarantee the watch to perform satisfactorily, or refund the money.

That is the way we do business. That is what has made our business a success. That is what has made us the leading jewelry house in Quincy. Try us and you will not be disappointed.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

How It Was Celebrated in Quincy Churches.

Rev. Edward Norton's Present Pleases Largest Number.

Rev. D. M. Wilson Held in High Esteem
by His Former Parishioners.

Tree Festivals, Christmas Music, Special Sermons, and Sunday School Concerts.

It was a merry Christmas with a great many this year. With the Congregationalists because their pastor of twenty years promised to remain; with the Unitarians because they were able to reward their late pastor so abundantly; with all the churches and Sunday Schools because of the good cheer it brought.

Congregational Church.

The Congregational Church had the most satisfactory Christmas in its existence. The Saturday afternoon and evening exercises for the Sabbath School. The effective Christmas decorations of the church, the singing, and sermon of the morning were all on a high level of excellence, and in keeping with the day, but the one crowning thing of all, filling to overflowing of gratitude, was the Pastor's Christmas gift. In response to the universally signed petition addressed to him and presented by their committee, of the following letter read by Mr. King who spoke of himself as the messenger bearing a Christmas present, the one Christmas present the church desired, and from the one and only person who could give it "Our Pastor." The letter was as follows.

To the Evangelical Congregational Church and Society:

MY DEAR PEOPLE: Last October I proposed to you to make this year—my twentieth with you—our last. I gave as my reasons for doing so, the fear that after twenty years you might prefer someone else, and also my fear that I could not do for more than twenty years, all that this growing society with many added outside labors, demands.

I was sincere in what I said. I gave my real and only reasons for proposing that the full round score of years close our united labors.
Now, in reply to this, you have met me frankly on my own grounds. In the petitions you have sent me from the congregation and from the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor—both of which are herein gratefully acknowledged—you have said that without any dissent you wish me to remain. I am satisfied with this expression of your desire, and it removes my first reason.
Then you have promised through your committee conferring with me to do anything in your power to make the continuance of our united labors possible and profitable. That means, I take it, that you will work faithfully with me especially in conducting the social work of our church and society, that those of you who have health and strength will be with me and aid me in the mid week meeting and on Sabbath evenings. If it means that, I am satisfied. It removes my second reason.
And so, after much thought and prayer, I have decided to respond to the request of your petition and remain with you while it is your desire and seemingly God's will. I am, therefore, with ever increasing love for you ever one.

Your pastor,
EDWARD NORTON.
Quincy, Dec. 24, 1892.

The announcement was received by a clapping of hand that could not be restrained. The suggestion was made and unanimously carried that Mr. Norton (who had retired at the close of the sermon) be called in and that the congregation express through Mr. King its great satisfaction, and wish Mr. Norton as happy a Christmas today and always as he had given the church.

The feeling also found vent through singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" while the pastor was being brought in.
The congregation rose en masse to receive him. Mr. King conveyed briefly and feelingly the thought and wish of all, to which most gladly was heard the words of the pastor in response, and all were happy.
A hundred or more little ones attended the primary festival at 2 p. m. Saturday. When the children arrived the tree was on a platform hid from view by a curtain. The exercises included declamations and singing and included addresses from a diminutive Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa Claus, who stopped to distribute the gifts from the tree. There were pretty dressed dolls for the little misses, and rubber balls for the boys, and each of the children received a box of candy. Santa Claus was personified by Sidney Hardwick, and his wife was Bessie Merrill. The programme was outlined by Mrs. Fay who has been confined to the house some months.
A Christmas cantata was presented Christmas eve, when the chapel was crowded. It was interesting and much enjoyed.
A item worthy of note was the graduation Sunday of three classes from the primary department to the main school. There was a ceremony attached to and an effort made make it impressive.

First Church.

The Sunday School connected with the First church gathered with full ranks at the chapel Saturday afternoon, prepared to enjoy themselves as only children know how, and it is safe to say they did although the side glances they gave toward the tightly drawn curtain in front of the platform showed that their minds were not wholly on play but on the mysterious packages that were hung on the tree which they knew must be there. Shortly after 6 o'clock they were marshalled to the dining hall where a tempting supper was served.

Supper over the scholars seated themselves in the chapel to await their presents. Just before the curtain was drawn aside Mr. Henry H. Faxon requested Rev. Daniel M. Wilson, who was quietly watching the scene from the rear of the room to come forward which he did, leaning upon Mr. Faxon's arm. As he reached the stage Mr. Luther S. Anderson in behalf of the society presented him with a purse containing $500 which had been contributed by every member of the society.

St. John's Church.
The services at this church were of a very high order, and began as early as 5 o'clock in the morning, when high mass was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Cunningham. The next mass was at 9 o'clock, and was celebrated by Rev. A. F. Roche; and the last one, at 10.30, was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. F. A. Fringlietti. At this mass the choir, under the direction of Miss Margaret A. Garrity, rendered Haydn's Third Mass in D in an effective manner.
The altars were very tastefully dressed in evergreens, while potted plants and fragrant exotics added to the beauty of the scene. Hundreds of candle lights gleamed resplendently on the pretty scene; and in the evening gas and electric lights heightened the effects of the scene.
Solemn high vespers was held at 8 o'clock, and was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Fringlietti, assisted by Rev. F. A. Cunningham and Rev. E. P. Butler. The following musical programme was rendered by the full choir:
Domine Adjutorum,
Dixit Dominus,
Confitebor,
Beatus Vir,
Laudate Pueri,
Laudate Dominum,
Christmas Night,
Magnificat,
O Salutaris,
Tantum Ergo,
Adeste Fideles.

Christ's Church.
The children's festival at Christ's church was held Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, the children of the Wollaston church also being present. The interior of the church looked very handsome; on the sides between the windows were large wreaths of evergreen, hung by streamers of the same; long streamers were also festooned across the centre of the church; in the chancel was a large tree gayly bedecked with presents and illuminated with hundreds of little candles.
The exercises opened with carol singing and prayer, followed by short addresses to the children by Rev. H. Evan Cotton and Mr. A. L. Bumpus; then followed the distribution of presents.
The Sunday services were largely attended, and the music was of a high order.

Universalist Church.
The children were out in full force at the Universalist vestry on Christmas eve. They were full of enthusiasm and confectionery. After the supper the school was entertained with select reading by Miss Wollie Sweeney and singing by Misses Burrell and Fletcher. Messrs. Nye and Pratt presided at the piano. On leaving the vestry each member of the school was provided with an elegant box of bonbons and chocolates, through the generosity of Mr. Faxon, to whom the children gave an unanimous vote of thanks.

At the Sunday morning service the pastor preached from Luke 11, 32, "A light to lighten the Gentiles." The Christmas liturgical service from the "Gloria Patri" was used, with special anthems by the chorus choir. A Cuet was admirably sung by Mr. Nye and Mrs. Winslow.

In the evening a Sunday School concert was given as arranged by the pastor. The exercise consisted of recitations and carols. Mr. Nye and Miss Maud Curtis sang a solo, and Misses Burrell and Fletcher a duet. In the singing of several carols the triangle accompaniment, to imitate the chiming of bells, was successfully introduced. Much credit is due to Mr. Nye, the musical director, and Mr. Pratt, the organist, for the excellent manner in which the music was rendered. Recitations were given by Grace Lapham, Mary Blake, Bessie Brown, Alice Newcomb, Burleigh Pratt, George Turner, Pauline Jones, Mattie Holton, Florence Holton, Herbert Crane, Florence Newcomb, Leslie Fay, Alfred Brown, Annie Crane, Lillian Pratt, Belle Hall, Addie Holton, Maria Philbrook, Wollie Sweeney and Lucy Brown.

Presbyterian Church.
The Sunday School connected with the Presbyterian church had a jolly time Monday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, when they held their Christmas festival. There was an entertainment by the scholars, consisting of singing and speaking, following which the presents, with which the tree was loaded, were distributed.

St. Paul's M. E. Church.
A Christmas Sunday School concert was held in St. Paul's Swedish church Monday night from 6 to 9 o'clock. Never before have so many people been at any Sunday School entertainment in this church.

The programme was long and interesting, and many presents were given to the children. A good Christmas tree, together with many candles, illuminated the temple.

Mr. Faxon's kindness to the school was acknowledged by the pastor, Rev. C. Paulson. He told the children that Mr. Faxon who fear the phenomenal success of

Van Houten's Cocoa
in America, contain innuendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of
Dr. SYDNEY KINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London,
Author of the Standard "Handbook of Therapeutics."
This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:—
"From the careful analyses of Professor ARTHUR and others, I am satisfied that Messrs. Van Houten's Cocoa is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocosas—it is certainly 'Pure' and highly digestible.
The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to Van Houten's Cocoa.
The false reflection on Van Houten's Cocoa is thus effectually repelled and the very authority cited in its favor is given the very handsome testimonial."
The above is a true and correct statement of the facts.

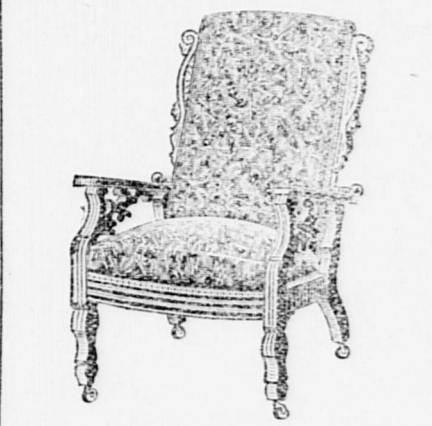

Found Dead.
Andrew Dinegan was found dead in his bed at his boarding house on Morton street Monday morning by his boarding mistress. The authorities were notified and the body was given in charge of Undertaker Brown. He was about 50 years of age and leaves three children. Consumption is given as the cause of his death.

helped to make the Christmas entertainment a success.

Primitive Methodists.

A large audience assembled at the Primitive church, No. 6 Hillside street, West Quincy, at 10.30 Sunday, and listened to some very fine carol singing rendered by fifteen young men of Quincy, also one of Rev. C. J. Keovil's fine sermons. In the evening, notwithstanding the storm, a large audience gathered to listen to the carol singers and a very interesting talk by Evangelist Felps of Boston.

At Quincy Point.

The Christmas services at the Washington Street Congregational church, were in harmony with the day and proved most interesting. The pastor, Rev. W. Sherman Thompson delivered an impressive sermon, using as his subject, the "Manger King." The singing, by a double quartette, under the direction of Mr. M. E. Wight, was excellent.

The Sunday School concert in the evening, in charge of Supt. Sherburne passed off successfully, as did the entertainment on Christmas eve, prepared by Mr. George A. Sidelinger.

Methodist Episcopal Church, Atlantic.

The Sunday School of this society celebrated Christmas in a manner which brought more enjoyment than usual. Sunday evening the school gave a concert which passed off as nearly to perfection as could well be attained to, and was enjoyed by a large congregation. Monday evening they again met in the hall. At six o'clock they were treated to a festive consisting of ice cream, cake, oranges etc., which was followed by a brief entertainment after which the gifts from the tree were presented. Most of these were there through the generosity of Mr. Henry H. Faxon and if he realized that the giving was more blessed than receiving, his happiness must have been great. Much credit is due to the ladies of the school who labored so incessantly for the good of this occasion. The decorating was profuse, the sides of the hall were adorned with evergreen wreaths while other portions of the hall were trimmed with such quantities of the evergreen that it made this place appear very attractive and cheerful. It was a Christmas the scholars will long remember.

AT WOLLASTON.

The Christmas services at the different Wollaston churches attracted large audiences. Sermons appropriate to the occasion were preached by all of the pastors.

Congregational Church.

After reading from the second chapter of Matthew, the Rev. Edward A. Robinson preached an eloquent sermon from the gospel according to Luke, second chapter, fifteenth verse.

The singing was by a choir consisting of Mr. Chas. B. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Saxe, Miss Dickey, Miss Jones, Miss Kolb, Mr. N. G. Nickerson and Mr. Horace F. Bates.

The programme was as follows:

Voluntary.
Anthem.
Doxology.
Lord's Prayer.
Credo.
Gloria.
Scripture.
Baritone solo, Chas. B. Dickey.
Prayer.
Response, Ladies' Voices.
Notices and offering.
Hymn.

Sermon.
Holy Night, Mrs. R. J. Saxe.
Flute obligato, Mr. A. E. Rhodes.
Prayer.
Congregational singing.
Doxology.
Organist, Miss Minnie P. Prescott.

Unitarian Church.

Rev. W. S. Key preached an interesting sermon to the children.

At the Sunday School, which followed the morning's service, addresses were made to the children by Rev. W. S. Key, Mrs. W. E. Simmons, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop

ABSOLUTELY FREE.

A Thrilling Book, To Any Reader Of This Paper.

Tells All About the Indians.

Latest Publication In Its Line, Entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians"—Contains Nearly Two Hundred Pages—Sent Free to Everybody.

In order to make the public familiar with the habits, manners, customs and history of one of the oldest tribes of American Indians extant we have published at great expense a large edition of a work entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians." All their peculiarities, traditions, habits, in fact, their whole life and customs are told in a manner which will interest the reader and hold attention to the end. This book also explains our connection with the tribe, how it came about and what has come from it. The book, however, is in no sense a mere advertising pamphlet; but one well worth a dollar if it were published to be sold. We shall not publish another edition for public distribution, and after the present one is exhausted, the book will either be out of print or sold by the book dealers at the price named above, or more.

While this edition lasts we will send a copy free to all who apply enclosing three 2-cent stamps to pay cost of postage.

If you want it, send now and save disappointment. We will guarantee to all all requests received within the next two weeks following the appearance of this advertisement, but may not be able to do so later. It is for your interest therefore to send at once. Address HEALY & BIGELOW, 521 Grand Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

and Mrs. George W. Bennett. The singing was by a special choir of young ladies.

Baptist Church.

At the Baptist church the Rev. Preston Gurney preached an able Christmas sermon and the musical programme, which was published in Saturday's LEDGER, was carried out. In the evening a Christmas concert was held. The programme:

Methodist Church.

An unusually interesting Christmas service was held at the Methodist church. Rev. Wilson S. Fitch delivered an interesting sermon. In the evening a large audience listened to an excellent Sunday School concert.

Christmas Eve at Wollaston.

All of the Wollaston churches with the exception of the Methodist held their revel, with old Santa Claus for toastmaster, on Christmas eve. The most elaborate reception which that good old gentleman received in this place was at the Baptist festival. Instead of the customary Christmas tree, a store was fitted up and Santa Claus appeared there and disposed of his presents. The Unitarian and Congregational Sunday Schools had large fire-places made of boxes of candy. The Methodist Sunday School had an old fashioned Christmas tree and enjoyed it hugely.

Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Sullivan of Town Hill narrowly escaped being ground to pieces at the Quincy depot, Saturday evening while attempting to board the 8.10 train for Boston. She slipped and was thrown onto the tracks. The car which she tried to board was the last one, else she would have been cut to pieces. As it was her head was cut by coming in contact with the iron rails.

FIRST FOR SIX WEEKS.

Fire Discovered in Quincy Depot Between Two and Three O'Clock This Morning.

About 2:55 this morning, box 26 was rung for a fire in the Quincy depot. It was discovered by the night flagman at the depot crossing, in the baggage room, and was then beyond his control. Not knowing the location of the fire alarm boxes he aroused the hostlers in French's stable. By this time Officer McKay had pulled in the box, and before three o'clock the steamer was located at the hydrant near the fountain. Another line was run from the hydrant near the grain store and soon the flames which had spread to the attic of the structure were under control.

The baggage and toilet rooms were considerably damaged, the loss on the building being estimated at $500. Baggage to the value of $200 was also destroyed, including:

J. C. Randall, trunk and valise.
Dr. J. H. Gilbert, 2 trunks and valise.
Edward Barrows, 2 trunks.
Trunk, owner unknown.
E. B. Glover, 2 gripcases.
Bundles, Dr. S. M. Donovan.

WEYMOUTH.

The house of Lyman Williams on Richmond Hill, was completed gutted by fire at 6 o'clock this morning. The loss on the house is estimated at $1,000 and on furniture $1000. The cause of the fire is supposed to be due to a defective chimney. The furniture was insured for $800. There was also an insurance on the house.

Mrs. Abbie B. W. Randall, widow of the late Dean Randall, died Monday at East Weymouth, aged 86 years. She leaves four children. Mrs. Randall was a most estimable lady and enjoyed a large circle of friends. Her husband was a leading manufacturer and was largely interested in the nail business.

The Italian Ball.

Hancock hall presented a scene of festivity and gaiety last night, the occasion being the first annual ball of the Italian Mutual Society. The floor was under the management of Ottavio Laucisi, and was ably assisted by Joseph Bianchi, and Josue Bianchi. Gerard Russo and his famous orchestra were there and enlivened the assembly with their inspiring music. About one hundred couple participated in the grand march. During the evening refreshments were served in the lower hall.

The officers of this society are: President, John Rostelli; Vice President, Casani Felice; Secretary, John Romani; Financial Secretary, Stephen Rizzi; Treasurer, John Francis.

How to Make Gravel and Tar Walks.

This must be done on a dry day. In a perfectly dry place mix two parts of lime rubbish and one of coal ashes, both sifted fine, leaving a hole in the middle of the heap. Into this pour boiling hot coal tar until the mixture is as stiff as mortar. Put three inches deep where the walk is to be and sprinkle with coarse sand. Of course the ground must be rolled smooth first. When the walk is cooled roll it lightly. In a few days the walk will be ready to use, solid and waterproof.

The New Year.

The New Year rises from night's silent tide, As Venus rose from out the foaming spray, And with his dimpled arms extended wide Smiles on the glories of Time's newborn day. With blushing pride upon his tinted cheek, And love light flashing from his sparkling eye, He feels a rapture which he dare not speak. Lest this bright vision fade from earth and sky. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Is It?

He had a Christmas frolic And a New Year's jamboree, And when he came unto himself A sadder man was he. And if he then made good resolves, And swore them all by thunder, You good men who have all been there, Just say if it's a wonder. —New York Herald.

THE LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Debate Scheduled Postponed—Impromptu Speeches—Future of Society.

The regular meeting of the Quincy Literary and Debating society was held last Saturday evening in Dobles hall. President Alex. M. Craig in the chair. The debate set down for the evening was on the question: "Has Money or Brains the Greater Influence," but on account of the meagre attendance occasioned by the convivialities of the Christmas season, it was deemed advisable to postpone this debate until the second meeting of the society in 1893.

The evening was devoted to impromptu speeches and among the subjects discussed were the following: "How to make happy homes," "Christmas," "Who is the greatest modern novelist?" etc. A very profitable and pleasant evening was spent in the discussion of these subjects, and at the close it was resolved to have no meeting next Saturday evening.

On the 7th of January, however, the society will meet for the election of officers and to lay out the programme for the coming session, which it is confidently expected will be a successful one. A large number of the old members have signified their intention of taking an active part in the work of the coming season, and as our membership includes two councilmen-elect, besides a host of councilmen and senators in embryo, the success of the Quincy Literary society may be looked upon as an assured fact.

SEWER ASSESSMENT.

How It is Proposed to Apportion Them in Marlboro.

Any information on sewer assessment will be of interest, for this city must soon grapple with the problem. Marlboro does not fall in line with the modern plan for cities to pay the whole expense.

The city solicitor, Hon. J. W. McDonald, has prepared a plan for the adjustment of this matter, which is soon to be submitted to the city council. It provides that the cost of constructing the sewerage disposal and filtration works and area, also of the main trunk sewer as far as the junction of the Framingham road with Maple street, land damages included, over and above $62,000, the sum received from the city of Boston, be borne by the city of Marlboro; that the expense of constructing what is known as the common sewers from the point above specified, including all sewers in the territory sewer, exclusive of the section first referred to, together with all land damages, be apportioned in three parts as follows:—One of such parts, or one-third of such cost, to be assumed by the city in addition to the portion provided for as already stated, the other two parts to be assumed by the owners of the estates benefited according to location, these parties to have the privilege of paying these assessments in partial yearly payments, the time not to exceed ten years in all.

THE WHITE WILL CASE COMPROMISED.

Legacies to Charitable Institutions Are Cut Down One Fourth.

Boston, Dec. 28.—A compromise has been effected between the legatees and contestant of the will of the late Edward A. White, who was at one time fire commissioner of Boston. By the terms of the settlement, Mrs. Anna S. Rowe, a daughter of the deceased, who was disinherited by the terms of the will, is to receive $100,000 out of the vast property left by her father. The compromise was confirmed yesterday afternoon by Justice Lathrop in the Suffolk supreme court.

The charitable institutions named in the will take three-fourths of the amount bequeathed them under the will. These societies and the amount they will receive are: Young Men's Christian Union, $500; Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, $375; Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, $375; Children's Mission to the Children of the Destitute, $375; Home for Aged Men, $750; Home for Aged Women, $750; Home for Aged Couples, $750; the wardens and vestry of Christ church on Salem street, Boston, $750.

As Clerk Remembered. Edward F. O'Brien, a clerk for many years of the deceased, is to receive $25,000, the amount of the legacy given him by the will. The widow of the deceased, who was his second wife, gets a life interest in the estate, $100,000 outright.

Mrs. Ed. Louise White, wife of a deceased brother of the late Edward A. White, after four children are to get $10,000. Servants of the deceased are to receive a full amount of the bequest given them by the will.

Rowe's Children are to stand directed by the will, residuary legatees and will receive $50,000 absolutely.

The total value of the estate of White was about $375,000. The will was drawn up on the ground insanity of the testator at the time he made it. Mrs. Rowe made the objection Acting Judge White, of Suffolk probate court, disallowed the will. An appeal was taken to the supreme court and it is pending when the settlement was made.

The counsel for Mrs. Rowe were ex-Governor Long, W. D. Turner, for Mrs. White, M. H. Verrand H. G. Nichols for the executors.

LITERARY ALLEGED.

Historical Works Used by a Favored Few for Quilting Manuscripts.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The Washington Post charges that there is a literary ring in the department which holds control of all valuable historical documents purchased by the United States at public expense, refuses access to them except to a smattering of New England historical writers. It mentions specific instances where prominent western writers have made requests to obtain copies of such documents, but has always been repulsed, though armed with orders from the leading state department officials. The Post names Henry Cabot Lodge and Henry Adams in connection with alleged Boston intrigues, and calls for an investigation by congress.

Wing Tribulations.

Boston, Dec. 28.—Lee, the Chinaman who has also spent eight or five days in jail because his alleged inability to pay a judge of $108, recovered from him by Osgood Wheeler, was in the poor debtor's yesterday, on his application to take poor debtor's oath. Judge Burke declined to let him be returned to jail until he paid the claim, and he was sent to the poor house, where he was sent seven days, when he can renew his claim.

Had to Leave Vessel.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Dec. 28.—Light-house steamer arrived here, with Captain Rawling and crew of the steamer Gold Hunter. Thessel went ashore on Boon island last week ago last night. The crew to the boats and after hard pulling got Boon island, where they remained until yesterday, the weather prevented any attempt to reach the mainland.

Sweetness Licked Umanes.

GALVESTON, Dec. 28.—Four mills, warehouses and 1800 by refined sugar on the Darlingtation, in Fort Bend county, were looting a loss of $50,000. The plantation suffered a similar disaster a loss of over $100,000.

MAINE MEN WRANGLING.

Over the Question of Location of County Buildings in Oxford County.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 28.—Oxford county is much agitated over the question of changing the location of the county buildings. Sixteen years ago the question was agitated, and eight years ago the subject was reconsidered. A few weeks ago the fever again broke out, and much ill feeling is cropping out. The present location is on Paris Hill, about three miles from the Grand Trunk station, at South Paris. South Paris, Norway, Bethel and Bryant's Pond all want it. The fiercest part of the fight is raging between South Paris and the present location.

The remonstrants claim that, with the money now in the treasury, the old buildings can be put in thorough repair. Those who want the buildings claim the public would not be safe where they are, and that prisoners escape too frequently from the jail.

The matter has developed into a personal fight between the people of three villages, and serious threats are frequently indulged in. Mr. C. Mills, a prominent Norway citizen, who has been successful in obtaining a protest in his town against the removal of the county buildings from the present location, has incurred the enmity of a great many fellow-townsmen.

THE WORCESTER TRAGEDY.

A Rare Possibility That Varnum's Mother-in-Law May Live.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 28.—The horrible Varnum tragedy of Christmas has checked and clouded the joy of the season for all of Worcester. Another day's investigation has only confirmed the first judgment of the police—that the deed was committed by Henry C. Varnum, the husband and father, and that he was insane at the time.

And the great wonder of all is that John Mrs. Varnum is still living and there is a possibility that she will recover.

The house, with its Christmas packages still unopened on the table, its open piano, its big doll sitting upright in the child's rocking chair, its pot of beans in the oven and bowl of parrot potatoes in the pantry, and the bucket of coal and kindling beside the stove, has been locked up and the keys are still carried by the cousin of the man, Mr. Whitcomb.

He visited it yesterday in company with J. H. Larkin of Everett and A. H. Badger of Sharon, Vt., nephews of Mr. Varnum. Mrs. George Lovell, a sister of Mrs. Varnum, arrived last night.

The bodies will be sent to Sharon tomorrow, and the funeral services and burial will take place there shortly after arrival.

CORNER STONE LAID.

First Step Toward the Episcopal Church of St. John the Divine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The corner stone of the Cathedral church of St. John the Divine was laid yesterday afternoon by Rt. Rev. Henry Potter of the Episcopal diocese of New York. Invitations had been sent to the President of the United States and his cabinet, the governor and his staff, Mayor Grant, and Mayor-elect Wilcox, bishops of the Episcopal church and other dignitaries.

More than a thousand guests were seated under the tent. In the corner was placed a large pewter box containing church books and publications and a brick from the first church built in America, the church erected by Columbus in 1493 on the Island of Hispaniola. The procession of bishops and other clergy in their robes, doctors in scarlet and blue hoods, choir boys in surplices and divinity students in cap and gown was striking.

A CURIOUS CASE.

Benjamin Earle is Awarded $583.33 for Attending a Funeral.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 28.—A verdict of $583.33 was returned by a jury in the superior civil court, before Judge P. Emory Aldrich, in the case of Benjamin A. Earle of Philadelphia vs. Charles A. Angell of Oxford, executor of the will of Mary Dewitt, late of Oxford. This was a peculiar case. The testatrix, when alive, promised the plaintiff $500 if he would attend her funeral when she died. The plaintiff agreed to the proposition and attended the funeral services of Mrs. Dewitt, but the will contained no bequest of the nature of the promise given Mr. Earle before the death of the testatrix, and therefore the executor refused to pay the amount. The jury was out but a few minutes.

Dreadful Nations Watching France. ROME, Dec. 28.—Germany, Italy and Austria regard the situation in France as menacing the peace of Europe. They have decided to hold themselves in readiness to act promptly, from a military point of view, in the event of a revolution in France. Their embassies in Paris have received special instructions on the subject.

Injuries May Prove Fatal.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 28.—Ex-Deputy Warden of the state prison, T. A. Pillsbury, received injuries at his home which it is feared may prove fatal. He was ascending a flight of stairs with a heavy burden when he missed his footing near the top and fell backward to the bottom, inflicting terrible wounds upon his head.

Lost Both Legs and Died.

MELROSE, Mass., Dec. 28.—Leonard Darling, 18 years of age, jumped from an express train at the Melrose station yesterday afternoon and was fatally injured. He fell underneath the cars and both legs were cut off. He was removed to the freight house and died fifteen minutes later.

Blaine is Still Better.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—"Mr. Blaine is improving," said Dr. Johnston after a visit to his patient. While Mr. Blaine really showed marked improvement at his residence with his condition very recently, he is still so sick that he can only sit erect when propped up with pillows.

Cornell's Second Trial.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 28.—The second trial of Rhodes Cornell for the murder of John Gaddis at Anthony on Oct. 31, 1891, was opened at East Greenwich yesterday. The day was principally occupied in securing a jury. The jury disagreed at the first trial last April.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 28.—A fierce fight between soldiers and bandits occurred near Tanguitodgo. Six bandits were killed and two others, who had been wounded, were captured.

OPPOSED TO MURPHY.

Not the Proper Man for Senator, Says Mr. Cleveland.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S INTERESTS

Demand That a Man of Wide Public Experience Be Selected.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Times prints a statement by ex-President Cleveland declaring his opposition to the election of Edward Murphy of Troy to the United States senate to succeed Mr. Hiseock. Mr. Cleveland said: "It ought not to be necessary for me to repeat for the public what I have so often expressed to many gentlemen in private conversation. Among these have been Mr. Murphy, himself, Mr. Croker and gentlemen who have been prominent in the party from every part of the state of New York."

EDWARD MURPHY, JR.

"It must not be forgotten, however, that the party has a very hard task to perform if we expect to keep the word we have passed to the people of the country. They have given us a phenomenal majority, one showing that they expect us to do much. In doing this a great deal depends upon the state of New York and its great metropolis. The interests of the state and of the party demand, it seems to me, the selection of a senator who can not only defend the principles of our party, but who can Originate and Promote Policies that may be presented for consideration in the senate. In order to insure this, the senator from New York should be a man not only experienced in public affairs, but who has a clear conception of the vital issues with which he must deal during the next few years."

"Speaking frankly, as I have already done to those entitled to know my views, it does not seem to me that the selection of Mr. Murphy shows a desire or intention of placing in the senate a man of such a type. This first use of our power would, I fear, cause much disappointment, not only in New York, but in the country. This the party ought not to be called upon to face, when it is considered how much there is to do, and what serious difficulties have to be surmounted before it can be done."

AN HABITUAL CRIMINAL.

Burglar Green Sentenced to Twenty-five Years in State Prison.

DEBHAM, Mass., Dec. 28.—In the Norfolk county superior criminal court George Green, the notorious colored house breaker and burglar, was found guilty of being an habitual criminal, and was sentenced to the state prison at Charlestown for twenty-five years. This term, added to those already received by Green for breaks in Cambridge, Bridgewater, Belmont and other places, will make his aggregate term of imprisonment over fifty years. When asked by Judge Richardson if he had anything to say in relation to his sentence, Green said he had nothing to say other than that he expected to live to be 500 years old.

Milwaukee Firemen Killed.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 28.—The tanneries of the William Backer company and of Conrad Bros. were badly damaged by fire yesterday. Julius Heebner, pipeman of engine 6, was killed. Thomas Sullivan, another fireman, is missing. It is thought his body will be found in the ruins. George Reckman of the fire patrol was suffocated in the Conrad building. The damage to property amounts to $425,000.

New Hampshire Masons Meet.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 28.—The semi-annual convocation of the Masonic grand lodge of New Hampshire opened in Masonic hall here with a large attendance. The first degree was exemplified by Fraternal lodge 17 of Farmington and the second degree by Washington lodge 61 of this city. Subsequently a banquet was served, and Lafayette lodge 41 of this city exemplified the third degree.

Fortunes in Danger.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says: Strenuous efforts are making to limit the parliamentary committee's inquiry to the connection of politicians with the Panama scandal. Many great contractors and engineers fear that probing too deeply will endanger their fortunes, which might be seized on behalf of the shareholders.

Lighting Companies Beaten.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 28.—The city government has passed the preliminary resolution in favor of municipal lighting, after a fierce fight and opposition from the local gas and electric lighting companies. The city also authorized the issue of $250,000 in bonds to build a new water main.

Big Victory for Rebels.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 28.—The rebels in the province of Corrientes have defeated the provincial troops in a number of skirmishes, and have seized the towns of Mercedes and Caseros and the railway lines of the district.

The Cholera in France.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Four fresh cases of cholera and two deaths are reported from Dunkirk.

Will it go right along for days at a time, and then fall behind several minutes in a day? Or does it go sometimes too fast and at other times slow?

Do you sometimes find it stopping?

Have you taken it again and again to your watchmaker and have it returned to you no better, or possible worse than before?

A great many who read this will quickly and emphatically answer in the affirmative. We know this from the way a great many talk when bringing their watches for repairs.

Now, there must be a cause for the trouble, but not everyone, even though he may have worked twenty years at the business, can find it out. It requires a man who not only has a knowledge of the business, but who has patience enough to use his reason and ferret out the cause of the trouble.

We take pride in this branch of our business, and do not trust it to a hired man, but sit at the bench and do the job.

When it is done we guarantee the watch to perform satisfactorily, or refund the money.

That is the way we do business. That is what has made our business a success. That is what has made us the leading jewelry house in Quincy. Try us and you will not be disappointed.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Edward Southworth gave an interesting Christmas talk at the meeting Sunday afternoon and Miss Grace M. Isaac sang an appropriate solo.

There was a good attendance at the rooms, Monday. The reading and recreation rooms being in constant use, and quite a number of the members worked up an appetite for dinner by exercising in the gymnasium, instead of taking the bare and hounds run, which had been proposed.

There will be an informal reception and entertainment at the rooms Saturday evening, open to all young men. It is proposed to hold them frequently during the winter. The Juniors will have a crokinole tournament on Friday afternoon, commencing at 2.30.

"Worth Looking Into" is the name of a little prospectus which has been issued by the association. It contains over thirty pages of printed matter, and gives a description of the association rooms, privileges of membership, dates of entertainments and receptions, list of officers and committees, time tables and a great variety of facts concerning the association. There are fifteen illustrations, among the number being a very good photograph of the gymnasium.

A member of the Association who went West sometime ago to make his home, carried a letter of introduction from the local association to the secretary of the association where he has located. He writes back to tell how cordially he is received and what a great help the association has been to him.

Mr. Richard Fox the physical director of the Lawrence gymnasium, will address the men's meeting Sunday afternoon, and his talk will be especially for those interested in physical work. Mr. Fox has for years been known as a prominent athlete in northern Massachusetts.

Commencing with January 1st, the evening classes for men will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings. And the boys on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. On Wednesday night the gallery will be reserved for ladies. The change has been made necessary on account of the Congress sessions coming Tuesday evenings.

A Beautiful Trophy.

The tug-of-war trophy of the Scottish clans of Massachusetts is a beauty. It consists of an exquisitely designed silver cup, standing about two feet high, and bearing many emblems of the order, together with an inscription setting forth that for two years in succession it has been captured by clan McGregor of Quincy. If won next year by this same clan, the trophy will become the clan's permanent property.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Opposed to Paying Salary to Water Commissioners.

SOME INCREASE OF SALARIES.

The City Treasurer, City Clerk And Firemen are the Favored Ones.

The City Council of 1892 did not complete its business Tuesday evening, but little remains, and it is contemplated after its transaction Saturday evening to have a ladies' night and closing exercises, for which a special committee has been appointed.

The absentees from the meeting were Councilman Cunningham, Duffield and Morton.

Military Aid.

The application of Joseph Whitcher for military aid was referred to the next City Council.

Board of Survey.

The Committee on Legislative Matter relative to a Board of Survey reported reference to next City Council. Accepted.

Finances and Salaries.

The Committee on Finance reported that the order transferring $350 from interest to police ought to pass. Passed unanimously on roll call.

Leave to withdraw was reported on the petitions of John Wilson and W. F. Loud to be reimbursed for material furnished for Willard schoolhouse. Accepted.

The Committee on Salaries reported inexpedient to increase salary of Assistant Assessors and Chief Engineer, that that of the City Treasurer be increased from $700 to $900, and that of the City Clerk from $1,100 to $1,200, and that the salary of water commissioners be established at $150 each.

Councilman Sherman opposed report. The only source of income to the city was by taxes. A salary of $250 was not enough for Assistant Assessors; should be $300 or more, that competent and willing men might be secured.

The report was accepted. Councilman Bryant moved to strike out Water Commissioners at a salary of $150 each. Something must be done for love. The duties were no more arduous than those of Park Commissioner or Councilman.

Mayor received but $1000, and but $900 was recommended for City Treasurer. He opposed salaries to boards. Citizens should be willing to give time to the city.

Councilman Moxon thought it unwise not to pay officials who had to give time in the day.

Councilman Bryant further supported his amendment. Believed competent water commissioners could be secured for nothing. Councilman Fallon favored a salary. Believed Councilmen also should be paid.

Councilman Sherman favored salary, at least to cover expenses. Should not try to get something for nothing. Was understanding that members appointed should be paid. Would get better Commissioners and Councilmen if there was a small salary to cover expenses. Water Commissioners had considerable day work and $150 was very small.

Councilman Federhen favored amendment. Did not consider the city indebted to him for services. All citizens owed more to city than they can render in services. School Committee received no pay. City was entitled to the services of any three gentlemen the executive may select. There were five hundred competent men in the city who would be compelled to be appointed Water Commissioners. A small salary was but an entering wedge for more.

Councilman Fallon thought a majority of the Councilmen had refused to come back another year because they received no salary. He was one of them. It meant new Councilmen and new Water Commissioners each year.

Councilman Federhen, Jr., was glad to learn the reason why the gentleman had not returned, because he had thought it was for another reason. No pledge could be made to the gentlemen appointed Water Commissioners that they should receive a salary. It was a place of honor and should be so considered.

Councilman Moxon said it was an appointive office, not elective, as the Council or School Committee. It was not an honorary office. The commissioners were entrusted with a property having a great earning power, and much depended on their management. He submitted that the least the city could do was to pay officials enough to cover expenses.

Councilman Holden favored amendment. To pay commissioners a salary has a bad precedent. Let it rest a year and find out what the duties really are.

Councilman Bryant considered it a bad precedent to pay salary to appointive officers. Knew Park Commissioners had this year given considerable time and study. It was the duty of citizens to save the city and he did not believe Councilmen should be paid.

Councilman Sherman did not believe that everyone who was competent to serve as Councilman or Water Commissioner was able to pay the expenses incurred.

Councilman Fallon did not think duties of Park Commissioners should be compared with those of Water Commissioners.

The amendment striking out the Water Commissioners and salary prevailed, and the amended order to increase the salary of the Treasurer and Clerk was passed to be ordained.

Engineers and Firemen.

The Committee on Fire Department recommended no increase for firemen and engineers.

Councilman Federhen, Jr., wished to be enlightened by chairman of committee.

Councilman Bass said the meeting of the committee was attended by only three members, that the Chief Engineer was unable to be present, and the committee had received very little information as to why increase should be made.

Councilman Federhen, Jr., moved to lay on the table that he might later introduce an order to amend the ordinance.

Councilman Litchfield said the duties of Hose 2 and 4 and Chemical 2 were very light, and were not entitled to as much pay as other companies. He had served as a fireman at Wollaston when it was the duty to run with the apparatus to all parts of the city and was satisfied to receive $10 a year. Now the territory was limited and the pay was $37.50 and a further increase was proposed.

Councilman Federhen, Jr., argued that there should be an equality in pay, and Councilman Powers also favored increase. Councilman Moxon was surprised to see gentleman who recently opposed salaries, now in favor of an increase.

Councilman Federhen thought there was quite a difference in the positions.

Councilman Sherman inquired if the gentleman supposed that the firemen worked simply for the salary.

Councilman Federhen said no, but the salary would not make good the clothes spoiled.

The report was laid on the table.

Circuit Repeater.

The Committee on Fire Department offered an order appropriating $500 for a six circuit repeater and necessary apparatus for the fire alarm, the money to be borrowed, payable in one year from date of issue, interest not to exceed 5 per cent. per annum. Referred to Committee on Finance.

Park Street.

Upon motion of Councilman Federhen, the order laying out Park street was taken from the table.

Councilman Powers was opposed to accepting any street unless it was in a fair condition, and did not think it fair to accept one in a worse condition than some already refused.

Councilman Sherman asked what this street needed to be put in repairs, to which Mr. Powers replied, establishing grade, etc. Councilman Litchfield said the street was one much used. The abutments have leveled it off except in one little place. There was a document on file signed by all the abutments releasing the city from all claims for damages, also for a drain to go through private property.

In response to a question by Councilman Bryant, Commissioner Ewell said $25 would bring the grade up to surveyed plan. Councilman Bryant. There is but little difference between the grade established by the abutments and that of the engineer, and if this goes through the abutments will no doubt fix it.

Councilman Federhen could see no objection to accepting the street now that a release had been signed.

In response to a question by Councilman Holden, Commissioner Ewell said it was hardly up to proper condition. In a few years several hundred dollars must be expended upon it.

Councilman Bryant would ask Councilman Powers how he would expend $300 or $400 on this street to which the gentleman replied by establishing a grade and drain.

Councilman Bryant thought there was no call for the city to establish a drain. Councilman Pratt did not think the Council were following out the course of the committee in accepting this street. He could not find a yard of gravel on the street; in one place the sidewalk was three feet above the street and but two feet wide; thought city would be liable for damages, and would eventually be called upon to expend a large sum of money.

Councilman Fallon thought this was a small matter, he had teamed stone over the street for the last three years. He did not know of any street that did not drain over private land.

Councilman Litchfield said the reason why the sidewalk was so high was because they did not know what grade the city would establish.

Councilman Moxon said abutments have practically complied with the demand of the Committee on Streets and did not see what more they could do.

Councilman Bryant asked Commissioners Ewell how much it would cost to establish the grade and sidewalk to which he replied $75.

Councilman Powers said the people expected a drain if the street was accepted. The street is not in the condition represented. He moved to lay on the table until next meeting.

This motion was carried by a vote of 10 to 6.

Closing Exercises.

Upon motion of Councilman Gray, a committee consisting of Councilmen Gray, Moxon and Hammond were appointed to arrange appropriate exercises for the closing session of the Council of 1892.

Pay of Firemen.

Councilman Federhen, Jr., offered an amendment to the ordinance establishing the fire department so that it should read $50 per year for Hose 2 and 4 and Chemical 2.

Councilman Litchfield said he should oppose the amendment as the men in the outlying districts did not do the work.

When asked by Councilman Federhen if he would have the salaries regulated by the number of fires in each ward, he replied yes.

The chairman put the amendment in the form of an order. It then took its first reading and was referred to Committee on Finance.

Councilman Pratt offered an amendment to Ordinance No. 1, so that the pay of three permanent men at the Central Station should be increased to $16 per week. This amendment took the same course as that offered by Councilman Federhen, Jr.

Next Meeting.

Upon motion of Councilman Gray it was voted when the Council adjourned it be until Saturday, Dec. 31, at 7.30 o'clock.

Sale Authorized.

The order authorizing the Mayor to sell the present central fire station and house upon the new lot, was passed to be engrossed.

Water Ordinance.

The ordinance establishing a Board of Water Commissioners and defining its duties was passed to be ordained.

MAN WITH A GUN.

The Norfolk Downs Hermit Declared Insane and Sent to Taunton.

Eugene Nye, who is about 38 years of age, has for the past 10 years lived the life of a hermit in a little hut on the shores of what is now known as Norfolk Downs. He does not like the idea of people building near him as this deprives him of the seclusion he desires. This being the case he declared war upon the new comers and threatened to shoot them all. December 16 he attempted to put his threat into execution as upon that day he appeared with a shot gun and opened fire upon some carpenters who were at work shingling the boat house. Fortunately the shot was small and although some of the men were hit no serious damage was done.

Nye is undoubtedly insane and this morning he was examined by physicians before Judge Humphrey, who ordered his commitment to Taunton, where he was taken this noon.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Communications concerning city and public affairs are invited, and will receive space although in views they may not coincide with those of the editors. They may be signed by initials or otherwise, but the editors must know the name of the writer.

An Open Letter.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

We often hear scornful reproaches hurled at the churches. One says, "There are too many churches," another cries out "churches are only beds of hypocrisy," a third one pipes out "We don't want you, there's no room for you here," and so from the time sin entered into man down to the present time, we incessantly hear reproaches and cavillings towards the churches; or more definitely, the Church of God.

Reproaches and cavils will do one's self no good; to investigate instead of cavil, would; hence before you make an assertion investigate and learn the truth of the matter.

To a great many the question has presented itself: "When did the Primitive Methodist church society come to West Quincy?" "What did it come for, and what is it doing?"

Rev. Charles J. Keevil, the pastor of the society, has heard many answers to the above questions, and for the enlightenment of all interested, will answer as truthfully as is possible, those questions.

1st. When did the Primitive Methodist church come to West Quincy?

Two years ago last spring, Rev. T. M. Bateman, of Lowell, Mass., missionary secretary of the Primitive Methodist Eastern Conference, came to this city with a view to establish a Primitive Methodist church, but, at that time, the people of Quincy were on the eve of a labor strike and the establishing of the church was deferred.

On the 24 day of last March, Rev. T. M. Bateman, together with the Rev. T. G. Spencer of Lowell, Mass., came to West Quincy and organized the present church society. On the first of April Miss De Merrit, the conference evangelist, was sent here and worked with the people for a number of weeks, the present pastor coming on August 12, 1892.

2d. What did it come for and what is it doing?

We came because the souls of perishing people are in need of being reached by the life line of the gospel, and thanks be unto God, we can say our work has not been in vain. Souls have been converted, (not by the hundred or fifties), and today we rejoice to know that a few souls are born into the kingdom of God. Our meetings are interesting and profitable to all who attend, and to you who have not visited us we extend a welcome. Come and see for yourselves before condemning our work.

There are other churches in Quincy, it is true, but is there not room for more of the Christian influence that emanates from the true church of God? Yes, there is always room for the Christian, God-fearing people; and I trust that before long we shall prove to all who know us that our undertaking has been a wise one and directed by the Holy Spirit.

Literary Notes.

Helen Campbell, the author of "Prisoners of Poverty," begins a serial story, "John Ballantyne, American," in the January New England Magazine.

The New Peterson for January is one of the handsomest and most attractive of the month's magazines. The cover is extremely artistic, the paper and typography are excellent, the illustrations admirable, and the literary contents are worthy the names of the contributors.

The Christmas number of Donahoe's Magazine comes to us under new management. It is replete with interest, and well abreast of the times. It is illustrated for the first time, and in tasteful and artistic appearance compares favorably with the leading secular magazines.

Albert Scott Cox, a Boston artist, has been going through the old cemeteries of the Hub with his sketch book, and has made a very readable paper, well illustrated, of his investigations. It is "Ye Ancient Burial Grounds of Boston," and is published in the January New England Magazine.

Buying a Coffin in Time.

It is a melancholy fact that some selfish, inconsiderate and brutal natures not only are in a hurry to get the old folks "out of the way" and divide the spoils, but take pains to conceal it. An illustration was noticed one day last week in Somerset county, where an old man's coffin was carried into his house while he stood outside smoking his pipe and dully looking on. And then a girl had the effrontery to "ask grandpa to get into it, just to see how he would look."—Pittsfield (Me.) Advertiser.

DEDHAM CASES.

Charles F. Spear Adjudged Insane—Sullivan Committed—Counsel Assigned.

In the Norfolk County Superior Criminal Court at Dedham, Tuesday afternoon, Charles F. Spear of Braintree, under arrest for setting fire to and burning the dwelling house of Susan A. M. Lake in Braintree on October 22, 1892, was adjudged a fit subject for an insane asylum, and Judge Richardson issued an order committing Spear to Taunton.

Thomas J. Sullivan of Braintree pleaded guilty to breaking and entering at Braintree. One of the two cases against him was placed on file and on the other he was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory Prison at Concord.

Mrs. Nellie M. Gloster of Weymouth, who is now in the Dedham jail charged with the murdering of her infant son on or about Sept. 5, 1892, and who has already pleaded not guilty to the charge of a murder, was brought in and had Hon. Edward Avery of Braintree and Albert P. Worthen of Weymouth assigned by the Court as her counsel.

TODAY'S COURT.

Edward Egan of Quincy, for disturbing the peace, paid a fine of $12.

Christmas at Memorial Church.

Sunday morning the services were largely choral following the program published in the LEDGER. The solos of Mrs. Cummings and Mr. Owen were especially fine. "That your joy may be full," was the topic of the pastor's short sermon.

Sunday evening the Sunday School gave a Christmas concert under the management of Miss Bessie Drew. Naturally song had a prominent place but special mention should be made of the readings of Miss Annie Hall and Miss Beatrice Briggs.

Monday afternoon, at four, the children of the school gathered for a lark. Games and marching with ice cream and cake occupied two hours, when the doors were thrown open to the public, and the house was soon crowded. The Cantata "Turning the Tables on Santa Claus" was presented in a most happy manner. Mr. Charles Safford made an ideal Santa Claus, while Frank Coe as Jack Frost and Mabel Read as Christmas Joy were excellent. So indeed were all the parts. Then came the usual distribution of the gifts from the tree.

The decorations were very fine and all the arrangements for the festival were well made and carried out, thanks to the hard work of Messrs. Fred S. Moxon and Percival Hall who had the matter in charge. If Mr. Henry H. Faxon could only have been present, he would have been made happy to see how happy his donation made the many little people.

Christmas Prizes.

The Christmas prizes to LEDGER newsboys were won as follows:

First prize, William Giles.

Second prize, Robert McAuliffe.

Third prize, Edward Heffernan.

Fourth prize, Eugene McAuliffe.

Fifth prize, William Burns.

Sixth prize, George Tower.

Seventh prize, Thomas Rogers.

Eighth prize, Joseph Doherty.

Extra prizes will also be given to Stephen Harris, Bertie Brown and James Roach.

This morning the Railroad Commissioners gave a hearing on the petition of the Quincy & Boston Street railway for a location across the Dorchester and Milton branch of the Old Colony at Neponset.

Quarry for Sale.

Judge Hammond of the Superior court has issued an order of notice to those interested to show cause on Jan. 10 why the property of the Cape Ann Granite Works should not be sold at auction.

The price paid for Ormonde in San Francisco the other day has never been equalled but once in a horse sale, and that was when Malcolm Forbes of Boston paid Senator Stanford $150,000 for Arion. Astell brought $105,000 as a 3-year-old, and two years ago St. Blaise sold for $100,000.

IN LETTERS OF GOLD.

Full fifty years, sweet love, together We wandered on 'gainst wind and weather; Beneath love's fond, impulsive sway, It seemed but like a single day.

Not quite a week the grasses wave, Dear heart, upon thy hillside grave— And yet a thousand years to be It seems since thou art gone from me.

New Orleans Times-Democrat.

OLD AESON.

Judge between me and my guest, the stranger within my gates, the man whom in his extremity I clothed and fed.

I remember well the time of his coming, for it happened at the end of five days and nights during which the year passed from strength to age; in the interval between the swallow's departure and the redwing's coming; when the tortoise in my garden crept into his winter quarters and the equinox was on us, with an east wind that parched the blood in the trees, so that their leaves for once knew no gradations of red and yellow, but turned at a stroke to brown and crackled like tin foil.

At 5 o'clock in the morning of the sixth day I looked out. The wind still whistled across the sky, but now without the obstruction of any cloud. Full in front of my window Sirius flashed with a whiteness that pierced the eye.

A little to the right the whole constellation of Orion was suspended clear over a wedge-like gap in the coast, wherein the sea could be guessed rather than seen, and traveling yet farther the eye fell on two brilliant lights, the one set high above the other; the one steady and a fiery red, the other yellow and blazing intermittently; the one Aldebaran, the other revolving on the lighthouse top, fifteen miles away.

Half way up the east, the moon, now in her last quarter and decrepit, climbed with the dawn close at her heels. At this hour they brought in the stranger, asking if my pleasure were to give him clothing and hospitality.

Nobody knew whence he came, except that it was from the wind and the night, seeing that he spoke in a strange tongue, moaning and making a sound like the twittering of birds in a chimney. But his journey must have been long and painful, for his legs bent under him, and he could not stand when they lifted him.

So, finding it useless to question him for the time, I learned from the servants all they had to tell—namely, that they had come upon him but a few minutes before, lying on his face within my grounds without staff or scrip, bareheaded, spent and crying feebly for succor in his foreign tongue, and in pity they had carried him in and brought him to me.

Now for the look of this man. He seemed a century old, being bald, extremely wrinkled, with wide hollows where the teeth should be, and the flesh hanging loose and flaccid on his cheeks; and what color he had could have come only from exposure to that bitter night. But his eyes chiefly spoke of his extreme age. They were blue and deep and filled with the wisdom of years, and when he turned them in my direction they appeared to look through me, beyond me and back upon centuries of sorrow and the slow endurance of man, as if his immediate misfortunes were but an inconsiderable item in a long list.

They frightened me. Perhaps they conveyed a warning of that which I was to endure at their owner's hands. From compassion I ordered the servants to take him to my wife, with word that I wished her to set food before him and see that it passed his lips.

So much I did for this stranger. Now learn how he rewarded me.

He has taken my youth from me, and the most of my substance, and the love of my wife.

From the hour when he tasted food in my house he sat there without hint of going. Whether from design, or because age and his sufferings had really palsied him, he came back tediously to life and warmth, nor for many days professed himself able to stand erect. Meanwhile he lived on the best of our hospitality. My wife tended him, and my servants ran at his bidding, for managed early to make them understand scraps of his language, though slow in acquiring hours—I believe out of calculation, lest some one should inquire his business (which was a mystery) or hint at his departure.

I myself often visited the room he had appropriated, and would sit for an hour watching these fathomless eyes while I tried to make head or tail of his discourse. When we were alone my wife and I used to speculate at times on his probable profession. Was he a merchant, an aged mariner, tinker, tailor, beggarman, thief? We could never decide, and he never disclosed.

Then the awakening came. I sat one day in the chair beside him, wondering as usual. I had felt heavy of late with a soreness and languor in my bones, as if a dead weight hung continually on my shoulders and another rested on my heart.

A warmer color in the stranger's cheek caught my attention, and I bent forward, peering under the pendulous lids. His eyes were livelier and less profound. The melancholy was passing from them as breath fades off a pane of glass. He was growing younger. Starting up I ran across the room to the mirror.

There were two white hairs in my forehead, and at the corner of either eye half a dozen radiating lines. I was an old man.

Turning, I regarded the stranger. He sat as phlegmatic as an Indian idol, and in my fancy I felt the young blood draining from my own heart and saw it mantling in his cheeks. Minute by minute I watched the slow miracle—the old man beautified. As buds unfold he put on a lovely youthfulness, and drop by drop left old winter.

Hurried from the room, and seeking my wife laid the case before her. "This is a ghoul," I said, "that we harbor; he is sucking my best blood, and the household is clean bewitched." She laid aside the book in which she read and laughed at me. Now my wife was well looking, and her eyes were the light of my soul. Consider, then, how I felt as she laughed, taking the stranger's part against me. When I left her it was with a new suspicion in my heart. "How shall it be," I thought, "if after stealing my youth he go on to take the one thing that is better?"

In my room, day by day, I brooded upon this—hating my own alteration and fearing worse. With the stranger there was no longer any disguise. His head blossomed in curls; white teeth filled the hollows of his mouth; the pits in his cheeks were heaped full with roses, glowing under a transparent skin. It was AESON renewed and thankless, and he sat on, devouring my substance.

Now having probed my weakness, and being satisfied that I no longer dared to turn him out, he, who had half imposed his native tongue upon us, constraining the household to a hideous jargon, the bastard growth of two languages, condescended to jerk us back rudely into our own speech once more, mastering it with a readiness that proved his former dissimulation and using it henceforward as the sole vehicle of his wishes. On his past life he remained silent, but took occasion to confide in me that he proposed embracing a military career as soon as he should tire of the shelter of my roof.

And I groaned in my chamber, for that which I feared had come to pass. He was making open love to my wife. And the eyes with which he looked at her and the lips with which he coaxed her had been mine, and I was an old man. Judge now between me and this guest.

One morning I went to my wife, for the burden was past bearing, and I must satisfy myself. I found her tending the plants on her window ledge, and when she turned I saw that years had not taken from her comeliness one jot. And I was old.

So I taxed her on the matter of this stranger, saying this and that, and how I had cause to believe he loved her. "That is beyond doubt," she answered and smiled.

"By my head, I believe his fancy is returned!" I blurted out.

And her smile grew radiant as, looking me in the face, she answered, "By my soul, husband, it is."

Then I went from her down into my garden, where the day grew hot and the flowers were beginning to droop. I stared upon them and could find no solution to the problem that worked in my heart. And then I glanced up, eastward, to the sun above the privet hedge and saw him coming across the flower beds, treading them down in wantonness. He came with a light step and a smile, and I waited for him, leaning heavily on my stick.

"Give me your watch!" he called out as he drew near.

"Why should I give you my watch?" I asked, while something worked in my throat.

"Because I wish it; because it is gold; because you are too old and won't want it much longer."

"Take it," I cried, pulling the watch out and thrusting it into his hand.

"Take it—you who have taken all that is better! Strip me, spoil me!"

A soft laugh sounded above, and I turned. My wife was looking down on us from the window, and her eyes were both moist and glad.

"Pardon me," she said; "it is you who are spoiling the child."—Arthur T. Quiller-Couch in Noughts and Crosses.

Some Famous Dunces.

Literary history is crowded with instances of torpid and uninteresting boyhood. Gibbon was pronounced "dreadfully dull," and the utmost that was predicted of Hume in his youth was that "he might possibly become a steady merchant."

Adam Clarke, afterward so deeply skilled in oriental languages and antiquities, was pronounced by his father to be "a grievous dunce," and of Bolleau, who became a model for Pope, it was said that he was a youth of little understanding. Dryden was "a great numskull," who went through a course of education at Westminster, but the "stimulating properties of Dr. Busby's classical ferrule were thrown away upon the drone who was to be known as 'Glorious John.'"—London Standard.

One of Grant's Pictures.

The original picture of "Sheridan's Ride," painted by T. Buchanan Read, now hangs in the private office of President Thomas L. James, of the Lincoln bank. It is about five by four feet in dimensions, and is especially notable for spirited figure of the horse upon which Sheridan is mounted. The picture is the property of Mrs. U. S. Grant, and was sent to the Lincoln storage warehouse pending some alterations in the Grant residence. It was purchased from the artist by a few western men and presented to General Grant soon after the close of the war.—New York Times.

Tracheotomy Advocated.

Some of the most experienced practitioners express the opinion that the expected fact that intubation would, on account of its simplicity, take the place of the knife and add materially to the resources of the profession, has not been fulfilled. It is urged by those who take this ground that the operation necessitates a degree of manual dexterity which the average physician, with his few opportunities, is not able to acquire, and the objection made is that the patient is subjected to a certain amount of exhaustion which can be ill borne in one suffering from diphtheria.—New York Tribune.

The Influence of Politicians.

When one, not being a professional politician, looks at the question widely and considers the penalties of political greatness, one begins to wonder whether politics have that influence on the real life of a nation which they are supposed to have, and whether eminent politicians are not merely the puppets of the hour.

But that is a question on which the facts forbid that we should enter! Probably in no case are the penalties of greatness so irksome as in the case of the eminent politician.—All the Year Round.

IN OTHER CLIMES.

How New Year's Is Observed in Many Lands—The Ancient Reckoning.

In Mexico the day which is really our 23d of February is often kept with many characteristics of an old fashioned English May day. Young women, handsomely dressed, dance around a pole to which are affixed a number of colored ribbons, and very much as the "merry Mayers" of old did, interweave these ribbons into many-hued patterns, producing charming effects. This is symbolic, when the dancers are all brought to the center by their shortening ribbons, of the winding up of the seasons, and when their dancing draws them from near the pole, with their lengthening ribbons, the aspect of the whole is said to represent the expanding of the seasons. All this is accomplished to the air of a song generally composed for the occasion, and the whole exercise is poetic and graceful.

The Russians at their New Year's hold a feast denominated the "Feast of the Dead," or in the Russian language,
 "Raditzil Sabol." On this day people visit the graves of their departed friends and place food upon them. The priests also attend and celebrate mass, taking the food left upon the graves.

The Persian New Year corresponds to our June, the Abyssinians to our 26th of August, the Greeks make it Sept. 1, the Chinese date it our first moon in March, the Turks and Arabs from the 16th of July, and our own red men reckon from the new moon of the vernal equinox.

In England the "historic year" has always commenced on the first day of January, because William the Conqueror was crowned on that day. Historians have always commenced the year with the 1st of January, though in all civil affairs the ancient manner of reckoning from the 25th of March was retained until the year 1752, when by a statute passed under George II it was enacted "that from and after the last day of December, 1751, the new year should commence on the first day of January."

The celebration of the day is in some respects similar in England to its observance in Scotland. It is customary to hold festive gatherings on the last day of the year for the purpose of "seeing the new year in." Balls, parties and family gatherings are the usual forms of grouping persons in the same social scale, while dinner parties among persons with old fashioned ideas are not unusual. The amusements of the assembled guests continue in the usual manner until the approach of the midnight hour, a few minutes before which all festivity is suspended, and an awful attention begotten by listening for the first iron clanging of the clocks.

The moment the first stroke falls upon the ears of the assemblage a clapping of hands takes place, all glasses are raised, and mutual good wishes and toasts are rapidly passed, succeeded very often by a willing but not always musically skilled singing by all present of "Auld Lang Syne."—Exchange.

The French Exchange Gifts.

The fashion of exchanging New Year's gifts, now declining in England, is kept up in Paris. Parents bestow portions on their children, brothers on their sisters, and husbands settle sums of money on their wives. During the day the streets are crowded with carriages filled with sonnets, bouquets and toys to delight the little ones. Sweet meats are made in the most singular forms one can imagine; bunches of carrots, green peas, boots and shoes, hats, books and musical instruments, all made of sugar and colored to imitate reality, and hollow to hold bouquets. In the morning social visits are exchanged, and no one able to give is exempt from leaving a present at every house he visits.
 This favor is not expected from ladies.—

A Wide Extension.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The postmaster general has concluded conventions to establish an exchange of postal money or letters between the United States and the colonies of Bermuda and South Australia. Both conventions will go into effect Jan. 1, 1893.

PLACING THE BLAME.

Police Not Making Much Headway in the Dublin Explosion Investigation.

DUBLIN, Dec. 28.—James Stephens, the former head center of the Fenian Brotherhood, who has shown a decided leaning toward the Parnellites since being permitted to take up his abode again in Ireland, was interviewed in regard to the explosion which killed Detective Synnot.
 He warmly denounced the authors of the explosion as enemies of Ireland. He said that the suggestion that Fenians were concerned in the outrage was an insult offered by the supporters of the so-called home rule movement. The Fenians, Mr.
 Stephens said, were incapable of such cowardly work.

The government is apparently acting upon the theory that the explosion was the result of a conspiracy, and the police are making active inquiries as to the recent course of the physical force faction, to whose operations but little attention has hitherto been paid. The authorities are throwing suspicion on Parnellites, and the latter assert that no more reason exists for suspecting them than for charging the crime to their antagonists.
 A man named Keavans has been arrested at Nenagh on the charge of being connected with the Dublin explosion.
 Keavans is a stranger to the townspeople, and is unable to give a satisfactory account of his recent movements.

MCALLIFFE DISAPPOINTED.

Coney Island Club Withdraws Its Purse of $45,000 for a Fight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Match-maker
 Judge Newton of the Coney Island Athletic club, which offered a purse of $45, 000 for a fight between McAlliffie and Burge, for the lightweight championship of the world, has announced to the representatives of the principals that the club would withdraw the purse and declare the match off.

The only explanation of Newton's action is that his patience and that of the other officials of the club had become exhausted, and they determined that if the men did not agree yesterday to throw up the affair in utter disgust.

McAlliffie says: "To show that I mean business I will fight Burge for anything, and he does not need to post a cent. I will meet him with two-ounce gloves and at any weight he wishes to fight at. I stuck to that $10,000 clause owing to information I got that Burge was middleweight. I was apparently very much surprised when the purse was withdrawn. Phil Dwyer says that he will back McAlliffie to fight Burge for $25,000
 a side.

WHERE IS JOHN THORNTON?

He Failed to Meet His Promised Bride and Foul Play Is Suspected.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 28.—John Thornton of Cossack, N. Y., was to have been married on Christmas day to Miss Sadie Hanley of this city. The young man left his home on Wednesday last, intending to spend a day or two in New York city and then come to this city.
 Thornton did not put in an appearance at the time appointed for the ceremony, and as a result his friends are much worried as to where he is. They, with some exception, believe that he has in some way been foully dealt with and will hear of no other explanation of his non-appearance. It is known that Thornton had a large sum of money with him when he left Cossack. The New York police have been asked to look him up.

Jury Disagreed.

DEERFIELD, Mass., Dec. 28.—In the Norfolk superior criminal court, the jury in the case of Mrs. Anna Makepeace, charged with manslaughter in the killing of her husband, Clarence, at Avon, Sept. 25, 1891, formally reported that they were unable to agree, and were dismissed from further consideration of the case. On their last ballot the jury stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal.

Malden Man Missing.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 28.—Nothing has been heard from Frank L. Edwards, who disappeared from his home in this city Saturday. Edwards went to Boston for the purpose of purchasing presents.
 Friends saw him there about 8:30. It is thought that he must have taken the 8:40 train on the Eastern road for Malden, and either gone beyond the city, or had been waylaid in Boston.

Hamburg's Cholera Bulletin.

HAMBURG, Dec. 28.—Four more cases of cholera and two more deaths were reported yesterday. Besides these, seven persons suspected of having the disease were sent to the detention hospitals. The mail steamer Hungaria, from the Black sea, is detained at Laxhaven on account of a suspicious sickness among the crew.

 dlesex street, left their home last night, leaving their 1-year old child in care of a Mrs. Linton. A kerosene lamp was overturned and before the blaze was extinguished the child was fatally burned.

Charged with Manslaughter.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 28.—William Leary, aged 21 years, was arraigned in the Third district court on a charge of manslaughter, for causing the death of a boy named Fildes, who was shot during a drunken run. Leary was held in $15,000 for the grand jury.

Young Dillingham Returns.

HAVEHILL, Mass., Dec. 28.—Charles A.
 Dillingham, son of C. E. Dillingham of this city, who has been missing for more than a year, has returned to his home here. He was found at a farm near Dover, N. H., where he seemed to be enjoying himself.

PASSENGERS STRICKEN WITH TERROR

Timely Appearance of the Ohio Pre-

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 28.—The steamship Noordland was towed into Queenstown harbor by the steamship Ohio at 7 o'clock last evening. All the passengers were on deck, waving hats and handkerchiefs and cheering. The passengers were removed to shore by a tender. All showed signs of the anxiety they had suffered. Some of the elderly steerage passengers were hardly able to walk. Several women fell on their knees and cried the moment they were landed. Frank Kutz, a first cabin passenger, says:

"On the night of the accident the ship was rolling heavily and most of the cabin passengers were below, sick. Five or six of us were in the smoking room. Suddenly there was a terrific crash and we were thrown from the seats into a heap on the floor. The vibration of the ship's most shook us from our feet as we started for the door. The captain soon informed the terrified passengers that the Main Shaft Was Broken

 but he and the officers tried to convince all that there was no danger. In a few minutes we learned that the engineers, at great risk to their lives, had found that the two stay plates and the plunger blocks had smashed the gland of the engine. The bulkhead, however, had been kept tight.

"The passengers were just becoming calmer when we saw the crew rushing through the stateroom carrying bedding, mats and carpets to be stuffed into the tunnel box. All knew then that water was coming in. Nobody slept that night.
 The women sat crying in the cabins and all were badly frightened. The vessel rolled terribly, and with every roll came a tremendous thump as if a piece of the shaft was loose and smashing things in the hold. The sails had been spread, but they did not stand up, noticeably.
 On that night the chances of life did not seem more than two in five. The crew worked heroically at the pumps for twenty-four hours after the accident, and the engineers were busy at the engine fixing plugs and trying to prevent further influx of water. Eventually word was sent out that the flow of water had been checked. Friday was uneventful.

"At 2 o'clock on Saturday morning the lookout yelled: 'Light ahead!' Everybody turned out. 'She's a steamer!' was the next call.

We All Shook Hands and Cheered and many ran about shouting for joy.
 We all remained on deck the rest of the night, watching the Ohio's lights. At daylight she stood by and the two boats sailed. At that time, as I learned subsequently, our after peak was full of water, and despite their expressions of confidence,
 the officers of the ship were intensely anxious.

"The Ohio began towing us very slowly.
 The strain caused by the heavy seas was too great, however, and after five minutes could be passed, nine hours elapsed. The second hawser broke, as did also the third.
 On Sunday other hawsers were fixed, and as the weather had improved in the meantime, they held until we reached harbor."

The Ohio proceeded to Liverpool last evening. Most of the steerage passengers who went ashore were taken back later and will live aboard the Noordland until orders are received from London as regards their transport to Antwerp. Probably the Noordland will be repaired temporarily here and then will proceed to Antwerp, where she will be completely overhauled.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

A Winter Series Arranged by the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture.

BROOKS, Dec. 28.—A series of farmers' institutes has been arranged by the state board of agriculture this winter, to be held before each of the thirty-five agricultural societies in this commonwealth.
 These institutes will begin soon after the new year, but the date has not been determined upon. Among the well-known speakers who are to address the meetings are John E. Russell of Leicester, who will read papers on "The Horse" at North Adams, before the Hoosac Valley society, the Eastern Hampden at Palmer and the Spencer Farmers and Mechanics' Institute at Spencer. Dr. G. W. Twitchell of Maine has been engaged for five institutes to speak on "Poultry." He has arranged to lecture before the Attleboro Agricultural association at Attleboro, the Marshfield society at Marshfield, the Bristol County society at either New Bedford or Taunton, and the Essex society at Salem. The other society is to be named.

Hon. A. C. Ryder of Trenton has arranged to give his lecture on "Cranberry Culture" before the Plymouth County society at Bridgewater, the Barnstable County society at Barnstable, and either the Weymouth or Hingham societies, probably the latter. Major Alvord of Washington will speak on "The Dairy" before the Highland society of Berkshire or Hinsdale; the Deerfield Valley at Sherburne Falls; the Hillside society at Ashfield; Worcester South society at Barre, and Worcester South society at Ware.

Arrangements are being made with Dr.
 E. H. Johnson of Connecticut to give the principal station to lecture on "Tobacco Culture;" W. W. Rawson of Arlington to speak on "Market Gardening," and J. H.
 Hale of South Glastonbury, Conn., on "Fruit Growing."

PLOTS AGAINST THE CZAR.

Russians of High and Low Degree Are Said to Be Implicated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 28.—Numerous arrests continue to be made at Kieff of persons suspected of nihilism. Nine more officers are among those imprisoned either under suspicion or direct charges of connection with a conspiracy against the czar.

The Russian authorities believe that they have unearthed a widespread plot, in which not only lower officials, but also those of higher rank are involved, and several officers are having positions of trust and confidence near the person of the czar have been put under surveillance, being given leave of absence from duty until the suspicion resting upon them are verified or disproven.

The extent of the plot is not yet known,
 and there seems no doubt, this time, of its genuine character, although it is not certain that the motives of the plotters are nihilistic.

A WORLD'S TRAVELER.

Career of George Richardson Reads Like a Romance.

ADVENTURES AT SEA AND ASHORE

Crowd Closely Upon One Another in a Few Years' Time.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Confined in the jail on Charles street is a man whose history reads like a romance. Although but 29 years of age he has seen nearly the whole world and been through exciting and trying adventures. His right name is George W. Richardson, but he is now under arrest on the charge of larceny under the name of Harry Kelly. He is about 5ft. 9in. tall, has a smooth face and is not a bad looking young man. He is a good talker, and yesterday told the history of his wonderful career as if it was nothing more than an ordinary occurrence. On his hands and arms may be seen many tattoo marks as a result of his long sea journeys.

Richardson was born in San Francisco, but he has made his home, when not on some romance or sojourning, at the North End. When about 12 years of age he shipped on a merchant vessel bound for Hong Kong, leaving San Francisco. Arriving at this port he left the ship and stayed around among the Chinamen for about three months or so, when he shipped aboard the Alcia and went to Bombay. From there he went on the same vessel to Sydney, Australia. All this time he was engaged at "fringing." From Sydney the vessel came to New York and afterward went to London.

At this port the crew was paid off, and Richardson spent some time at this port having a good time, spending the money. When this was all gone

He became a Stowaway on a vessel of the National line going to Egypt. At this time he was about 15 years of age. After a short stay at Egypt he returned to the Royal Albert docks in London. He then left the vessel and stowed himself away on a vessel to New York. After a few days' stay in New York without a cent in his pocket, one night he stowed himself aboard the Pilgrim of the Fall River line and reached that city in safety.

He then got on to an express train bound for Boston. After his arrival in Boston he shipped in the United States navy. He was put aboard the Hartford at the Charlestown Navy yard, and from there was sent to the Pacific station, traveling between Madeira and Montevideo. He also crossed the Magellan straits up to Valparaiso.

Two years of his life was spent in this manner, plying along the whole coast up to Callao. One day for disobeying rules he was Placed on a Lonely Island known as Sandy Point. From there he beat his way up to Frisco by means of stowing away on a mail boat. He stayed at his native hearth for some time and then shipped on the William Tapscot. The ship came to Boston, and from there went to New York. She went to St. Johns, and getting a load of lumber, went to Cardiff, Wales.

At this place he left the ship and enlisted in the English Army. He was sent to Dublin with the command, and also to the royal barracks, the barracks at Tipperary, and also to Cork city. Here he was court martialled on account of his bad character. He was imprisoned for fifty-six days, and was then put aboard a transport and sent to Cairo. From Cairo he went to India, and afterward came back to Cork city. At this point he Deserted the English Army. Reaching London he again stowed himself away on a vessel bound for New York. Reaching that port, he beat his way again to Boston. Here he once more became a recruit in the United States army, joining the cavalry. He was taken to New York, where he was sent to the Jefferson barracks, St. Louis. A short time was long enough for him at this place, and as a cavalryman, and as a result he again became a deserter.

He again came to Boston and then joined the United States navy again. He was put aboard the Wash at the Charlestown navy yard, and later transferred to the training ship Jamestown, lying at Newport, R. I. He at this time deserted the navy and enlisted in the marine corps. He was put aboard the United States vessel Iroquois at the yard at Norfolk, Va. Here he had trouble with a sergeant on the ship, and one night while he was on guard he deserted the vessel, which was then lying close to the docks.

He again beat his way to Boston and joined the United States infantry. He was sent to the state at David's island in New York harbor, and was here arrested.

For Deserting the Marine Corps. He was taken to Brooklyn and tried for desertion and was found guilty and sentenced to the marine prison at the Charlestown navy yard.

After his discharge from the yard he again went to New York and shipped on one of the National line boats and went to London. From that city he went to Japan and also to Yokohama. He left the boat and getting on to a " tramp " steamer he went to Honolulu. He then got onto a steamer, crossed the Isthmus of Panama and went to Aspinwall. From there he again worked his passage back to New York.

He once more came to Boston, and then turned his attention to another trade, this time

Becoming a Burglar. He was arrested and was given two years' imprisonment in the house of correction. For eleven months of that time he was in the hospital at the institution suffering from hemorrhages. He was discharged from the house of correction last August. He then went to New York, and there got employment in a sailors' boarding house.

A few days ago, however, he returned to Boston, and was arrested while pawning some shoes. He was complained of for larceny, and his case was continued till yesterday. He claims that he is innocent of the last crime, but Judge Hardy sent him to the house of correction for four months. He appealed the case, but claims that next week he will come out.

and withdraw his appeal, and take his sentence. All of the man's parents are dead.

MARRIED IN HASTE.

A Woman Who Answered a Matrimonial "Ad" Soon Repents.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Winfield S. Jefferson owns a ranch in Douglas county, Ore. Two years ago he advertised in a Chicago paper for a wife. The advertisement was answered by Mattie Alexander of Kinderhook, N. Y., the widow of a wealthy Joliet manufacturer. The pair corresponded and met in this city on Christmas day to get married and go to Oregon to live.

They were married Tuesday last by a minister, and took rooms in the Atlantic hotel that night. At midnight Mrs. Jefferson, thinly clad, sought refuge in a nearby police station. What follows is her own story:

"I became confident that Mr. Jefferson had married me simply on account of my money, and that I had been duped by him. He had already borrowed $880 from me. I confided my fears to the night clerk and asked him to assist me in getting away from my husband.

"The clerk gave me a room in a remote part of the house from that occupied by my husband, saying he would assist me to leave the house in the morning. Later the clerk entered the room and attempted to assault me. As the door was locked my only means of escape was by jumping from the window. This I did, and I preferred spending the rest of the night at the station house."

When the men at the police station searched Mrs. Jefferson she found on her $500 in cash and $700 in certified checks.

Mrs. Jefferson is about 32 years of age, good looking and weighs 140 pounds, and does not in any way appear demented, although the ranchman says he believes her to be temporarily insane.

The police are after the night clerk of the hotel.

WHO IS JAY BROCKTON?

Details of the Duel in Which Count Peter Romanoff Was Killed.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The American who engaged in a duel at Monte Carlo with Count Peter Romanoff was named Jay Brockton, and he was not from Brooklyn, as before stated, the suggestion that he was from Brooklyn having undoubtedly been caused by a mistake as to his name.

The quarrel, out of which the duel grew, appears to have been due to a misunderstanding on the part of the count. Brockton had been winning heavily at the gambling tables and had tossed a "four-boire" to the croupier, which the count supposed was intended for him. The count accused Brockton of insulting him by throwing him the coin.

Brockton denied the charge, and tried to explain that the coin was for the croupier. The count repeated that Brockton had insulted him, Brockton gave him the lie direct, and a challenged followed.

The names of the seconds are not known. Brockton left Nice. He had been there six weeks and had played at the tables almost daily. He was quite popular.

A DAY OF TRAGEDIES

Which the People of a Maine Town Will Not Very Soon Forget.

RUMFORD FALLS, Me., Dec. 28.—Tuesday day was a day of disaster and death in this town. Frank Richards was terribly mangled while sleighing rock in which there was a dynamite cartridge, which exploded. One arm was torn in two and the other arm and one leg was broken.

William Falvey and Louis Berry of Quebec drank some wood alcohol in the morning, and died in the afternoon. The man who sold them the alcohol has fled.

In the afternoon Thomas Burgess, an old and respected farmer of Peru, went into the woods to get wood. Not long afterward he was found dead, his body pressed against a standing tree, which had evidently just chopped from the stump.

During the day an American laborer was assaulted by a crowd of Italians. In defending himself with an axe he inflicted a terrible cut on the cheek of one of the Italians.

ALMOST A LYNCHING BEE.

Yankee Sailors Prevent a Frenchman from Dangling from a Rope.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—A story is reported of an attempted lynching in North square early yesterday morning. A Frenchman named Brodant Mitchell and a Swede named Harry Gilchrist were rooming together in the Mariners' Home. The Swede awoke and saw the Frenchman going through his pockets, and he had also a big knife in his hands. When Gilchrist jumped up there was a tussle and the little Frenchman got badly worsted.

The trouble aroused the house and eighteen sailors came piling into the room. All the foreigners were for lynching the culprit at once and were going to do it. Thomas Perkins and three sailors from Connecticut said they would all be hanged if they did. Perkins pulled out a six-shooter and held the gang at bay until the police appeared. Mitchell was held in court.

Professor Whitcher Resigns.

DURHAM, N. H., Dec. 29.—The trustees of the New Hampshire Agricultural college met here yesterday. Professor G. H. Whitcher, who was chosen alumni trustee by a vote of 64 out of 92, tendered his resignation of the office on account of a decision of the board of trustees that a member of the faculty was not eligible to

The Zeta Psi.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—For the first time in ten years the Zeta Psi Fraternity of North America is holding their annual convention in Boston. It is the forty-seventh.

It opened at Parker's with Hon. W. P. Pepper in their chair. Rev. James Reed, Harvard, '35, made the opening prayer. Last night the 130 were at the Globe Theatre to see "Wang," and a complimentary collation was served at Parker's after the performance. Tonight the annual banquet will be held at Young's, which will close the convention.

Still Improving.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—"Mr. Blaine still shows improvement," said Dr. Johnson, when he had left the bedside of Mr. Blaine. For the past few days matters in the household have resumed their normal state. As long as Mr. Blaine holds his life the family are hopeful that his life may be spared for a long time to come.

CABINET PREDICTIONS.

Ex-Minister Phelps' Name Will Not Be Considered.

CARLISLE MAY ACCEPT A PORTFOLIO.

Secretary of the Navy Said to Have Been Selected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—There is a copious amount of gossip floating around Washington and New York city on cabinet states. The latest announcement is Mr. Phelps of Vermont, ex-President Cleveland's minister to England. This gentleman has been slated by these self-constituted cabinet makers for the department of state. There is no doubt that the president-elect has a very high admiration for this gentleman, and would doubtless like to have him in his cabinet on account of his ability and large experience. There is a circumstance, however, which may exert some adverse influence in the president-elect's mind.

When Mr. Cleveland was looking about him for a proper person for chief justice of the supreme court of the United States to succeed Mr. Waite, deceased, he had substantially made up his mind.

To appoint Ex-Minister Phelps to this position. There were many aspirants, but the president, after consulting several members of his cabinet, was on the point of tendering the place to Mr. Phelps. This determination leaked out and was communicated to a number of senators and representatives, and immediately there was much commotion among the Irish contingents. General Patrick Collins of Boston headed the column and called at once at the executive mansion to ascertain whether the report was correct. He informed the president that if he had any such idea it would not only be a mistake, but a political blunder.

During Minister Phelps' residence at London it was charged that he had pursued such a course towards Ireland and the Irish that he had offended every Irishman in the United States. He alleged that the extradition treaty, which had been negotiated under Mr. Phelps' administration would, had it not been repealed by the United States senate, have made it possible

To extradite Every Irishman guilty even of minor political offenses. The result of this visit was that Mr. Phelps' name did not go to the senate, but that of Melville W. Fuller of Illinois did. It is therefore not very likely under these circumstances that the president-elect will make Mr. Phelps secretary of state.

There is another gentleman slated by these wisecracks for a cabinet place. He is Daniel S. Lamont, and the place the navy department. While the president-elect has the utmost confidence in his fidelity, integrity and executive ability, Colonel Lamont does not aspire to cabinet honors. His health is not robust, and his business engagements demand all his attention.

It may as well be stated here that the president-elect has allowed ex-Secretary Whitney to name the person who is to fill the navy department. He has Already Made His Selection and submitted his name to Mr. Cleveland. This honor he accorded to Mr. Whitney when he regretfully learned that his ex-secretary of the navy would not take the portfolio of state.

It is understood that there have been one or two other cabinet selection made, but the rest of the places will remain unfilled until the week before the departure of the president-elect to Washington. It will be remembered that Mr. Cleveland did not complete his cabinet in 1885 until two or three days before their announcement.

Senator Carlisle is the only person who has been consulted on the acceptance of a place in the cabinet. The senator still has, however, a strong preference for senatorial duties. If he finally accepts, it will be only to satisfy Mr. Cleveland, who is desirous of availing himself of the line of tariff reform which he desires to pursue, and his views on finance and silver.

Cleveland and Murphy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Mr. Cleveland's declaration against Murphy's senatorial aspirations is the talk of political circles here, but no politicians of influence will talk about it for publication. The Tammany leaders are dumb as oysters. Mr. Cleveland simply says the interview is genuine. There is reason to think that Murphy will not be senator.

Fraudulent Naturalization Cases. BOSTON, Dec. 29.—The district court grand jury reported indictments against Michael Sheehan, T. J. Robinson, J. F. Nolan, Patrick Hickey, John Teahan, John Leary and O. J. McCarthy, all charged with fraud in naturalization cases at the state election. The men belong in Arlington. Leary, Teahan and Hickey are indicted on the charge of obtaining certificates of naturalization, knowing the same to have been procured by fraud. Sheehan, Robinson, Nolan and McCarthy are charged with perjury in swearing falsely in the cases of Teahan, Leary and Hickey. There are three indictments against Sheehan and two against Nolan.

What Next?

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—An effort is being made by several prominent Chicagoans to buy Independence hall of Philadelphia, the house where Abraham Lincoln died in Washington, and the Sumner tavern in Maryland, where the conspiracy to assassinate Lincoln was hatched, with a view of transporting them to Chicago for exhibition purposes.

Wicked Negro Lynched.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Dec. 29.—A mob of 1000 men, armed with Winchester and shotguns, took the negro assailant of Miss Anderson from the officers at the court house yesterday. The mob took him to the fair grounds, where, after swinging him up to a tree, his body was riddled with bullets.

The Varnum's Bodies at Sharon.

SHARON, Vt., Dec. 29.—The bodies of the victims of the Christmas tragedy at Worcester, H. C. Varnum, his wife and adopted daughter, arrived here last evening.

Will it go right along for days at a time, and then fall behind several minutes in a day? Or does it go sometimes too fast and at other times slow?

Do you sometimes find it stopping?

Have you taken it again and again to your watchmaker and have it returned to you no better, or possible worse than before?

A great many who read this will quickly and emphatically answer in the affirmative. We know this from the way a great many talk when bringing their watches for repairs.

Now, there must be a cause for the trouble, but not everyone, even though he may have worked twenty years at the business, can find it out. It requires a man who not only has a knowledge of the business, but who has patience enough to use his reason and ferret out the cause of the trouble.

We take pride in this branch of our business, and do not trust it to a hired man, but sit at the bench and do the job.

When it is done we guarantee the watch to perform satisfactorily, or refund the money.

That is the way we do business. That is what has made our business a success. That is what has made us the leading jewelry house in Quincy. Try us and you will not be disappointed.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Quincy must be fortunate or else some places are unlucky. Fire losses in Brockton, for instance for six years have been as follows: In 1887, $194,427; 1888, $26,726; 1889, $12,526; 1890, $125,450; 1891, $136,463; 1892, (eleven months), $120,000. Total, $615,008.

This is a yearly average of about $102,001. A shadow of fear and uneasiness hangs over many households today, caused by the non-arrival of the speedy Umbria, which is now five days overdue. May the noble ship soon reach our shores safe and sound, the wish of every American citizen.

When the keeper of the Zoological gardens in Central Park, New York, announced that "Snailies," the female rhinoceros, had two tongues, nine people out of ten, were willing to wager that she was a native of Chicago.

Today James Dunlap, the noted bank robber, enters upon a new lease of life. It is hoped that he will turn over a new leaf, and become one of the Old Bay State's model citizens.

Girls, remains but two days more in which to do your proposing. You can blame yourselves if you do not wear an engagement ring on Sunday.

Brockton aldermen at their meeting this week passed the municipal lighting act for the first time. It must be passed by another city government before accepted.

A Chicago brewer has decorated his calendars with a portrait of Mrs. Potter Palmer, and as a consequence, trouble is brewing.

McEwan, the Glasgow murderer, was tried and sentenced all in one day. Scotch justice seems to be vying with the promptness of Judge Lynch.

Portsmouth, N. H., secured bids at a premium this week for $160,000 in four per cent bonds.

The Globe asks, "Who is Jay Brockton?" Can the Enterprise answer?

Broke His Leg.

John Cavanagh the well known building mover met with a painful accident Wednesday afternoon while engaged in moving a small building which McDonnell & Cook had purchased of M. W. Froland. Somehow he became entangled in the rope and was thrown, fracturing his leg near the ankle. He was taken to his home in Braintree where he was attended by Dr. Dearing.

Drunk Law Increases Drunkenness.

The annual report of City Marshal Chase of Brockton, gave these facts: Number of arrests, 1205; females, 60; commitments, 168. Of the cause of arrest 611 were for first offence of drunkenness; 164 for second; 60 for third.

Under the head of enforcement of the liquor law the report says that every effort has been made to enforce the law. The arrests for violation of the law during the six years of no license were as follows: 1887, 28; 1888, 48; 1889, 29; 1890, 42; 1891, 48; 1892, 55. The increase in the number of arrests for drunkenness is due to the probation law, which the report says, is universally acknowledged to increase drunkenness all over the state.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

No Need to Ask Where—It was in "Hangtown," or Milton.

Milton has long been called by its citizens "Hangtown," which name carries at once to the minds of the people just what is intended. It is not a pretty name, yet it is very appropriate, as a number of its citizens have met death by hanging. They have not been sent into the other world for any illegal act, but for reasons best known to themselves. What causes this suicide feeding among its citizens is not known, but the mania has hovered over the town for years, and it has become a habit among some of the inhabitants to speculate as to who will be the next victim. People are wondering if Milton has within its borders a suicide club of which many of its prominent citizens are members.

If those who have in the past committed the act for the purpose of setting an example and warning to others, it has proved an utter failure.

Among those who have thus ended their lives it is said there were four who had been selectmen. Scott's woods seem to have been the scene of the most suicides, and therefore has anything but an enviable reputation, for six bodies have been found there.

Among those who have committed suicide in Milton are: Charles Hunt, Jesse Tucker, Sylvester Simmonds, Charles L. Copeland, William Capen, an old man named Caswell, William Gray, Mr. Durall, Charles Merriam, Oliver Bowman, Ebenezer Pope and Mr. Pierce.

The two recent suicides, Bradley and Tucker, are still fresh in the minds of the public, and the excitement has not subsided much when there comes the information that James Winters, a man well along in years, had tried hard to end his life, but has thus far been prevented.

Mr. Winters lives on Sheldon street, near the East Milton depot. Tuesday afternoon he attempted to hang himself in his house, but was prevented by his housekeeper. Being thus prevented, he started for the woods back of his house, but was followed by his housekeeper, who found him hanging to a tree with a clothes line about his neck. She cut him down and started home with him, when he made another attempt, this time trying to choke himself with a handkerchief, but was again prevented. The authorities being notified, adjudged him demented, and Wednesday he was removed to the poor farm.

A South Quincy Surprise.

Miss Jennie Phillips, Liberty Square, was pleasantly surprised at her home, Wednesday evening, by eighteen of her friends calling on her and presenting her with an elegant writing desk filled with stationery, a nice embroidered silk handkerchief and a plush photograph album. The party was got up by some members of the Mission Band of which Miss Jennie has been president for three years, and is loved and respected by all who know her. She is also an earnest worker in the Sunday School, and has been organist in the Presbyterian Church for over a year. The presents were handed to her by Miss Hattie Chisholm, who asked her to accept them as a token of love and respect from them all. They then sat down to a well-filled table, after which they partook of apples, oranges, candies and ice cream, after which they played games and heartily enjoyed themselves until ten o'clock, when they dispersed for their homes, saying "Hail to a lovely time. I never was at a better surprise party." The young men entered into the spirit of the evening as well as the girls.

Library Statistics.

The annual report of the trustees of the public library of Brockton, shows the following statistics of interest:—Number of books loaned, 67,993; increase over 1891, 2,105; greatest number issued in one day, March 5, 642; least number issued in any one day, June 2 and Nov. 29, 91; average number per day, 224; increase over last year, 9; number of new cards issued, 1,193; decrease from last year, 21; number of books lost, 6.

Surprise Party.

Friday evening of last week, Miss Olevia Lane was given a surprise party at her home. Friends from Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic and Weymouth were present. She was presented with an elegant moonstone ring. The evening was spent in games, music and dancing. Refreshments were served.

A Watch Meeting.

The Brockton board of aldermen will assemble Saturday evening and hold a "watch meeting" with Mayor Keith, who will on that evening tender his annual supper to the board and members of the press.

SPECIAL TO STORY READERS.

A new serial, "The Hidden City," by Walter H. McDougall, will begin next Wednesday.

Electric Roads and Snowfalls.

When many of our electric railway managers were boys it was just about this time of year that they got down from the attic or up from the cellar or out from the woodshed their old "double runners," and polished and oiled them up in anticipation of many coastings down the icy hillside roads. They are doing pretty much the same thing now, except that the "double runners" have developed into electric railway snow plows, whose function is to spoil coasting rather than to facilitate it. These machines are of very recent origin, and are still in many ways experimental devices.

Plows and sweepers have both been used to displace the snow from electric railroad tracks. It has been thought by some companies that the sweeper does its work too thoroughly, as it cleans off all the snow, leaving only the bare ground for the use of other vehicles on runners. This causes delays to the electric cars and interferes with their prompt operation. Crosby and Bell state in their book on the electric railway that "it is best to leave an inch or two of snow on the track when cleared by plows. Unless the snow is very much compacted, or has become a sort of frozen slush, it is then possible to obtain fair contact between wheel and rail, thus keeping up the car service."

The proper function of the snow plow is its constant use in keeping the snow on the tracks from packing and freezing. Its principal use is in the city streets. Where the road runs out into the country, or where the snows are light, the sweeper service will probably prove equally desirable. On many roads a combined plow and sweeper service will be found best of all.—Electrical Review.

He Found One Man.

Captain John Miller tells a good story about himself in connection with his trip to the Chicago convention. While en route he thought he would feel the public pulse along the road, so at the various stopping places he got out on the rear platform and made short speeches in favor of Senator Hill. The name of Hill did not arouse the slightest enthusiasm, greatly to the surprise of Captain Miller, who before leaving Washington had an idea that the Democrats of the country were hungry for Hill's nomination. Not a hand was clapped in response to Captain Miller's eloquence until the train reached a little town out in Ohio. There one man in the crowd applauded the name of Hill quite vigorously. Captain Miller paused in his speech, jumped off the train and rushed up to the man, saying:

"My dear friend, I am glad to know that there is one man out in this God forsaken country who appreciates the name of Hill."

"I don't belong here," replied the man. "I came out on the train with you, Captain Jack."

That put an end to Captain Miller's electioneering for Senator Hill.—Washington Post.

A Serpent of the Sea.

Chancellor Rand, of McMaster university, received by express a box which, when opened, was found to contain a snake some nine feet long, of slender build and of a dull mud color. An accompanying letter explained the arrival. Last May, while on the way from the Philippine Islands, the Theodore H. Rand, a ship named after the chancellor, was caught in a heavy gale off the African coast. Everything was battered down, and yet, after some hours, during which the seas ran bodily over the vessel, the helmsman felt something like a rope around his leg, and looking down was horrified to find this snake.

The ship at the time was more than a hundred miles off the shore, was closely battered and had not been in port for some weeks. Many theories have been raised to account for the reptile's presence, some thinking it had been washed aboard during the storm; others that it had lain dormant since the ship left port and others suggesting that a genuine sea serpent had at last been found. The captain forwarded the snake to the chancellor as a curiosity.—Toronto Empire.

Found a Little Fortune in a Tree.

George Jones, a woodchopper, engaged in trimming sycamore trees in the center of this city, observed hanging over him two shining objects. He climbed higher and found them to be tin cans of great weight. He secured them, brought them to the ground and on opening them found that they contained gold pieces. The contents amounted to $1,900. Jones, though a poor daily laborer, was not tempted by the glittering heap, but brought the treasure to the bank at San Bernardino and deposited it for identification by the owner. The money had evidently been hanging in the tree but a short time, as a week ago the same tree was partly trimmed.—San Bernardino Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Will Row in Their Drinking Water.

The Palo Alto students are forming a boat crew with which they expect to win additional laurels. An order will soon be sent east for an eight oar shell, and then the crew will begin regular practice. The reservoir adjoining the university, over which a straight match can be rowed, will be used for practicing purposes, and possibly some day an intercollegiate shell race will be rowed over the water. The majority of the students have refrained from drinking the water for months, and they do not think rowing practice in it will injure it.—San Francisco Record.

To Sentence Drunkards to the Keeley Cure.

A scheme is being talked up in Augusta to make the state a patron of the Keeley cure. The plan is that the police and municipal judges shall be empowered, after a man has been sentenced a certain number of times to jail, to send him to the Keeley cure at the state's expense. Judge Andrews, of the Augusta municipal court, is a strong advocate of the scheme. He would have the county bear the expense, and if a man related to his old habits after taking the treatment sentence him to state prison for a year.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A Whitman Marriage.

The marriage of Charles G. Ryder and Miss Kate M. Bonney took place at their new home on Broad street, Whitman, on Sunday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. S. Hunnewell of the Congregational church. Only the immediate friends of the young couple were present. The music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Edith Bonney, a cousin of the bride. Miss Louise Bonney, another cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and the best man was Arthur Ryder of Quincy, a brother of the groom. The couple were the recipients of many gifts.—Enterprise.

CUP DEFENDERS.

Yachtmen Looking to the Adams Boys to Represent Boston.

Will Boston have a yacht in the race for the great international cup? Is the question the Boston Advertiser asks and proceeds to answer as follows: Henry Bryant is out—positively out. He will not build or design. The "Adams boys" are not yet in. There is no definite talk as to a syndicate. George and Charles Adams are men to whom the yachtmen all look with the greatest interest.

Nothing would please Boston better than to have the "Adams boys" take the head of a syndicate. Indeed, there is almost a demand that they shall do so.

As yet the Adams brothers are not acting. A reporter called on G. C. Adams at his residence on Commonwealth ave., late yesterday afternoon, to discuss the chances. Mr. Adams said he knew nothing about a syndicate being formed to build a yacht for the purpose of defending the cup. He had seen the report in the newspapers that he would with others form such an organization, but denied that there was any ground for it, asserting that he had not entered into it and did not intend to. Henry Bryant, he declares, had said nothing to him about it, and therefore the rumor was only premature.

Tells All About the Indians.

Latest Publication In Its Line, Entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians"—Contains Nearly Two Hundred Pages—Sent Free to Everybody.

In order to make the public familiar with the habits, manners, customs and history of one of the oldest tribes of American Indians extant we have published at great expense a large edition of a work entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians." All their peculiarities, traditions, habits, in fact, their whole life and customs are told in a manner which will interest the reader and hold attention to the end. This book also explains our connection with the tribe, how it came about and what has come from it. The book is written in a simple, plain, and interesting manner, and is a mere advertising pamphlet; but one well worth a dollar if it were published to be sold. We shall not publish another edition for public distribution, and after the present one is exhausted, the book will either be out of print or sold by the book dealers at the price named above, or more.

While this edition lasts we will send a copy free to all who apply enclosing three 5-cent stamps to pay cost of postage. If you want it, send now and save disappointment.

We will guarantee to fill all requests received within the next two weeks following the appearance of this advertisement, but may not be able to do so later. It is for your interest therefore to send at once. Address

BEAUTY'S METEMPSYCHOSIS.

That beauty such as thine
Can die indeed
Were ordinance too wantonly malign
No wit may reconcile so cold a creed
With beauty such as thine.

From wave and star and flower
Scarcely less rare
Was lent thee, a divine but transient power;
Thou wiahest it back from eyes and lips and hair
To wave and star and flower.

Shouldst thou tomorrow die,
Thou still shalt be Found in the rose and met in all the sky,
And from the ocean's heart shalt sing to me,
Shouldst thou tomorrow die.

MAT'S HUSBAND.

She doubtless had a woman's reason for marrying him. That kind of reason may not satisfy other people, but it is invariably sufficient for the feminine reasoner.

Sam Toms was what is called "wuthless" by his Texan neighbors. Old Bill Bunn, his father-in-law, himself not a very energetic or useful citizen, used to sit on the steps at the crossroads store and publicly bewail his sad lot in having Sam for a member of his family. Bill had a dramatic style of delivery that was very fetching, and invariably impressed strangers as being very much in earnest.

He would sit on the steps, silently chewing an enormous mouthful of tobacco and apparently listening to the conversation of his co-laborers. If Sam's name was mentioned he would give vent to four or five little falsetto squeaks, which found egress through his nose; then he would draw in a long breath, puff out his fat cheeks, purse his mouth, and give a heavy, whistling sigh; this would be followed by a large quantity of tobacco juice, carefully aimed at some object in the vicinity. These preliminaries accomplished, Bill would rise to his feet, thrust one fat, dirty hand into his shirt front, wave the other in a sweeping gesture as he lowered his eyes and rolled his head sadly from side to side, and deliver himself profoundly after the following fashion:

"Ah—hum! That Sam Toms is th' laziest, mos' shifless, o'nerly, triflin cuss I ever seed—an yere I've done got 'im fr a son-in-law. Hm—hm—hm!" Another whistling sigh would close this peroration, and old Bill would resume his seat, still shaking his head sorrowfully.

And Bill was more than half right. Nominally Sam was a cowboy, but most of the time he would tell you he was "jes layin off aspell, 't rest up like." He had always been just so—distinguished for laziness in an easy-going community—and nobody expected him ever to be otherwise, and it puzzled people immensely when energetic, capable Mattie Bunn accepted him for "reg'lar company," to say nothing of the sensation created by their wedding.

Mat, as has been suggested, probably had some reason for marrying Sam, but it is quite certain that she never told any one what that reason was. Sam was tall and big, and handsome in his careless, slouchy way; he had always managed, no one knew how, to wear good clothes too. These facts and his perennial good nature and friendly ways were the only points in his favor. Against him were the points so forcibly taken by his father-in-law, and also that he got drunk whenever he could possibly do so, and was morally so weak that any one could easily lead him astray.

How Mat and Sam got along no one but Mat knew. Once in a great while Sam would do some work and earn a few dollars. If he got home with it without stopping at the saloon, well and good. But oftener than not he would "drap in jes 't take a nip 't two," and that would settle it. At such times he would stay and buy drinks for everybody present while his money lasted. Then he would come home in a mandrin, fearful state of intoxication, and invent some tale to account for his condition and the disappearance of his money, winding up with the promise never to let it happen again.

And Mat would pretend that she believed him, and would stroke his curly head until he fell asleep. Then she would look at the handsome scamp for a few minutes with love unutterable in her eyes—the tired eyes back of which were a world of unshed tears. But she never complained—not the first word; the firm set mouth and weary look might indicate ever so much, but her lips never expressed it. And Sam gradually grew more and more useless and shiftless, trusting to his wife's ready wit and fertility of resource to carry them both over the bad places.

There were lots of bad places too. Twice Sam ran into debt several dollars at the saloon and Mat found some means to pay the debts—only herself knew how. But the second time she informed the saloon man that he must trust Sam no more. And, besides these things, to live—how did they do it? Nobody could guess. Perhaps even Mat herself could not have told, yet live they did—or rather existed—and for the most part kept out of debt.

Sam sometimes worked, but never for very long. He always found some excuse for leaving a place within a few days. He could almost always find another job easily enough, for he was an excellent "hand" when he chose to be, but he did not hasten about one; not new job when he had given one up; not until they were reduced to the very last straits could Mat get him to hunting work again.

One day Sam left home for a ranch about thirty-five miles distant, where he had heard they wanted help. Two days came—three—four—five—and no word came from him. Mat was not a little worried, although Sam had often been away for two weeks at a time without sending word to her. But this time it was different; there was no excuse for his not sending a message, as the stage came by the ranch he had gone to three times a week. If he had found work there, as he expected, he could easily have notified her. So, late in the afternoon of the fifth day, she threw her shawl over her head and went down to her father's to find if they had heard anything of Sam.

The old fellow was standing in the doorway talking to a couple of strangers. "No," he was saying, "they hain't be'n no person long yer las' few days but what blongs yere. Mebbe, though, he mont 'a be'n seed over yere 't Bacon's. Ben thar? No? Waal, my boy's comin in f'm thar purty soon, an he c'n tell ye. Come in an feed; Jack'll be yere right soon."

Mat staid to help her mother with the supper, and during the course of the meal learned that the two strangers were officers trailing a horse thief, who had stolen a valuable horse at a ranch forty miles east and sold it at Pickett station, and who was believed to have come this way.

As she listened to the conversation a sudden nameless fear came upon her, making her feel ill and faint. As soon as supper was over she took her shawl and hurried home.

Somehow she was not surprised to find the door open. She entered hastily. Sam was in bed, asleep and breathing stertorously. He had evidently been drinking, as his clothes were scattered about the floor, and Mat, looking out the back door, could see his pony standing patiently where Sam had left him, waiting for some one to come and feed him.

Mat leaned over the sleeping man and kissed him gently, her eyes full of love. Then she turned to pick up his clothes and put them away. The trousers were heavy, and something jingled in one of the pockets. Instinctively Mat thrust her hand into it and drew it forth, clasp ing several gold pieces. As she did so her eyes opened wide, and she stood as if stunned for a time, her heart chilled with the same strange fear that had stricken her awhile ago and impelled her to hurry home.

She rushed to the bed and shook Sam roughly. "Sam! Sam! wake up!" she almost screamed.

The man turned over and looked at her stupidly. "Hilo, M-Mat! Yere, he ye? Gimme kiss," he said in a dull tone.

"Not twiss ye tells me whar ye done got these yere things?" Mat's voice sounded broken and shrill.

Sam sat up and rubbed his head, looking at her in drunken wonder. "W-w-y, them—them—thar, honey?"

She shook him fiercely and said in a lower tone—a tone of earnest force:

"Tell me, Sam Toms, whar ye done got these yere coins! Quick now!"

Her tone partially sobered the man, whose eyes opened wider as he asked querulously:

"What 'n hell ye so all fired fussy 'bout? I hain't done nothin," he laughed in a half drunken, half nervous way.

"Sam, whar did ye git 'em?" He sat dumbly staring at her.

"Sam"—her voice was full of horror—"did you steal that thar hoss?"

No answer; but Mat saw by his eyes he had guessed the truth. Slowly the coins fell from her hand to the floor; slowly her head bent forward until her face touched the pillow. For minutes she did not move—not until Sam, who had been staring at her wonderingly, reached out his big hand and laid it caressingly on her head. Then she sprang to her feet, her hot eyes glaring and her form trembling with anger and horror. She did not speak, but fixed her gaze on his face for a few seconds. He did not meet her look, and presently she turned and ran out of the door.

Sam, almost sober now, called after her, but she did not answer. He got out of bed slowly and started to dress himself. He had almost finished when Mat, accompanied by her father and the two strangers, returned.

"Thar he is—an thar's th' money," she said, and passed on out through the back door without looking at Sam.

There was a jail at the crossroads; it was a primitive affair, but solid and substantial. It was a dugout in the side hill, and had a heavy oak door and great steel hinges and lock. It was plenty strong enough to hold a dozen men, all anxious to escape—and Sam Toms did not try to escape. He only sat still in the low, damp, darksome room and tried to understand how it all happened.

It must be a drunken dream—but, no, he was almost sober, and knew where he was and how and why he was there. But—he could not understand. Had Mat—was it really Mat who had given him up? There must be some mistake. The big, strong man finally began to realize it all. He lay down on the bunk and cried himself to sleep like a child.

It must have been about 1 o'clock in the morning when some one silently entered the house of old Bill Bunn, comfortable. This some one entered by the back door, went stealthily into the room where Bill and his wife slept, rummaged about a few minutes, and then emerged from the house. It was a woman, and she had something in her hand.

Sam Toms was awakened a little after this by a rattling, jarring sound. He sprang up just as the big oak doors swung back and revealed the figures of a woman and two saddle horses.

"I come fr ye, Sam," said the woman with a sob. "I done bring both ponies an' on' clo'es. Le's go, Sam; we c'n git 'cross th' rivah befo' mawin. Come!"

He clasped her in his arms, and they clung to each other a little while. Then Mat said, more steadily:

"Come, Sam. Le's go ovah t' Mexico—an mebbe we c'n try an do better ovah thar."

And they rode forth in the bright, free moonlight down toward the Rio Grande—into a new and better life.—R. L. Ketchum in Argonaut.

Tom Moore's Old Harp.

Mr. George W. Childs has the very harp that the people of Limerick presented to Tom Moore—"the pride of all circles and the idol of his own." Moore's widow gave the harp to an English earl, who in turn presented it to George W. Childs. Upon one occasion he lent it to Miss Morgan, and she used it in New York at one of her concerts.—Exchange.

Young Men's Institute.
At an adjourned meeting of the Institute held Wednesday evening, the following officers and directors were elected:

President,—Dr. McLenneen.
Vice President,—A. Milne.
Secretary,—W. A. Smith.
Treasurer,—Alex. Falconer.
Directors,—Dr. McLenneen, A. Milne, W. A. Smith, Alex. Falconer, Frank Brewer, S. F. Willard.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws. The necessity for work among and for young men in South Quincy, was emphatically expressed and the work starts out under favorable auspices. The first meeting of the directors will be held next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Harvey Pratt Remembered.

Mr. Harvey H. Pratt, district attorney for the southeastern districts, was presented with a gold chain and handsome charm at the Court house in Dedham, Wednesday afternoon. The gift came from Sheriff A. B. Endicott of Dedham and his deputies. It was the last day of the session and Mr. Pratt had tried his last case for the Commonwealth. His successor, Robert Harris of Plymouth county, who defeated Mr. Pratt at the polls, will begin his duties as district attorney at the April criminal session.—Herald.

Finances of Newburyport.

Newburyport is a city about the size of Quincy, it was larger in 1880 but is smaller now. The annual report of the treasurer shows that the expenditures exceed the appropriations $195.62.

The appropriations and credits of the principal departments are as follows: Poor, $24,583.73; schools, $26,492.53; fire, $10,205.44; highways, $18,000; sidewalks and edgelines, $8915.58; bridges and culverts, $5000; incidentals, $9065.60; public property, $6500; police, $11,563.80; lighting streets and public buildings, $11,056.70; salaries, $7550; Public Library, $2367.08; printing, $1750; interest, $20,000; notes payable, $5000; sinking fund, $11,300.

It is interesting to compare items with Quincy. The poor of this city require but $7200, the schools over $80,000.

Crane-Sherwood Nuptials.

A very pretty wedding, attended by fully 250 friends, took place Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Henry Crane at Dorchester Lower Mills, when her youngest son, Mr. Arthur M. Crane and Miss Marguerite H. Sherwood were united in marriage by Rev. J. N. Shipman, pastor of the Blaney Memorial Baptist church. Two little misses, Ethel Burt and Mabel Dorman, attended the bride. A reception followed. After a tour to New York and the west Mr. and Mrs. Crane will reside at 1075 Washington street.

WEYMOUTH.

The church wedding of Miss Lillian E. Dow of North Weymouth and Mr. Albert W. Dow of Chicago, was the fashionable event of the season, and was followed by a grand reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Prof. and Mrs. Howard M. Dow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward A. Horton of Boston, assisted by Rev. Robert R. Kendall. A brother and sister of the bride attended the couple. A quartette from the Second church of Boston rendered musical selections.

Rev. Allan B. Hudson was on Wednesday ordained as pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church at North Weymouth. Prof. Luther T. Townsend preached the sermon, and the following ministers took part in the services: Rev. Louis B. Vohres, Rev. Albert Plumb, D. D., Rev. A. A. Ellsworth and Rev. Oliver Huckel.

The engagement is announced of Miss Loretta P. Linton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Linton, and Mr. Gilbert P. Butterworth of Cincinnati, O.

Thomas Lynch disappeared Tuesday, and Wednesday his body was found in Whitman's pond at East Weymouth. Deceased was 39 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

NEW YEAR'S DAY IN PARIS.

It is the custom to Give Presents, but the Conclerge Alone Profits.

On New Year's day Paris, most undomesticated of cities, makes sacrifice to that domesticity which is the pride of other nations in general, and of our dear England in particular. Le Jour de l'An is emphatically the day of families, as they call it, which means that it is on that day that friends and relations devote themselves to each other. It is a day when the intense altruism of life in Paris is momentarily suspended, when the family reasserts itself for too short a time, when the boulevard and the cafe, and that M. Tont-le-Monde in whom on all the other days of the year Paris takes so vast an interest, are momentarily left to their own devices.

It is the pleasure of the wits and of the grumblers to complain of this day. It is the day of giving presents, and those who give least are loudest in their grumblings about a custom which they qualify as an intolerable tax. As a matter of fact, one's duties in this respect are of the slightest. There is the congerie to be fed, to be sure, but in presenting one's gratuity to this servant one feels that never was largesse better invested. It buys civility for the rest of the year—he the gratuity only a fair one—and those who have dwelt in Parisian flats will know how indispensable it is to be on good terms with the porter.

It is through his hands that all the lodgers' letters and parcels pass; it is he who answers all questions that visitors or inquirers may have to put; it is he who pulls the doorstring to let one in and out at night. When one remembers that a surly congerie, pretending slumber, may leave one for long minutes exposed to the present icy winds of the Parisian streets before affording ingress, one sees how well it is to be in his good books. As a matter of fact the porters are so badly paid that but for the custom of etrennes they would not be able to exist at all. The sums received on New Year's day form a part of their income, and this sum is taken into consideration by the landlord when engaging them. It is usual to give at least a sovereign, but in many houses a couple of louis would be considered a minimum.

It is from the porter that the Parisian on New Year's day hears for the first time the phrase that he shall take that day so often hear, "Je vous la souhaite bonne et heureuse." "I wish that it may be good and happy (the new year) for you." Elsewhere, in answer to this greeting, he puts out his arms and kisses him or her who makes it resoundingly on both cheeks; here, however, it is his purse he puts forth, and in lieu of the smack of the kiss it is the tiny tinkle of the golden pieces that is heard. With the congerie, however, as things are today in Paris, the duty of giving begins and ends. The other creditors of one's bounties have been satisfied long ago. The postman and all the tribe of the humble servants of the city's social life have already in the early days of December been satisfied. What else of etrennes, then, the Parisian gives on that day are such as his courtesy and his affections prompt him to bestow.—R. H. Sherard in London Graphic.

New Year's Decoration in Japan.

Simple and characteristic outdoor decorations make a Japanese city or village beautiful at the New Year season. One of the most common is the straw rope. A rope with many wisps of straw and strips of white paper hanging therefrom, and other objects, such as seaweeds, ferns, a lemon (orange), a red lobster shell, dried persimmons, charcoal, and dried sardines attached thereto, will be stretched either between the pine trees or above the doorway. Each of the articles just mentioned represents an idea—pine, bamboo, seaweeds and ferns, being evergreens, are emblems of constancy; the straw fringes, according to a legend often related, are supposed to exclude evil agencies; "the lobster by its bent form is indicative of old age or long life;" the lemon (or orange) is called daidai, which word may also mean "generation [after] generation;" "the dried persimmons are sweets long and well preserved; the sardines, from their always swimming in a swarm, denote the wish for a large family," and the charcoal is "an imperishable substance."—Chicago Tribune.

Decline of a Pretty Custom.

The practice of having a ladies' calling day upon the second day of the year is going out of fashion, if indeed it has not already gone. Some years ago the fair sex had literally the right of way in every direction, and it was by tolerance alone that the sterner sex was enabled to travel by car and stage. It is a pity that "ladies' day" has declined, for there was a perfect panorama of beauty to be seen when the fair creatures, carcases in hand and dressed in their handsomest and most becoming costumes, and generally traveling in groups of two, three and four, abounded everywhere. The air was filled with their pleasant small talk, and they looked very animated and interesting.—Selected.

In the "Midsummer Night's Dream" the "gossips' bowl" is supposed to be the "wassail bowl" of early days. The contents of this bowl were spiced ale, nutmeg, sugar, toast and roasted crabs or apples. Our ancestors loved to assemble on New Year's eve at each other's houses, and while "they quaffed the flowing bowl" they renewed promises of friendship and laid aside resentments they had cherished.—Exchange.

The Years.

The years are all alike. With childish laughter they follow butterflies with endless wings; they peep into the birds' nests; they look after white lambs and other pretty little things.

Then in the first flush of their youth they bring us

Sly gifts of violets in a gallant way; And all what charming, low love songs they sing us

From leaf green shadows where the wild doves stay.

But somewhat later they show bearded faces, And away the scythe and bear the sheaves about.

In the hot fields, and quite forget the graces They had of old—as others do, no doubt.

Still later they go out for us and gather The scarlet fruit in, and the yellow corn.

Or walk about the withering woods with rather A faded look, and sigh and seem forlorn.

Then they sit still and watch the dying embers Behind the curtains in some pictured room.

While each one somewhere in his heart remembers The dew, the summer moonrise and the bloom.

Then comes the last night watch, the lone-some tapers.

The few tears of the many prayers quick said.

The black lined columns in the morning papers.

And, yes—the many virtues of the dead.

—S. M. B. Platt.

CUTTING THE MISTLETOE.

An Ancient Druid New Year Custom Now Associated with Christmas.

The mistletoe has for many years been generally associated with the celebration of Christmas, but in fact the cutting of the mistletoe was in honor of the New Year.

The Druids were summoned to meet at this time by the supreme pontiff. The priests came forth from their forests and traversed their various districts, inviting the faithful to follow them with the cry of kal (first day of the year) or kalonna (gifts) to attend the holy ceremony of gu (mistletoe) of the New Year.

The supreme pontiff of the Druidical order was, as it were, its pope. Immense numbers of the clergy and laity were present at the fete. The ceremony opened with a search for the famous mistletoe upon a tree of thirty years' growth, and the mistletoe so found was to become by its consecration the panacea for all woes.

When the mistletoe was found, a triangular altar of earth was raised at the foot of the tree on which it had been discovered, and then commenced a procession. First marched the Engall, conducting two white bulls, which had never been subjected to a yoke. These were followed by the bards, who sang hymns in honor of the Supreme Being. Next came the novices, students and disciples, accompanied by a herald in white. Then followed the most ancient pontiffs—one carrying bread that was to be offered up; the second two vessels—one filled with water and the other with ivory, and the third a hand made of ivory attached to a wand, symbolical of justice and power. Next came the clergy, preceded by the supreme pontiff in a white robe and wearing a girdle of gold, and the procession closed with the nobles and the people.

The cortege having arrived beneath the tree, the officiant, after prayers, poured a morsel of bread and poured some wine and water on the altar and divided what remained among the assistant priests. This done, he ascended the tree and cut off with a golden sickle the mistletoe and dropped it into the robe of one of the principal pontiffs, who received it with profound reverence. The supreme pontiff, aided by the Engall, then immolated the two bulls and concluded the religious ceremony by praying, with his arms raised, that God would permit his benediction to rest upon the gift he was about to distribute among the people, then prostrate upon the ground.

Immediately afterward the inferior priests distributed as a gift to the assembled multitude particles of the sacred mistletoe. They sent portions also to the temple and to the chieftains, who felt honored in receiving it, and who, as an act of devotion and as a talisman against harm, wore it round their necks in time of war.

Sickness, enchantment and malevolent spirits were expelled by it. Nothing evil was capable of diminishing its celestial power, and lightning itself would not fall upon the house that contained it.—Philadelphia Times.

FOR MUNICIPAL REFORM.

A New League Organized by the Pilgrim Society of Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—A new movement for improving the condition of Boston's municipal affairs began last night at the meeting of the recently formed Pilgrim society. This society is composed of members of the Congregational churches in this city, and its chief object is for extending the usefulness of the church in the city, and incidentally to work for cleaner municipal management. At the meeting last night, which was held at the Tremont House, a permanent organization was effected. The subject of municipal reform was then brought up. The scheme in this direction is to appeal to all the clubs throughout the city which exist for the public weal or local interests to appoint from five to seven delegates each, the most representative men in the organizations, to form a municipal league. The Pilgrim society appointed its committee of delegates, and drew up a call to the other clubs, which number about a dozen. In the purposes of the league the following articles from the rules of the People's Municipal Reform league of New York are incorporated:

1. Municipal government is business, not politics.

2. Municipal elections should be divorced from state and national politics.

3. Municipal officers should be chosen for their business ability and personal integrity.

4. Municipal officers should be independent of political parties, halls, bosses and factions.

This league will therefore be strictly non-partisan and will deal with municipal affairs alone.

CATHOLICS ATTACKED.

Mrs. Livermore Regrets Them as One of the "Perils of the Republic."

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 29.—The annual meeting of the Maine Women's Suffrage association was held here at the Second Advent church. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Hannah G. Bailey, Winthrop; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Etta H. Osgood; recording secretary, Miss Lillian Donnell; treasurer, Dr. Jane L. Herson; old board of vice-presidents, with Rev. Dwight M. Pratt added.

The annual address was delivered by Miss Bailey. The treasurer reported that the association was in an excellent financial condition.

Last evening Mrs. Mary A. Livermore delivered a lecture on "The Perils of the Republic," that was quite sensational, especially in her arraignment of the Catholics in their attitude toward the immigration question.

She said she regarded the position of the Catholic church as a terrible menace to the welfare of America and its institutions, though against the religion and principles of Catholicism she spoke with no enmity. She said it was the sole aim of the Catholic church to build parochial schools upon the ruins of the public schools.

POWER OF THE LAW

Not Strong Enough to Hold a Manufacturer Who Employs Minors.

Haverhill, Mass., Dec. 29.—In the police court yesterday afternoon W. W. Spaulding, a shoe manufacturer, who was convicted yesterday morning on a count alleging the employment of a minor without a school certificate, was tried on another count, that of employing Maude Alice Ordway, under 18 years of age, contrary to law, without the proper posting of notices in his factory.

The points in law applying in this case were closely reviewed, the leading one being that the law was defective by not carrying with it the power to inflict a penalty in case of conviction. Counsel for the commonwealth conceded that there are grave doubts as to the existence of such power, but invited the lower court to render judgment that a case might be sent up for decision.

The court declined to subject the defendant to such vexation and delay, and so glaring an uncertainty. Defendant was adjudged not guilty and was ordered to be discharged.

MALDEN'S MYSTERY.

One of Her Missing Men Found Dead.

MALEDEN, Mass., Dec. 29.—Of Malden's two missing men, Frank L. Edwards and Charles A. Main, the latter has been found, but not alive. While some city employees were working on a roadbed on Baker's hill, Maplewood district, yesterday afternoon, one chance to go to the woods a short distance, and there he came across a dead body which proved to be that of Main. It was frozen stiff. In one hand was a new American bull-dog revolver, with one chamber empty, and he practically told the story. He was probably suffering from a temporary fit of insanity when he left home.

The police are beginning to think that the other missing man, Frank L. Edwards, will be found in a similar way. A search was made on the Everett marshes nearly all day yesterday, on the supposition that his body might be there.

A Disastrous Explosion.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Dec. 29.—A box of dynamite exploded in the shaft sunk for the new East river tunnel, near the junction of Jackson and Vernon avenues, yesterday. The explosion set fire to the four-story brick building adjoining, and shattered every pane of glass in the buildings for blocks around. Five persons were killed and many others seriously wounded.

A Suicide's Body Frozen Solid.

Worcester, Mass., Dec. 29.—The body of an unknown man was found in the woods at Hopville yesterday. There were two bullet holes in his head, where a bullet had passed through the temples. He was lying on his face, a revolver tightly clasped in his hands beneath him. The body was frozen solid. He was between 35 and 40 years of age.

Burglar Dunlap Pardoned.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—The governor's council has voted unanimously in favor of a pardon for James Dunlap, the Northampton bank burglar. Heretofore Lieutenant Governor Hild had voted against granting a pardon, the papers for which have been on Governor Russell's desk for nearly seven months.

Senator Ingalls' Father Dead.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 29.—Elias T. Ingalls, aged 82, father of ex-Senator J. J. Ingalls of Kansas, and one of Haverhill's most prominent citizens, died at his residence here last evening. He was born in Middlebury, but removed to this city in early life.

Naval Reserve Wanted.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 29.—The chamber of commerce last night adopted the draft of an act, which will be presented to the Connecticut legislature, favoring the organization of a naval reserve on similar lines with the New York organization.

PLIMMER IS CHAMPION

Bantam McGrath No Match for the Englishman.

HE RECEIVES SEVERE PUNISHMENT

But Pegs Away Until His Seconds Throw Up the Sponge.

CONY ISLAND, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Billy Plimmer, England knocked out Joe McGrath of Ireland in eight rounds, Maflit Flaherty of Boston whipped Billy Leedom of Philadelphia. Connie Sullivan of New York received the award in a ten-round bout with Hughey Boyle of Elizabeth, N. J. These were the results of the big boxing entertainment at the Cony Island Athletic Club last evening.

The event of the evening was a finish fight between Billy Plimmer, champion bantamweight of the world, and Joe McGrath, champion 110-pound man of Ireland. Prior to this, however, there were two preliminary bouts, one of ten rounds between Hughey Boyle of Elizabeth, N. J., and Connie Sullivan of New York, and the other of eight rounds between Billy Leedom of Philadelphia and Maflit Flaherty of Boston. Many noted sports were present.

Plimmer and McGrath fought for a purse of $250, the winner to take $200 and the loser $50. Plimmer was seconded by Charley Norton of New York, Bonnie Murphy and Harry Evans of Birmingham, Eng. Joe Connelly of New York was his bottle-holder, and Alf Jewett of Philadelphia held time for him. McGrath was looked after by Martin Murphy of San Francisco, Peter Maher of Dublin and Jimmy Carroll of Brooklyn. The bottle-holder was John Brady of New York, and his timer Jack Sheehan. John Eckhardt was referee. Plimmer was a strong favorite among betting men.

The Battle by Rounds.

Round 1—Plimmer led with his left, which was short. McGrath kept away, Plimmer played for the stomach and McGrath for the head. Each landed a few light taps and were shy in the opening.

Round 2—Plimmer forced matters and punched McGrath whenever he pleased.

Round 3—McGrath took punishment well. Plimmer left jabbing his left into McGrath's mouth, and soon had it full of blood. McGrath began to improve and landed two or three hard blows which made Billy wince.

Round 4—Plimmer forced the fighting and landed when and where he saw fit. In swinging his right Plimmer missed, slipped and fell. McGrath also went partly down. Plimmer was up quickly and from this out he had everything his own way, knocking the Irish lad's face into a jelly and knocking him down twice.

McGrath

stood his punishment manfully.

Round 5—McGrath's face was covered with blood and Plimmer forced him to his knees. McGrath batted Billy in the stomach. Plimmer brought McGrath to the floor with a right swing on the jaw, but McGrath was game, and although repeatedly knocked down, he got up and took his punishment. Plimmer landed his right hand on McGrath's forehead, streaming with blood. McGrath staggered to his corner when the bell rang.

Round 6—This round was extremely brutal. McGrath was pounded until he could scarcely stand on his feet. He was knocked down four times, but got up each time before he could be counted out. The gong saved him the last time he was knocked down.

Round 7—McGrath was repeatedly knocked down, and each time seemed to be the last, but he arose just before being counted out. Cries of "Take him off," etc., were heard, but he kept pegging away, though he had no strength left.

Round 8—Plimmer went at his man with right and left, and showered blow after blow upon his battered and bruised face, but even then he could not put him down. McGrath was knocked down repeatedly, but he was counted out. It was so extremely brutal that the crowd yelled, "take him off," and out of pure charity Jimmy Carroll threw up the sponge.

McGrath got mad at his seconds for throwing up the sponge. Per Maher ran away from McGrath's corner in the sixth round.

WAS IT A FAKE?

Sporting Men View the Burge-McAuliffe "Match" with Suspicion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—There is a sensational rumor going the rounds that the sporting fraternity here to the effect that the match between Jack McAuliffe and Dick Burge, for which the Cony Island Athletic club recently offered a $45,000 purse, and subsequently withdrew it, was to be a gigantic fake. The story has created no end of gossip here and is apparently based on sound facts and figures. The supposition that the contest was to be a prearranged affair is strengthened by the fact that Judge Newton, Justice-maker of the club, has intimated to some persons that Burge, he heard, was to "lay down" on the American champion, and for these reasons he refused to have anything to do with the men. Newton, when interviewed last evening, refused to either confirm or deny the rumor.

Smallpox in New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 29.—Manuel Perry, 39 years old, for ten years a resident of this city, has been committed to the smallpox hospital, suffering from that disease. The board of health is puzzled at the origin of the case, as Perry has not been out of the city.

Deaf Mute's Skull Fractured.

CUMBERLAND MILLS, Me., Dec. 29.—An unknown man, deaf and dumb, was struck by a Portland and Rochester train here yesterday, and is at the Maine general hospital at Portland with his skull fractured. He will recover.

No News of the Umbria.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Particular inquiry was made of the officers of the steamer Manitoba, which arrived yesterday, if they had seen anything of the overdue steamer Umbria. They stated that they had not seen her.

Brakeman Loses a Leg.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 29.—Smith Sargent, brakeman on the Consolidated railroad, fell between the cars in East Bridgeport yesterday, and his right leg was terribly mangled. At the hospital the leg was amputated.

HORSE THIEVES CAPTURED.

One of Them Is Thought to Be McArthur, the New Hampshire Desperado.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 29.—On July 2 last two horses and wagons, valued at $500, were hired of Theodore Thayer of South Paris, Me., by two strangers in the place who represented to Mr. Thayer that they were peddlers. They did not return, but were finally traced to within half a mile of Dover, N. H., and there all clues were lost. Last week a friend of Mr. Thayer's saw one of the horses being driven through Chelsea and notified Mr. Thayer, who came here on Tuesday, thinking that they might be found here. He called at the police station and, after stating the case, left for the purpose of finding his friend. He had been out of the station but a few moments when he saw one of his horses being driven past city hall. He notified the officers and the man and horse were overhauled and captured. The man gave the name of J. W. Davis, and stoutly denied having stolen the horse, until last evening.

In company with Inspector Hanscomb, Mr. Thayer proceeded to the house of a man whom the officers thought might be an accomplice of Davis. They were driving down a side street when Mr. Thayer exclaimed: "There goes my other horse and team." The team was stopped and was fully identified by Mr. Thayer as his property. The man driving it was a well known Lynn citizen and readily explained how he had come by the team.

The man from whom it was purchased was traced, strangely enough, through a pair of slippers, a Christmas present, and was found and arrested at Pittsfield late yesterday afternoon. He went by the name of J. B. Cook. The police have an idea that Davis is none other than McArthur, who created such consternation in New Hampshire about the time of Almy's crime by shooting a sheriff and committing various other offenses against the laws.

Significant Figures Concerning Fall River's Capital and Labor.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 29.—The financial year of local cotton manufacturing corporations has closed, and in comparison with the year 1891, the returns show a great gain and a remarkably prosperous condition of capital and labor. From statistics of thirty-six corporations, operating fifty-nine mills, it appears that there have been paid out in dividends in 1892 the sum of $2,155,890 on a capital of $19,518,000, or an average of 11.04 per cent.

In 1891 the same corporations paid out $666,450, or an average of 4.90 per cent. Included in the dividends of 1892 are an extra dividend of $375,000 paid by the Union mills from the accumulated earnings of twelve years, and a dividend of $848,000 paid to Pocasset mill shareholders from the proceeds of large sales of real estate. Eliminating these two extra dividends, the thirty-six corporations named paid out $1,432,890, an average of 7.36 per cent, or an increase of nearly 2 1/2 per cent, over the dividends in 1891.

ENTRANCE TO COLLEGES.

Prominent Educators Are Considering the Necessary Requirements.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 29.—A meeting is being held at Harvard and will continue all the week, which may be productive of a new departure in the educational system of the country. The subject under consideration is mathematics, and the strictest scrutiny is made of the plans are made public before they are developed. These meetings are being held in Washington, Chicago, Cincinnati and other cities.

The members of the sub-committees of this educational movement include the foremost educators. At the various meetings the subjects, which are required for entrance to college are being carefully considered. The reports of the sub-committees to the parent body may have an important bearing on the question of the requirements of entrance to our colleges.

"THE AMERICAN END"

Of the Scheme for Furthering Panama Canal Interests.

A BOSTON MAN'S INTERESTING TALE

Throws Light on the Methods Pursued in the Great Deal.

Boston, Dec. 30.—Nathan Appleton of this city steps suddenly into prominence as a figure in the great Panama canal sensation. He is introduced by the New York World in a three-column history of what it calls the "American End of the Panama Scandal." Mr. Appleton was interviewed yesterday concerning the facts set forth, and gave an interesting account of his relationship to the great enterprise.

The World story deals with De Lesseps' visit to this country in 1879 to overcome the opposition manifested by the United States government at that time. In securing this end, it is claimed, some $2,500,000 was spent among legislators, lobbyists and newspapers, and De Lesseps returned to France within eleven months of his sailing thence with testimonials and evidences of his having enlisted support where had been open opposition.

One of these evidences was the organization of what was known as the "American committee." The purpose, says this historian, was chiefly to carry the idea into France that this committee was favorable to the scheme, the effect of which would be to boom the stock with the French people.

General Grant was offered the chairmanship of the committee, but he declined it, because of things he had seen and heard about it. Richard Thompson, then at the head of the navy department, was offered it and eagerly accepted, resigning his place in the navy department under the allotments of the salary of $25,000 a year.

It was to this committee that De Lesseps agreed to pay, in six payments, the sum of $2,500,000, in French money, for its "influence."

About Mr. Appleton.

Mr. Appleton is said to have become interested with De Lesseps in Paris, and ciceroneed the great engineer through his Washington experience; was the all-round agent in bringing about the consummation reached. Said Mr. Appleton: "De Lesseps came here to secure the cooperation of this country. He felt that this country would receive by far the greatest benefit of all others by the work, and that it was fitting that the two greatest republics should join hands in it. He was very greatly disappointed that it did not approach it in that spirit."

"Do you think De Lesseps had knowledge of and sanctioned use of money in buying the approval of newspapers and legislators?"

"I do not. I do not believe that any member of the board of directors voted a dollar for such purpose. The thing grew to such proportions, so many wheels developed within wheels, until it got beyond them, and intrigues brought about the calamity."

"Those dinners that you gave?"

"I have no recollection of them, and more than that I did not receive $10,000 a year. I was paid $4000 a year for eight years, or $32,000 in all up to the time the company quit paying."

"What really broke the company," continued Mr. Appleton, "was the tremendous interest it was paying, and the sums demanded by."

The Blackmailing Press.

Some $200,000,000 had been raised in France, but it was the subscription of the whole country in small amounts, so that the loss was not felt much by individuals, for few persons invested more than they could well afford.

"But the time has come to build a canal through the isthmus. This crisis I believe will assist in evolving it."

It will put the French people upon their mettle and they will go down into their pocket and build it. The whole French nation is involved in this scandal, for the reason that the press was subsidized. For eight years they were paid money for writing up the scheme. The press represents the people, and this scandal touches their pride. Already a new company has been formed for the completion of the work.

"I believe that the thing for the United States to do is to take this thing off the hands of France. We owe the French a debt of gratitude for coming to our assistance at a very critical juncture in our history. We do not half appreciate that debt, but it is a great one, and here is the opportunity to pay it in a measure. About $20,000,000 is legitimately represented in work done. The Panama rail road with all its privileges, the Colombian land grant, the buildings and all the equipment for work will easily represent $30,000,000 more. This country could buy the whole for about $100,000,000. The work is in a condition to be."

Easily Pushed to a Finish.

"If we do not do so the French will probably finish it, and that will hurry up our government at Nicaragua, and the result may be that we will have two competing canals instead of a monopoly."

"Taking the figures of the Suez canal it will pay interest on an investment of $300,000,000, and there would no doubt be business for two to make them pay."

"If our people really want the Nicaraguan canal, however," said Mr. Appleton in concluding the interview, "we should buy the land outright—own it—and suffer no protectorate, or private company complications, what are sure to result in trouble. We should own it, appropriate some $25,000,000 a year for the work and require the army and navy departments to push it to completion, which should be accomplished in five or six years."

After Iron Hall Officials.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 30.—Officials have gone east to get the supreme Iron Hall officials and return with them for trial.

ANARCHISTS AT WORK.

A Bomb Explosion at the Headquarters of the Paris Police.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—An explosion in the hall leading to the suite of offices between the ground floor and the first story of the prefecture of police has caused a sensation in this city. The explosion caused no fatality, but windows were smashed and wood work was damaged and a portion of the ceiling brought down.

The anarchist society known as the V. D. R., or Vengeurs de Ravachol, has been holding several meetings of late, since Francois was brought over from London, and it is supposed that his case is occupying their attention.

An investigation of the premises by experts has led to the discovery that the affair was undoubtedly the work of anarchists who had placed in the Entresol a bomb heavily charged with chlorate powder.

The result of the investigation has caused considerable excitement in official circles, where it is believed that the anarchists, taking advantage of the controversy attendant upon the revelation of the Panama canal scandal, have started in to inaugurate a reign of terror similar to that which prevailed when Ravachol and his colleagues caused the explosions here, when many of the wealthy residents of the city hastily packed up their household effects and took refuge in the country.

The best detectives in Paris have been detailed on the case, and arrests of anarchists, whether the real culprits or not, are certain to follow.

ENDED WITH A BANQUET.

The "Zetes" Re-establish a Chapter and Transact Other Business.

Boston, Dec. 30.—The Zeta Psi fraternity, now in convention at the Parker House, met for business again yesterday. The Beta chapter at the University of Virginia, which was suspended in 1880, has re-established. A Virginia member of the fraternity, who has just returned from traveling in Central America, came to the city yesterday, and told amusing experiences. He said he met a member of the "Zetes" while crossing the Andes. This far away brother was traveling in South American Indian costume. Yesterday afternoon closed the business sessions and the annual election of officers took place.

Just before the banquet last evening the New England chapter held its annual meeting.

The list of speakers for last evening's festivities was as follows: Hon. Charles J. Noyes, orator; Professor D. L. Mansby of Tufts college, poet, and Colonel Henry Walker, Judges Bookstaver and Miller of New York, and Hon. Seth L. Larrabee of Portland. Hon. W. P. Pepper of Philadelphia was the toastmaster.

HE STICKS TO HILL.

Murphy Makes No Pledges to Friends of Cleveland.

COMPLICATIONS IN VARIOUS STATES

Cause Great Interest in Contests for Senatorial Honors.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—As the time approaches for the election of senators in the several states, particularly in New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut and California, the interest in the outcome of the contests intensifies on account of the complications which are possible. In Pennsylvania a desperate effort is being made to compass the defeat of Senator Quay. The Republican majority in the state legislature on joint ballot being eighty, is so large that it will be difficult to secure a sufficiently formidable organization to secure his defeat. His opponents, however, are industriously at work and are claiming that they can count on forty or fifty who will refuse to vote for the senator, and if an attempt is made to force the nomination they will bolt the caucus. Senator Quay's friends, however, are not disturbed by these threatened movements, as their organization is compact and all the machinery in good shape for active work.

The Situation in New York is still full of complications. The anti-snapper and mugwump elements now claim to represent the interests of President-elect Cleveland in the solution of this controversy, and are moving every power to defeat Chairman Murphy. They allege that he is merely a henchman of Senator Hill, and unless he cuts loose from that senator and will indicate a willingness to cordially support the incoming administration, he should not be elected. Up to the present time Mr. Murphy has manifested no disposition to defer to those gentlemen. He is also understood to have declined to make any pledge and places himself on the same platform as Senator Hill—that

He Is a Democrat.

Therefore any insinuations that he will not support any Democratic administration is a reflection upon his honesty and loyalty to the Democratic party. Senator Hill remarked, before he left here to visit Albany to be in attendance at the opening of the legislature that, notwithstanding all of the assertions of the anti-snappers and mugwumps that Mr. Murphy could not be elected a senator unless he pledged himself to support the incoming administration, he would venture the prediction, that Mr. Murphy would be elected without any pledges to any one; that there was no power or strength enough in that ephemeral organization to prevent his election.

The Situation in Massachusetts is also much talked of here. The dominant sentiment among Republican senators and the colleagues of Representative Lodge is very decidedly in favor of his election. It is admitted that he is not only an able and experienced legislator, but has shown great ability in every position he has filled in the house of representatives, and that he will fully maintain the prestige of Massachusetts in the senate of the United States. It is understood that Senator Hoar, while not taking any part in the election of a senator to succeed Mr. Dawes, entertains a very high opinion of Mr. Lodge's abilities, and is gratified at the prospect of his election.

It is the impression here that Senator Hawley will succeed himself in Connecticut. Among his associates in the senate he is held in very high esteem. His opponent, Governor Bulkeley, is an untiring worker and a man of ability and wealth. He has a strong following in the state, but it is not deemed sufficient to overcome the strength of Senator Hawley.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 4.

Issued by Commander Weissert to Members of the Grand Army.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 30.—Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic A. G. Weissert has issued general order No. 4. He announces the formation of a national association of ex-army and navy chaplains, of which T. H. Haggerty of St. Louis is president. He also calls attention to violations of the rule prohibiting the naming of posts after living persons.

Regarding the decoration of graves of Union soldiers within the southern states, it is announced that Quartermaster General John Taylor of Philadelphia will receive contributions for a fund for the purchase of supplies for the decoration of such graves, the local posts in most cases being unable to provide the required means.

That Literary Ring.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Post states that the literary man, who failed to secure access to the state department papers, as to which sensational articles have been published, is W. H. Smith, former secretary of state of Ohio. Mr. Smith, The Post says, was denied access to state department papers when Mr. Dwight was in charge of the state department library.

Charged with Cruelty to Seniors.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—In the United States district court, Daniel C. Nichols, master, Robert Crosby, first mate, and Daniel McCaskell, second mate of the ship Wandering Jew, were put on trial on a charge of inflicting cruel and unusual punishment on seven members of the crew. Nichols and Crosby are tried on two indictments and McCaskell on one.

Will it go right along for days at a time, and then fall behind several minutes in a day? Or does it go sometimes too fast and at other times slow?

Do you sometimes find it stopping?

Have you taken it again and again to your watchmaker and have it returned to you no better, or possible worse than before?

A great many who read this will quickly and emphatically answer in the affirmative. We know this from the way a great many talk when bringing their watches for repairs.

Now, there must be a cause for the trouble, but not everyone, even though he may have worked twenty years at the business, can find it out. It requires a man who not only has a knowledge of the business, but who has patience enough to use his reason and ferret out the cause of the trouble.

We take pride in this branch of our business, and do not trust it to a hired man, but sit at the bench and do the job.

When it is done we guarantee the watch to perform satisfactorily, or refund the money.

THE ACTION of the City Council at its meeting this week in refusing to establish a salary for the Water Commissioners is causing considerable comment, and did time admit it would not be surprising if the vote was reversed. We cannot see no comparison with the duties of the commissioners and any other board, unless it be the Assessors, and these are under salary. The trustees of the Library have the expenditure of less than $5000 annually, the Park Commissioners but a $1000, the Managers of Public Burial places $2,600 or $3000, the Managers of the Adams Academy have nothing, and it is argued because these receive no salary the Water Commissioners should not. How different the duties!

The chief duty of the Commissioners is to so manage the water works that they will return the largest possible income. The greater the net income the less the burden will be on the taxpayers, for the debt will be wiped out and the water rate will be reduced. The expenditure of money is but a small item in the department compared with the above duties.

Would it be a precedent to establish a salary for the Water board? We think not. We have already noted that the Assessors are a salaried board, so are the Board of Registrars and the Board of Engineers of the Fire Department, and if we mistake not the chairmen or secretaries of other boards receive pay.

To refuse a salary to the Board of Water Commissioners, a salary which would only cover individual expenses, is a serious blow to the department. It shows a bad spirit and we fear that the board will not take the interest they otherwise would. There should not be frequent changes in the board.

Mr. Herbert T. Whitman, Chairman of the board of Water Commissioners, when interviewed by the LEDGER, in regard to the action of the City Council in refusing to grant a salary for its services, said as far as he knew the question of salary had never been discussed by the board and as far as he was concerned that matter did not have any weight with him when he accepted the office. His only reason in accepting was for the interest he had in the city's welfare. As to whether or not he thought the board should receive compensation for its services, Mr. Whitman would not say, but he should serve out his term of office whether he received a salary or not.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Moravia, which brought the cholera to our shores last summer, was the first steamer to bring any tidings of the missing Umbria. The Moravia has evidently returned.

From the present outlook, we will soon have a national quarantine system. It cannot come any too soon.

The editor of the Brockton Enterprise should be present at tomorrow evening's council meeting, and he will find very few members of a retiring disposition.

Boston's common council has refused to abolish the art commission. They should now elect Alderman Keenan as a member of the commission.

If Captain McKay of the Umbria, is anything like our genial night patrolman, he will bring his vessel into port safe and sound.

If Mr. Cleveland had only told Mr. Murphy before Nov. 8, what he thought of him, there might have been a different tale to tell.

The Baltimore Sun say that the grown up girls use more slang than boys, but then, Baltimore isn't Boston.

Mr. Gladstone celebrated his eighty-third birthday yesterday. Do the good die young?

They are throwing bombs in Paris again. Bomb throwers never gain much sympathy.

New Depots.

It is understood that a number of prominent citizens waited upon the Old Colony officials the first of the week in regard to the erection of a new depot in Quincy but their efforts do not seem to have resulted favorably as the old depot is being patched up. It is however rumored that in the near future that the Quincy and Quincy Adams depots will be done away with and a new depot will be erected half way between the two. It is also said that the residents in the vicinity of Brooks avenue will petition the Old Colony to build a depot on the Granite branch near Liberty street.

HIGH TEA AT QUINCY POINT.

An Entertainment Under Auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society connected with the Congregational church gave a high tea on Thursday evening. High tea was served between 5 and 7 o'clock. Mrs. T. B. Thomas poured the tea and Mrs. H. M. Frederhen the chocolate. Miss Margaret L. Thomas, Miss Eva E. Hall, Miss Mattie Bowker and Miss Pauline Wilkins made a pretty corps of assistants.

The entertainment was presented by the following named artists: Miss Alice Crane, pianist; Mrs. W. Sherman Thompson, reader; Miss Eva E. Hall, reader; Mr. Walter Arnold of Wollaston, baritone soloist; Master Earl of West Somerville, cornetist.

Miss Crane's selections were much enjoyed. Mrs. Thompson read twice and her recitations were received with hearty applause, and she graciously responded to an encore. Miss Hall is a favorite with Point audiences and read in her usual good style. Mr. Arnold was in good voice and rendered his selections with feeling. Master Earl played the cornet well and gives promise of a bright future.

The entertainment was pronounced good and a large number were in attendance.

WEYMOUTH.

The funeral of Thomas Lynch who was drowned in Whitman's pond, Tuesday night, was held from the church of the Immaculate Conception this morning, mass being celebrated by Rev. Fr. Bagley. The interment was at the Catholic cemetery, East Weymouth.

The funeral of Mrs. Abigail E. W. Randall was held from the Congregational church, East Weymouth, Thursday afternoon, services being conducted by Rev. Daniel Evans. The interment was at the Village cemetery, East Weymouth.

Christmas at the Hospital.

The patients at the Hospital had a very pleasant Christmas day, through the kindness of Mrs. Bigelow, Mr. Rice and the Hospital Ten. Mrs. Bigelow provided money for a Christmas tree, and a present for each patient. Several of the children who had been patients in the Hospital, in the past, were brought in for the afternoon, and were each given by Mr. Rice a silver dollar in a purse. The "Hospital Ten" provided a present for each patient and Mrs. George B. Rice sang to the children. The afternoon was altogether very pleasant and the children were delighted.

SPECIAL TO STONE READERS

A new serial, "The Hidden City," by Walter H. McDougall, will begin next Wednesday.

Four brothers who are priests in Cincinnati recently assisted a younger brother who had just been ordained, in celebrating his first high mass.

The hill near Jerusalem where the crucifixion of Jesus occurred is formed of limestone. The shores of the Dead sea are lined with pumice stone, showered out of some volcano that destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, which cities finally sank beneath the waters of the Dead sea.

No wonder the fish crop is never "short." The flounders lay 7,000,000 eggs annually; several others from 1,000,000 to 3,000,000, while the turbot is credited with depositing from 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 during each breeding season.

A young lady from Indiana was rescued from drowning the other day, and she has sent the young man four quarts of butter-nuts as a token of appreciation.

The salaries of the Queen's maids of honor are $300 per annum, and should one of them be married it is customary for the Queen to make her a present of $1000.

About the last business of many of the city governments of 1892 was the municipal lighting act, which in most cases seems to have received favorable consideration.

Paying Funeral Expenses in Advance.

Workmen put up a telephone some weeks ago in an office in a building near the Brooklyn navy yard, and later on other workmen carried in a number of coffins of various sizes and styles of finish and set them up in different ornamental positions. Neighbors looked on with a curious sort of interest. All this weird activity was the outfitting of a business that is something brand new in corporate enterprise. It was the practical beginning of a project of enabling citizens to provide while still alive for their own or their friends' burial upon the same system as life insurance is carried on, and at rates that are a slash at the "union prices" of the Undertakers' association. The coffins were samples of the cut rate wares.

The new business is done by a series of contracts with customers whereby the projectors of the burial business agree to furnish decent burial at prices that range anywhere from $30 for a child to $250 for an adult. A $30 interment, for instance, is obtained by paying 30 cents signing a contract and 80 cents monthly thereafter until the $30 is paid. At the $250 burial the rate is raised to $2.50 on signing and $2.50 a month.

The contracts contain this binding clause:

The preparation and preservation of the body for interment. One casket and name plate. Chestnut or oak outside case. Extra line shroud. Door band. Hearse and five coaches. Attendance of undertaker at funeral. Opening and filling the grave.—New York Sun.

Catching a Runaway Car.

As a freight train was pulling out past Sheridan Station, seven miles from Pittsburg, on the Panhandle railroad, a heavily loaded car, the last of the train, broke loose and started back on the down grade toward Pittsburg.

The operator at Sheridan telegraphed back over the line all the way to Pittsburg to look out for the runaway car. At Ingram station stood an engine ready to go out. When the operator there got word that a loose car was flying back over the track he notified the engineer and fireman of the engine, and they prepared to pursue the car. Within a few minutes the runaway came thundering along at the rate of thirty miles an hour. As soon as it passed the engine started after it.

Then ensued a wild and exciting chase. The car flew along and the engine after it. Over the long 90-foot high trestle at Temperanceville the two thundered, and the engine caught up to the runaway near the Point Bridge station. The engineer ran back over the tender, coupled onto the car and then began to slow up, but did not stop until he was at the Birmingham station in the city. There a large crowd of people had gathered to see the pursued and pursuer come in, greeting both with a cheer.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

A New Rose.

It is curious that the greatest attraction of the chrysanthemum show should be a new rose, magnificent clusters of which are to be found in the foyer. It is called the American Belle, and it is a sport from the American Beauty. John Burton, of Chestnut Hill, a great rose grower, while growing "American Beauties" found this variation, and this sport of nature will bring him a small fortune. It happens that as the American Beauty fades it grows darker, and therefore loses its delicacy. The sport is lighter, and as it fades grows lighter still—pales and pales, like a fading maiden dying with unrequited love or consumption.

It is an artistic rose, and has made a great hit. It has taken two silver cups—one at the New York show just closed. It got a silver medal at the Boston show, and it takes the medal in the show here. So of course it must be a beauty. Half a dozen firms of florists have offered to take all the flowers Mr. Burton has at his own prices. As yet he has no cuttings for the market, so that he has a monopoly of the flower.—Philadelphia Times.

Opinions of a Dead Millionaire.

A disinterested citizen gathered some opinions touching a dead millionaire. A country clergyman asked, "He got his money by a species of gambling, didn't he?" A German barber's comment was, "Vell, he had to loaf his millions behind him!" A naval officer was glad of the end. A young business man hoped that the country would never again see such a career. An elevated railway guard said: "He's dead, and I'm sorry for it. Mebbe he done them as tried to do him, but he wanted the company to give us two suits of clothes a year or raise our pay."—New York Letter.

Urging a Canal System for Europe.

The president of the Vienna corn exchange in a recent speech said that grain growing in Europe has ceased to be remunerative, owing to the development of new agricultural regions and to the lowering of railroad rates. The only chance he could see for the European farmer was in the construction of a network of canals in central Europe. Cheap water transportation would help the European farmer against the competition of the United States, India and Australia.

Columbus on the Stage.

The English actor, Charles Warner, is among the players who intend to make a tour of the United States this year, and he will bring with him a four act drama written for him by Henry Hamilton, of which Columbus is the hero. THE MISSING UMBRIA.

She Was Sighted Christmas Day but Asked for No Help.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Steamer Gallico sighted the Umbria Dec. 23. She had three red signals but asked for no help.

The steamer Lahn, which arrived here this morning, reports having seen nothing of the Umbria. Captain Helmsman states that he had not sighted the missing steamer. She has no doubt drifted away to the south of the regular course some hundred miles or more.

In case any disaster befalls the Umbria, by which any of the passengers lose their lives, it will be the first case in the history of the Cunard line, which was started in 1841.

Green Goods Men Are Busy.

Boston, Dec. 30.—New York and New Jersey "green goods" concerns have turned their attention to working up a Boston business this winter, and their circulars enclosing samples of new one dollar bills, have been received in this city in great quantities already. GRAND TESTIMONIAL.

Clan McGregor Secures the Trophy Won by Its Tug of War Team.

Clan McGregor No. 5, O. S. C., tendered a grand testimonial to its tug of war team, at Doble's hall, Thursday evening, the affair being made one of social enjoyment to the large number present. The programme of the evening opened with a quartette by Messrs Huntington and Esson and Messrs. Bowman and Marr, which was followed by a reading by Miss B. Porterfield. Mr. Edwards, president of the amalgamated picnic committee, was then introduced. Mr. Edwards in a few words said he was present to place in the keeping of Clan McGregor the trophy which they had twice won but which must be again won by them before they would be able to call it their own. Chief Copland accepted the trophy in behalf of Clan McGregor and assured the committee that in years to come should they visit this clan they would see it in its case in their hall.

The presentation was followed by solos by Miss Huntington and Miss Esson, a piano solo by Mrs. Rhines and another selection by the quartette.

Royal secretary, Peter Kerr, was expected to be present to present a testimonial to the tug of war team, which was composed of Angus McNeill, Norman E. Ross, Alexander Souden, Thomas Johnson, John McLeod and William Dickey, but he was detained by sickness and this duty was given to Chief Copland who read the testimonial which was nicely executed and presented it to the team.

This closed the entertainment, and the floor was soon cleared for dancing, which was enjoyed until a late hour, music being furnished by Young's orchestra.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

The trophy stands about two feet high and is in the form of a silver cup, exquisitely designed, and bears on its face many emblems of the order, together with an inscription setting forth that for two years in succession it has been captured by Clan McGregor.

The testimonial, which is handsomely engrossed, congratulates the team on their achievements and that they are members of Clan McGregor, and that they have added lustre to her name by the heroic manner in which they maintained her reputation against all opponents. The contest was not without considerable sacrifice on their part. The testimonial is signed by Chief James Copland, William Pratt, William Norris, Alexander Emile, John Westland and Albion I. Dixon.

What it Cost Haverhill.

The city of Haverhill, it will be remembered, voted recently to purchase the water works in that city. The award has been made, and the following reports to the aldermen of that city, at the meeting this week, will be of interest, as they show the expenses incurred and how the money was spent:

The special committee on water supply announced that the total cost of the proceedings of the committee of 1892 was $427.50.

The expenses after it was voted to purchase the franchise of the Haverhill water works, were as follows: Counsel fees, $21,150; salary of expert witnesses, $600.08; expenses of these witnesses, $541.25; incidental expenses, $1,050.85; expenses of counsel, $4,970; salary of stenographers, etc., $1,316.50, making a total expense of $28,585.35.

Week of Prayer.

The "Week of Prayer" will be observed at the Atlantic Memorial church every evening next week with the exception of Saturday. The order of exercises as arranged are, at 8 o'clock, praise service; 8:20, sermon; 8:35, devotional; 9 o'clock, closing. The pastor has announced the following sermons for next week: Sunday evening, "The Lord's Love"; Tuesday evening, "The power of God"; Wednesday evening, "Concerning habit"; Thursday evening, "Life's responsibilities"; Friday evening, "Indecision."

The Horse-thief Protection society of Dedham, organized in 1890, held its annual meeting Thursday evening. Dr. John W. Chase is the new president. The organization includes the most prominent residents of the town.

When the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting was done away with, a good many of the shiftless sort supposed that they had altogether escaped the meeting of that obligation. From all over the state comes complaint of an increased number of delinquents, which shows that many who have heretofore relied upon politicians to pay their poll taxes for them are now left to shirk for themselves. They may be good shirkers, but taxes and death are hard things to avoid.

There is a man in Waltham who does not believe the city needs a mayor. He thinks that aldermen and the different boards all that would be necessary, and would allow the aldermen to have charge of the expenditure of money. Few, we believe, will endorse such a policy of divided responsibility.

Don't Shiver, Don't Shake.

Let prudence claim your judgement, and transfer for you those iceberg rooms into warm, comfortable abodes. Do you realize that you can buy parlor stoves from $2.84 to $25.00, Comforters from $5 cts. to $2.38, Blankets from $1.15 to $4.00. Such inducements should claim your consideration, and Henry L. Kincaide & Co. can readily save you from 5 to 25 per cent. on just such purchases.

Renan's Poverty.

Contrary to what is supposed by many, M. Ernest Renan left little private fortune to his family. So much so is this the case that M. Renan intends to sell the library of his deceased husband while awaiting the national pension which parliament will make no difficulty in granting her. M. Berthelot, the life-long friend of Renan, says that the latter left the world almost as poor as he was on the day when he quitted Saint-Sulpice in order to face the struggle for existence. Renan had the same disdain for money, per se, towards the end of his career that he had when he said to the imperial minister who offered him a lucrative post, "Sit tecum tua pecunia!" All he wanted was sufficient to enable him to pursue his studies in ease and comfort.

As a professor of the College of France Renan had 10,000 francs, or $400 a year, from which 5 per cent. was deducted in order to form a pension. As director of the establishment he had $80 yearly and rooms, $80 also as fees for attending committees and $90 for attendances at the Institute of France. On the whole, M. Berthelot estimates that Renan's official emoluments amounted to 15,000 francs a year, or $600. He had sold all rights in his literary works to his publishers, and had to live for many years on what he earned by writing. These "revelations" about M. Renan's private means are made by M. Berthelot in order to do away with the notion that as a writer and a functionary his friend had made a large fortune.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

The Governor of Tennessee.

Judge Turney, governor of Tennessee, though he has been on the supreme bench for twenty-two years, is a farmer. He has a magnificent old typical southern home in Franklin county known as Wolf's Crag. He is sixty-five years old, 6 feet 4 inches tall, has broad shoulders and weighs 260 pounds. He wears a full, short gray beard. With the exception of a slight rheumatic affection he is hale and hearty. His rheumatism has caused him to abandon deer and fox hunting, of which he has been a great lover. At Wolf's Crag he has his pack of dogs and the horses which have carried him on many a fox hunt.

For years he has been noted as the best deer shot in the state. Men who have been with him on the hunt say he can bring down a deer running at full speed 100 yards distant. He is one of the people. All over the state he is known as "Old Pete Turney." It was his country under his leadership which first succeeded from the Union. Before the state of Tennessee had seceded he had organized the first Tennessee regiment and gone to the front. Though many times offered promotion, he declined to leave his regiment and went through the war as colonel of the First Tennessee. At the battle of Seven Pines he was shot through the face.—New York World.

Thinning Them Out.

A new device for plucking strangers has been invented by the keeper of a big Clark street restaurant. He didn't want to frighten regular customers away by raising prices on the bill of fare, and yet he found that he was a shabby fellow for letting housekeepers, saloons and hotels in overcharging. Yesterday a bright idea struck him and he promptly put it in operation. A waiter gave the snap away. "I've eaten there for six months," said a well known merchant, "and seldom had cause for complaint. Last night I ordered a sirloin steak, as I had often done before. It was much thinner than usual, but I was not particularly hungry and did not complain. This morning I was served with a still thinner one and kicked. Then the waiter told me the steaks were all being cut thinner this week because so many strangers were in town, and the boss wanted to get more for meals without driving away the regulars. It's the same way everywhere else. The pies are smaller; so are the pots of butter, and the proprietor has actually run in a lot of new coffee cups that hold considerably less than the old ones."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cost of the World's Fair.

More money has already been paid out in creating the World's fair than the directors thought would be necessary to complete it when congress voted to send the exposition to Chicago. Ten million dollars was thought to be the limit then. Auditor Ackerman's report shows that the expenditures to Dec. 1 have been $12,460,236.61. The receipts have been $12,229,451.93. The available balance on hand Dec. 1 was $636,068.33, about enough to last two weeks at the present rate of expenditures, but the souvenir coins are coming, and the directors have nearly $2,000,000 yet in exposition bonds from which no capital has been received.—Chicago Letter.

Trips to the Chicago Exhibition.

Members of the Regent Street Polytechnic, London, are going to show Americans what such an institution can do in the way of pleasure trips to the Chicago exhibition next year. Nearly 3,000 berths have already been secured for the daring Polytechnicians and for friends in various parts of the kingdom, who intend to celebrate the discovery of America by visiting the World's fair in fortnightly parties during the year.—London Tit-Bits.

Caused by a Comet.

Some learned scientific guessers have contended that the deluge of Noah's time was caused by a comet disturbing the earth's atmosphere. Ever since the time set for Biela's comet to strike the earth we have had rain. Has the comet which did not strike us caused the rain? If so will the rain continue till we have another deluge? Are we out of danger yet?—Buffalo Express.

NEW YEAR'S, '93

A NEW YEAR'S HYMN.

New life and light! new rapture and new joy! New hopes, though all these fall, to light my days. Oh, take my heart's delight in these thy gifts; My thanks and praise, O Lord! my thanks and praise!

Dusty the way has been, and long and dark; Even now I scarce dare hope, for hope betrays. O faithful heart, to him who cares for thee, Give now thy thanks and praise! thy thanks and praise!

Surely the sun will shine throughout the land; Surely her miracles will work the spring; Life stands revealed where all seemed drear and dead. O heart! my heart! thou mayst give thanks and sing.

Sing and rejoice! Ever give thanks and sing! Life's rule! Death is not, though it seem to be! Love sleeps not! God is an eternal king! His thought shall reach even to my heart and me!

—Philadelphia Ledger.

AN OLD FOGY'S MONEY

"Here's your newspaper, Uncle Nat," said Gladys Fane. "I've aired it myself, to make sure that there isn't the least particle of damp about it. And your slippers—oh, here they are! Is the screen just in the right place? And now I'll go and see about the coffee—I have such a nice French recipe for making it that Louie Alden sent me from Paris."

All this time Esther Ellis stood quietly by the window, looking out at the snow which was falling—falling, a cloud of blinding, eddying white, blotting out the tall fir trees, thatching the gateposts with eider down and covering the carriage drive with a mantle of velvet softness.

Esther was tall and slight, with dreamy blue eyes, brown hair brushed back from her temples, and a delicate, nervous mouth. She had none of her cousin Gladys' dimpled beauty nor tropical richness of complexion, and she felt the contrast painfully in her heart.

"Pull the shade down a little, Esther," said Mr. Fane sharply. "Don't you see how the light is blinding my eyes? But you never notice things as Gladys does."

Esther obeyed hastily. "You needn't jerk it so," said Uncle Fane. "Now shut the closet door—it has been squeaking these five minutes on its hinges in a way to set a man's teeth on edge."

"I didn't observe it, uncle."

"That's exactly what I'm saying—you don't notice my comfort or discomfort as Gladys does. Gladys, now, is really fond of me. Look at these slippers; she has crocheted them for me while you were sitting dreaming over your novels."

Esther opened her lips as if to speak; then she closed them again.

The slippers had assuredly been Gladys' gift to Uncle Fane; but was it possible Gladys had concealed the fact that she (Esther) had done all the work at Gladys' coaxing request?

She was too honorable to betray the little diplomat, who just then came in with a package of new slippers and all the same she felt the injustice in her heart.

Uncle Fane was rich and childless. He had taken the orphan, Esther Ellis, to bring up—and his brother, a keen Philadelphia lawyer, had sent Gladys to make him a prolonged visit on the chance of her being able to ingratiate herself into the affections of the rich old man.

"Oh, papa," pleaded Gladys, "it will be worse than Egyptian bondage! I hate old people!"

"But you don't hate money—do you, Glad? And there's no reason you shouldn't be this old man's heiress as well as Esther Ellis."

"Oh, Esther Ellis! I can cut Esther Ellis out easily enough," said handsome Gladys, with an exulting laugh. "And she wouldn't know how to spend it if she had it, too poor spirited thing! Well, I suppose it's worth a little hard work to get hold of old Uncle Fane's shooks, and he certainly can't last forever!"

So Gladys had come, smiling and sweet voiced, to the old stone house, and Esther's affectionate little heart was sore with jealous pangs, all the more bitter because they were unuttered.

"Uncle, darling, can't we have a New Year's party at the old house? Gladys had suddenly burst out one day. "The down stairs rooms could be thrown into one so beautifully, and I could find such lovely spruce and hemlock boughs in the woods to decorate the doors and cornices, and this is just a nice distance by railroad for people to come. Please, uncle, say that I may!"

"No, my dear," said Mr. Fane, setting his lips together in that Napoleonic way he had when he particularly meant things. "I hate parties and confusion, and when my poor wife died from pneumonia, brought on by sitting in a draft at somebody's paltry birthday party, I vowed a vow that no such foolery should ever go on in this house."

"Yes; but, uncle, we won't!" "Not!" said Uncle Fane. And even Gladys had not the audacity to press matters further.

"It's too bad," pouted Gladys to her cousin Esther. "He's a perfect old dog in the manger. Does he suppose nobody ever is to be young any more because he is old?"

"He has a right to his own way in his own house, Gladys," remonstrated Esther.

"You are as bad as he is," said Gladys.

On this particular day, when the breakfast was removed, Esther brought in the little writing desk, strewn with papers, at which she ordinarily wrote to her uncle's dictation, but the old man waived her impatiently away.

"Call Gladys," said he. "She is a quicker amanuensis than you are, and she writes a round, clerklike hand. I'll have Gladys do the copying for me henceforward."

Gladys flashed a triumphant glance across the table at her cousin, and Esther, meekly replying, "Very well, uncle," went away to cry in her own room.

For, shy and reticent as she was in her manner, she really did love Uncle Fane.

"He's falling—I'm sure he's falling!" said Gladys to Esther. "He went to sleep twice while I was writing that tedious nonsense about stars and parallels and asteroids to his dictation and slept a good long time, and he's actually going up to Philadelphia to read that mass of four syllabled dullness to some scientific convention or other. When I heard that I made up my mind and wrote off a lot of letters while he was napping to some nice young people I know."

"Letters, Gladys! What for?" "To invite them to a merry gathering here to the Old Year out and the New Year in," laughed Gladys. "I told Susie Lapham to order the supper from Datori's, and I authorized Jim Le Con-vray to engage a pianist and two violinists. Now don't look so horrified. Uncle Nat will be none the wiser, and he'll be enjoying himself at his scientific convention, so why shouldn't we go in for a bit of fun too? And if you know what color is most becoming to you, Essie, you'll order a heliotrope dress for the occasion. You are quite decent looking in heliotrope!"

"I shall certainly countenance no such affair, Gladys!" said Esther decidedly. "Nothing is further from my thoughts than openly to disobey Uncle Nat."

"But you won't betray me, Esther? You wouldn't be so dishonorable?" "It would be still more dishonorable to deceive Uncle Nat!" protested Esther. "Promise me, Gladys, to abandon the whole affair!"

And to her great relief Gladys promised, pouting and ready to cry, however. Going to Philadelphia was a great event in Mr. Fane's life. Twice—three times Gladys had to copy the somewhat prolix paper which he proposed to read before the members of his scientific club, and at the very last it was taken out of her hands and sent to a typewriting young damsel in the neighborhood.

His portmanteau was carefully packed and repacked; a score of directions was reiterated to every one in the house, and at last he went away, tucked carefully up in the sleigh, with fur gloves, silk mufflers and arctic rubbers without end.

"What a dreadful old molly coddle he is, to be sure!" said irreverent Gladys. And when the cutter came jingling back from the station she beckoned to little Caesar to stop.

"I'm going to the station myself," said she.

"Oh, Gladys, what for?" "To send half a dozen telegrams or so," said the city young lady composedly, "to hurry up matters about my New Year's party."

"Your New Year's party! I thought you had given it up, Gladys."

"Not I. If you don't want to come to it, Miss Stiff-and-prim, you needn't. But I mean to have it, all the same!" and Gladys danced merrily off to the sleigh, and whirled away like a laughing sprite into the brilliant winter sunshine.

New Year's eve came, and for a wonder it neither rained, sleeted nor snowed. The roads were like firm, beautiful alabaster; the sky all studded with glittering stars; the air just cold enough to be bracing and invigorating. The Fane house was illuminated from garret to cellar, the band was clashing out gay music, and the train from Philadelphia had brought a goodly number of young people in gala array, who were to be re-enforced by the neighbors, all of whom were bound over to secrecy.

Gladys, in a blue silk dress, draped with clouds of azure tulle, which had been charged to Uncle Fane's account, was receiving them most graciously, and the tide of gaiety was at its highest when the head waiter came to ask her if it was her pleasure that the supper should be served.

"Let's go down and look at the table, Jim," she said to young Mr. Le Con-vray, who seemed to act as her regent in chief, "to make sure that it's all right before we invite our friends to eat, drink and be merry."

"Who's that old cove just coming in at the opposite door—the caterer himself," said facetious Le Con-vray, "or some tramp who has smelled the frying oysters and chicken croquettes under the kitchen windows?"

Gladys dropped her escort's arm and grew pale as ashes.

"Uncle Nat!" she gasped.

"A happy New Year, my dear," said Uncle Nat, chuckling. "You hardly expected to see me here, did you? A fine supper this you have prepared. I'll just drink a cup of coffee and eat a little of this very excellent chicken salad before I go up to my room. You see, the old man isn't quite so ignorant of what is going on as you supposed he was."

"Esther has turned spy and informer!" cried Gladys. "I never, never will forgive her!"

"Not at all, my dear; not at all," said Uncle Fane. "But I chanced to find among the pages of my astronomical manuscript a half finished letter from yourself to some city friend, in which you described in a very spirited way me and my household, and your intention of outwitting both me and Esther Ellis by giving a New Year's party in defiance of us both. Esther, you said, was too loyal to the old fogy to hear of such a thing, but that you were going to have your own way in spite of her. Very well, my dear; you've had it. But there's another thing you haven't got, and won't have, and that is one solitary, single cent of the old fogy's money! Hush! What's that? Ah, the bells in the village steeple ringing in the New Year!"

At the same moment little Essie, dressed in a gray flannel wrapper, came running down stairs and flew into Mr. Fane's arms.

"Uncle Nat! Oh, Uncle Nat!" she cried.

WAS BENT ON MURDER.

Italian Terrorizes the Crew of a Gloucester Schooner.

FLOURISHES A DIRT AND REVOLVER.

Vessel Compelled to Put into Port—land to Land Him.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 30.—The schooner Vesta, Captain McDonald, of Gloucester, Mass., put in here yesterday to land an Italian sailor, Gracani Nazaro, who had attempted to murder the crew. The man was shipped three weeks ago in Gloucester. When the vessel reached the open sea, the Italian, whose movements on deck are surprisingly catlike, would run up the ratlines, and, like a monkey, jump about in the rigging, much to the amazement of the crew. At the cross-trees he scanned the horizon for hours. After salting the herring, heads of squids and other refuse of fish in a firkin, he announced his intention of taking the vessel to France.

For the cook, Anton Elos, he became possessed of more than brotherly love, which soon Changed Into Intense Hatred.

One day, leaving the cook in the fore-castle, the Italian went on deck, removed the fore-castle, and, covering the top with canvas, he stood with an upraised gaff ready, when the cook ascended the fore-castle stairs, to brain him as he stepped through the opening into the galley. He then leaped into the fore-castle, drew a dirt, dipped his fingers in a water-pail, gazed upwards, closed his eyes, muttered something in Italian, rushed to George Haynes' berth and showed by numerous stabs how he would kill Haynes when asleep. As he ceased the exhibition he exclaimed: "Me killa one more tonight! Me killa two more!"

He then went to the cabin, stole the captain's revolver and returned to the ratlines, where he in Italian, closing in English by calling the captain and crew the vilest names. He was secured Dec. 15 and tied with ropes. A search did not reveal a missing revolver, which had probably been lost overboard. As he quieted down somewhat Dec. 18 he was set at liberty, but soon became irrational, and was tied securely the night of the 18th. Since then he has been confined and has been fed, when he would eat, by the cook.

Thursday he freed himself, entered the galley and Got a Large Carving Knife,

which he secreted in his berth. The cook fortunately discovered the captive to be free, recovered the knife and at once had him secured again.

Officer Norton went to the vessel with Captain McDonald after the schooner arrived here, and took the man into custody.

Captain McDonald has two consular checks on the Banca Centrale Italiana, Boston, which shows that the sailor has $50 on deposit there. The Italian has often been before the courts for assaults. His home is in Trapani, Italy. He has been in America nine years.

The sailor, when he arrived at the police station, was searched and ordered to reside in the Massachusetts police department claim that he could not be held here unless the expenses were secured.

The schooner sailed for Gloucester yesterday afternoon.

HURLED IN ALL DIRECTIONS.

Eight Men Narrowly Escape Death from a Dynamite Blast.

HAZLETON, Pa., Dec. 29.—An explosion occurred at Millersville, yesterday, by which eight men narrowly escaped instant death. As it is, three of them are dangerously wounded, and the other five less seriously hurt. The men were engaged in blasting rock on a coal stripping. A charge had been inserted. One of the men struck the dynamite with his pick. A terrific explosion followed.

How the men escaped death is a mystery. The mine car which had been placed near the spot to be loaded was smashed into splinters. Tons of rock and dirt were thrown high into the air. The workmen were struck by the flying debris and hurled in all directions. It was thought that all had been killed. The little town was wildly excited, and hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the accident.

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Rev. William Hammond Adds Another Woman to His String of Victims.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—It is learned in this city that Rev. William Hammond, a New England clergyman, who has made quite a reputation as a confidence man, swindler and bigamist, has transferred his criminal practices to Auckland, New Zealand, where, after marrying a wealthy widow and securing $50,000 of her money, left her to go to Japan. This is his ninth known marriage. He has changed his religion as often as he has changed wives, and he has been influential as a churchman, a Mason, an Old Fellow, and a Son of Temperance. He has announced that he intends to visit the World's fair, where officers from many states will welcome him.

Forger Gridley Goes to New York.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Detective Carey of New York arrived here yesterday, and later in the day returned to New York, having in custody Mallory W. Gridley, who was arrested here Dec. 12 for passing worthless checks in this city. He was wanted for similar crimes in that state, and the Boston police gladly gave him to Superintendent Byrne.

A Skater Missing.

BEVERLY, Mass., Dec. 29.—John McMillan, aged 32, started to skate from the town end of Wenham lake, where he was at work, to the upper end, where he lived, last Tuesday, since when nothing has been heard from him. It is supposed he skated into a hole and was drowned.

And Still Another.

SALFORD, Mass., Dec. 29.—Judge Corcoran has issued the final injunction restraining the Order of the World from doing business. J. R. Baldwin of Lynn has been appointed receiver, with bonds at $30,000.

Smith Defeats Van Heest.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Featherweights Johnnie Van Heest and Sol Smith fought for a purse of $2500 at the California club, and Van Heest was knocked out in the fourteenth round.

FREE AT LAST.

Burglar Dunlap Leaves with Mrs. Rowland for New York.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—James Dunlap, the Northampton bank robber, was released from the Charlestown prison yesterday. The official documents were delivered to William Lowrey by Mrs. Mary S. Rowland, Dunlap's life-long friend. The prisoner was cordially congratulated by the prison officers and he bade them a hearty farewell. Mrs. Rowland and Dunlap left for New York. He has not yet made his plans for the future.

Dunlap was sentenced to twenty years in state prison for breaking into the Northampton bank in company with others and robbing the institution. He went to state prison Jan. 1, 1878, and by good behavior while there he had reduced his time so that if not pardoned he would have been released in due course of law Feb. 16, 1894.

Mrs. Rowland's interest in him is due to a promise made Scott, her former husband, on his deathbed, she says. Scott insisted that he let Dunlap into the burglary, and he made her promise that she would never cease her efforts for his pardon and release. She has fulfilled her promise.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Jim Dunlap, accompanied by Mrs. Rowland, arrived here from Boston last evening. Mrs. Rowland smuggled Dunlap to the residence of a friend. Mrs. Rowland said that for the present Dunlap's stopping place would be kept a secret. "The man has nothing to say," she said, "and won't have for some time. He is dazed and acts like a man in a dream. It is his first week to be accustomed to his new life. He talked but little on the trip here, but seemed to be thinking much."

INAUGURATION CEREMONIES.

Washington Will Witness a Scene of Splendor Never Equalled.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—James L. Norris has been decided upon by Mr. Harrity as the man to manage the inauguration features. A general committee of fifty was appointed with Colonel Berret as chairman. He was given authority to enlarge the committee.

An executive committee of twenty-one was selected from the whole committee, and of this working committee Mr. Norris was made chairman.

Colonel Berret is the gentleman who was chairman of the inauguration committee eight years ago. That was the greatest inauguration ever known in the history of such affairs. He says that the one next March will surpass the one of eight years ago as far as that surpassed all its predecessors. Mr. Norris is an energetic man, capable of any amount of work, and possessed of the rare faculty of getting the best out of his subordinates there is in him.

There is no doubt that the inauguration next spring will be the biggest and most brilliant affair of the kind ever witnessed in this country. The committee has taken a suite of six offices in the Lenthall building, one of the principal business blocks in the city, across the street from the treasury, and within a stone's throw of the White House, and the work of preparation has begun in earnest.

General Martin T. McMahon of New York city is to be grand marshal of the Cleveland inaugural parade.

A TRIPLE BURIAL.

Simple and Impressive Ceremonies Over the Remains of the Tarzums.

SHARON, Vt., Dec. 30.—The church bells of Sharon tolled a sad funeral knell yesterday afternoon over the remains of the Tarzums, when laid in state in the body of the Congregational Church. The summons to the obsequies of the victims of the Worcester tragedy was heeded by the people at this section of the White river valley, who assembled in large numbers at a meeting house to pay their last tributes of respect to the memory of their deceased neighbors.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Varnum and of their daughter Florence, rested in plain caskets which told no tale of the terrible tragedy. The funeral service, enacted in a neighboring state, floral emblems and flowers covered the caskets, which loving friends had contributed.

The services were conducted by the pastor of the Congregational church, Rev. Henry M. Perkins, and the singing was rendered by the regular choir. The pall bearers were citizens of Sharon. The services at the church were simple and impressive. Interment took place at the village cemetery, where the bodies of the husband, wife and daughter were buried in the family lot beside the graves of the three adopted daughters, who had been laid to rest in years gone by.

AMERICA'S CUP DEFENDER.

New York Offered an Opportunity Which She Has Long Sought.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Charles Francis Adams, 2d, says that there is no chance for a Boston syndicate to build an American cup defender. Mr. Adams' word on this subject should be accepted as the final decision of Boston yachtsmen, for he must know the sentiment of the fraternity as well as anyone, and he is not the man to make so positive a statement unless he has sufficient information. It will not come to Boston to sit passively by, unrepresented in such a contest, but New York has long wanted a chance to defend the cup, and this is her sure opportunity. Yachtsmen may well rest assured, however, that the Herreshoff boat will give the Englishman a task to beat her. There is not the slightest possibility for a walkover for either side.

Won by Dally.

BUFFALO, Dec. 30.—The fight before the Buffalo Athletic club last night between Tom McCarthy of Dubois, Pa., and Jim Day of Philadelphia, was for the largest purse ever offered in this locality. The amount was $200, of which the loser took $250. In the twenty-eighth round Dally rushed his man to the ropes and rained blows on the neck and chin till McCarthy fell all unconscious and was counted out. Dally weighed in at 163 1/2 lbs. McCarthy at 159.

Bound to Stay.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Edward Morrissey and Barney Riley were arrested last night for the alleged larceny of clothing valued at $30, supposed to have been stolen from Deer Island. Morrissey yesterday finished a sentence at that institution.

Park is Away Up.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—As the receipts of hogs have not been up to the average, the price for pork is higher than it has been for ten years. This shortness cannot be relieved until spring. There is every indication that prices of pork will rise still higher.

Mr. Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A call at the Blaine residence brought forth the statement that Mr. Blaine was much better.

CONCERNING IMMIGRATION.

A Massachusetts Health Officer Gives His Views on the Subject.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Dr. H. P. Walcott, chairman of the state board of health, expressed his opinion that a law absolutely interdicting immigration into the United States from abroad would prove of little value, inasmuch as immigrants landing at Halifax or Quebec might easily find their way into the United States at convenient points on the 1000-mile frontier line.

Dr. Walcott thinks the only practical remedy that can be devised would be to require the steamship companies to make report to agents of the United States stationed at the consular offices in the various shipping ports abroad, giving satisfactory evidence that the intending emigrants are of creditable antecedents, and that they are not likely to become a public charge upon this government. The companies should also be required to ship steerage passengers in good sanitary condition, and to take proper measures to prevent the spread of disease among them while on the voyage.

These requirements, the doctor says, would entail an extra expense upon the steamship companies, which would in the end have to be paid by the passengers; but the cost of transportation would still be within the means of the really desirable emigrants, while it would prevent the coming hither of the pauper classes and undesirable immigrants generally.

WHO IS SHERIFF?

A Middle Involving the Question as to Who Will Hang Almy.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 30.—A recount of the votes cast for sheriff in Grafton county was made at the secretary of state's office yesterday, and the result shows that Silas H. Brigham of Lisbon, the Democratic candidate, had a majority of 5. The votes of the 39 towns in the county as declared by the moderator, and as canvassed by the supreme court, gave the election of Charles O. Harbut of Lebanon by a majority of 16. The court made a record of this result, which was equivalent to a declaration of the latter's election.

In the recount to lay the gains and losses were about even up to the 13 last towns of the county. When the town of Littleton was reached, Mr. Brigham was found to have 4 votes more than were declared for him. In Lynn he gained 12 and in Plymouth 9. By virtue of the court's record Mr. Harbut now holds the office of sheriff, to dispossess him of which will require quo warranto proceedings on the part of Mr. Brigham.

What course he intends to pursue the latter declined to indicate when interrogated by a reporter. The duty of hanging Murderer Almy will devolve upon the man who holds the office next May, whoever it may be.

THREE GALLANT SAILORS

Take Possession of an Abandoned Schooner and Bring Her to Port.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The schooner Neva of Shelburne, N. S., bound from Black River, Jamaica, Dec. 1, for Providence, arrived in quarantine yesterday in tow of the tug Mutual. It was brought in by a prize crew of the bark Chestina Rodman, bound from Rockport, Me., to Baltimore.

On Dec. 29, off Nantucket Shoals, the schooner Neva was sighted flying signals of distress. A bark here down to her. Her captain reported the vessel looking badly, with four feet of water in the hold and pumps choked. The crew, consisting of 24 men, requested aid to be taken off, which was accompanied with much difficulty, owing to a strong northeast gale, heavy sea and thick snowstorm.

The chief mate and two seamen volunteered to board the schooner, which they did, and to their surprise found the vessel in good condition. After several hours' incessant labor they succeeded in getting the pumps at work and relieved the vessel of the water in her hold, and proceeded under all sail for this port.

The vessel is in splendid condition and is apparently new. She has a cargo of logwood all intact, and is a valuable prize for the gallant mate and two seamen who boarded her.

ANOTHER MALDEN MYSTERY.

Peter Campbell Swells the List of the Disappearance Fever.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 30.—Peter Campbell of this city has not been seen since last Saturday noon. It is another Christmas disappearance. He left his home, on the corner of Oakland and West streets, to go to work at the rubber shop. At noon he quit work. No one can be found who has seen him since.

He had on his working clothes and left no word that he was going away. He is a smooth-faced young man, about 29 years of age, and is 5 ft. 8 in. in height. He wore a black overcoat and a dark suit of clothes. The case was not reported until last evening, and added fresh gossip for the Malden people.

Nothing has yet been heard of F. L. Edwards.

Salien's Stander Case.

SALFORD, Mass., Dec. 30.—As a result of the investigation of the committee on the part of the common council as to the charges of intoxication alleged to have been made by the members of the council against Mayor Rantoul and Alderman West, the two men accused have decided to continue the matter by instituting a suit for slander against Councilman George G. Hathaway.

General Corse Denies It.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—A dispatch from Washington to a Boston paper stated that at recent sessions of the Reform club in New York, President-elect Cleveland urged General John M. Corse to accept the position of commissioner of pensions. General Corse denies that there is any foundation whatever for the story.

Passed Counterfeit Money.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—The police yesterday arrested two Italians for passing counterfeit money at the North End. They gave the names of Antonio Roman of Charlestown, and Cateo Roman of Pittsburgh. They were caught trying to pass a ten dollar note at 138 Hanover street.

Heads Chopped Off.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Orders from Washington have been received here discontinuing the services of immigration inspectors Bingham, Litchman and Edwards, who have been attached to the service at Boston. This action is owing to the decrease in immigration.

With $2,200,000 Capital.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 30.—The United States Whip Company was organized here yesterday with a capital of $2,200,000. It is understood that this company is to be formed by a consolidation of all the whip companies in the United States.

MOWER IS OBSTINATE.

Refuses to Give the Customary Wedding Reception.

TOWNSPEOPLE TURN OUT IN FORCE

And Treat Him to a Decidedly Unpleasant Serenade.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 31.—Never since old Indian days has Mower hilt in the town of Green put on such a military appearance as last night. It is now four months since Fred Mower took Miss Jennie Bates, a pretty daughter of a Leeds farmer, home to the old fashioned homestead, which, previous to that time, had not been brightened by woman's presence since the death of Mower's mother ten years ago. The townsfolk claim that Mower promised the wedding reception, but kept postponing it.

A few weeks ago the process of serenading began. Six nights the people of the town spent in making things hideous around the farm buildings. The selectmen investigated and made a report, which stated, in substance, that the trouble was due to Mower's obstinacy. Corianders were sent throughout the town yesterday, advising all citizens to be present at night on Mower hill.

Learning this a reporter started in that direction at 9 o'clock last evening. When two miles from Lewiston the din made by the serenaders could be heard distinctly, although the Mower house was then seven miles distant. Arriving at the foot of Mower hill

A Strange Sight Was Presented.

The Mower homestead comprises alone, one-story cottage house with large sheds and barns in connection. Under the huge elm trees at each side of the house the serenading party was marshalled. There were nearly 100 men, some carrying cow bells, others conch shells and tin horns, but the greater portion of the crowd were armed with muskets, many flint locks of the revolutionary pattern.

Close to the window where the bridal couple sat, two large circular saws were arranged, a long pole running through the center, each supported by four men. Four men, bare-headed and in their shirt sleeves, pounded each saw with strips of cloth, the perspiration rolling from their brows.

A Halt Was Called

In the proceedings, and one of the leaders, putting his face close to the pane, yelled: "All we want of you, Ned Mower, is to come out here and show yourself." There was no answer, and the signal "Let her go!" was given.

The aged Alfred Mower, father of the groom, who lives on a farm near by, called early in the evening and with tears in his eyes, begged his son to yield. It is said he even offered him a large sum of money, but the son refused to come out.

It was of no avail, and the young man vowed he would never give in. He said he will not come out, and will never be taken from the house alive.

The townspeople are determined to keep up the fight, and they are talking about raising a force to have him taken forcibly from the house. A Lewiston hardware dealer has volunteered.

To furnish Free Powder

to continue the bombardment, and some of the leaders allege that two wealthy Lewiston men, a certain manufacturer and a grocery man, have guaranteed to send behind them and pay all fines in event of legal punishment.

Some of Mower's friends are fearful that, driven to desperation, he will do something rash. The temper of the people is such that it looks as if Mower's only relief must come by yielding or through legal proceedings.

Mower's stepmother is said to be in sympathy with the movement to force him out, and is doing everything in her power to encourage the serenaders.

At 11 o'clock last night, when the reporter left Mower hill, there were no signs of cessation of the noisy demonstration.

ANARCHY IN EARNEST.

Louise Michel Regrets that the Paris Explosion Was Not Worse.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—The explosion in the prefecture of police is still discussed in the cafes and other places of public resort. The is some doubt in the public mind as to whether the outrage was the work of anarchists. The Eclair publishes an interview with Louise Michel, the aged anarchist, who is now in London. She thought the explosion at the prefecture a very good piece of work, and regretted that higher officials had not been killed. Their deaths, she thought, would be a blessing to the people. The Eclair adds that it is the intention of Louise Michel to go to Chicago shortly to spread the anarchist propaganda.

Both May Die.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 31.—At a fire in a tenement on Monroe street last evening, occupied by J. G. Adams, Mrs. Adams, while attempting to rescue her child, who was in bed upstairs, was seriously burned about the face, head and hands, and the child was badly burned on the face and head. Fatal consequences are feared in both cases.

Gone with a Pretty French Girl.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 31.—Oliver Brochu, a sewing machine agent, and Miss Georgina Caron, a remarkably pretty French girl of 22 years, have eloped from their homes in Chateaufort, leaving a wife and two children in destitute circumstances.

Just about the same.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Mr. Blaine's condition is said to be about the same. The lights in his apartments were extinguished at midnight last night for the first time since his more recent illness.

Assaulted and Robbed.

BETHEL, Me., Dec. 31.—Simon Dorfman, a clothing peddler of Portland, was assaulted and robbed of a gold watch and $200 in cash, between Gilead and West Bethel, by unknown parties.

WELCOME TIDINGS.

Intense Anxiety Relieved by the Arrival of the Umbria at New York.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The Umbria has got here. At midnight the observer at the island made her out coming in triumphantly under her own steam. She was going very slowly with her patched shaft, and got to quarantine at 9 o'clock and to her pier at 9 o'clock this morning.

THE UMBRIA.

She covered the distance from the position she was spoken on Monday at the rate of about ten knots an hour. Her gallant skipper was a happy man when he received the congratulations of his crew on his remarkable seamanship and nerve. He has more than justified the hopes of Agent Vernon H. Brown in his sagacity, and saved the line thousands of dollars in salvage.

What is of more importance, he has brought his passengers in all safe. From the time the Umbria left Genoa at 2:22 p. m. on Dec. 19, nearly thirteen days have elapsed. It is the longest trip the crack Cunarder has ever made, and it is not by any means the least glorious. To bring a ship's company through a series of gales like the one which have seldom stirred up the Atlantic is an honor higher than beating the record.

A QUEER COMBINATION.

Liquor License Muddle Causes Confusion in a Massachusetts Town.

DANVERS, Mass., Dec. 31.—The fight over the liquor question at Danvers at the coming town meeting will be of the fiercest nature, on account of a very peculiar combination of circumstances. Last year the town went for license for the first time in about a quarter of a century. This was the decision of the people, made for the express purpose of wiping out the saloons, which had become a great nuisance, and were in their character. The selectmen elected at that election have steadfastly refused to obey the vote of the people and grant licenses. The result is that the whole thing has been a great farce. The kitchen grocers are running today, and the police are cautious about raiding them, for fear suit will be brought against the town on grounds that license had been refused when they should have been granted, according to law. The whole thing is in a state of confusion, and the result will probably be that there will be two sets of candidates for selectmen, one in favor of license, the other against.

O'BRIEN WONT "SQUEAL."

Says He Knows the Man by Whom He Was Probably Fatally Sabbed.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—James O'Brien, a street vendor, who was shot at the corner of Alden and Court streets last evening, became involved in a wordy warfare with a man in the crowd which had gathered around him. From words the two resorted to blows, and O'Brien was getting the best of it. His opponent, when the latter drew a knife, and made three vicious slashes at him, all of which took effect.

The would-be assassin was then disarmed by spectators, and in the confusion which ensued, made his escape down Alden street. O'Brien's wounds were dressed after which he was taken home. He claims to know his assailant, but refused to give his name, as he does not want to prosecute him. His wounds are very serious, and may prove fatal.

RUINED BY GAMBLING.

Rutland Business Men Mourn the Departure of S. D. Shepard.

RUTLAND, Vt., Dec. 31.—S. D. Shepard, Rutland agent of the Mutual Union Life Insurance company of New York, and a young and popular business man, left his boarding place here Dec. 23, and has not been seen since. At first it was thought he had gone away simply on a business trip, but it has leaked out that he has fled the country, abandoning a young wife, in poverty almost, and leaving debts amounting to hundreds of dollars. Though never dissipated to excess, he began gambling about a year ago and lost heavily the last few weeks, which may explain his actions. He was owing several firms in town and is said to have defrauded his company of at least $1500 in unpaid collections.

Wedded His Mistress While Dying.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 31.—Wesley O. Hotchkiss, a wealthy liver man of this city, who died a day or two ago, was married about a week since, while in a dying condition, to Mary Knowlton, proprietress of a notorious resort on Worcester street. Hotchkiss had already been divorced from a former wife, and had maintained quasi marital relations with the Knowlton woman for years. Hotchkiss' wealth is estimated from $10,000 to $100,000, and it is likely that a contest will be made before the estate is settled.

A Prosperous City.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 31.—The growth of this city during the last twelve months has been something phenomenal. Over 1000 buildings have been erected, thus adding $20,000,000 of taxable property to the city.

Brakeman Loses both Feet.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—George Tully, 38 years old, a brakeman on the Fitchburg railroad, was coupling cars at Concord Junction when he fell under the wheels. Both of his feet were terribly crushed. He is at the Massachusetts general hospital.

Columbian Postage Stamps in Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—Postmaster Hart has received the new Columbian postage stamps, which have just been issued by the postoffice department at Washington. They will be placed on sale in the Boston office and branch offices New Year's day.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—Prince Metcalfe, a police officer, was sentenced to one month in prison for libeling public officials.

AGAIN IN THE TOILS.

A Notorious Crook Captured by Boston Police.

WANTED FOR ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

Thomas Gaffney Likely to Spend Many Years in Prison.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—An extremely bad criminal, who has already served five terms in the house of correction and one term in the state prison, was arrested here yesterday. His name is Thomas J. Gaffney, and he is arrested on the charge of robbery, it being claimed that he is one of the three men who so boldly assaulted and robbed George Whiting, the paymaster of Contractor Linnehan of Cambridge, while he was making up the payrolls on Nov. 8, last.

A month ago the same officers, Special Officers Abbott and Gilmore, arrested William J. Burns, for also being concerned in the robbery, and he is now awaiting trial. On the day of the robbery, Mr. Whiting, who is an old gentleman, was alone in the building making up the payroll, when three men came into the place. One of the men, who has been positively identified as being Gaffney, struck Whiting over the head with some blunt instrument, knocking him to the ground.

The old man tried to rise from the floor, and it was then that the others came to the old man and savagely kicked him.

Remembering him immediately. They then stole the money, amounting to $300, and made their departure. The Boston police were notified, and looking over the rogues' gallery, positively identified the pictures of Burns and Gaffney as two of the men who robbed him. When Burns was arrested he was brought face to face with the old paymaster, the latter soon told the police that they had secured the right man for a starter. Yesterday afternoon he again had the pleasure of identifying Gaffney as the man who struck him first. The other man is at large, but the police know who he is, and his arrest is probably but the question of a short time.

After the robbery was committed, Gaffney, it is alleged, went to New York, returning to Boston about a week ago. The officers heard of his return to the West End, and ever since have been on the lookout for the ex-convict. Their patience was finally rewarded late yesterday afternoon when they espied him in company with James Mullen, who was pardoned from the state prison about six months ago, because it was feared that he was dying, enter a saloon at the corner of Cambridge and Charles street. The officers followed, expecting that the two ex-convicts would give them a hard battle, but they were disappointed. Gaffney, after having a drink, so he did not notice the officers. Neither did Mullen, and in an instant the policemen had put the twisters on Gaffney. He started to fight, but found that it was impossible for him to make much resistance. Mullen did not attempt to assist his fellow companion of but a few moments before. Gaffney was taken to the Joy street station and locked up to await the arrival of the Cambridge police, who came last evening and took the prisoner back to the classic city, where he will be arraigned, charged with robbery.

Gaffney is an old offender and his picture is in the rogues' gallery at headquarters. The last time he was sent away was on Nov. 19, 1901, when he was convicted of an assault and battery with a pistol. It was he who on Oct. 31, of that year went into the bake shop of James Chater, 47 Charles street, about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and in the absence of the proprietor pointed a revolver at the heads of two female employees, Susan Watkins and Ella F. Wheeler, at the same time exclaiming, "If you move, I'll blow out your brains." The young ladies were thoroughly frightened, and Miss Watkins fell to the floor in a faint. At this point the thief stepped to the money drawer and robbed it of $12. Just as the thief was leaving the store the wife of the proprietor entered and was able to give the police a good and accurate description of the man. Gaffney, who was at the time out on bail for a robbery committed a few days before, was arrested by Officers Abbott and Lee. He was then identified by the two girls and Mrs. Chater.

In court on the above mentioned day he was sent to the house of correction for one year, which he gladly accepted, although at the time he was arrested he claimed that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Started in Young.

Gaffney is 35 years old, and when but 17 years of age was sent to the state prison for three years, being convicted on Aug. 6, 1881, of larceny from the person. On Oct. 18, 1888, he was sent to the house of correction for seven months for being idle and disorderly. On July 23, 1889, he was sent to the house of correction for larceny for the same. Again on Dec. 30, 1890, he went to the same institution for an assault and a battery for four months. His last sentence, previous to the one a year ago, was given him on July 6, 1891, when he was sent to the house of correction for three months for assault and battery and for breaking glass.

The police say he is a thoroughly bad man and a good one to have out of the way.

Ban Lifted by Mgr. Satolli.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Mgr. Satolli has removed the sentence of excommunication from Father O'Flaherty of Auburn, N. Y., who has rested under the ban of the church for twenty-four years. It is understood that the charges under which Father O'Flaherty was excommunicated were preferred by Bishop McQuaid. A long list of similar cases are yet to be heard by Mgr. Satolli, it is said.

New Money Order Offices.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—About 1400 post-offices will be designated Jan. 2, 1893, as additional domestic money order offices, to begin business on receipt of books and blanks now in course of preparation, which will be furnished them before Jan. 13. The number in Massachusetts is eighty-four.

YOU?

Will it go right along for days at a time, and then fall behind several minutes in a day? Or does it go sometimes too fast and at other times slow?

Do you sometimes find it stopping?

Have you taken it again and again to your watchmaker and have it returned to you no better, or possibly worse than before?

A great many who read this will quickly and emphatically answer in the affirmative. We know this from the way a great many talk when bringing their watches for repairs.

Now, there must be a cause for the trouble, but not everyone, even though he may have worked twenty years at the business, can find it out. It requires a man who not only has a knowledge of the business, but who has patience enough to use his reason and ferret out the cause of the trouble.

We take pride in this branch of our business, and do not trust it to a hired man, but sit at the bench and do the job.

When it is done we guarantee the watch to perform satisfactorily, or refund the money.

That is the way we do business. That is what has made our business a success. That is what has made us the leading jewelry house in Quincy. Try us and you will not be disappointed.

THREE YEARS have nearly passed since the DAILY LEDGER was first issued. Three years is a short, aye, very short, space of time for a newspaper to make its mark in the world, and yet the LEDGER has battled against odds for that space of time and won for itself a no obscure place among the suburban dailies. From a typographical point of view, it is one of the neatest suburban journals in the State. It contains the local news of Quincy and the neighboring towns up to the time of going to press, and in this respect contains more local news than some of the newspapers in cities larger than Quincy. Belonging to the American Press Association, it receives the general, telegraphic and cable news of the whole world direct from the offices. It prints no objectionable or obscene literature, and it can be carried into every home without the fear that it will tend in the slightest to corrupt the morals of youth.

If you wish a family newspaper in the true sense of the word, begin the new year by subscribing for the DAILY LEDGER. If you wish to give your friends a suitable New Year's gift, you can make no better bargain than to send them the LEDGER for a year.

Volume IV begins on Monday. See that you begin to take it then.

MANCHESTER UNITY BALL.

A Number of Distinguished Members Among the Invited Guests.

Seldom, if ever, has St. Mary's hall, gathered within its walls a larger or more fashionable coterie, than that which assembled there last night, the occasion being the second grand regatta ball of Granite Lodge, No. 7058, I. O. O. F., M. U.

The hall, too, appeared in holiday attire, and was a masterpiece of the decorator's art. Over the stage hung a large American shield, surmounted by red, white and blue stars. The national colors, bunting and pendants, twined and intertwined among the arches until the whole place looked like some fairy scene.

Whether it was the costumes that made the ladies look charming, or the ladies that were instrumental in adding beauty to the costumes, it would be hard to tell. Suffice to say that both blended most harmoniously, and added wonderfully to the effectiveness of the scene.

The costumes of the ladies, which were handsome, were, for the most part, in dancing length, and as varied in color as a parterre of blossoms. The gentlemen, in their regalia and evening dress suits, looked the very acme of chivalrous gallants.

From eight till nine Wright's orchestra gave a promenade concert and was heartily enjoyed. At 9 o'clock the floor was cleared, and Marshal John Vogel and wife led the grand march. They were followed by Floor Director William F. Callahan and Miss M. Hussey, and about seventy-five couples, and were heartily applauded by an enthusiastic audience.

The dancing order consisted of twenty-nine numbers, and included everything from a plain quadrille to the mazy waltz, and were enjoyed until 5 o'clock in the morning, the only intermission being when supper was announced, and the gentlemen escorted "ye faire maids" to the dining hall where Caterer Nash had spread one of his feasts.

The invited guests were: Provincial Deputy Grand Master Townley, of New Bedford, Past Grand Master Edward Colgan, of Boston, P. S. J. T. Hennessey, of Braintree, Vice Grand Callahan, of Milton, Provincial Grand Master Wilbert Williams, of Chelsea, Provincial Corresponding Secretary, J. W. Gregg, of Lowell, William J. Welsh and G. Fred Williams, of the Quincy Lodge, Chief Ranger J. L. Fennsey and Vice Chief Ranger W. J. Daly, of St. Francis Court, C. O. O. F., President J. H. O'Brien and Vice President William Cole, of St. Mary's C. T. A. S., Dr. J. M. Sheahan, Frank X. Junot, President of St. Jean de Baptiste Society, Cornelius Crowley, of Division 4, A. O. H., and Chief Ranger Lockney, of St. Gregory's Court of Foresters, of Milton.

Mayor Fairbanks and Chief Engineer of Fire Department Ripley were also invited, but were unavoidably detained.

LEAP YEAR BALL.

A Large and Pretty Party at the Quincy Coliseum Last Evening.

Seldom has there been seen a larger or a prettier party at the Coliseum than that gathered there last evening, the occasion being a leap year ball given by the young ladies of the assorted department of the Putnam Nail Co., of Neponset, in honor of their gentlemen friends.

It was an occasion where youth and beauty reigned supreme and where the ladies vied with each other in looking after the comfort and pleasure of their guests and it is safe to say that they were never better looked after.

They began to arrive shortly after 8 o'clock and at 9.30, after the promenade concert by the Commonwealth orchestra, when the grand march commenced, the hall was more than filled.

The grand march was one of the features of the evening and was a credit to Miss Katy Glynn, the young lady who led it with Mr. William Miller.

Miss Glynn wore an elegant costume of Nile green lacesowne silk, cut en train, trimmed with green silk ribbon, and a girle of pearl beads. She wore a corsage bouquet of Catherine Minuit roses and carried a white fan.

Following the floor directress were the other ladies of the committee, who were also handsomely attired as follows:

Miss Mary Hurley, light blue crepe de chine, trimmed with Irish point lace and ribbon, diamond ornaments.

Miss Mary Noble, canary china silk, trimmed with lace.

Miss Nellie Gallagher, cream corded silk and Jacqueminot roses.

Miss Lill O'Connor, black lavender trimmings.

Miss Chrissy Daly, canary silk, point lace trimmings.

Miss Alice Daly, yellow silk, chiffon trimmings, marchal neil roses.

Miss Kate Grady, pink lacesowne silk with tea roses.

Miss Mary Dorsey, white muslin, pale blue trimmings.

Miss Lida Noble, Nile green silk, with Chiffon trimmings, canary mermet roses.

Mrs. Charles Duggan, salmon pink, silk roses.

Miss Julia Birchell, dark green corded silk.

The members of the firm encouraged and graced the occasion by their presence.

FUN IN BRAINTREE.

The Town's Electric Plant Has Rivals in Each of the Villages.

Last night's Globe published and is responsible for the following "leap in the dark" kind of fal de ral.

"If it isn't water it's something else," said a well known citizen of Hobbartville when asked this morning what was going on. "We're going to have a town meeting next Wednesday evening, and you had better be there."

A town meeting in Braintree means more than an ordinary rural gathering, for there are orators galore, and one evening Wednesday night promises to be as interesting as the one so unceremoniously called to order by the big cow bell.

It's all about electric lighting this time, and as in the case of the water works, private companies are looking for a slice of the cake.

Two years ago A. S. Morrison Brothers and a few other residents of North Braintree were granted the right by the selectmen to run wires across certain streets in that village for the purpose of lighting several of the residences. This was before the town put in its plant, and there was no objection.

These wires have now been extended to the Braintree depot and over a large area of the north part of the town. In South Braintree the situation is somewhat similar, and the citizens have seen valuable rights slipping from them.

Since the town put in its own street-lighting plant there has been a strong movement by many to have the house-lighting system connected. This has been all along the intention of the committee on town lighting, and in conversation with one of the members he stated that the electric station was constructed with that idea in view.

He said the town spent $30,000 to construct a plant. If it was the intention to confine ourselves to only street-lighting, there would have been no necessity to have expended so much. But the committee had the purpose of house-lighting in view.

An appropriation of $16,000 will be necessary to furnish about 2000 incandescent lamps and the revenue from these will take care of the extra addition to the plant, interest depreciation and leave a good margin for the sinking fund.

In the warrant will be three articles, each one asking the right to put in an independent electric light plant for house lighting. Stevens & Willis have petitioned to light South Braintree; Morrison Bros. & Co., North Braintree; and the Fore River Engine Company, East Braintree.

The latter petition was put in by Mr. T. A. Watson, the chairman of the electric light committee, and is to show the ridiculousness of the whole matter more than anything else. Mr. Watson will strongly oppose a movement to give any more rights to private companies, and will urge the necessity of the town appropriating money to put in an incandescent plant.

A Paper on Monday.

Monday will not be observed as a holiday at the LEDGER office. The LEDGER will be issued as usual and will contain the inaugural address in full of Mayor Fairbanks and other news in connection with the inauguration of the new city government.

The continued case of Alphonse Grande of Weymouth for assault on Emilio Ventre, Nov. 26, came up this morning when he was fined $40.

Catherine Murray of Atlantic was fined $65 for keeping a liquor nuisance.

The liquors seized from Catherine Murray were forfeited to the commonwealth.

Knights of Honor Visitation.

The Board of Grand Officers of the Knights of Honor made an official visit to Merry Mount Lodge, of this city, last evening. The officers present were Past Grand Dictator, Richardson; Grand Chaplain, Jones; Grand Recorder, E. Granville Pratt; Grand Guide, Fred M. Hersey; Grand Sentinel, Purdy; and Past Grand Dictator, Charles A. Foster, all of whom made brief addresses. A collation was served.

A Thrilling Book, To Any Reader Of This Paper.

Tells All About the Indians.

Latest Publication In Its Line, Entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians"—Contains Nearly Two Hundred Pages—Sent Free to Everybody.

In order to make the public familiar with the habits, manners, customs and history of one of the oldest tribes of American Indians extant we have published at great expense a large edition of a work entitled "Life and Scenes Among the Kickapoo Indians." All their peculiarities, traditions, habits, in fact, their whole life and customs are told in a manner which will interest the reader and hold attention to the end. This book also explains our connection with the tribe, how it came about and what has come from it. The book, however, is in no sense an advertising pamphlet; but one well worth a dollar if it were published to be sold.

We shall not publish another edition for public distribution, and after the present one is exhausted, the book will either be out of print or sent by the book dealers at the price named above, or more.

While this edition lasts we will send a copy free to all who apply enclosing three 5-cent stamps to pay cost of postage.

If you want it, send now and save disappointment. We will guarantee to fill all requests received within the next two weeks following the appearance of this advertisement, but may not be able to do so later. It is for your interest therefore to send at once. Address

Hon. F. A. Hobart has sent into the Selectmen his resignation from the Board of Registrars of voters to take effect at the end of the present year. Now who shall succeed him is the question?

Williams, Kneeland & Co., boot and shoe manufacturers, expect to move into their new, handsome factory within three weeks.

The public schools all open Monday morning.

The pot plants in the Braintree depot look green and beautiful. There is an elegant India rubber plant, twelve feet in height, that's worth looking at. It's a beauty. Miss Thayer, the telegraph operator, is the presiding genius that takes care of the whole.

The members of the St. Francis Sunday School gave a grand Christmas entertainment in the Town hall on Wednesday evening. It was largely attended, and was a great success in every particular. The orchestra furnished music between the acts of the drama and also an opening overture.

The first of the week, John H. Kirby killed, what is claimed to be the champion hog of Norfolk County, weighing after it was dressed, four hundred and twenty-five pounds. The age is not given. In all probability it was only a year old. John De Young was the butcher. 'Twas a pretty good Christmas present John gave his family anyway.

CITY COUNCIL OF 1893.

Sketches of Our Legislators of Next Year.

But Six Have Had Experience in This Department of the City.

A Majority of the Members Are Not Natives of the City but Are Massachusetts Men.

There is certainly variety in the next City Council. There are old members and new members, six of the former and seventeen of the latter. Men in their twenties and men in their sixties. Mr. Federhen, the youngest, is but 25, while Mr. Holbrook is 63. There are members who were born in the 20s, in the 30s, in the 40s, in the 50s and in the 60s. Men born in this country and men born in foreign countries. Less than a majority were born in Quincy, but a majority are Massachusetts men, and a still larger per cent. are New Englanders. Here is an interesting summary, giving the list of Councilmen alphabetically, the constituency they represent, the year of service, birthplace and age:

	Year of Service.	Birthplace.	Age
Adams, Charles F. 2d	First	Quincy	26
Anderson, Luther S.	First	Braintree	34
Badger, Frank E.	First	Milton	39

E. W. Henry Bass. Councilman Bass of Ward One, is, with one exception the longest in point of service of any of the incoming Council. He was first elected in 1889, and three times since has been re-elected by large majorities. Each year he served on the Committee on Sewers and Drains. In 1891 and 1892 he was also chairman of the Committee on Fire Department and Police. He has not taken a very active part in the debates of the Council, his best work being done in committees, but he is always ready to vote for the best interests of the city. Each year he headed the roll-call, but this made no difference, his vote came promptly. He has also been very regular and punctual in attendance, and it is not surprising for the above reasons that his name is prominently mentioned for the Presidency of the next Council. It would not be the first time that he has handled the gavel, for he is a Past Master of Rural lodge of Masons, and a Past Commander of South Shore Commandery of Knight Templars, and popular with the fraternity.

Councilman Bass was fifty years old the thirteenth of last February. He is a native of the city, and a graduate of our High school. Both he and Mrs. Bass have a wide circle of friends, among whom they are popular. Mr. Bass has taken up as a profession. It is believed that he will take a deep interest in the city in which his family have so much interest.

John Ellis Drake. One of Quincy's largest manufacturers and most successful business men, is Councilman Drake, and as he was elected at large by the largest vote given any candidate, it is reasonable to suppose he is among the most popular. He has had one year's experience in the legislative branch of our city government, being a Councilman in 1891, when he served on the Committee on Fire Department and Police. He was appointed in 1881 an assistant assessor, but did not serve.

Mr. Drake was born in Quincy and received his education here. He afterwards learned the shoemaker's trade, and at the age of twenty-one became superintendent of the shoe manufactory of J. D. Whitcher & Co. Ten years later he became associated with Rice & Hutchins, and after ten years purchased the entire interest in their Quincy manufactory. Frequent additions and improvements have been made to the building and plant since until today it is a large establishment. He is also interested in a retail shoe store recently opened in this city.

Mr. Drake is a large real estate owner, and has one of the finest tracts of land in the city on Southern's hill on Washington street, which is also the home of some fast trotters. Mr. Drake is married, and his two sons are associated with him in business.

Herbert M. Federhen, Jr. Who is re-elected from Ward Two, has the benefit of one year's experience during which he served on the Committee on Fire Department and Police and took an active part in the deliberation of the Council. As all his Democratic colleagues are without experience, it would not be surprising if he became the leader of the party. His name is the only one suggested by the Democrats for President.

Charles F. Adams, 2d. Councilman Adams was the candidate of both Democrats and Republicans in Ward One, and received the largest vote. He is a descendant of a distinguished family, his great-grandfather, John Quincy Adams, and great-great-grandfather, John Adams, have been Presidents of these United States. His grandfather was once a candidate for the Vice-Presidency, and later Minister to England. His father is a distinguished citizen, serving many years as moderator of the Quincy town meeting, on the School Board and in other positions. Councilman Adams was born in this city, August 2, 1866. He studied in Quincy, but was fitted for Harvard in Hopkinton's school. He entered college in the fall of 1884, and was graduated in 1888. He was president of his class, prominent in the clubs, and a member of the A. D. Alpha Delta Phi, Institute and Hasty Pudding. He was coach of his class crew during the sophomore and junior years. He took to rowing and was coach of the varsity crew two years ago when Harvard beat Yale so badly.

Mr. Adams and his brother George have been very prominent in yachting circles, and it is hoped that they will have a boat built to defend the America's cup the coming summer. They began racing in 1875, in the Dandelion, and later purchased the Cricket. Then they struck out on bigger craft and their success with the Papoose, Gossoon, Beatrix and Harpoon are familiar. Councilman Adams is the helmsman of the pair and his judgment generally governs. He is a thorough sailor.

Mr. Adams was graduated from the Harvard Law school with distinction in 1891 and has taken up law as a profession. It is believed that he will take a deep interest in the city in which his family have so much interest.

Luther S. Anderson. Councilman Anderson of Ward One is one of the most promising of the new members, as was proved by his active campaign work for the reelection of Mayor Fairbanks. He is a young man, was born in Braintree April 9, 1858. He is a graduate of the English High school of Boston, class of 1873; of Adams Academy of this city in 1878; and of Harvard college in 1882.

Mr. Anderson was for several years assistant treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad, but resigned his position when Charles Francis Adams retired from the presidency of the road.

The councilman is one of the assessors and active workers of the First church. His only public office is on the board of Managers of the Adams academy, in which institution he has taken considerable interest. Mr. Anderson is unmarried.

John O. Holden. Of Ward One, one of the Councilmen at large, will enter his third year of service in the City Councils of Quincy. In both 1891 and 1892 he served on the Committee on Streets.

He was born in Castleton, Vt., Aug. 19, 1833. In 1840 his father moved to Quincy and established a jewelry store, to which the son succeeded in 1858.

Councilman Holden is prominent in financial circles, being a trustee of the Savings bank, and an ex-director of the Citizens Gas company. In the days of the Quincy Lyceum he was for many years the secretary. He was married in 1861 and resides at No. 5 Adams street.

Charles F. Adams, 2d. Councilman Adams was the candidate of both Democrats and Republicans in Ward One, and received the largest vote. He is a descendant of a distinguished family, his great-grandfather, John Quincy Adams, and great-great-grandfather, John Adams, have been Presidents of these United States. His grandfather was once a candidate for the Vice-Presidency, and later Minister to England. His father is a distinguished citizen, serving many years as moderator of the Quincy town meeting, on the School Board and in other positions. Councilman Adams was born in this city, August 2, 1866. The New Year.

The New Year rises from night's silent tide, As Venus rose from out the foaming spray, And with his dimpled arms extended wide Smiles on the glories of Time's newborn day, With blushing pride upon his tinted cheek And love light flashing from his sparkling eye. He feels a rapture which he dare not speak, Lest this bright vision fade from earth and sky.

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Is It?

He had a Christmas frolic And a New Year's jamboree, And when he came unto himself A sadder man was he, And if he then made good resolves, And swore them all by thunder, You good men who have all been there, Just say it's a wonder.

—New York Herald.

Mr. Huntington's Two Homes.

The recent purchase by Mr. C. P. Huntington of Mrs. Colton's costly mansion on Nob hill, in San Francisco, has given rise to rumors that Mr. Huntington and his family intended to make the California metropolis their permanent place of residence. A report has also been freely circulated that Mr. Huntington had offered his new house, at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, for sale. These reports, with gossip elaborations, have been the talk of certain clubs and cafes for the past few weeks, and the names of two or three millionaires have been named as the probable purchasers of the unfinished Huntington palace in this city. When Mr. Huntington's attention was called to the manner in which Dame Rumor was dealing with his affairs, he authorized a denial of the report that he contemplated going to San Francisco to live.

He proposes to stay right here, and when his new house is completed he will move into it. There has been no intention on his part to sell the place. Mr. Huntington bought the Colton house in San Francisco because he is obliged to spend several weeks each year in California, and he is not particularly fond of hotel life. He thinks that he can afford to maintain two residences—one in New York and one in San Francisco.—New York Times.

A Singular Accident.

Arthur C. Moreland, who played the role of Colonel Riserer, the tricky Indiana politician, in the play of "Blue Jeans," last season, was on Friday night the victim of an accident that may end his stage career. When on the road Moreland has a companion, Perry, a hybrid dog which appears in the play. After the third act of "Blue Jeans" at the National theater in Washington, Moreland picked up and fondled the mongrel. Perry's face was side by side with the actor's. The sawdust used in the mill scene was being swept up at the time. It caused the dog to sneeze, and his teeth came in contact with Moreland's left eye, destroying the sight. Yesterday morning the eye had swollen to twice its normal size, and Actor Moreland is now confined in a darkened room, with the prospect of losing the sight of the other eye.—New York Letter.

A Woman Footpad.

A mysterious female highway robber is causing much excitement around Bowling Green. Thus far she has disguised herself in such a manner as to keep her identity unknown, and has eluded capture. Some declare that she is a negro, while others claim that she is white. She quietly approaches a person and exchanges a few remarks with her intended victim. Suddenly she draws a large revolver and demands his valuables. She has been successful in obtaining much money and jewelry. While trying to holdup a railroad man a night or so ago she was foiled, and when making her escape was struck on the head with a stone.—Cor. Memphis Appeal-Avalanche.

Another Canadian Railroad.

A scheme has been prepared for the construction of another Canadian transcontinental railway, at an estimated cost of $5,600,000. The new iron road, which would be 1,045 miles long and known as the Canada Western railway, is to be built from Victoria to Seymour narrows on Vancouver island, and from Dute inlet on the mainland, through the Chilcotin, Cariboo and Peace river regions to the Yellowhead pass.

How to Make Gravel and Tar Walks. This must be done on a dry day. In a perfectly dry place mix two parts of lime rubbish and one of coal ashes, both sifted fine, leaving a hole in the middle of the heap. Into this pour boiling hot coal tar until the mixture is as stiff as mortar. Put three inches deep where the walk is to be and sprinkle with coarse sand. Of course the ground must be rolled smooth first. When the walk is cooled roll it lightly. In a few days the walk will be ready to use, solid and waterproof.

Some Interesting Gossip Concerning an Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The friends of Speaker Crisp assume to be very well satisfied with the interview with President-elect Cleveland. They do not admit that he made the surrender to the president-elect which is alleged. Before his departure for New York he had a conference with his friends, at which the position he would take, if he saw Mr. Cleveland, was very carefully considered. From information just received by his friends here, the call upon Mr. Cleveland was very satisfactory and resulted in a better understanding of questions at issue. The subject of conversation was not so much tariff and finance as the settlement of the question of an extra session.

In order that the situation may be fully understood, it may be well to state that when Don Dickinson was here recently, he had a protracted conference with the speaker concerning the question of an extra session, in which he took occasion to inform Mr. Crisp that Mr. Cleveland was very much opposed to it.

Opposed to Calling a Session after March 4. The speaker, however, at considerable length, explained to him why he was in favor of an extra session. He said that at least two-thirds of the Democratic members of the present house and a large majority of those elected to the next took the same view that he did. Mr. Dickinson suggested to Mr. Crisp that he had better go to New York and talk the matter over with Mr. Cleveland. The speaker's visit, therefore, at this time, was for the purpose of talking over this and subjects which might require action at the present congress.

It is very certain that Mr. Cleveland will not consent to an extra session of congress unless it is explicitly understood and provided that there shall be no legislation whatever, the time being devoted simply to the perfecting of the organization and appointment of one or two committees, a recess until fall to follow. It is not by any means certain that the president-elect will agree even to this, as he is very much averse to having the new congress here at all. A number of prominent Democrats favor an extra session, but are willing to acquiesce in the wishes of the president-elect.

It is understood that the chief reason for the speaker's zeal in behalf of an extra session is that it will improve his chances for re-election. He is well aware that there is an Undercurrent of Opposition to him among many prominent party men who would like to compass his defeat. They are inclined to believe that if they had time to organize their forces they might accomplish something. An early session, therefore, would strengthen the chances of Speaker Crisp. A fall or regular session would enable his opponents to make a better fight.

It has been intimated that President-elect Cleveland is not favorable to Mr. Crisp's election, but there is no reliable opinion that it would be wise to interfere in that contest. In the struggle two years ago between Messrs. Crisp and Mills efforts were made at that time to draw Mr. Cleveland into the contest, but he absolutely declined to interfere. The race had narrowed down to a fight between the friends of Mr. Cleveland and Senator Hill on the line of the presidential nomination. Hill and his friends espoused the cause of Mr. Crisp, and the outcome was his triumphant election. Mills and his friends have never recovered from that defeat, and are still smarting under the charge, despite the fact that Mr. Mills has since been appointed to the senate.

The friends of Senator Mills do not intend to peacefully acquiesce in Mr. Crisp's re-election. They propose to pursue the line of opposition marked out, and will only ask that the president-elect will not interfere.

The main object of Speaker Crisp's visit to New York, it is claimed, is held in abeyance to await developments. In any event Mr. Cleveland's wishes will prevail. He is the master of the situation, and the Democratic managers will be compelled to accede to his purposes.

RIOT IN A CHURCH.

The Building Almost Wrecked as a Result of a Family Row.

PORTER, O., Dec. 31.—Clark Watkins caught his sister-in-law, Mrs. Peter Watkins, walking with a man with whom her name had been unpleasantly connected, and attacked him with a knife. The woman rushed into a church, where a general fight stopped the services. When the riot was ended it was found that Peter Watkins, the woman's husband, was slain. Harris, the woman's brother, was fatally wounded. James Grover had one eye cut out; Clark Watkins was beaten almost to death, and half a dozen others were hurt. The church was almost completely wrecked.

THE WOOL TRADE.

Boston's Share During the Present Year Shows a Remarkable Increase.

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—The Commercial Bulletin today, in its annual statistical review of the wool trade of the United States, contains the following interesting comparisons with 1891: The number of sheep in the country increased from 43,430,000 to 44,935,000. The United States clip increased from 307,401,507 pounds to 333,015,435 pounds. The stock of domestic wool on hand Dec. 31 in Boston increased from 28,705,330 pounds, to 30,659,500 pounds. The stock of foreign wool in Boston increased from 1,639,330 to 4,341,000.

The sales for the year in Boston increased 32,322,141 pounds over those of 1891. Boston increased her sales by 6,000,000 pounds more wool than the entire increase of the domestic clip. The total stock in the country is but 68,354,000 pounds domestic, and 18,888,875 pounds foreign, against 78,901,400 pounds domestic and 21,154,806 pounds foreign Dec. 31, 1891.

The consumption of all grades of wool by American mills shows an increase of 59,000,000 pounds over 1891.

AN EMBEZZLER.

Boston Broker Forced to Accompany Detectives to New York.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—On a requisition of Governor Flower of New York, Inspectors Gerraughty and Houghton of the bank squad arrested Alfred Carr, alias W. H. Albenizing, charged with embezzling $4000. Detective Sergeant McCarthy of Superintendent Byrne's force of New York came to Boston with the papers, and when Governor Russell had signed them, they were delivered to Gerraughty and Houghton for service. The story of the embezzlement dates back several years. Carr was employed by Yates & Co. of New York, a banking house. He was one of the confidential trusted employees, and had charge of the stock room and thus handled much money. About a year ago he resigned his position in order to take a pleasure trip to Europe, and it was not until after he had been in Europe some time that Yates & Co. discovered that he was short in their bank account. It was found after a thorough search that Carr was the dishonest man and that the firm's money that he had appropriated was about $4600. Carr admits his guilt.

A PLUMBER'S FOOLISH ACTION Causes an Explosion by Which Five Persons are Injured.

ORANGE, Mass., Dec. 31.—By the explosion of a plumber's gasoline stove here, caused by placing it on top of a hot cooking stove, five people came near losing their lives. They were William A. Wilbur, owner of the house, and the wife and two children, aged 4 and 7, of Fred G. Morse, who occupied the tenement.

Glass from the kitchen window was thrown in every direction, and every curtain on the first floor was torn to shreds. The sound was like that of blasting rocks. The youngest child and Locke are thought to be seriously burned, but the attending physicians think all will recover if there is no burned internally. Locke and Willoughby were repairing the water pipes near the kitchen stove.

THE JOB QUICKLY DONE.

Murderers of a Tax Collector Taken from Jail and Lynched.

GREENVILLE, Ala., Dec. 31.—About midnight, two strangers went to the residence of Jailer Bargainer and arousing him, told him they had a prisoner they wanted to put in jail. Bargainer went with them to the jail and upon reaching the place, was met by a hundred armed and masked men who, with pistols pointed at his head, demanded the keys of the jail. He gave them up, and the cells of John Hipp and Charles Kelley, murderers of Tax Collector Armstrong, were opened. Both men were taken out in their night clothing. Ropes were placed about their necks and they were hurried to the court house near by, and hanged above the court house steps, not even being given time to wish to pray. The mob then quietly dispersed.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the men were hanged by unknown persons. On Dec. 17 last, Tax Collector Armstrong, while collecting taxes, was waylaid, murdered and robbed, the murderers getting $3000. A week ago John Hipp, a noted desperado, was arrested for the murder, after a desperate fight with the sheriff's posse, in which Hipp was seriously wounded. Last Monday Charles Kelley was arrested in Monroe county as Hipp's accomplice. The confession of one of the gang made the evidence convincing. Both were white men.
